The lyceum attendants who bravely defied the inclemency of the weather and gathered at the Temple to listen to the third entertainment of the Course were most richly repaid. The Naval Band surpassed all their previous efforts, and their selections were given in perfect time and with such perfection of detail that at times it was difficult to realize that an organ was not being played. The selections were bright and crisp and just suited to the popular taste. Mr. John F. Shillaber's clarionet solo was listened to with rapt attention and Mr. Frank Burnham's cornet solo was played smoothly and with discrimination. The violin quartet rendered one of Eichberg's compositions superbly. Miss Emma J. Flanders received an ovation that must have been particularly pleasing, this being her first appearance here as a public singer. To say that she sustained herself creditably is not doing the gifted soprano half justice. Her success was assured before half of the cavatina from "Robert le Diable" had been rendered, and the audience insisted on an encore with an eagerness and intensity which meant that a failure to respond would be disappointing. The response came in "Waiting," which was exquisitely sung and rendered with an expression that won the heartiest applause. In the second part, Miss Flanders sang "When the Tide Comes In," and the audience again manifested their appreciation by prolonged applause, bringing out the fair singer finally in a selection that gave ample opportunity for a display of her rich qualities of voice. A noticeable feature of the singing was the rare flexibility of voice, the pureness of tone and a distinct and clear enunciation, every word being heard without difficulty in gallery and parquet. The entertainment throughout was a feast of music, and should any of the lyceum lecturers fail to meet their engagement, we hope the managers will favor the ticket holders with another entertainment similar to that of Tuesday evening and by the same artists, with change of programme. Mr. E. A. Tilton presided at the piano with his usual good taste and artistic touch.

Sea Serpent vs. Whale.

[Liverpool Courier.]

The Zanzibar correspondent of the Western Morning News, writing under date October 20th, says: "The bark Pauline has arrived at Zanzibar, with coal for her Majesty's ships. When off Cape St. Roque, South America, a sight was presented that made the crew aghast—nothing less than the great sea serpent engaged in a conflict with a whale. It had wound itself twice round the whale, and was twirling it with tremendous velocity, lashing the water into foam. The noise could be distinctly heard on board, and after battling for some time both disappeared. The serpent's length can be imagined. It had two coils around a full-sized sperm whale, with thirty feet clear at each end. Its diameter was from three to four feet. They saw it twice afterward. Once it came very close to the vessel, and raised itself about sixty feet out of the water, as if about to attack them. I have questioned men and officers, trying to find out any discrepancy between their statements, but am a convert to the belief that it was seen." Another naval officer writes to the Western Morning News to precisely the same effect; and the officers of her Majesty's ships on the station are said to be convinced of the truth of the story.

Attention is called to the following letter from David Cummings & Co., Sole Manufacturers of South Berwick, Me.:

SOUTH BERWICK, ME., Nov. 26, 1875.

MR. DENNIS SHEA, Sir: The Water Cement Pipe you laid for us over three years ago has proved perfectly satisfactory to us in every respect, and although a part of it froze up last winter, we can't see any injury done. The Pipe was laid by you in a thorough manner, and we believe it to be the Best Water Pipe Known, and if we lay any more shall surely lay the same, and you are to do the job if alive and well. Yours, D. CUMMINGS & CO.

The Evil Fruits of Weak Digestion.

There is no pathological fact more clearly ascertained than that the most formidable phases of nervous disease are directly traceable to imperfect digestion. Insomnia, with its train of direful consequences, proceeds more frequently from weakness of the stomach than from any other cause. More sedatives are powerless to cure nervousness, and soon cease to palliate its symptoms. The true way to strengthen the nervous system is to invigorate the digestive and assimilative organs, upon whose unobstructed action its equilibrium is absolutely dependent. The daily use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will do more to brace and soothe the weakened and irritated nerves, and induce sound, refreshing sleep—nature's grand catholicon,—than all the so-called nervines to be found in the pharmacopœia or out of it. A wineglassful of the Bitters should be taken before each meal.

THE WEEKLY SUN.

1776. NEW YORK. 1876.

Eighteen hundred and seventy six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-third election of a President of the United States. All of these events are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the two latter; and all of them and everything connected with them will be fully and freshly reported and expounded in THE SUN.

The Opposition House of Representatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by THE SUN, will sternly and diligently investigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Grant's administration, and will, it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and better period in our national history. All this THE SUN will contain complete and accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these absorbing topics.

The twenty-third Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as deciding upon Grant's aspirations for a third term of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects, those who read THE SUN will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.

THE WEEKLY SUN, which has attained a circulation of over eighty thousand copies, already has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year 1876 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimportant, at full length when of moment; and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make the WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading, such as stories, tales, poems, scientific intelligence and agricultural information, for which we are not able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashions are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages with fifty-six broad columns, is only $1.20 a year, postage prepaid. As this price barely repays the cost of the paper, no discount can be made from this rate to clubs, agents, Postmasters, or anyone.

The DAILY SUN, a large four page newspaper of twenty-eight columns, gives all the news for two cents a copy. Subscription, postage prepaid, 55c a month or $6.50 a year. SUNDAY edition extra, $1.10 per year. We have no travelling agents.

Address, THE SUN, New York City.

THE BOAT, BABY AND PILOT.

[Concluded.]

The giant steamship lay rolling lazily on the huge waves that marched in from the Atlantic. Every available spot on deck was occupied by an eager multitude, gazing down on the tow-boat that, with bursting safety-valve, struggled up alongside.

A red-faced officer stood on the bridge, angry and impatient.

"What in ——'s the matter?"

The captain of the Jane touched his hat respectfully, and shouted back his reply above the roar of the storm and engines:

"Send him aboard, quick now."

"Aye, aye, sir."

The wheel-house door opened, and the wife stepped out, with the baby wrapped in a shawl in her arms.

"Give her a ladder there."

There was a murmur of excitement on the steamer. Why did this woman detain the ship? Why was she so stupid as to be left? The tow-boat man was a fool to stop the steamer for one passenger. Let the woman wait.

The wife held out the child as if she wished to put it on board. The officer shook his head.

"Come aboard with it."

The Jane rose on the crest of a wave and for a moment the frail bridge was level. The wife darted across, but at the instant the ladder broke and she was thrown forward up the deck of the steamer senseless, and with the babe still in her arms.

* * * * * * *

"Was it your child?"

"No, sir, but it was somebody's child."

She looked about the bare cabin, and examined the hard wooden berth on which she lay, in a kind of dazed surprise. There were two men, officers of the steamship, one a young man who seemed to be the ship's surgeon, and the steerage stewardess. She felt the ship roll in the sea, and knew that it must be moving. She must get up and return to her husband.

"You had better lie down and keep quiet," said the little doctor.

She looked at the boy of a fellow in a kind of amused surprise.

"I must go back to the boat."

"Go back to the boat?" said the officer.

"Are you not a passenger."

"No, sir."

They seemed greatly surprised and held a whispered consultation together. Thus left to herself, she sat up, and brushing back her disordered hair, stood up on the floor and steadied herself by the well.

"I must go on deck. There seems to be some dreadful mistake. I must see the Captain."

The little doctor objected and said that it was cold and wet on deck. She paid no need to him, and taking the arm of the elder of the two men, she said with decision:

"Take me to the Captain—I must see him."

The deck was quite clear. The passengers were all driven below, and none but ship's people were stirring. She drew her crumpled hat over her eyes and gazed all around the sea.

"We have shut down the land?"

"Yes; two hours ago. It's past five o'clock now."

The ship was reeling and plunging through the storm, with the wind and sea dead ahead. The waves broke in torrents of water over her bows, and the deck was slippery with the sheets of water that swept over it. They led her to the chart-room just behind the wheel-house on the hurricane deck.

"Oh, Captain! you are taking me to Europe!"

"Yes, my good woman. Is anything the matter with your quarters or the food?"

"No, sir. I am not a passenger. I must go back to the tow-boat. I came on board with the child and was to return at once. I was thrown on board when the ladder broke—"

"And that accounts for the actions of that tow-boat. We thought the captain had lost his senses. He followed us for more than a mile and then he fell astern. Suspect the sea was too much for him."

"It was my husband, sir."

The burly captain grew red in the face and stamped around the cabin angrily.

"Hang it, marm? It was all a mistake. It can't be helped now. We'll take you over and bring you back, and that's all we can do about it. It's very unfortunate and all that, but you see, the ship was not clear of Sandy Hook, and I didn't dare to stop to see what your husband wanted."

"Why didn't you put me ashore with the pilot?"

"The pilot? Oh!—yes—well—"

"She was in a dead faint in the women's cabin, sir," said the officer. "The third officer said she was a sick steerage. He must have thought her a passenger."

"You must think my husband a great fool," said the wife, with some asperity. "Why should we stop you for one steerage passenger left behind?"

"It seems you did," retorted the captain.

"Yes, sir; but it was a child at the breast. In the confusion of the landing the babe was left in our state-room."

"You are the captain's wife?"

"Yes, sir. My name is Mrs. John Thompson, and I live with my husband on—"

Before she could finish her sentence they heard the engine race and then stop, and a strange and dreadful hush fell on the ship.

The captain sprang to the door, and, tearing it open, rushed out on the deck. The wind had flung the door back with a slam, and the wife and second officer were left alone.

"I am truly sorry, madam, that this has happened. There is nothing to be done but to accept the situation. We will make you as comfortable as possible, and at Queenstown you shall be transferred and return to New York."

She did not seem to heed him, and going to the door she looked out and said—

"I wonder why the engine stopped. It sounded like a broken shaft."

The deck, a moment before deserted by all save a few men in yellow oil-cloth, now swarmed with men, women and children, all more or less excited and frightened. The officers pushed past her and she stepped out on the deck, closed the door, and went forward on the hurricane deck, just under the bridge, and looked up at the four iron posts and over the main deck below. Everything seemed to be safe aloft, and she heard the noisy rattle of a steam-winch forward and noticed a black-jib climbing up the forward rigging. The steam was blowing off with a hoarse roar, and there seemed to be a good deal of confusion among the struggling crowd of steerage passengers below. The first-class people were more quiet, though quite as much alarmed. A young woman beside her leaned on her husband's arm, pale and exhausted. Her eyes were closed as if to shut out the scene, and the raindrops mingled with the tears that were creeping from beneath her eye-lashes. She must comfort the poor child.

"There is no danger, marm. The ship is all right. It's only the engine—"

"Send these people below," cried the rough voice of the captain from the bridge just over her head.

"Gentlemen, take your ladies below. There is no danger. We shall proceed under sail."

The first-class passengers listened in respectful silence, and began to filter back into the saloons. The steerage was less reasonable and many refused to stir, but a stout cuff or two brought them to obedience, and presently the decks were more quiet. The wife kept her post beneath the bridge. She was warmly clothed, and accustomed to the weather. She would wait and see what happened. The black jib was now up and bellied out in the fierce wind as if ready to fly from its bolts. Slowly the ship began to fall off in the wind. Another steam-winch began to rattle, and the boatswain's whistle piped shrill commands. As the ship swung round, the tremendous seas struck her with awful force. A monstrous green wall, crested with foam came rushing toward them. It broke with a thundering jar against the ship, and tons of water burst upon the deck. Barrels and timbers floated wildly about on the deck, and a cataract of water poured into the sea on the other side. The wreckage fell into the black water, and the sailors clinging to their engine, were knee-deep in the flood. Still the wind puffed furiously, and the immense black sail flapped and shook with a noise like thunder. It suddenly became rigid and swollen and the ship began to draw slowly ahead.

To escape the flying spray, the wife stepped back toward the wheel-house. As she did so another wave struck amid-ships, and the skud and spray drenched her in a moment. She clung to the railing and looked in the window of the wheel-house. A young man stood at the wheel, calmly watching the electric signals from the bridge. The place seemed familiar. It was not unlike her husband's wheel-house. She noted the telegraphs, the compass and the numerous contrivances for signaling all parts of the ship.

Suddenly an overpowering wave struck the ship, and with a thundering roar came down on the deck. A loose rope on the mast just before the house was thrown backward, and with a crash one of the windows of the house fell in. The steersman put up his hand to his forehead, with a half-suppressed cry. A flying fragment had struck him just over the eye, and the blood gushed down his face.

With a spring the wife entered the room, and tried to take the wheel. The man let go his hold before she could reach it, and it flew round like lightning.

"Give it to me. I can steer."

The illumination of the Pyramids, on the occasion of the Prince of Wales' visit to Egypt, was a gorgeous affair.

Dr. A. A. Tufts, of Dover, who has kept the weather record for sixty years, says that Nov. 30th was the coldest November day for the past forty-three years. It was eight degrees below zero at Mr. Tufts' residence.

As soon as it stopped she grasped the wheel and turned it back quickly. A loud voice roared down the speaking tube:

"Keep her up! keep her up!"

"Aye, aye, sir. There's a hatident. Send down a man."

A moment after the big captain opened the door and stood for a moment in speechless astonishment. A voice in the tube filled the room with a hoarse command:

"Southing by one."

"Southing by one, sir," replied the woman calmly, and slowly letting the wheel slip through her fingers.

"What's all this?" cried the captain.

"Nothing bad, sir," said the woman, without taking her eyes from the compass before her. "The man was hurt, and I took his place."

The captain looked at the steersman, and then he quietly took the wheel from her.

"Call the second officer and tell him to bring a man."

"Yes, sir," said the man, wiping the blood from his face. "The blood blinded my eyes, sir."

"Call the officer—will you?"

"I am perfectly accustomed to steering, and I saw the man's trouble. He was quite blinded, sir."

The captain grimly turned the wheel and made no reply. The second officer, followed by a sailor, appeared.

"Take the wheel; Mr. Hodgson, get a pea-jacket for this lady and bring her to the bridge."

She quickly guessed what it meant, and put on the rough coat with undisguised pleasure. Then the officer meekly led the way to the bridge.

From this lofty look-out she could see the whole ship and look far around on the wild rage of waters. The captain beckoned for her to come behind the canvas screen to escape the scudding clouds of spray thrown out by the waves as they struck against the vessel.

"We have broken our shaft. Do you think you can take us back to New York?"

"Yes, sir," she replied, simply?

"You are perfectly familiar with this coast?"

"Yes, sir. I was born on Long Island; and I've sailed in New York bay these years. Which way is she heading now?"

"One east of south southeast. I'm going to run on this tack till midnight, and then turn back and make the Hook by daylight."

"So you might, sir, but this wind won't hold. The probabilities for the Middle States say clearing winds to the west."

The captain leaned over the rail and called to a petty officer below:

"Clarke, find to-day's paper if you can. Some passenger may have one."

The paper was quickly found, and her memory of the signal service reports proved correct.

"My plan would be to run before this till the wind shifts, and then come up the Jersey coast when it—"

Just here the ship gave a fearful lurch in the sea, and with a deafening crash the gaff on the foresail snapped short off and fell to the deck. A wave broke at the bows and flew in blinding clouds of spray high on the smokestack. The look-out ahead clung to the mast for his life. They put their heads below the canvas screen that reached to their chins for an instant, to avoid the water. When the woman looked up again, she calmly continued her sentence:

"Changes. By the way it blows, I think it will blow out by midnight."

The torn sail was taken in by steam power in the midst of the fury and uproar of the storm, but it was hardly secured before the jib blew away with a loud report. There were loud commands and shrill pipings below, and then the captain gave orders to let her fall off before the wind, and under easier sail and with steadier keel, the great ship ran before the gale down to the Jersey coast.

Then the night fell down on the sea. The passengers crept out to see how it fared with the ship. They whispered the strange news through the saloons and cabins. There was a woman at the helm, and they were making for New York under her pilotage.

All the long, long night she sat, wrapped in rubber cloaks on that swaying bridge. They lashed her to the railing and gave her a high seat where she could look out on the night and the sea. Toward morning the sea went down and the wind abated. At her suggestion they tried the lead about one o'clock, and the monotonous cry of the sailor as he read off the fathoms came up to her through the darkness. Twice she ordered the course changed to the east of south, and the lead sank into deeper water. At three the wind changed and came out due west.

The ship was put about, and under a good spread of canvas ran a little west of north. The rain changed to a mist and finally stopped. Then, as it grew pale and gray in the east, a heavy fog settled on the water, and the wind fell to a more fitful breeze.

The passengers began to stir about, and many came out and gazed up curiously at the heavily-cloaked figure peering over the top of the canvas screen. The deep boom of the whistle broke in measured notes on the air, and the monotonous swash of the waves kept up a dreary undertone.

Two or three hours passed and nothing happened. They were drifting idly on the sea—they knew not where. The captain began to be anxious, and the under officers murmured at the woman. Why had they taken this mere girl—this stranger—into confidence. They were distrustful and full of doubt. The woman herself went down to the map-room and eagerly studied the charts and read the night's log-book. The old captain seemed to still have faith in her ability, and suffered her to govern the ship. She pointed to the map and placing her finger on a certain spot, said:

"We are just there, and when it clears you will see the Hook just abeam. The reason the lead runs deeper is because we are drifting on the ebbs—"

"Hark! There's a whistle!"

A faint murmur, as from some instrument sounding the chord of A, came in at the open door. They stepped out on the deck. A strange hush had fallen on the ship. Every ear seemed strained to catch the sound that floated over the water. Again it came—faint, far away and musical.

"It's the Jane—my husband's boat!" cried the wife.

With a sort of frantic rush she ran up the ladder to the bridge, and grasping the whistle rope she gave three short notes followed by one long one. Hardly had the booming roar died away when the invisible steamer replied note for note.

A perfect shout of applause broke from the thousand men gathered on the deck, and for a moment there was a scene of joyful confusion on the ship. Everybody came out, and a buzz of animated conversation, mingled with shouts and laughter, filled the air. The pent-up anxiety of the night and storm gave way to voluble pleasure and satisfaction.

Another whistle far off to the north. Then another, to the southwest. The sea was full of boats. Ah! the fog lifts! In sudden sweep it lifts and drifts away in pearly masses before the sun.

Ah! the Hook! The hills of Neversink in blue outline in the far horizon. A towboat! Another, another. Six of them spread in gigantic circle over the sea. Brave watchmen waiting to welcome the ships, with iron arms and fiery hearts. A dismasted bark lay far to the south. Two schooners, with every sail set, drifted idly to the east. Four of the tugs started in frantic haste for the greater prize, one ran for the bark, and the sixth contented himself with the schooners. Two came to the steamer's bow together—the Jane and the Ramapo.

"A hundred dollars!" shouted one large captain.

"Seventy-five!" screamed his rival.

"Give you seventy-five apiece," said the big captain from his bridge.

"All right! Give us your lines."

A woman's dress fluttered among the chains at the bows. The Jane suddenly seemed to have lost her senses. She refused the towline, and it fell with a splash into the water.

"My husband has come. I must go, captain."

The old fellow grasped her hand in both of his, and nearly crushed her wedding-ring.

"Call at the office, ma'am. Call at the Company's office. I shall report you and—Oh! now, ma'am you'd better. No? Done your duty? You did, surely. Bless me! Is this him? Glad to see you, Captain Thompson. We have brought back your wife—or, rather she brought us back. Clever idea to remember the signal-service. Well, now, ma'am, good-bye, and don't forget to call at the Company's office."

They gave three times three as she went down the ladder. Somebody held a baby aloft. Then they cheered again. The Jane took her place beside the Ramapo. How the engines roared! The great cables strained and shook out the water in pearly drops. Slowly the helpless monster behind swung round and forged ahead.

Higher grew the hills of Neversink. Long Island came yellow and green out of the sea. The forts sprang up in the northwest. Slowly they entered the noblest bay in the world, and boat and baby and pilot were safe again.

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1875.

Brownlow and Foote.

Ex-Gov. Brownlow prints in the Knoxville (Tenn.) Chronicle a long letter addressed to himself by Ex-Gov. Henry S. Foote, in which the writer warmly commends the Administration of President Grant, and praises his Cabinet, and then speaks of the democratic party, to which he was formerly attached, as follows:

"Its advent to power at this time, if this were even possible, would inevitably renew former mischiefs, put at serious hazard the principles of progress, now so bounteously operating, and, in all probability, bring on scenes of anarchy and bloodshed long to be deplored. Let it therefore at once disband. Let it cease to embroil the country by absurd and profitless agitations, wholly unworthy of its former character. Let its members at once consent to become merged in the republican party, and participate, as true republicans, in the election of a sage and upright republican President next year, who, coming into office in the spirit of peace and true national brotherhood, may call around him men of known ability and patriotism, without the least regard to sectional prejudices or former political antecedents. If these blessings can be once realized, I shall be almost tempted to exclaim with Simeon of old, 'Lord, now lettest Thou Thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation!'"

Upon the letter and the writer the ex-parson comments at length, saying, among other things: "Knowing him as we do to be a brave, generous man, thoroughly attached to the Union, we welcome him with open arms into the ranks of the great republican party, the only organization having the disposition and ability to preserve our free republican system of government and the union of the States. We endorse all our correspondent says in praise of President Grant and his administration. The suggestion of Gov. Foote that the democracy disband and break up their organization contains more wisdom and patriotism than we have seen expressed in one sentence in fifty years. It is the very thing which the leaders of this demoralized and utterly worthless organization should do, and unless they do it soon and gracefully as the leaders of the old federal party did when they all supported Monroe after the war of 1812, they will find so many thousands of old-fashioned Union democrats like Gov. Foote opposing them that they will be nothing more than a contemptible and powerless faction, despised by all patriotic men at home, and the butt of ridicule of enlightened men the world over."

News and Notes.

James W. and Charles M. Goodsell, publishers of the Graphic, have retained Gen. Butler to conduct their six suits against Messrs. Jones and Jennings, of the Times, in connection with Mr. Beach. They state that they are preparing for some additional action in the United States Courts.

Deacon W. F. West has written a letter to his fellow members of Plymouth Church asking that a mutual council to be called to which may be submitted the following questions: First—Is Rev. Henry Ward Beecher guilty of adultery; Second, Is Rev. Henry Ward Beecher guilty of perjury?

A Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune says: "It is known that Gen. Grant is earnestly standing by Secretary Bristow in his fight against the Ring, and that the latter frequently consults him in various stages of the battle. If Gen. Babcock is found guilty, the President will be the first to condemn him."

The expense of collecting the internal revenue had been reduced by Secretary Bristow some $600,000 before the promulgation of the recent order for a still further reduction. The saving under the last order for retrenchment will reach, it is expected, $900,000, making a total of reduction of $1,500,000. It already looks as though it would be a fine stroke of economy to let Mr. Bristow run the whole government one of these days.—National Telegraph.

Those who had rather be a doorkeeper in the House of Representatives than be outside are John Daily, of Maryland; Z. Turner, of Virginia; Charles G. Camp, of Missouri, and M. N. H. Kendig, of California, who has shown that he can dig for it with an assiduity that is making the other candidates scratch for dear life. Mr. Kendig, unlike some of the other candidates, never was very popular in the republican party, and perhaps this may help him. Mr. Daily, we like. His name has a newspaper twang, but it is to be hoped that he is not a weekly, too. Turner has an excellent name for a politician. If there is change in the next Congress he can get round on the other side and be a candidate again. As the matter stands it may be best to go into camp with Charles G., but advice from this source may not be taken. Seriously there is nothing positive to be said as to the strength of any of these candidates.—Washington Republican.

A Washington dispatch to the Journal says that the Secretary of the Treasury has discontinued gold sales because the receipts from internal revenue have so rapidly increased that it seems probable that the currency receipts will be sufficient for ordinary expenditures.

Private advices assert that the Cuban Gen. Sanganita has slain a force of 300 men under Col. Campillo, at the intersection of the main turnpike running through the centre island and the road leading to Remedios. A decoying force of sharpshooters was deployed to lead them into an ambush, where they were attacked by the main body of the rebels.

Hon. R. B. Hayes will be inaugurated Governor of Ohio on Jan. 10.

The change in the national House of Representatives will displace a most excellent Clerk, Col. Edward McPherson, who has held the office twelve years, a longer term than any of his predecessors. It will be hard to find as capable a successor.

Secretary Bristow's Presidential stock is rising with steady rapidity.

The steamer Sunnyside was struck by ice near West Point on the Hudson river at two o'clock on the morning of the 1st, and sunk. Capt. Wolcott says his boat was cut into by by the ice, broke in two and slipped back into the channel and sunk. He reports eleven persons drowned.

It appears that the shotgun party of Mississippi made a slight miscalculation in the sixth congressional district, and allowed Hon. John R. Lynch to be reelected to Congress by a small majority over Colonel Roderick Seal, the democratic candidate. This was not discovered until after the votes were counted, and it was then too late to drive colored men from the polls. But where there is a democratic will there is always a democratic way, and the proposition now is to throw out the Washington box of Adams county for "gross irregularities," and count in Seal. The Washington polling place gave Lynch a majority of five hundred, and made his election sure. Mr. Seal will rely upon a democratic House to give him a place which he failed to gain by votes. It is well known that the republican vote of the Sixth District of Mississippi is twice as large as the democratic. Mr. Lynch was elected to the last Congress by a vote of 15,391, against 8430 cast for a Mr. Cassiday, democrat. That was a tolerably fair election.

The Philadelphia Press says of the democratic horde of office-seekers pouring into Washington: "They are a lean and seedy crowd, and suggest the idea of a pack of wolves assembled at a feast of a mouse. In proportion of the number of applicants to the number of officers there is just about as much of a show for a taste."

At the meeting of the republican State Committee, held at Concord recently, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

WHEREAS, An All-wise Father having summoned to the higher life Henry Wilson, Vice-President of the United States, it is fitting that we, members of the republican State Committee of New Hampshire, representing in his native State the political principles and the party he loved so well, adhered to so faithfully and did so much to have embodied in the legislation of Congress and perpetuated in the administration of the National Government, should give public expression to our sorrow over his death and while yet his remains await the last rite of sepulture.

Resolved, That in the decease of Henry Wilson the nation is bereft of one of the wisest and truest statesmen; Massachusetts of her most faithful servant and defender; New Hampshire of a son whose career has reflected unexampled honor on her as the birthplace of statesmen, and down-trodden humanity everywhere of one who never faltered in his efforts for their uplifting, never flinched when brought face to face with wrong and oppression. Loving liberty, loving his fellow-men, sympathizing with the weak and oppressed, superior always and alike to the buffetings of poverty and the malice of his enemies; a courageous, aggressive soul, having faith in God and shading all his acts by a deep sense of justice, he has left behind him a name that will last as long as the republic shall live, and the example of a career, which as long as it shall be emulated by the youth of our land will insure the safety of free institutions.

Jottings.

The Marion is ordered to the coast of Liberia, to give that republic the support of our sympathy.

The Mechanics' Fire Society have their annual supper at the National House this evening, the host being Hon. Frank W. Miller.

The Board of Trade has voted to petition Congress for a breakwater at Newcastle. The centennial committee were instructed to procure information relative to procuring space at Philadelphia, and to co-operate with the New Hampshire committee.

Schooner Jesse Williamson has been hauled off the rocks, leaking badly and with rudder unhung.

Kittery Point.

Next Monday evening under the auspices of the Social Circle of the First Congregational Parish at the Parish's church, the first Lyceum lecture will be delivered by Rev. G. D. Emerson of Biddeford. Subject, "Spunk;" from which may be expected a rich intellectual and practical treat. This will be followed fortnightly, by lectures on prominent and popular subjects, by Rev. J. K. Aldrich of Rye; Rev. Carlos Martyn of Portsmouth; Rev. Reuben Thomas, an eminent and eloquent divine from London, England. A Boston lady of superior culture and refinement will lecture on "Beautiful Homes." Stillman B. Allen, Esq., of Boston, is expected during the winter, to give us one of his highly interesting, popular and instructive lectures; and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Christie, designs to give several lectures on his recent tour through Great Britain, Italy, Switzerland, France, Germany and other parts of continental Europe, which will be liberally illustrated by stereoscopic views of prominent objects and places. One of his lectures will be on the life and writings of that world-wide celebrity and poet Robert Burns. Other lecturers of note and true worth may also be expected during the lecture season, awakening as we are sanguine they will still greater ardor and continued longing for these feasts of reason and flows of social, moral and superior intellectual culture and consequent improvment in the good and true. PROX.

—A correspondent to the London Journal of Horticulture furnished the following as the result of his experience: "Last Winter an old country poultry keeper told me he could distinguish the sex of eggs. I laughed at him, and was none the less skeptical when he told me the following secret: 'Eggs with the bladder on the centre of the crown of the egg will produce cockerels; those with the bladder on one side will produce pullets.' The old man was so certain of the truth of this dogma, and his poultry yard so far confirmed it, that I determined to make experiments upon it this year. I have done so, carefully registering every egg, 'bladder vertical' or 'bladder on one side,' rejecting every one in which it was not decidedly one or the other, as in some it is only slightly out of the centre. The following is the result: Fifty-eight chickens were hatched, three are dead, eleven are yet too young to decide upon the sex; of the remaining forty-four every one has turned out exactly true to the old man's theory. This, of course, may be an accidental coincidence, but I shall certainly try the experiments again. I am now trying the same theory with ducks' eggs."

—Long before the eye of temperance ordinances and organizations, Hyrtl, by far the greatest anatomist of the age, used to say that he could distinguish, in the darkest room, by one stroke of the scalpel, the brain of the inebriate from that of the man who lived soberly. Now and then he would congratulate his class upon the possession of a drunkard's brain, admirably fitted, from its hardness and more complete preservation, for the purpose of demonstration. When the anatomist wishes to preserve a human brain for any length of time, he effects that object by keeping the organ in a vessel of alcohol. From a soft, pulpy substance, it then becomes comparatively hard; and so, too, before death, the use of alcohol causes the induration of the delicate and gossamer-like tissues.

—A pair of goldfinches had built their nest on a small branch of an olive tree, and, after hatching their brood, the parents perceived that the weight of the growing family would soon be too great for the strength of the branch which supported the nest; in fact, it was beginning to give way. Something should be done or the nest would fall—this was evident to beholders—and equally so to the goldfinches; accordingly, they were observed to fasten, by a small string they had picked up, the bending twig, to a stronger and higher branch of the tree, and then their nest was saved.

—A shark has to turn over on his back when he bites, because his mouth is where his neck-tie ought to be. When Paul Boyton was attacked by a twenty-foot shark, he lay down on his back on the bottom of the sea, and he laughed at the fish which could not get at him.—New Orleans Bulletin.

—"Mamie," said a mother to a six-year-old, "If I was a little girl like you I would pick up all those chips." "Well, mamma," said the little one, "ain't you glad you are not a little girl?"

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserves the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians. It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now parades loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subjects. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors or original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Rieker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

A Story Of The Boston Fire.

Since the "great fire" of 1872, a good deal of property in the "burnt district" has changed hands. Divesting this story, as told in the American Law Review, as far as possible of technicalities, it is as follows: Fifteen years ago, Mr. Wm. Ingalls owned a piece of property in the burnt district. His father had left this property to him by will, his mother having a life interest in it till her death, in 1845. The will also contained two legacies, of $25,000 each, to the nephews, named Jones, of the elder Ingalls; but before his death he lost all his property except the real estate, and the legacies were not paid. There is no limit as to the time in which an action can be brought in Massachusetts to recover a legacy; about the year 1860, the brothers Jones began suit for theirs, and two years afterward recovered the amount with interest—a total of $143,000. The Ingalls real estate was sold to meet this claim, producing not quite enough by $8000; and the brothers Jones bought it as a good investment for their legacy. Mr. Ingalls' inheritance thus became less than nothing. The ground of the decision was that as his father's will gave him exactly what he would have got if there had been no will, the devise to him was void and he took title by descent; but he legacies, being a valid devise, took precedence. Scarcely had the Jones stepped into their property before John Rogers began suit for it. He showed that, in 1750, an owner of the property had willed it to his brother, "if he shall die without issue." That brother had a daughter, and she left the estate by will in 1790 to her daughter, who sold it to the elder Ingalls. But the daughter, who left it by will had not in law the right to do so. The will of 1750, containing the phrase above quoted, was meant to give the estate to the heirs-at-law. The daughter to whom the property had been willed in 1790 was not the heir; Peter Rogers was. His son, John Rogers, sued for the estate and recovered it in 1865, from the brothers Jones.

It next appears that a young lawyer went to studying the case. He went back of 1750 to 1710, and found that the property had then passed, by a deed which conveyed the land, to one Johnson; but the document did not say, as is usual, "to his heirs," consequently, when Johnson died, the estate reverted to the man who sold it to him, or rather to his heirs. Those heirs were found; a real estate operator in Boston supplied the funds for the suit, bought off the heirs for a trifle, won the case, and gained possession. When the fire swept over the property he bought a lot alongside, and erected on both lots large, deep, substantial stores. Meanwhile, Mr. Ingalls, the first of the list of owners, had been studying the title to his lost property in records of a yet earlier date. He found in 1660 it had been willed on the condition that a certain portion of it should never be built upon. The condition had been violated in rebuilding after the fire. Stranger still, Mr. Ingalls found that the testator of 1660 was his ancestor, and that he, Ingalls, was the direct heir. He brought suit against the real estate operator. The latter, it is said, consulted the spirits, and was advised to compromise on the best terms attainable. Mr. Ingalls received back his property in the ground, and gave a mortgage for the building, finding himself on the whole a much richer man than at first. The mortgage was subsequently transferred, and Mr. Ingalls' title again thoroughly searched and pronounced perfect. It should be added that the fine block which Jones had erected, with the man's initials on it, passed into the hands of the Massachusetts Hospital Life Insurance Company, to whom Mr. Ingalls sold it. Really, now-a-days, in some sections, especially in the large cities, a man can hardly tell whether the land he has purchased and paid for is actually his or somebody else's.

—Trees received from a distance, which are kept for Spring setting out, require two precautions in heeling-in. The earth should be very compactly filled in among the roots so as to occupy all interstices; and they should be surrounded with a raised bank of fresh, mellow earth, beaten smooth with a spade, to exclude mice, which will not ascend such a smooth surface under snow. The well known practice of making a small, smooth, compact mound of earth around young trees in the orchard, to prevent the mice from reaching them, should not be forgotten.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so I Had that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold many whose poor they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgic pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine, as I did. I take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rosindale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

Harper's Magazine.
ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press.

The ever-increasing circulation of this excellent monthly proves its continued adaptation to popular desires and needs. Indeed, when we think into how many homes it penetrates every month, we must consider it as one of the educators as well as entertainers of the public mind.—Boston Globe.

The character which this Magazine possesses for variety, enterprise, sound wealth, and literary culture that has kept pace with, if it has not led the time, should cause its conductors to regard it with justifiable complacency. The Magazine has done good and not evil all the days of its life.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Some of the most popular of modern novels have first appeared as serials in this Magazine. In all respects it is an excellent periodical and fully deserves its great success.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of Agriculture in every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department, conducted by a Practical Horticulturist, such directions and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and now, with a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Workyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
In the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is a diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England
PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all Kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America, or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"The very best ladies' magazine published."—Seneca Falls (N. Y.) Courier.
☞ CHEAPEST AND BEST! ☜
Peterson's Magazine
POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.
☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large-sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜
"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.
Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called
THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!
The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments, stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its
THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES
are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.
MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES
ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

THE WEEKLY SUN.

1776. NEW YORK. 1876.

Eighteen hundred and seventy six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, for the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-third election of a President of the United States. All of these events are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the two latter; and all of them and everything connected with them will be fully and freshly reported and expounded in THE SUN.

The Opposition House of Representatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by THE SUN, will sternly and diligently investigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Grant's administration, and will, it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and better period in our national history. Of all this THE SUN will contain complete and accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these absorbing topics.

The twenty-third Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as deciding upon Grant's aspirations for a third term of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects, those who read THE SUN will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.

THE WEEKLY SUN, which has attained a circulation of over eighty thousand copies, already has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year 1876 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimportant, at full length when of moment, and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make the WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading, such as stories, tales, poems, scientific intelligence and agricultural information, for which we are not able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashions are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages with fifty-six broad columns, is only $1.20 a year, postage prepaid. As this price barely repays the cost of the paper, no discount can be made from this rate to clubs, agents, Postmasters, or anyone.

The DAILY SUN, a large four page newspaper of twenty eight columns, gives all the news for two cents a copy. Subscription, postage prepaid, 55c a month or $6.50 a year. SUNDAY edition extra, $1.10 per year. We have no travelling agents.

Address, THE SUN, New York City.

I GO TO BED.

When I have lost all faith in man,
Or failed to consummate some plan;
When women fair, are cool, unkind,
And things accord not with my mind,
I do not rashly seize my pen,
And in a flurry there and then Declare this gladsome world to be
One endless round of vanity,—
Ah, no! for this were mockery,—
I go to bed.

When through my head there darts a pain,
And life seems an increasing bane;
When friends their patronage withhold,
And creditors become too bold,—
I do not in seclusion mourn,
And curse the hour that I was born,—
I go to bed.

When direful news comes o'er the sea,
Or Smith and Jones cannot agree;
When bank securities decline,
And spurious stuffs are sold for wine,—
I do not with an awful sigh
Express the wish that I might die,—
I go to bed.

When boys refuse to study Greek,
Write moral essays, practice, speak;
When girls of fourteen flirt and lace,
And like frivolities embrace—
I do not on high heaven call
For one to write our country's fall,—
I go to bed.

When some D. D. deserts his creed,
And quacks their many victims bleed;
When editors write sharp replies,
And moneyed men keep back supplies,—
I do not then in prose or verse
Implore the gods mankind to curse,—
I go to bed.

When couples marry in great haste,
And servants pilfer, fret and waste;
When general courts their terms prolong;
In short, when things get somewhat wrong,
I do not bite my lips and scowl,
And at the children snap and growl,—
I go to bed.

I go to bed and soundly sleep,
While friendly angels vigil keep;
But if, however I awake
Before my silments me forsake,
I do not of my life complain,
But try the remedy again,—
I hack to bed.

Ye who have griefs,—and who has not?
Let quiet prescription be forgot.
My panacea for old and young
Is given in the English tongue.
It has to untold millions wrought
Sweetest relief nor cost them aught.
And now if you, like these, would be
From every pain and sor. ow free,
Light a small lamp and come with me;
I go to bed.

A PANTHER HUNT.

[[Rutland, (Vt.) Herald, Nov. 24th.

Last Friday, as Mr. H. N. Fitts, of West Wardsboro, and a Mr. S. S. Perry, were going to their work, blasting lime rock from a ledge situated in the edge of Stratton, they noticed the tracks of a wild animal. Supposing they belonged to a bear they concluded to follow them for a short distance to satisfy their curiosity. These soon led into a piece of woods about a mile southwest of the village of West Wardsboro. Here Mr. Fitts and his companion abandoned their search, intending to secure help and follow it up the next morning. Saturday morning the hunters, about sixteen in all, armed with rifles, shot-guns and revolvers, and accompanied by several dogs, started for the animal. They first passed around the woods to make sure that the supposed bear had not left his lair, and then the whole place was surrounded with a chain or armed men, to prevent his escape if he should make a break for the mountains. Twelve of the hunters were thus arranged, while Messrs. Fitts, Perry and H. B. Johnson, with two boys and four dogs, entered the woods to stir up the beast. The dogs were kept back by ropes until the proper time and place should be reached, and the hunt commenced. The trail of the previous evening was soon struck, and in a few moments they came upon the half devoured remains of a hedgehog. The bed where some large animal had lain the night before was discovered, and fresh tracks were apparent on all sides. The uneasiness of the dogs as they struggled to free themselves from their leashes also made evident the near presence of the game. When they were loosed they darted through the brush yelping and barking, while the hunters followed on as fast as possible. Soon the barking ceased and the animals rushed hither and thither hunting for the trail, evidently at a loss. Mr. Perry, however, who was armed with a shot-gun, doubly loaded with shot and ball, discovered a dark-looking object in the top of a tall hemlock. Without a moment's warning he raised his gun and fired and the dark object came tumbling to the ground, disclosing to the eyes of the astonished hunter a regular American panther. Although shot through the breast and with one of his four legs broken by the fall, the magnificent animal was disabled but not conquered, and as the dogs attacked him, clearing himself with his uninjured paw, he leaped into the air over the heads of the men, and landed in a thicket a dozen or fifteen feet away. The dogs, however, were gritty and terribly in earnest, and when he leaped again he carried one of them with him, clinging to his flank. He attempted to climb a tree, but this, in his disabled condition, was impossible, so, dropping to the ground, he made a dash for a clump of dead tree tops, a few rods distant. Away went the panther and the dogs, scratching, snarling and yelping, while the men followed close behind, urging on the dogs. Hitherto the demonstrations of the hunters had been more noisy than effective, but as the panther was disappearing in a thicket of spruce trees, John seized him by the tail and called on Perry for help in making the capture. Perry loyally responded, but just as he had got a good hold the beast gave a leap, carrying both of the men with him, and for a few moments aerial navigation was nowhere. The panther went over a tree top, but the men remained on the other side, still clinging to his tail. He tried to turn and fight them, but the dogs were on hand. Just at this moment Johnson bethought himself of his revolver, and five pistol bullets were lodged in his head. Still the fight continued, and Mr. Fitts, who had been an idle spectator, managed to fasten a rope around the panther's leg and fasten him to a tree. Shot-guns and pistols were empty, but the panther, though weakened, refused to die, and the life of the "king of the American forests" was brought to an ignominious close by the use of a pocket-knife and cudgel. He measured seven feet from hip to hip and weighed 105 pounds. Three toes were gone from one of his fore feet, seeming to evince an intimate acquaintance with a steel trap some time past. Hunters and dogs escaped unhurt—a fact probably due to the severe injuries sustained by the animal in the early part of the fight. The carcass was borne in triumph to the village and exhibited to the wondering eyes of the inhabitants.

THE COMING MAN.

[Louisville Courier Journal, 24.]

The capital of the land of liberty will soon be all activity. Our rural representatives will soon be welcomed by the hack-drivers and porters, and gigantic intellects will have to first drive bargains with the hotels and loging-houses. They will have to take a few finishing lessons in finance before they break upon the country in preambles and resolutions. There must necessarily be all sorts of disillusions and disappointments, and the new Congressman will find himself in a school where he may learn something worth knowing. Cushing's hand-book does not contain it all by any means. If he learns how to manage his constituency, how to fulfil all his rash promises, and to keep up his dignity besides, he will be doing well. There are reputations to be made at all hazards, and the brief fame of a successful speech is to come to some in an unexpected way. New capacities are to be developed. Representatives from so many widely differing parts of the country have marked characteristics. Perhaps vanity assumes pretty much the same shape everywhere, and we may have perked-up nonentities as well from one place as another. The customary form of ultra importance and dignity is in the closely-buttoned frock coat. We may expect the best results then in the way of tailoring. It is a comparatively cheap method of representing one's district to wear a good broadcloth suit. Nor is a clean shirt out of place. It is somewhat unfortunate that Washington society does not appreciate a man who doesn't wear a shirt collar. Indeed, it is absurdly prejudiced even against one of the best paper manufacture. In short, it takes brains to survive there in an old hat. There are various little points like this to attend to, and if good grammar and a full knowledge of statesmanship could be bought on easy terms there would not be much difficulty. The newspaper correspondents will have a new field to work up. The air will be electric with new sensations. We may hope, too, for a new Duluth speech. There ought to be such a prevailing good humor as will encourage the wits to entertain us with occasional afterpieces in the interludes of the heavy parts. Perhaps some of the new members will be able to bring us back to specie payments in a short time. The money question must be solved at once. At all events we will get some data in regard to our finances. It is a fine occasion for a good deal of reputation and glory, and two or three weazels let loose in the government buildings will unearth and annihilate a goodly quantity of rats. Who is the coming man? Let him be from North, South, East or West, he will be entitled to a nimbus of glory. He will deserve Sam Ward's best dioner. He is the long-lost brother of the whole country, whether he wears a collar or not. He is welcome to his back pay, if, in an ungnarded moment, he yielded to the seduction of rag money in that shape. We will even adduce his as an example of the power of rag money to make an exalted patriot waver. There are a good many statesmen to enter this sweepstakes ring to the tune of "Hail Columbia," and not until they have been trotted around once or twice can we begin to form our judgments.

—Anecdotes of the late Vice-President are multiplying on every hand. One illustrative of his well-known kindness to soldiers comes from Michigan. A correspondent of the Detroit News writes that in the Winter of 1862-3 there was great suffering in a camp of 13,000 convalescents near Alexandria, Va. In response to a petition to President Lincoln, a "quiet-faced" man visited the camp and examined its condition, bringing with him two ambulances loaded with blankets and provisions. The writer adds: "The quiet-faced man had been making a memorandum of some of the worst cases, and was just departing, when a weak voice inquired for postage stamps. 'God bless you, yes,' said our quiet gentleman, 'here's a few and money to buy more.' A thought seemed to strike him. Producing his wallet, he placed in the hands of the sergeant in charge of each division a crisp new $50 bill, 'for postage stamps, remember,' and turning to his gratified audience, he said, in his cheery way, 'Will be here again, boys, Monday, and will have a different state of things.' Monday came and with it the quiet-faced man and a board of surgeons with orders to discharge on furlough every man who was not ready for immediate active duty. New barracks were built, and camp 'Misery Hill' ceased to exist. The quiet-faced man was Henry Wilson."

—A noble Omaha mastiff has saved the lives of three children within a month, and chawed up fourteen men who called to sell a patent clothes-pin.

—Strawberries were served at a dinner in Washington a few days ago.

Daily Chronicle.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 4, 1875.

News and Notes.

Patrick Tooley, a New York laborer, ponred a can of kerosene oil over his wife, because she said he was hard to please, he having found fault with her working. She screamed and prayed to him not to set her on fire, but with a volley of oaths he persisted. The oil being poured over her head and getting into her eyes saturated her dress, and he in spite of her struggles lit a match and set her on fire. Her screams were fearful, and soon the house was aroused, and likewise the neighborhood. When found, she was a pitiful sight, great shreds of flesh hanging from her arms. Her breasts were burned fearfully, her hands were burned black as jet. Her face was blackened and her stomach was all charred likewise. The fiend was taken prisoner and carried to the station-house, although he at first resisted. The unfortunate woman was sent to the hospital where she died in great agony. Tooley was fully committed for trial for murder.

Henry Wilson's property, it is said, will not exceed $10,000 in amount, and he bequeathed it all in trust for his mother-in-law and adopted daughter. He laid up but small treasure in this life, and there was nothing of outward magnificence or grandeur about his way of living. His library is but small, and many of the books were given to him.

Charles Bonney, a worthless character living in Hookset, son of a hotel keeper, threatened to shoot his wife in case she attended a ball at the hotel on the evening of the 1st. Mrs. Bonney, who is a woman of good reputation, ignored his instructions and went. Bonney followed and found her dancing with another woman. Drawing a revolver, threatened to shoot her, and snapped it three or four times. Although five barrels were loaded, it did not go off—but Bonney did in the hands of the police. Bonney Charlie regrets that his efforts to kill her were fruitless, and languishes under $5000 bail.

The cut-down on all the corporations in Manchester began Thursday. Five, ten and fifteen per cent. will be taken from the wages of the operatives. The manufacturers say this must be done in order to keep the mills running, which they intend to do all through the Winter. The help will not suffer from the shut-down, though affected by a reduction in wages, for they have the promise of steady work.

Every officer of the navy not on sick leave is now believed to be either at sea or under orders to report on board of some vessel, which is rapidly preparing for active service, and it is the general belief among those who have received these orders within a week or two, that thirty days from now there will be very few naval officers able to do sea duty who will not be afloat. Even those who are in command of these squadrons and fleets, so suddenly put in readiness for active service, profess entire ignorance in regard to the important service they are expected to perform.

The National debt was reduced $480,078.-83 last month. Total reduction since June 20, 1875, $10,771,503.75.

Philadelphia navy yard was sold by auction on Thursday for one million dollars. The purchaser was J. Lowber Welch, who bought it for John C. Bullitt, attorney. A large crowd was present, including Secretary Robeson and other members of the Commission having charge of the sale. The yard was first put up as a whole, it being the intention to sell the ground in parcels in case a satisfactory bid could not be obtained on the property in one lot. It was started at $500,000, running up $10,000 at a time until a round million was reached. It was finally knocked down at that figure. It is learned that Bullitt purchased for Drexel & Co., bankers, and S. & W. Welch, a shipping firm of Philadelphia. John P. Green, an official of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, says that company purchased the Navy Yard site.

Gen. Babcock has asked for a full investigation of the charge that he has been connected with the whiskey ring.

The London News has a telegram from Madrid which confirms the statement that Spain sends a note to Washington promising reforms in Cuba, and that there is great anxiety in Madrid to hear from America, as the note is Spain's ultimatum,

The shoe factory at Derry, under the management of W. H. Pillsbury, which has been lying still for the last four months, has started up again, and employ 500 hands.

Hon. B. G. Harris' circular to Congressmen requesting the appointment of Sergeant-at-Arms, because he is an unreconciled Bourbon, has not been warmly received. Speaking for the Southern wing of the party, the Memphis Avalanche says: "Mr. Ben. Harris belongs to a class of political lunatics for whom little sympathy is felt in the South. His appeal for the vote of the Southern Congressmen will greatly facilitate the work of tucking Benjamin in his little bed."

A singular accident occurred on the Boston and Albany fast train from Boston on the 29th ult. After the train passed Charlton a passenger attempted to go from one car to another, and the wind actually blew him from the platform. The horrified brakeman immediately pulled the signal cord and the train was stopped, after running about an eighth of a mile. The brakeman sprang from the rear car and ran down the track with a red flag, when he met the man running to overtake the train. He got on at the rear of the train and made his way quickly to the seat which he had left, and sat quietly down. His wife turned to him and remarked: "Why, they say a man was blown from the train just now." "Is that so?" said he. Presently a number of interested passengers who had followed him to his place asked after his welfare. "Why, was it for you that the train stopped?" exclaimed the horrified wife. And he had to tell her. Then, of course, she scolded him because he lost his hat.

It appears from this statement, that the total debt is $14,833,500, and the assets $19,558,510, leaving $4,725,000 against $4-997,000 paid in by the stockholders. In other words, there has been an apparent loss of about six per cent. of the capital invested.

The loss is probably greater than it appears. A large item in the list of assets is stock of other roads, amounting to $1,749,608. This stock is specified as follows:

Portsmouth, Great Falls & Conway,	$551,200
Wolfboro',	337,500
Eastern New Hampshire,	512 38
Maine Central,	859,895 81
Total,	1,749,608 31

It does not appear whether these shares are charged at par, or at cost, but either way it is doubtful if the nominal value could be directly realized from them. The "special" floating debt appears to have been incurred for these purchases.

The operations of the past year are represented by the following

The net income of the road after payment of operating expenses and rent of tracks belonging to other companies, was $556,503.-13, which was all absorbed by the interest account, with $335,859.26 more. This is the sum which must be saved next year, to make the road pay its way.

There are now 2,087 persons employed by the company, including officials of every grade. The average rate of fare per mile for all passengers has been 2.210 cents; the average rate of freight per ton per mile has been 0.301 cents. The net earnings per train mile in the passenger department have been 0.0221 cents; in the freight department, 0.0109 cents.

The Movement in Torpedoes.

[N. Y. Com. Adv.]

Among the naval preparations, which are the mystery of the hour, is reported the forwarding of large quantities of torpedoes from the Newport, R. I., factory to New York. These are supposed to be for use in guarding the channel approaches to the city. Should such be the object of the movement, it would only show that the Government is taking thorough precautions against a contingency, whether near or remote. During the excitement growing out of the Virginius massacre there was a similar activity in the torpedo market. The torpedo system is now a reigning favorite at Washington. Secretary Robeson and Admiral Porter (the latter the inventor of a torpedo-boat and the great promoter of submarine exploding in all its branches) now look upon it as an indispensable adjunct of harbor defence. They believe that this engine, heretofore of but little use in war, has now been developed into even the highest importance: that it furnishes the only means of securing a harbor effectually against a foreign iron-clad fleet!

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

Hon. Frank Jones of Portsmouth, the democratic member of Congress from the First District, will probably have the finest establishment at Washington of any Congressman who has ever been there from New Hampshire. He will have a superb house, and he has taken out five beautiful horses, one pair of which cost him three thousand dollars. He will have three carriages, one of them being a landau of attractive design and very expensive finish. "F. F." in Boston Journal.

Such an establishment needs a coat of arms and motto. How would "Quid rides" do?

A missionary friend desires us to warn the public against a woman named Davis who has been asking aid from citizens, in company with another woman, and who obtained board under false pretences at the National Hotel.

At the farmers' meeting at Granger' Hall in this city on Wednesday evenings, James O. Adams, Esq., of Manchester, of the N. H. Board of Agriculture read a new and interesting essay on farming and farmers in New Hampshire for the last hundred years. Mr. B. F. Hutchinson, of Medford, also a member of the State Board, read a valuable essay on the Winter feeding of Stock, etc. Discussions also ensued on these and other topics, in which these gentlemen, and Messrs. D. H. Spinney, C. B. Mason and F. W. Miller, of this city, Emmons B. Philbrick of Rye, and others, took part—the largest latitude being allowed, as is intended in these meetings. The next discussion will be held on Wednesday evening, Dec. 12th, to which all are invited.

There will be no service at the Universalist Church to-morrow, so that the pastor as well as people may have opportunity to attend the denominational mass conventions at Manchester which opens to-day and continues through Sunday.

The Jarvis hosiery mill and store rooms adjoining have been purchased at private sale by Messrs Robert C. Jarvis, 2d, James M. Jarvis, Charles H. Mendum, Henry M. Clark, William R. Preston and William H. Rollins, who will reopen the same with increased facilities January 1st giving work to about eighty hands, half of whom will be employed in the mill. The new corporation is to be known as the "Jarvis Brothers' Hosiery Company."

At a recent presentation of an operetta at Chelsea, Mass., Miss Ida Mason, a young daughter of the late Woodbury Mason, formerly of this city, sustained the part of "Cinderella." The Public says she "brought to the part youth, beauty, a voice of much power and sweetness, and an appreciation of the duties devolving upon her. With these qualities nothing would seem wanting to make her rendition of the character a fine one, and the manifestation of approval from the audience told the story of her success." At the mature age of four years, Miss Mason was prominent in tableaux and singing parts at the Christian chapel on Court street, in this city, and was wonderfully adapted to the character she assumed.

Rev. Carlos Martyn's special afternoon sermons, in the North Church, are remarkably well attended. His subject to-morrow will be: "Revivals,—the Kind Needed in the 19th Century."

To meet a demand for holiday presents wherein beauty and service are combined, Messrs. Mendum, Whidden & Co. Nos. 1, 3, 5 and 7 Washington street, corner Haymarket Square, Boston, have on hand and are constantly manufacturing in large quantities every description of furniture designed expressly for the Christmas and New Year trade. Among these holiday articles which are being offered at prices far below anything of the kind ever known in New England, in addition to their well known assortment of chamber and parlor suits, are: fancy tables, jardiniers, card receivers, ladies' sewing tables, foot rests, ottomans, towel brackets, wall pockets, pedestals, escritoires, boudoir chairs, etc:—all of these goods in the usual variety of a first-class establishment, and a careful inspection is earnestly desired by the gentlemen of the firm, who not only find pleasure in showing every attention to all who call on them, but most freely impart to all who favor them, the benefit of their taste and judgment acquired by long experience.

WHITE ISLAND, Nov. 1.

My mate and I have come to the conclusion that we are in prison for the rest of our lives, or until the democrats secure the national government, which amounts to the same thing. When we first came here we commenced a regular course of study of the government's "Instructions and Directions to Light Keepers, and discovered that light-keepers "are authorized to leave their stations to attend public worship on Sundays," to draw their salaries, get provisions, etc.; but further research has taught us that no keeper can leave his station until he has provided a substitute, (how one of us can get a substitute out here without first leaving is a puzzle to us,) and that "Keepers and assistants are not permitted to employ substitutes,"—the latter rule being emphasized by italics, as quoted. I understand that the gentleman who drew up that code of rules is first cousin to the learned counsel who once stated that the defence proposed to "show that we did not borrow the kettle; that it was cracked when we borrowed it; and that we returned it whole."

Exodus is doing well. After misbehaving for a whole Winter he turned over a new leaf, reformed, and of course ceased to be an object of interest; but latterly he has shown magnificent endurance in the line of sleeping all the time exactly in front of the stove, just where he is handiest for us to step on him, tumble over him and spill pork-fat on him; and he has also developed the most remarkable appetite for raw squash that ever I experienced in a cat. He will turn up his nose at my bread—my mate says I make real nice bread, just fit for cats—my bread ought to be good, for I put four times as much saleratus in it as he does in his—but Exodus will turn up his nose at bread of my making and go right off and eat the entire "inwards" of a big squash, raw, seeds and all. I'd whack him for insulting my cookery did I not consider it my duty to forgive anything to a cat that eats raw squash. I am going to try him on raw carrots after he has eaten all the squashes.

Our new cat, Sin, (she was "Abyssinia' at first,) won't eat raw squash, but she can steal more hot pork out of the frying-pan, and run faster and look scareder without any cause therefor, when out of doors, than any other cat. Should you ever land here you will probably see a black streak across the island, like a vivid flash of coal-tar, for a fraction of a secohd; that will be Sin, scooting about. She used to annoy us a great deal, catching the little finches and sparrows which came in flocks around the doors to be fed with crumbs; bricks and lumps of coal were of no effect, for she would scud under the boat-house with her victims; but we have got a nice sleigh-bell to hang on her neck next Spring, and hope to bother her a lot.

There has been talk in light-house-official circles of raising this light so that it will show to the Eastward, over the top of the Oceanic hotel; and if no light is to be placed on Duck Island this one should be elevated. But I cannot see why Mr. Poor was allowed to build a house to obstruct the light, in the first place. It is a recognized principle, I believe, that the interests and desires of the individual cannot be allowed to stand in the way of the general necessity; and a light-house is a necessary aid to the navigation interest—not merely of this State or even of the Nation, but of the whole world. The light-house was built years before the hotel, and now must be raised because the hotel obscures the light; would the government keep on raising the tower if the hotel man should choose to keep on raising his hotel?

By one of the last CHRONICLES which reached this island I see that Gen. Head has had himself declared to be "Natt Head;" so the democratic moderators won't be able to swindle him out of an election the next time the people elect him Senator, (as they probably would have done, had he not gone to the courts,) by refusing to return votes thrown for "Natt" Head on the ground that his name was Nathaniel, and throwing out votes for "Nathaniel" Head on the ground that his name was Natt. But what is Hon. Franklin Jones going to do about it, when he runs for defeat in the next Congressional election? Will he run as "Frank" Jones, after the precedent set by Weston and his democratic council, trusting that (if he should do what he did not do at the last election—get a majority of the legal votes cast) no republican governor and council could ever be found to do the dirty job so easily done by Weston & Co.? Or will he get his name changed to "Frank" by the courts, and thereby acknowledge that his certificate of election was wrongfully received?

We had a big blow—the hardest one I've experienced since I have been out here—on the night of Oct. 30. The wind blew a young hurricane from the Southeast, and I believe there was a heavy rain fall with it, though I could not be sure on account of the dense shower of salt spray with which the island was continuously drenched. The sea was magnificent, and made many of the tough stories of big seas in former times seem much less tough than they used to be. I half expected I should see the Oceanic floating about in the shape of driftwood when daylight should break, and didn't feel at all positive that there would be a very large assortment of lighthouse left after the storm; and loose shingles and rotten boards from the old ramshackle buildings on the island were flying about through the air thick enough to have eclipsed the moon had she been such a fool as to be out night-walking in such weather. The barometer dropped nine-tenths of an inch in six hours—from 29 8-10 to 28 9-10; then there was a dead calm for an hour, with the barometer stationary; the barometer commenced to rise rapidly, and a nor'wester came down, butt end foremost, blew furiously all yesterday and last night, and is still blowing a gale.

If I ever get a chance to send this in you may possibly get it; but on this island we are really farther away from Portsmouth than though we were in San Francisco.

Yarn's long enough. PAKEHA.

MARINE CHRONICLE

Ship Jean Ingelow sld from New York for Charleston, Dec 2.

The Evil Fruits of Weak Digestion.

There is no pathological fact more clearly ascertained than that the most formidable phases of nervous disease are directly traceable to imperfect digestion. Insomnia, with its train of direful consequences, proceeds more frequently from weakness of the stomach than from any other cause. Mere sedatives are powerless to cure nervousness, and soon cease to palliate its symptoms. The true way to strengthen the nervous system is to invigorate the digestive and assimilative organs, upon whose unobstructed action its equilibrium is absolutely dependent. The daily use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will do more to brace and soothe the weakened and irritated nerves, and induce sound, refreshing sleep—nature's grand catholicon,—than all the so-called nervines to be found in the pharmacopœia or out of it. A wineglassful of the Bitters should be taken before each meal.

—"Miles Standish Adams!" yelled a Boston mother, poking her head out of the window and addressing her eldest born, who was adjusting his fishing tackle in the back yard; "Come right up stairs this instant, and get ready for Sunday school." Her voice probably failed to reach him, as a few minutes later she looked out again and yelled louder than before: "Miles Standish Adams, don't you hear me? You ought to be ashamed of yourself to be playing with those hooks and lines on Sunday." "Can't help it," said Miles, going right on with his preparations; "Our boys are going to celebrate their centennial this week; they've put me down for speaker, and I've got to eat fish three times a day, if I never go to heaven for it."

"Heal Thyself."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of about 900 pages, illustrated with over 250 engravings and colored plates, and sold at the exceedingly low price of $1.50, tells you how to cure Catarrh, "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sick, Bilious, and other Headaches, Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Diseases; all diseases peculiar to women, and most other chronic as well as acute disorders. It contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. Men and women, married and single, are tempted to ask their family physician thousands of questions on delicate topics, but are deterred from doing so by their modesty. This work answers just such questions so fully and plainly as to leave no one in doubt. It is sold by Agents, or sent by mail (post-paid) on receipt of price. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

From the Lafayette Daily Courier.

A VALUABLE WORK.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, distinguished in surgery, and the general practice in the profession he honors, has made a valuable contribution to the medical literature of the day, in a comprehensive work entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." While scientific throughout, it is singularly free from technical and stilted terms. It comes right down to the common sense of every-day life. Dr. Pierce is a noble specimen of American manhood. He has sprung from the people; and, with many sympathies in common with the masses, has sought to render them a substantial service in this the great work of his life.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled list of regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and Canada.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much service of a practical character, such as to suggest and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders of Improved Stock.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special department to the consideration of the Condition of Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN also contains numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Household, and in its entire variety is a Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a thorough guide to the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to others since, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint, Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the head and back. I was unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I dread still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 44 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 44 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reading, who are taking the Pills, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. A fourth part of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a foremost place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the happiness and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful tales of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party organization is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to its convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was founded, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will meet all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing further disgraceful ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, and with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were cleaning orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid Lee Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform came down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the party.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested and party political obligations or partialities. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and trustworthy, and from it special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected miscellaneous literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractiveness to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

THE WEEKLY SUN.

1776. NEW YORK. 1876.

Eighteen hundred and seventy six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-third election of a President of the United States. All of these events are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the first two; and all of them and everything connected with them will be fully and freshly reported and expounded in THE SUN.

The Opposition House of Representatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by THE SUN, will sternly and diligently investigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Gen. Grant's administration, and will, it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and better period in our national history. In all this THE SUN will compile and present accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these absorbing topics.

The twenty-third Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as deciding upon Grant's aspirations for a third term of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects, those who read THE SUN will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.

THE WEEKLY SUN, which has attained a circulation of over eighty thousand copies, already has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year 1876 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimportant, at full length when of moment; and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make the WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading, such as stories, tales, poems, scientific intelligence and agricultural information, for which we are not able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashions are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages with fifty-six broad columns, is only $1.20 a year, postage prepaid. As this price barely repays the cost of the paper, no discount can be made from this rate to clubs, agents, Postmasters, or anyone.

The DAILY SUN, a large four page newspaper of twenty eight columns, gives all the news for two cents a copy. Subscription, postage prepaid, 55c a month or $6.50 a year. SUNDAY edition extra, $1.10 per year. We have no travelling agents.

Address, THE SUN, New York City.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

Mrs. Moulton Indignant.

Mrs. Moulton has addressed a letter to the members of Plymouth Church in reply to the one addressed to her and adopted by them. She says:

I do not believe there was any one more faithful to Plymouth Church than I was, up to the time when I became acquainted with the great wickedness that Mr. Beecher had committed in his relations with Mrs. Tilton. After that it did not seem possible to go to church and hear him preach, or take the sacrament from his hand, and so I stopped doing so. I could not with any satisfaction hear him preach of purity and Christian joy while I knew of his secret agony and acknowledged but hidden sin. That I did not go elsewhere for worship and the sacrament was almost wholly owing to him. He begged me again and again to come back; and when I said I could not till he acknowledged his sin and so atone for it as far as he could, he was sad and depressed, even to tears. Yet if I went away from Plymouth Church to any other while he was all the time coming to our house, it would, of course, excite attention, cause suspicion and embarrass him very much, as well as my husband, who was then trying hard, under Mr. Beecher's constant urgency to keep the awful secret from the public. I should not know what to say if I were asked the reason for it, and it might be the means of doing great injury to those whom I wanted to shield and help. Mr. Beecher, too, had, more than any other, represented to me the Christian religion, and to bring reproach upon him seemed an injury to it; so I abstained from going elsewhere lest it should harm him and indirectly bring things to light which he was all the time afraid would become known, and which it did not belong to me to disclose. Mr. Beecher surely ought to be the last man in the world to blame me for what I did in his behalf. He knows that I could not speak the truth more perfectly than I have spoken it here if I were standing this moment before God's Throne of Judgment. When Mr. Tilton's name was dropped by you, two years ago, I told Mr. Beecher that I was afraid you would some time want to drop mine in the same way, and he then most earnestly assured me that it should never be done; that he would see to it himself that I should never in any way be injured by his church. I really do not see how Mr Beecher, knowing as well as he does the perfect truth of what I say, knowing how he used to weep at our house and heap shame upon himself for his great sin, and how often he spoke to my husband and myself of the utter despair in which he would be except for our comfort and help,—I cannot see how it was possible for him to stand up and read this letter to me in your presence without his very soul giving way.

Mrs. Moulton refers to other parts of the letter, and says there are a great many things in it which are incorrect and injurious, some of which she mentions as follows:

You say that, so far as the church or Committee knew, I had never made any statement impugning the purity of Mr. Beecher except in a Court of justice; but in that very Court I had stated under oath that I had made precisely the same statement which I have since made in my protest to you long ago to one of the leading members, and officers of your church, telling him that Mr. Beecher's sin was adultery and that he and Mrs. Tilton had both confessed it to me. If the statement was a slander, I had declared the fact of my uttering the slander before all the world, and might months ago have been called to account for it. I never knew it before, that false swearing in a Court of justice is an offence which the church of Christ is unwilling or unable to punish, and if you think that I lied in that public manner and in that solemn hour, and that I lied in order to injure the minister that I loved as much as any of you and whom I had done my very best to uphold and comfort for three dismal years, through the time of an anguish which he was carefully hiding from you, you ought all the more, I think, to have tried and condemned me instead of dropping my name.

The letter concludes as follows:

I had a heavy burden to carry, and I am sorry to say that the first act of Christian attention which I have received from the church in the five years past was the notifying me that my name was to be dropped from the roll the next evening. My proposal to you in my previous letter was that you should unite with me in calling a council of churches, before which you should state your reasons for your action and I should state mine, and which should impartially judge between us. That proposal I understand you to have accepted. The questions thus coming up for decision ought, I should think, to be these:

First—Have my convictions in regard to the guilty conduct of Mr. Beecher been justified by the evidence which I have had?

Second—If they have been justified, ought I still to have attended his ministry and received the sacrament from his hands, while kept by the reasons which I have stated from withdrawing from the church?

Third—When I had stated to the church my reasons for being absent from the services and had protested against being dropped from the roll, ought I to have been thus dropped without further trial, and with neither censure nor recommendations?

Fourth—If I was improperly removed from Plymouth Church, will the Council give me a certificate of the fact upon which

I can enter another church?

I am not, perhaps, well able to judge whether the six questions you propose to me to have submitted to the Council cover the same ground with those of mine. Yours appear to me less distinct, perhaps because I do not understand them so well, and mine to take up more directly the points of issue between us. I suppose it is my right to have something to say about the questions to be submitted, and accordingly I propose that yours be submitted as you put them, and that these of mine be added to them. In this way I think the whole case between us will come up, and the questions I wish to have answered will have an equal chance with yours. When you notify me of your acceptance of this proposition you will please also to send me the names of ten or twelve churches which you would wish to invite to the Council with two or three experienced and wise ministers who are not now in the pastoral office, as I am informed is customary. Then I will add as many more to the list of such as may be known to me to be of good standing in and with the Christian public, and the letters of invitation can be at once sent out.

Respectfully yours,
EMMA C. MOULTON.

News and Notes.

Hon. Michael C. Kerr of Indiana was nominated for Speaker of the House of Representatives by the democrats, Saturday evening.

The citizens of Boston who gratefully remember the patriotic stand taken by him during the war, will be pleased to hear that the Hon. Edwin C. Bailey is talked of by many of the better class of the New Hampshire democrats as a candidate for the national Senate. Since his removal to that State he has gained favor by the public spirit and enterprise he has manifested, and as an editor of the leading democratic paper in the State, he has sought to put that party on the track to success by taking it out of the hands of the cliques that have brought it into disrepute and discredit. Its victories have been gained by following his advice; its defeats have followed disregard of it, and the rank and file of the New Hampshire democrats appreciate his services though envious party wire-pullers may not. We hope the republicans of the Granite State will elect the next Senator, and that he will have the honor of beating this staunch democrat.—Traveller.

It is said that the postponement of the Major trial at Nashua will cost the county $1000.

The contrast between the pending contest for the Speakership and those which occurred during the period of republican supremacy in the House is, to say the least, very striking. The pool-selling, the spiritual demonstrations of candidates and their strikers and the everything in connection with the current excitement, is so different from what we have been accustomed to since 1857, when the democrats elected their last Speaker, that the Capitol appears to be thoroughly revolutionized.—Washington Republican.

Senator Booth of California is said to be in favor of Secretary Bristow as the republican candidate for the Presidency.

"Aunt" Nancy Carey, who died in St. Louis Sunday, was believed by her children to be between 116 and 120 years old. She was born in the colony of Virginia, and was a slave more than one hundred years. Her youngest daughter in her seventieth year.

A Manchester marketman undertook to fool Horace Greely, a watch-dog of the United States and Canada Express Company, last week, by taking his dime and neglecting to give him some meat. Horace evidently didn't understand why his goods were not forthcoming but waited patiently, keeping a sharp eye on the young man. After a few minutes he decided to play a little joke in return, so he coolly walked up to the bench, seized a quarter of a lamb, and waltzed away, with indignation and triumph in every wag of his tail.

A. Little, sixty years of age, was fatally injured by the overturning of a load of straw upon which he was driving at Goffstown on Friday. He was thrown violently to the ground and received severe bruises on the head, broke his right ankle, and was internally injured.

Dea. Benjamin Farnum, of West Concord, informed City Marshal Connell that about fifteen hundred weight of hay had been stolen from his barn, and that an attempt had been made to burn the building. The officer immediately went to investigate. He found that the hay had been taken away, and that a fire had been set inside, which burned off some of the boards. It was discovered by the neighbors, who extinguished it before much damage was done. On going outside Mr. Connell found tracks in the snow and spears of hay, which he traced to the road, and thence up to the top of the gully and down a short distance across the plains. The tracks finally led to the house of Eugene Casey. Here were evidences that hay had been unloaded at the door. On summoning Casey he appeared in his stocking feet, and in response to inquiries said that he had a horse which he kept in a sort of hole which was dug out under the L of the barn. He said he was out of hay, but a search revealed a cellar full, which was afterward identified by Mr. Farnum as that stolen from his barn. Casey claimed that he got the hay last Summer, but his wife stated to the officer that he brought it to the house recently. He was arrested and examined, and was held for trial at the April term of the Circuit Court, in $900 bonds. He is suspected of having set fire to the stables of the Merrimack County Agricultural Society, on their grounds, which were burned some weeks ago. His arrest may also furnish a clue to some other criminal matters which are yet mysterious.

Mrs. Oates, the actress, has obtained a divorce from her husband.

Orders have been issued from the Navy Department assigning Commander George C. Remey to the command of the naval forces on the Rio Grande, which consists of one steamer, the Rio Bravo, and several steam launches. Passed Assistant Paymaster W. J. Thompson, is detached from duty in the Bureau of Provisions and Clothing and ordered to the Kearsarge, Asiatic station; Passed Assistant Paymaster S. Rand, Jr., is detached from the Kearsarge, on the reporting of his relief, and ordered to return home and report his arrival.

A fire in the Bates Mill, Lewiston, Me., Thursday night, destroyed the packing room, cloth room and dry room. The efforts of the firemen and the mill force-pumps were exerted all night to save the woolen mill, and the hard work and extreme cold caused great suffering. The treasurer estimates the loss at $75,000.

Rev. Arthur Deering, of unsavory notoriety, has flung down the glove to Rev. Henry Powers, a Manchester clergyman who has recently published his belief that the use of tobacco and alcohol is "pleasant and profitable." The discussion will take place in Manchester, if anywhere, which is not likely, as Mr. Powers is too bright a man to seek any further notoriety on the subject, while Mr. Deering has so much notoriety already that no self-respecting man would enter the lists with him on any question.—Nashua Telegraph.

In Rutland, six miles from Watertown, N. Y., Sarah Conklin, 14 years old, while returning from school through a piece of woods was murdered. When the body was found it was supposed the girl received a fall which caused her death. An officer visited the spot and found indication that the girl was murdered, and strong evidence was found against a boy aged 16, named Rutar, who lived near the scene of the murder. It is believed he attempted to ravish the girl, and failing in that, killed her with a small hammer. He was tracked to and from the spot, and a hammer has been found which fits the indenture in the girl's forehead. Rutar has been arrested.

Platt On Randall And Moth.

[N. Y. Tribune.]

Sir: In your issue of the 22d of this month I find the following in your Philadelphia correspondence. I should have found it earlier but for the melancholy fact that the journal "founded by Horace Greeley" has ceased to exchange with the Capital since the death of that distinguished man. The paragraph reads:

"The story about the friendship of the lobby for Mr. Randall started in a Washington newspaper, whose editor had a finger in a moth preventive for army clothing which took $75,000 a year from the Treasury for what army officers said was not worth $5,000, until Mr. Randall got after the job and killed it in an appropriation bill."

Now, the above sentence, which refers to the undersigned, is, after deducting three errors, the truth. The first error comes in on the assertion that I favored the appropriation. The fact is I not only opposed, but, through James A. Garfield, killed the appropriation. The second, that Mr. Randall fought that expenditure, when, if I remember rightly, he favored it, the job being of Philadelphia. The third and last misstatement is that the process was not worth $5,000. Why, as used, it was not worth five cents.

This is about as near the truth as your enterprising reportorial pen-driver ever comes, so I ought not to complain. And I do not. Come to think of it, I am grateful to him that he did not spell my name Dun, and make erroneous allusions to my diplomatic experience.

The only candidate for Speaker who can claim laurels for an attack on the process "good against moth, mold and mildew, also magicly water repellent," was the Hon. S. S. Cox, in one of his most brilliantly witty efforts that not only convulsed the House, but awakened those virtuous suspicions so peculiar to that body when it notes a large appropriation in which the members thereof have no personal interest.

In the abstract, which means somebody else's abstraction, the House of Representatives is the most virtuous body ever organized.

On this account I ought, according to your truthful and enterprising correspondent dating from Philadelphia, but I really suspect writing from this horrible vortex of political iniquity, to oppose the Hon. S. S., as a candidate for Speaker. But I do not. I wish the democracy had enough sense to elect him. But it has not. This somewhat noted political organization seems to have lost all its instincts of success in its loss of principles, and will probably repeat in the House the folly it was guilty of in Ohio.

While it is none of my affair, or, as they say on the Pacific slope, when a fellow gets his head punched or his body perforated for howling at the wrong funeral, this is not my corpse, I being no democrat, but an irritating Independent, I am yet opposed to the elevation to the Speakership of Mr. Sam. Randall for the following sound reasons:

The country in this crisis demands a statesman for that place, next in power and importance to the Presidency.

Hon. Sam. Randall is not of that sort.

He is the candidate of Mr. Tom Scott, and his elevation looks to large subsidies. This Southern colored person is rather well concealed under the accumulated fuel, but the tracks leading thereto are very evident.

He is the candidate of the inflationists and although shrewdness is not a very striking quality of that silly faction, it has sheep sense enough to know the voice of the shepherd.

He is the candidate of this corrupt Administration, and the organs thereof have been indiscreet enough to advocate his selection far and near.

He favors protection, not far from any conviction based on principle, although that would not help him in the estimation of a sensible man, but because it is in aid of the selfish greed of Pennsylvania. His ardor in this direction runs so far as to have made him one of a dozen conspirators, who, having night sessions to themselves, augmented the tariff in violation of their oath of office, the law, and all decencies of legislation.

He last Winter was Mr. McCartee's henchman on the floor of the House and in committee-room, and favored that official in his attempt to break down all safeguards to the integrity of our currency in return for certain heavy contracts given by McCartee for a stuff known as fiber paper that is manufactured by Mr. Randall's constituents.

He is the average Congressman who cannot look beyond the selfish interests of his own district, and fails even to see those interests clearly or honestly. A man of ordinary ability, he was never suspected of reading a book—he never uttered a sentence one cared to hear, or had a view on any subject one cared to remember. While Michael C. Kerr stood like a stake in the Mississippi River breaking the curren of error in his own district and State, Mr. Sam Randall made a feeble effort, it is said, in favor of a sound currency in Pennsylvania, and then falling swung round with the stream that swept to destruction.

As between the statesman and the demagogue the democracy is open. To-day Sam Randall would defeat Jefferson, Tom Benton or Silas Wright. The democracy would not now be the forlorn, disorganized, ever-to-be-defeated faction were it capable of higher aims and efforts. If it fails in a fight against Grant, what can it expect when called upon to oppose Bristow, Blaine or Washburne?

Why not reserve Sam for the Presidency?
DONN PIATT.

Washington, Nov. 30. 1875.

—The spirit photographer was a fraud, and has left town, says the Springfield Republican. His name was T. R. Evans, and he hailed from 392 Bowery, N. Y. His method except that he would put the plate in a camera in a darkened room and sit at a table until the spirits gave signal that the work was done. After was the ordinary one of taking tintypes, bathing the plate, as is customary, in a dark closet where he kept a candle burning, a form generally indistinct, would appear on the plate. One of the photographers of Springfield remarked to him, a few days since, that his pictures could be, and undoubtedly were, made by the use of transparencies or photographs on glass and the simple light of a candle. The fellow remarked that he was detected for the first time, but nevertheless kept on in the business at the old stand. The other people in the office, however, made a close scrutiny of the room whenever the operator was absent, and at last were rewarded by finding several negatives. They were of various people, so that he could suit all tastes, and one of Lincoln would do for patriotic persons. The background was covered with paint, so that nothing but the figure would be taken on the transparencies obtained from them, by which the pictures for his patrons were taken. On being confronted with these he disappeared, leaving his camera and a valise containing several spirit photographs of the Eddys and Honto and their other allies. Evans is a plausible kind of a fellow, thirty-six years old, his chief hardship being that he is controlled by one spirit, who occasionally compels him to take enormous drams of whiskey. He was in Springfield about five days and did a very good business, charging from $1 to $5 a picture and sitting several times a day. He didn't like to sit too often, however, it was so wearing on his nervous system.

—The manager of a newspaper is entitled to his judgment as to what enterprises are really charitable and judicious. He is entitled to regard the columns of reading matter under his control as valuable for the information of the public and, so far as he can make them so, sacred from intrusion, even under pretense of pure benevolence. He has large expenses, and has a right to look on his advertising columns as source of revenues not to be abated at the suggestion that it is done in the name of charity and good will to mankind. And the manager of a newspaper has a right to regard himself as engaged in a legitimate private business. He is not necessarily a public character, and is as clearly entitled to his privacy, and the exclusive conduct of his own business, as the keeper of a grocery or drug store. If he is prosperous it is reasonable to expect him to be charitable; but he must claim the privilege of discriminating in his charities as other persons do, and of doing his share of the work of good will to men in his way. He will probably prefer to pay his subscriptions in aid of charitable enterprises in cash, and to demand for the advertising that is done for these enterprises the regular rates, and if he understands editing his newspaper, he will resist the tendency to ruin his local department with stupid notices that belong among advertisements. It may be well to say that we mean these observations especially for a number of worthy people in this city, who have misunderstood, as we think, the relations of a newspaper to society.—Providence Journal.

—Though America is the chosen home of the oyster, the French for the past year or two have been taking special pains to make their sea-coast a pleasant breeding and fattening ground for the delicate and succulent bivalve, and their success has been considerable. In the Arcachon district there have been foreshore concessions granted to companies of ostreculturists to such an extent that their operations now cover over 5,000 acres. In Brittany the development of this new industry is hardly less striking, and nearly 500 concessions of foreshore strips have been made by the government in the maritime districts of Vannes and Auray. Special instructions have been issued to all maritime authorities to ascertain at what points of their districts experiments in oyster culture might be successfully attempted. During the few hours of last November that the Arcachon oyster-beds were allowed to be dredged and fished they yielded the almost incredible number of 40,861,000 marketable oysters. The Frenchman is just the one to prosecute this enterprise with enthusiasm, and the extent to which he has enlisted himself is a triumph for the oyster. For no gastronomic prejudices trouble French tomachs, and, with all the elements laid under entire tribute, the oyster is at last chosen as the most exquisite expression of all that is eatable in Nature.

—Dr. Neumayer has presented to the Geographical Society of Berlin a remarkable photograph apparatus for determining the temperature and current-direction at any particular depth in the ocean. It consists of a brass box, hermetically closed, and having attached to it an apparatus resembling a vane or rudder. Within this box a thermometer and a magnetic needle are contained, behind each of which is placed sensitive photographic paper, and in front of each of which is a small nitrogen vacuum tube. The box contains also a small induction coil. When the apparatus is lowered to the required depth, the rudder causes it to take a direction parallel to the current there existing, and hence a definite direction with reference to the needle within. The thermometer soon acquires the temperature of the water outside, and becomes stationary. At this instant an electric current is sent to the box, which by means of the induction coil inside, lights up the little nitrogen tube, the violet light of which, photographically very intense, prints, in about three minutes, the position of the needle and the light of the mercury column upon the prepared paper. The current is then intermitted, the apparatus raised, the photographic tracing fixed, examined, and placed upon record.

—Pacific whalemen have made an interesting scientific discovery this season. A few years ago they reached the whaling grounds in August only to be obliged to leave them in September. This year they remained until October, and might have delayed longer, so far as peril from the ice pack was concerned. They went within eighty miles of the mouth of McKenzie river, where sailing vessels have never been before, and say that a steamer, aided by the currents, might have gone through to Baffin's Bay without difficulty, and thus solved the mystery of the Northwest passage. They are unable to account for this strange atmospheric change.

—Seene in a Green Bay, Wisconsin, police court, Justice Westman presiding: Several gamblers were under examination, and one of the witnesses was questioned about what he knew of gambling in the saloons in town. Yes, he had seen gambling going on in most of them. "Well, one, for instance?" "I have seen men gambling in the Old York Saloon." "What were the stakes?" "There were a horse on one side and money on the other." "Well, which won?" "Judge Westman won the horse." Peremptory command from the bench—"There, that will do; this examination is reaching into too wide a range altogether."

—The German Emperor's recent visit to Milan has given rise to a curious lawsuit. Many of the boxes in La Scala theatre belong to private persons, who keep the keys. Two renters, the Duke Scorti and an advocate named Traveris, cordially detest the Germans, and in order to manifest their displeasure they resolved to absent themselves from the theatre on the night that the Emperor went there, and to keep their boxes empty, but the police broke open the doors and placed some Prussian officers in the boxes, for doing which the duke and the lawyer have instituted legal proceedings.

—Figaro says that an American lawyer who had been retained to defend a desperate character on a charge of murder has just taken out an insurance policy on the life of his client; and that this showed such confidence on the part of the company in the ability of the lawyer to secure an acquittal that the office of the latter has ever since been over-crowded with clients.

—As a Detroit man was digging in his ground his wife appeared at the door, and shouted: "Come, you old fraud—come in to dinner!" As he did not come she opened the door pretty soon and yelled: "Hain't you coming to dinner, you blasted"—she saw a neighbor in the garden along with her husband, and finished—"old darling you!"

—In the vicinity of Paris, Ky., are several members of the Washington family, John, George, and Martha. Instead of the little hatchet George swings a ten-pound axe and stammers too much to tell a lie if he wished to, while Martha does the honors in good style, not over a "White House," but a wash tub.

An Ancient Document.

Among a number of documents of the olden time belonging to a lady in Eliot and now temporarily in the possession of Stephen W. Clarke, Esq., is the following letter from Sir William Pepperrell, dated Oct. 29th, 1750. The writing is perfectly legible and distinct, and seems as fresh as if but ten rather than one hundred and twenty-five years old:

KITTERY in N. England Octob. 29th 1750

Dear Sir,

Ever since I arrived here my house has been much throng'd with visitors, and I can scarce get time to write so that you will excuse me from enlarging, I sailed from Portsmouth the 21ch, of august the 24th meeting with contrary winds & like of a storm we put into Plymouth, the 28th came out, and the 9th Octob, I landed here we had a troublesome passage of hard gales of wind & calms all the passage, we lost our foretop mast & ye sail, but I am not at all discouraged; when my Friends think it may be to my advantage I shall be willing to take another voyage, but not so long a one in a Schooner, I should choose a Ship or Scow to sail in ye next voyage. I have heard but little news since I have been at home, some gentlemen from New Hampshire has told me that Capt Mason tells them he will make a good Gov. (but some of them say it will be out of the Frying pan into the fire) & that he has advised them to send their complaints to Mr Storks who can do any thing for them. The winter cod fish I shall endeavor to forward to you, and the other things I took a memorandum of—You may remember that Sr Peter Warren promised to go with you to endeavor to save the money out of from ye recruiting accots I hope you will put him in mind of it, and that I shall soon receive an agreeable accot from you of all them affairs If it is not too great a presumption I should be glad you would make my complements to the most valuable Lord Halifax & Lady, my Dear Kinswoman Kilby, Sally, Brigadier Waldo Mr. & Mrs. Eliot, the Honest Deputy, & who else you please, I am with best respect Dear Sr. yr. Faithful & obliged Humble servant

WILLIAM PEPPERRELL.

you may remember that Capt Gardner in your Counting room mentioned about what He paid my son for the Commission, my Son saith that He never received any thing but His draught on you, and as to the £4250 old tenr promised He cannot get it I desire to write you again in a short time, and order a pipe of Mederia wine from J Westfords wch will be mellow agst I come to London

I have begun to open & shall indeavor to let them know who has ben & are truly New Englands Friends.

as I was about sealing this letter my wife begs her Complements to yor self, Lady &c & saith she is afraid it will never be in her power to make retaliation for the care you all took of her husband when with you

Dear Sir the foregoing is a copy of my Last, Since I am favourd with yors of ye 19th of Septr Last wch has given me great pleasure to heare from my Dear Friends, and am greatly obligd to you & my Dear Kinswoman Kilby for yor kind & good wishes wch I am too well acquented with to doubt the Sincerity of—I desire to be hankfule agood hand of Providence has hitherto preserved me & I Enjoye acomfortable measure of health—I observe what you mention of Macnamara Squadron if they should attempt to com here next Spring I joyn with you in yor Petition that ye Lord would Blast them, but if they should com I don't doubt but yt unfashionably Religious Corner of America you mention will behave as they have don, and thats Like true English men, as for our reward we must Look for it in ye next world I cannot see any great reason we have to Expect much here I am senceable you will do all you can to forward ye setteling of ye Regiment accots wch would rejoyce me much to have them all finisbd that I may know how they are I have not since my arrival been to Boston, but I design to go in afue days, I have drawd on you to pay Nathl Sparhawk or order nineteen pounds 9-6 Sterl wch I desire you to pay I am afraid that I shall be obligd to draw on you for more, but shall be as sparing as Possible, because would have money in yor hands agst my coming to London it grieves me to heare how them Vile french men act at Novascotia I do believe that in 20 days after my arrival here upon ye Encouragement I mention to you and not be obligd to send above 12 mos that I could have Enlisted a Regement of five or six hundred brave men that understand ye woods to have gon with me to call them Villians to an accot, many of the New Hampshire gentlemen has been with me to desire that I would Lay in for ye Govrmt but as I told you it will not answer without an other post no more posts of Honr without some proffit Sute me I do believe them gentlemen will write you by this convayance and I hope you will have considarable share of ye business from thence in ashorte time If ye chuse it, I heard that Capt Mason has been very ungratefule & spoke unhansomely of you wch I wont suffer as long as I have life I design for Portsmouth in afue days & shall call him to accot for it I have got abbt ful of ye cone of pine hemblock fur & some Squash seed & Indian corn but there is no vessel bound to Boston so that I am afraid shall not get it there in time to go by Philips I think His Royal Highness ye Prince of Wales spoke for some, Lord Edgcomb, Lord Egincou & Baron Shute but ye muss Divide it I see by ye prents that General Philips is at Last Dead, I should have been glad to have Succeeded him in his Regiment but that I cannot expect on a time of Peace If you should see Saml Dicker Esqr I desire you would make my complements

What is to be Done?

Now that the excitement over the many crimes in our State has temporarily subsided, and the public is in a more pacific frame of mind, let us, for a few minutes, consider what is our duty. We have listened to the moaning over the Church tragedy in Boston, the Pomeroy boy, and the Langmaid murder, and yet we hear of no punishment, until we are compelled to ask "What is to be done to protect our sisters on their way to school, that our daughters may go to Sunday school in safety, or sons go to the neighboring groceries and return unpolluted?" or in other words "to protect the innocent and punish the guilty." Is it not high time that strong antidotes should be administered to purify society of such terrible scourges? The law has been tried, and owing to the many technical quibbles and the chances of villainy assisting villains has been found entirely inadequate; the many chances of escaping conviction and the still many more chances of escape after conviction, has so crippled the moral influence of the law, that no protection appears to be guaranteed us by law; consequently other means appear to be demanded, and the only question left is "what shall it be?" If extreme remedies are needed for extreme evils, and the extreme end sought is to protect the innocent, on whoever no suspicion has ever rested, then why not let the masses rise in their might, and in every case of extreme crime visit almost instantaneous penalties by taking all chances of protecting the guilty from the hands of scheming lawyers and suspicious jurors, as was done in California and Iowa in former years? "But," some will say, "the innocent may suffer," when they mean "the suspicious may suffer for the protection of the pure." Well let them, if necessary. Is it not better that a dozen of our street corner loafers should hang than one innocent school girl be murdered? Most certainly society could exist, and perhaps prosper without the aid or assistance of the many lamp-post supporters and slouch-hat gentry that infest the by-paths and out-of-the-way places in our community, and when that class really feel it to be dangerous to be classed as suspicious, they might possibly be induced, at least, to appear to hold a higher opinion of decency. If the muzzle of the pistol, or the point of the bowie knife are the only inducements to entice gentlemanly conduct and civil tongues toward passing ladies from this class of the community, let us so understand it, and determine to have a more safe community even at that price. If there is a better course to pursue adequate to the emergency, every law-abiding citizen would be pleased to know it; if none, then let us comprehend the situation and act accordingly, but let the motto be "Let not one guilty one escape."

Jottings.

Orders have been received at the navy yard to fit out U. S. S. Ticonderoga.

There will be an opportunity for gentlemen and ladies who are busy during the day to enjoy the luxury of an evening spent in skating on the glassy surface of the Rink to-morrow evening. Mr. Webster, the courteous attendant at the Rink, is to have a benefit on that evening and will charge twenty-five cents for skating from seven till ten. Two tickets for forty cents may be bought at Preston's. Hot coffee, chocolate, and cakes to be had at the Rink. Of course the regular ticket holders will be admitted on their tickets.

Rev. A. J. Canfield of Chelsea will deliver the next lecture in the S. P. C. A. course to-morrow evening; subject, "Hildebrand and Henry IV, or the Wrestle of Church and State." Mr. Canfield is a vigorous speaker and his audience will have no opportunity or desire to sleep during the hour he will devote to the delivery of the lecture.

Samuel Dodge, Esq., the newly appointed Associated Press Agent for Portsmouth, is keeping the Boston papers well supplied with local news. The Boston Herald now has two agencies for the sale of that paper in this vicinity, Percy I. Lowd having been appointed special agent, it being the intention of the enterprising proprietors to largely increase the Herald's circulation. Subscriptions are received at the store of Wm. B. Lowd, Esq., under the CHRONICLE office.

Mr. James P. Cook, of Salem, has been choosen a Director of the Eastern Railroad, in place of Mr. Hooper, resigned.

Hon. George W. Young of Mecklenburgh county, Va., received the republican vote for Speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates, last week. Mr. Young is a brother to Messrs. Aaron and Andrew H. Young.

The Jubilee Singers (reorganized) are to take the concert held again.

The Essex Homoeopathic Society have investigated the case of Dr. C. A. Norton and suspended him for his efforts to convince people that some one assaulted him by shooting his own hat, and for other reasons.

The Newburyport Herald says: "The Nowell Brothers are real prodigies, and of them as of the others, we think the public will say 'Come and delight us again.'"

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Boston & Maine railroad will take place at Lawrence next Wednesday.

TO THE HON. JUDGE OF PROBATE FOR THE COUNTY OF ROCKINGHAM:

Respectfully represents Alonzo F. Craig, Administrator of the estate of GEORGE B. CAME, late of Portsmouth in said County, deceased, that the Personal Estate of said deceased is not sufficient to pay the just demands against his estate by the sum of five thousand dollars; that said Came died seized of the right in equity to redeem certain mortgaged real estate situate in said Portsmouth with the buildings thereon, bounded northerly by Hanover Street, easterly by land of Frederick F. Moses, southerly by land of the Howard Benevolent Society, and westerly by land of Albert A. Fernald; the same being subject to three mortgages, one to Louisa M. Cutts dated November 16th, 1869, to secure the sum of two thousand dollars, on which is now due the sum of four hundred dollars and interest from November 16th, 1873, one to Daniel McIntire dated March 18, 1869, to secure twelve hundred dollars, now held by Horace Hall, which is now due with interest from April 18, 1874, and one to George M. Marsh dated November 20, 1868, to secure six hundred dollars, now held by said Hall, on which is due the said sum of six hundred dollars and interest from April 18, 1874. And said deceased left no other real estate in this State.

Wherefore he prays that he may be licensed to sell at public auction the right of redeeming said mortgaged Real Estate of said deceased as aforesaid for the payment of said demands.

Dated the ninth day of November, A. D. 1875.

A. F. CRAIG.

State of New Hampshire,

ROCKINGHAM, ss.

PROBATE COURT AT PORTSMOUTH IN SAID COUNTY, NOVEMBER 9TH, A. D. 1875.

Upon the foregoing Petition it is ordered that a hearing be had thereon at the Court of Probate to be holden at Portsmouth in said County, on the second Tuesday of January next; and that the Petitioner notify the heirs of said deceased and all persons concerned or interested therein, to appear at said Court, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, by causing said petion and this order to be published three weeks successively in the Daily Morning Chronicle, a newspaper printed at Portsmouth in said County, the last publication whereof to be at least one week prior to said Court.

Thanksgiving in Danbury.

It is just as necessary to have poultry for a Thanksgiving dinner as it is to have light. A Danbury couple named Brigham were going to have poultry for their dinner. Mr. Brigham said to his wife the day before the event:

"I saw some splendid chickens in front of Merrill's store, to-day, and I guess I'll get one of them, this afternoon, for to-morrow."

"I am going to tend to that myself," said Mrs. Brigham, quickly.

"But I can get it just as well; I am going right by there."

"I don't want you to get it," she asserted.

"When I eat chicken I want something I can put my teeth in," and a hard look came to her face.

He colored up at once.

"What do you mean by that?"

"Just what I say," she explained, setting her teeth together.

"Do you mean to say I don't know how to pick out a chicken?" he angrily demanded.

"I do."

"Well, I can just tell you, Mary Ann Brigham, that I know more about chicken in one minute than you could ever find out in a lifetime. And, furthermore, I am going to buy that chicken, if one is bought at all in this house." And he struck the table with his fist.

"And I tell you, John Joyce Brigham," she cried, "that you don't know any more how to pick out a good chicken than an unweaned mudturtle; and if you bring a chicken in this house it will go out again quicker'n it come in. And you can put that in your pipe and smoke it as soon as you want to."

"Whose house is this, I want to know?" he fiercely demanded.

She frankly replied at once:

"I suppose it belongs to a flat-headed idiot with a wart on his nose, but a woman who knows a spring chicken from a hump-back camel is running the establishment, and so long as she does he can't bring no patent leather hens here to be cooked."

"You'll see what I'll do," he yelled, and he pulled his coat on and jammed his cap on his head with the fore-piece over his left ear.

"You bring a chicken here if you think best, Mister Brigham," she replied.

"You see if I don't," he growled as he passed out, and slammed the door behind him.

That evening there was a nice, fine chicken in the pantry, but he didn't bring it. Perhaps he forgot to get his.

Dinner came the next day. Mr. Brigham took his seat at the table as usual, but it was evident that he intended mischief. Mrs. Brigham filled a plate with chicken, mashed potatoes and boiled onions. It was a tempting dish, emitting a delicious aroma. She passed it to Mr. Brigham. He did not look toward it.

"Brigham," said she, "here's your plate."

"I don't want any chicken," he said looking nervously around the room.

"Are you going to eat that chicken?" she demanded, in a voice of low intensity.

"No, I ain't—Wooch! ouch! ooh!"

She had sprung to her feet in a flash, reached over the table, caught him by the hair and had his face burrowing in the dish of hot onions. It was done so quick that he had no time to save himself, and barely time to give utterance to the agonizing exclamations which followed upon his declaration.

"Are you going to eat that chicken?" she hoarsely demanded.

"Lemme up!" he screamed.

She raised his head from the dish and jammed it on the table.

"John Joyce Brigham," she hissed between her set teeth, "this is a day set apart by the nation for thanksgiving and praise. I got that chicken to celebrate this day and I ain't going to have my gratitude and devotion upset by such a rant as you are. Now I want to know if you are going to eat that chicken like a Christian, or if you are going to cut up like a rantankerous heathen? Answer me at once or I'll jam your old skull into a jelly."

"I—I'll eat it," he moaned.

Then she let him up, and he took his plate, and one Thanksgiving meal, at least, passed off harmoniously.

—As late as the 5th of November the flowers in the garden of Santa Barbara, Cal., were of surpassing beauty. Among them were callas which measured 14 inches across, fuchsias covering houses with their plume-like branches, and passion flowers of various kinds, besides lemon and fig trees in full bearing. In the same county is also the largest almond orchard in the world, containing 400,000 trees.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!
☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:
Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have been unable to work. For five or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hope of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.
Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.
BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for one." I have sold many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Care Watson & Gannett.
Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.
MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.
Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

The New York Times.
A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.
Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.
ESTABLISHED 1851.
In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.
As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.
As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserves the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.
It will direct closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the party to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.
The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "reform" record, but it has been a dismal fail in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. The Republican Party has a place to win, and can run too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were being ordered to prison by juries, against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid Lee Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.
In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to serve leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.
Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political bitterness, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subjects. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The Scientific and Educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.
The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England
PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

THE WEEKLY SUN.
1776. NEW YORK. 1876.
Eighteen hundred and seventy six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-third election of a President of the United States. All of these events are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the two latter; and all of them and everything connected with them will be fully and freshly reported and expounded in THE SUN.
The Opposition House of Representatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by THE SUN, will sternly and diligently investigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Grant's administration, and will, it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and better period in our national history. Of all this THE SUN will contain complete and accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these absorbing topics.
The twenty-third Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as dealing upon Grant's aspirations for a third term of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects those who read THE SUN will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.
The WEEKLY SUN, which has attained a circulation of over eighty thousand copies, already has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year 1876 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimportant, at full length when of moment; and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.
It is our aim to make the WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading, such as stories, tales, poems, scientific intelligence and agricultural information, for which we are able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashions are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind.
The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages with fifty-six broad columns, is only $1.20 a year, postage prepaid. As this price barely repays the cost of the paper, no discount can be made from this rate to clubs, agents, Postmasters, or anyone.
The DAILY SUN, a large four page newspaper of twenty-eight columns, gives all the news for two cents a copy. Subscription, postage prepaid, 65c a month or $6.50 a year. SUNDAY edition extra, $1.10 per year. We have no travelling agents.
Address, THE SUN, New York City.

A PAPER ON MUSIC.

[Delivered before the Teachers' Lyceum last year by E. A. Tilton.]

Mr. Chairman: Were my paper to rise to the dignity of an essay, I should not, at the beginning of my remarks, be obliged to ask your indulgence for an apparent egotism. In a "familiar talk" like this, the speaker draws from a fund of personal experience; of incidents, or accidents in which he has been an actor; of facts, technical, deductive or common place—all of which, in their bearing upon some especial pursuit in life, are, more or less harmoniously combined, and present to him, at least, an experimentum crucis. It is, in fact, a leaf from one's own biography—where, indeed, the first person is at hand, if nowhere else. I do not forget that as a teacher speaking to teachers, I shall recount many experiences familiar to my hearers. I may, therefore, strengthen the faith of some one who needs but to hear the confident assertion of another whose experiment or research may have achieved a possibly better success.

I intend to speak of musical matters generally—but more especially with reference to the use and abuse of the voice—and musical taste. Let me call your attention to an axiom, which is to the vocal teacher and student, as the compass to the sailor, viz: Song is Speech, and Speech is Song. The voice is given us for the purpose of expressing thought or emotion; a function so easily performed as to awaken in the general mind no inquiry as to the manner of its performance. Those unfamiliar with the subject may be easily enlightened by any work on Physiology. I need not, therefore, occupy your time with an extended account. A popular belief exists that the lungs possess in themselves the power of expansion and contraction. With the exception of a large quantity of yellow tissue, whose office is to impart to the lungs an elastic firmness, those organs possess nothing of muscular structure; hence they are incapable of voluntary movement; but depend upon the diaphragm and intercostal muscles.

The diaphragm in a state of repose, is formed like an arch, and separates the cavity of the chest from the abdomen. Upon the summit of this arch, rest the bases of the lungs. In the act of inspiration the arch of the the diaphragm becomes depressed, displacing the entire abdominal viscera simultaneously, by the action of the intercostal muscles, the cavity of the chest is expanded in every direction, and the air passes inward through the trachea and bronchial tubes. Expiration is accomplished passively, by a return of the muscles and organs involved, to their normal condition. The whole extent of respiratory surface in both lungs has been estimated by Lieberkühn, at fourteen hundred square feet. By contact with this immense surface, the blood receives from the atmosphere the amount of oxygen necessary for the support of life, giving up in return, its effete matter, in the form of carbonic acid gas. It is easily seen, therefore, that a full and thorough exhibition of the functions of inspiration and expiration are of the utmost importance in Hygienic economy.

Not only the preservation, but the improvement of one's health is the direct result of a proper use of the lungs; and instances are by no means rare when invalids have been returned to perfect health, by a careful attention to this exercise.

Singing properly executed, is, in a marked degree productive of a healthy lung action, while on the contrary, uncultivated attempts at singing produce the most disastrous effects.

A good voice, therefore, well managed, is a double blessing, a source of health to its possessor, and a well-spring of pleasure to all within reach of its influence.

WHAT IS A GOOD VOICE?

I have already referred you to the identity of song with speech. It is a matter too often lost sight of. There are exceptions to this axiom however, for there are few who cannot speak, while there are many who can never be taught to sing; the assertions of inexperienced enthusiasts to the contrary notwithstanding.

Purity of voice in common speech is an ordinary, every day affair. Purity of the singing voice is a rare occurrence.

You may ask a person to speak a word, or perhaps, the syllable "Ah!" It will be spoken clearly, purely. Now ask the same person to sing the same word. Nineteen times in twenty, indeed forty-nine times in fifty, the word will be entirely changed; and on such a basis of word pronunciation and tone-production, do nearly all our singers depend.

A good voice is one in which purity of tone is predominant; it is free from overstraining or effort of breathing. Its form is from greater to less; that is to say, it is larger at its base than at its summit; all things in nature that are not monstrous, are so.

We do not build a house to rest upon the apex of its roof; we do not put a lash upon the larger end of a whip-handle. A good voice progresses regularly from lowest chest to highest head. It is produced without facial grimace or bodily contortion. In short, it is the best musical instrument in the world.

WHAT IS A BAD VOICE?

Of course, it is precisely contrary. But, let me draw the picture, and see if it cannot be recognized. Observe, if you please, that I do not overestimate the matter for the purpose of entertaining you with a ridiculous burlesque. I have long been past the stage when a bad voice was simply provocation to ridicule; and when I do one, I am possessed with a feeling of vexation to know that a person, intelligent and accomplished in all else, has signally failed to exercise that great and glorious faculty known as "common sense."

Music is a positive science; yet, paradoxical as it may seem, the practical part of it is almost always taught negatively. The teacher is obliged to chide the pupil with "you must not do this or that!" the protest, of course, generally implying the method to be pursued. A bad voice is most frequently the result of carelessness or ignorance on the part of the singer, which, persisted in developes into confirmed abuse. This may continue during the singer's life; or a teacher may be employed who is alike deficient in capacity or conscience, and a succession of "lessons" after some peculiar "method" ensues, effectually ruining a voice which with judicious training, might have been, at least, partially recovered.

Such a voice becomes harsh, piercing, guttural, nasal, dental, or all combined. It is unsympathetic, unyielding, inelastic. When heard in connection with other voices we say it does not "blend" with them smoothly.

Did you ever attend a "Praise Meeting," or "congregational singing," and sit near such a voice as I have described?

You may have recognized it by another sign, its extreme force. I do not like to say power. Power in music has that underlying, supporting quality, like the roar of the sea, that reaches your ear miles from the shore; while the rough wash of the rollers has passed away directly upon contact with the beach. Power impresses you with a something held in reserve, which you have not heard as yet, perhaps, but may expect to hear should occasion require it.

Purity of tone possesses this distinguishing quality; impurity never.

You have all heard Brignoli. Most of you have heard him sing "Spieto gentil." The same flute-like voice that warbled that exquisite specimen of "linked sweetness long drawn out," met every demand made on it in the famous Duo in "Puritani," like the trunk of the elephant which picks up with equal ease, the fine needle or the rude bar of iron.

Some of you, doubtless, have heard and seen Stigelli. Carrying his chest voice through the entire gamut, he would sing until his face was purple; and he sung himself into an untimely grave. I have spoken of good and bad voices, you will ask me if there are any of medium merit. I will answer you in the words of the poet:

There was a little girl
Whose hair was so full of curl
That it hung straight down on her forehead;
And when she was good
She was very good indeed,
But when she was bad, she was horrid.

The female voice affords the best illustration for my purpose for either a good or a bad quality. It is a curious fact, that the laws governing the voice are arbitrary. The divisions of quality known as registers are almost universally alike in the female subject. These divisions are quite tangible to a person of ordinary comprehension.

Now this medium register is the source of a great deal of trouble. It is always a weak place in the inexperienced voice.

Below or above this point can the tones be delivered with something of ease, but just in the middle is an unfortunate defect.

It has been often suggested, and as often done, that a score should be written which for the benefit of uncultivated voices should skip the dreaded middle register. But why not cultivate this weak spot?

A chain is as strong only as its weakest link. By the same analogy, a voice may be pronounced as good only as its poorest tone. But, you object, the voice possesses five qualities in chest and head registers, its extreme portions.

So has the chain, but is it fit for any purpose to which a chain is adapted? Upon examination, you will find this middle register, or weak place in the voice, covers the musical score. It is a part of the scale wherein real work is always to be done, therefore while uncultivated there are left only two extremes, suitable, perhaps, only for the performance of some meretricious ornament. It is especially arranging to that voice commonly known in part-singing, as "Alto." This voice finds itself frequently at f with a score running to a or f above. To pursue the part with an uncultivated organ, is either to continue, with faint, wavering tones; or, with increased and painful muscular effort—actually drive the voice to the desired pitch. This fact, together with the habit which the alto has, of vigorously asserting itself, is one of the chief torments of the choir or chorus conductor—his bete noire. It is not an infrequent remark in a country choir; "We have a splendid alto, you can hear her above everything." Exactly so; and for the cause just mentioned, driving the chest voice into the medium. Now what is this alto?

It is the least important of the four parts. Moreover, in the music in common use, especially in churches, it is the worst treated. It is the perfection of composition to write each part so that, while filling its place as one of a perfect whole, it is yet of itself, a tangible and pleasing melody. In the instances of which I have just spoken, it seems only as a sort of filling in, is unmelodious, inconsecutive, and valuable only when used in connection with other parts. The word "Alto" means, literally, "high." The term which should be employed is "Contralto," or Contra alto. Many a soprano voice, having a full lower register, has unwisely attempted the note of Contralto, or rather, "alto" to such an extent as to destroy its beauty and electricity. What should be done with this voice? Overcome the weakness of the medium, not by forcing the chest into it, but by engrafting the soft medium upon its harsher neighbor. This cannot be done in a few weeks. Rapid results are incompatible with a successful treatment of the voice. Vocal cultivation involves the treatment of one of the most delicate muscles of the body, and like all muscular action, time and care are necessary for its development. Very few voices come to the notice of the teacher in their normal condition. Nearly all who apply for instruction have sung more or less; some in chorus, where the loudest was the best; others in singing schools, where all conditions relating to physical or musical well-being, were habitually violated.

Others, ambitious to reach an elevation accessible only to exceptionally fine voices produced only in warmer climates, hopelessly struggle, and accept defeat only when to sing at all is an effort alike painful to the performer and the listener.

At the last Peace Jubilee, Peschka Leutner sang "high G. b." It was called "inquiry." I saw and heard her do it; she stood upon her toes, and with her head strained toward one side, emitted the tone from the corner of the mouth, a most undignified appearance, a most unmusical sound. The note which she reached, would have been called, in an Organ or Piano Factory, F sharp; but as G was one letter higher, the lady's vanity was gratified by its substitution. But it was not a very great trick after all, for a pupil of the High School in this city, produced in my presence, the a above it. She had been permitted to exercise her highest voice constantly, until the almost unceasing strain entirely ruined the chest and medium registers. Poor girl! she was in the full bloom of youth; but has since died of consumption. No wonder! I believe the abuse of the vocal organs to be one of the most potent causes of that dread disease—and I consider those who permit and promote this abuse for hire with the full knowledge of their own incompetency, are fit companions for the convict and homicide.

I know this is strong language, but I am a sufferer. I had a fine voice when a lad, but it was ruined by an incompetent teacher, so called. I bless him, daily. Too much is required of children's voices. They are made to exert themselves to fill with their little tones, large school-rooms. If persisted in, the result follows them in after life. I believe that children are the victims of too much training, too much learning. Little kettles which are intended to hold a pint are made to receive a quart. For example, a year or two since I visited a grammar school during a recitation of a juvenile class in arithmetic. Not a member of the class could have been over ten years of age. The teacher used the prescribed text book; of course, he was obliged to do it, and this was a question lauched at the little beggars:

"What is analysis?" I put the question to you; how many can answer it? I would not believe my senses, and asked to see the book. It was just as I have given it; not a soul answered, and why? It was Greek to them, though explained a hundred times.

Now these same little urchins have added to their burdens, music. I sincerely hope it is only rote music, not the science. If it be the former, it will prove a relaxation and a pleasure. If the latter, I can only pity and protest.

Do not think I am wandering from my subject, for such as these have come to me from the schools, as pupils in music, with sunken chests and round shoulders. I have found them in many cases, more in need of a physician's care, than a teacher's.

I have found that confinement at the desk has unfitted them for vocal study, except as a means of cure, in which case, as a matter of course, all esthetic considerations were lost sight of, in view of the greater necessity for those of a physiological character. There were frequent occurrences of curved and projecting shoulder blades, the line from the back of the neck to the waist forming half an ellipse, while a similar line drawn from the throat, fell in a perpendicular. In one instance, the pupil standing against the wall was found to have contracted an elevation of the left, or a depression of the right shoulder, or both, making a difference in their respective distances from the floor, of one and three-quarters inches. I prescribed light gymnastics, and indulgence in audimentary vocal exercises, and I think with good effect.

I do not wish to interfere with matters outside my province, but I speak as a parent, as one who has been a pupil and whose experience as such, followed by careful professional observation, entitles him to the privilege of offering a suggestion. Is not the remedy partly in your hands? I should be rejoiced to have this body take up for discussion, the subject of school-houses, to hear a frank opinion as to whether the convenience arising from a prolonged single session of school, is a competent argument against frequent short study, and a plentiful relaxation. The habits of boys give them immense advantage in this matter, but not one girl in one hundred can properly pursue ten studies at the age of sixteen, and achieve perfect womanhood. Do not take my word for it, but look about you.

Your teacher of music has assumed a difficult task. Her burden would be much relieved, and greater results accomplished by a change of the present custom of teaching. The school teachers should become a class under the instruction of the music teacher as superintendent, they in turn, to instruct their own pupils at such times as in their judgment the exercise would prove a relief to drier studies.

They better understand the peculiar characteristics of their own schools and scholars, than any occasional visitor in any profession. A stated (or otherwise) visit from the superintendent, would provide a suitable regulation of the whole matter, and instead of a weary teacher plodding through the streets during the inclement seasons, to whom the end of the day's duty is, oftentimes, undoubtedly the most satisfactory portion, there would appear increased results on the part of the pupils and increased satisfaction on the part of the teachers and parents. This plan is pursued in the large cities with the best results.

One circumstance has struck me as remarkable. I have been informed that in the High school, music is not taught, not recognized as a study. If my judgment were consulted, I should say here is the very school where musical theory should be first mentioned, for here are students whose capabilities for comparison, criticism and analysis have become more or less developed, and to whom, music as a science would be much more readily adapted.

The custom which has heretofore obtained, that of employing a teacher for two or three weeks previous to the mid summer examination, is not only a waste of time and money, but a questionable compliment to the school, and especially to the graduates in whose honor the guests are assembled.

In no instance, that I am aware of, has an exhibition of individual singing occurred, and yet music is one of its seven liberal arts. Of course, instrumental music cannot be made a practical public study. I wish it were possible, for the long-suffering pianoforte stands like liberty in the dark ages, with but a few spurred and belted knights to do it a service, but of squires there are plenty.

The popular estimation, or rather prejudice, concerning this instrument is astounding. Viewed either as a musical instrument, or a piece of machinery, it seems to be accepted as a mysterious thing quite beyond the reach of the operation of the laws of cause and effect. This being the case with the simple piano, the organ becomes magnified into an inexplicable enigma.

The practice of requiring a pupil in school to speak in a loud tone of voice, is a subject which requires serious consideration. We all love to out-do our neighbor, and a lad as a lass dislikes to be considered inferior, even in the matter of speaking a recitation. But there is a limit to the endurance of the vocal chords.

In youth, between the ages of fourteen and eighteen, in some cases, earlier, they are in such critical condition, that a single lapse from prudence may occasion irreparable injury. This is an especial danger of all public exhibitions of youth, for when reproached for speaking low, the attempt (of which I have before spoken) is made to elevate the voice in pitch, which brings it into unfamiliar territory, by the middle register, to attain which, and at the same time accede to the request of the teacher, resort is had to the crowding up of the lower, or chest voice. This effort on the part of the speaker is not, perhaps, so injurious as with the singer, in proportion to the lesser quantity of breath employed in the former case; but it is still fruitful of grave damage.

Any instruction which involves a radical change of the structure of the body, should be administered with conscientious care.

It is sometimes said of a medicine: "If it does not cure you, it will do no harm."

In vocal culture the injury or benefit is positive, and lasting. You will find many persons anxious to point out to you the royal road to musical perfection, by a "method peculiarly their own;" you will find this "method" to be the employment of some scale or passage, which is claimed to be an antidote for all musical irregularities, a panacea for all musical ills. There is no musical catholicon but that born of experience, study, and common sense.

If you say this is contrary to my previous advice, of making teachers of public schools who are not proficient in music instructors in that branch, I would reply that you have the first requisite for a teacher, experience, or you would not occupy your present position. You have tact and aptitude to acquire. If, unfortunately, your perception of the quality of pitch in sound, is deficient, then, I admit you are not included among those to whom the advice applies. Your school would come under the personal supervision of its superintendent.

Musical taste is an outgrowth of study; it is also reciprocally a promoter of study. No barometer more surely indicates the condition of the weather, than does the quality of music affected by singers or other performers, indicate the possession or the lack of refinement. True, a correct taste is not always innate, but is the result of proper association or persistent attempts to reach a recognized standard. Happy are they whose early steps are not after false musical gods. Never was shoal or quicksand more thickly beset by the snare of the wrecker, than the path of the young musician.

Unable to cope with the difficulties of the better class of music, the beginner clamors for something with a melody. Too often the desire is heeded, and a namby-pamby composition—or rather manufacture—marks the foundation for a wretched style. Show me the music lying on the pupil's piano, and I will tell you the Teacher's value.

There are scores of piano writers who grind out their strains at the instrument, holding the key with one hand, while with the other the idea is transferred to paper. It is published, quickly sold, and another edition called for.

Discrimination is too often made in favor of writers who never originate, but are possessed of an itch for "arranging" everything everybody else has written, and "variations"—the most tedious, monotonous and nauseating form of instrumental music—are scattered abroad with a lavish hand.

It is just as easy to study an original composition by a Master as to waste precious time and vitiate one's taste with such ugly rubbish.

In making use of books for the purpose of study, one naturally is apt to accept the statements or examples they contain as authentic; having so taken them, to the reader they become a law. Take for instance, Richardson's Instruction Book; a more worthless publication can hardly be found in the market. There is literally no end to its sales, yet it contains among other notable attractions, not a single correct minor scale. I could name such instances by the dozen. To a lazy teacher, such a book — or in fact any book — is a godsend. But why any book at all? Is not the teacher competent to make a selection of appropriate lessons for the student? Then drop the business, and make room for some one who is. What would be thought of the physician, who, after diagnosing a case to which he had been called, would argue falsely.

Notably, the taste of a provincial town is modelled by the character of its public performances. Leaving out the minstrel and cheap theatre troupes as noticeable only for the wretched influence they exert, the church choir comes up for consideration. Few are really aware of the importance of this adjunct of divine worship, until they have attempted to dispense with it. Still less are they aware of the stamp it puts upon the congregation in the matter of refined musical taste. Its power is felt but how shabbily is it generally recognized. I know a church—indeed I know several—where the organist and quartette are paid one-eighth of the salary of the pastor, and yet the labor and study to acquire an organist's education is every way as arduous as that required for the pulpit. This similarity does not always exist, it is true, for I have also seen an instance or two where the organ loft was most unworthily filled, and the church unwittingly took pattern from its music.

Do you know of the difficulty experienced in obtaining singers for our choirs? Do you know that many are called, and few chosen? Are your scholars preparing to provide for such emergencies? Or must new drafts be made upon some little country town, where in spite of disadvantages, somebody can always be found with capability and energy sufficient for the ordinary purposes of church music.

The influence of your taste in music, where you are competent, upon the rising youth cannot be estimated. Under your training during two, four or eight years, with the system I have referred to, it is highly probable that at some future exhibition of the Grammar and High Schools, the study of music may obtain a recognition.

Let me briefly refer to what may be called musical analysis. It is a key to the rendering of speech—without which rendering, singing is inane and senseless. If you have never made use of this exercise, I recommend its practice. We will take for example the beautiful old Scotch song.

JOHN ANDERSON.

John Anderson, my Joe John,
When Nature first began
To try her cunning hand John,
Her master work was man;
And you among them a' John,
Sas big frae top to toe,
She proved to be nae journey-work,
John Anderson &c.

John Anderson, my Joe John,
Ye were my first conceit,
Ye need nae think it strange John,
Tho' I ca' ye trim and neat.
Tho' some folk say you're auld, John,
I never think you so,
For you're aye the same guid man to me,
John Anderson &c.

John Anderson, my Joe John,
When first we were acquaint,
Your locks were like the raven's
Your bonny brow was brent;
But now your brow is bald, John,
Your locks are like the snow,
Yet blessing on your frosty paw,
John Anderson &c.

John Anderson, my Joe John,
We've seen our bairns' bairns,
And yet my dear John Anderson,
I'm happy in your arms.
And see are ye in mine, John,
I'm sure ye'll ne'er say no,
Tho' the days are gone that we hae seen,
John Anderson &c.

John Anderson, my Joe John,
We've clamb the hill thegither,
And many a canty day, John,
We've had wi' one anither:
Now we maun totter down, John,
But hand in hand we'll go,
And sleep thegither at the foot,
John Anderson &c.

Daily Chronicle.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1875.

Congress.

The Forty Fourth Congress met at Washington at noon of Monday. Michael C. Kerr, democrat, was elected Speaker of the House, receiving 173 votes to 106 for James G. Blaine and one scattering. Charles P. Thompson, Gen. Butler's successor, voted for Mr. Kerr. Mr. Seelye voted for Mr. Blaine.

Messrs. Blaine, Wheeler, Hale of Maine, Garfield and the leaders of the old House were seated together and presented a formidable phalanx, which attracted the attention of the majority.

In the Senate, Mr. Boutwell announced the death of Vice President Wilson.

From Washington.

The democratic Representative caucus at Washington, Saturday evening, nominated Hon. Michael C. Kerr of Indiana, a hard money candidate, for Speaker on the third ballot. The balloting was as follows: First, Kerr 71, Randall 59, Cox 31; Second, Kerr 77, Randall 63, Cox 21, Sayler one; Third, Kerr 90, Randall 63, Cox 7, Sayler, one. The South and West secured all the offices. Geo. M. Adams of Kentucky was nominated for Clerk of the House; John G. Thompson of Ohio for Sergeant-at-Arms; L. H. Fitzhugh of Texas, (who was Sergeant-at-Arms of the Confederate Congress) for Doorkeeper; James Stuart of Virginia for Postmaster; and Rev. J. L. Townsend, of Washington, Episcopalian, for Chaplain Representative Lamar of Georgia was president of the caucus, and in his opening speech alluded to the fact that the democrats, although in control of the House of Representatives, have only a few hundred offices at their disposal, including military and naval cadetships, while the President has in his hands many places of more importance and more lucrative than that of a member of Congress.

The extreme inflationists from Ohio and other States of the West and South are very much cast down at the election of Kerr. Gen. Tom Ewing's utterances are taken as expressing the feelings of this party, of which he seems to be the acknowledged head. He says, in speaking of the manner in which the new Speaker will shape legislation, that the committee will be organized and all the Speaker's influence used in behalf of the moneyed interest of the East, which in reality controlled the organization of the House. Taking a look into the future he says that the result indicates the purpose of the "moneyed interest" to nominate either Tilden or Bayard for President, compelling the West to be content with a sop in the way of the Speaker, Sergeant-at-Arms and Clerk. In brief, he is very despondent, and takes a most gloomy view of the future of the rag baby party.

Mr. Kerr is a native of Titusville, Penn., where he was born March 17, 1827. At twenty-four years of age he graduated at the Louisville University, and in 1852 began the practice of law in St. Louis. Two years later he was elected City Attorney, and in 1855 he was chosen Prosecuting Attorney of the county. In 1856, the year of Fremont's Presidential campaign, Mr. Kerr was elected to the Indiana legislature, and, five years after his legislative service, he was chosen on the democratic State ticket, in 1862, as reporter to the Supreme Court of the State, in which office he edited five volumes of the reports. In 1864 he was first elected to Congress, beginning his service in that body in December, 1865. In 1866, 1868 and 1870 he was reelected to Congress. He has thus served eight years in the national legislature, and in December began his fifth term, or ten years of service. He is a student and a gentleman of honor, and a man of knowledge and ability. He is temperate in his habits and as regular and circumspect as a sanctified chronometer. He does not believe in sumptuary liquor laws, but is a practical "teetotaler."

"Boss" Tweed Escapes.

New York city is in a ferment of excitement over the escape of William M. Tweed, the greatest of its thieves, from custody. More than a year ago, Tweed was sentenced to Blackwell's island for twelve years, and there were civil suits amounting to $7,000,000 to be brought against him this week. On the 22d of last June he was taken back to the city and imprisoned in Ludlow street jail. He has been allowed to visit his home in company with officers several times, and about 4:30, Saturday afternoon, Warden Dunham requested permission of Sheriff Conner to take him out again. This being given, Tweed, his son William, keeper Hogan and Warden Dunham entered a carriage and were driven to the Bowery through Fourth avenue and Tenth street to Broadway, thence into Fifth avenue to Fifty-ninth street, up the western boulevard to King's bridge, through One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street and Sixth avenue to Central Park. Here the party got out and ascended a knoll, walking around and chatting for about fifteen minutes. Re-entering the carriage, the party were driven through Fifty-ninth street to Madison avenue, where Tweed's house is, and leaving the carriage at the corner entered the front parlor, where they were met by Mr. Douglass, Tweed's son-in-law.

And then the farce was acted. Tweed asked permission to go up stairs and see his wife, which the gracious Warden pleasantly permitted. The Warden says he waited five minutes or a little longer, and then told William to call the old man down. William went up stairs and after some delay came down and announced that his father had not gone up stairs. He and Douglas appeared greatly excited and declared that the "Boss" had ruined them. The officers searched the house, but did not find Tweed. No one saw him go out and no trace of him could be seen. In twenty minutes after the escape the police were notified and detectives began searching the city. Sheriff Conner declares that none of the officials at the jail apprehended that Tweed desired to escape, so great were his private interests in the city. He could have escaped from Blackwell's island at any time during his stay there, and discipline at the jail was so lax that he could have stepped out from there without great trouble. It is said that although three houses adjoining Tweed's are unoccupied, not one was searched after the discovery of his escape. The police are of the opinion that Tweed passed out of the front basement door, and was taken to Sixteenth street and East river, where he embarked on a small steam vessel.

It is a little singular that Tammany should score two triumphs in one day—the escape of Tweed from justice and the nomination of its candidate for Speaker of the National House of Representatives!

Jottings.

Mr. Marco B. Goodrich, a member of the school committee, was dangerously ill on Monday, and fears are expressed that he will not recover.

A Manchester dispatch of Saturday says: Gov. Cheney, Ex-Govs. Straw, Stearns and Weston, and Col. Geo. W. Riddle, the New Hampshire agent, start for Philadelphia this week, to perfect arrangements for the State Department at the Centennial. The New Hampshire Light Battery, of Manchester, Capt. S. S. Piper, with fifty men, have voted to attend, and will probably take with them the brass field-piece captured from the British by Gen. John Stark at Bennington, now in possession of the town of New Boston. Ex-xMayor Marvin of Portsmouth, was here yesterday to arrange for the attendance of the Portsmouth Artillery Company, organized in 1775, under the Provisional Congress. This company was present at the laying of the corner-stone of Bunker Hill Monument in 1825, and also at the completion twenty-five years after. The company is reorganized with about fifty men. Col. Marsh, the originator and conductor of the Mount Washington Railroad, will also exhibit at the Centennial a section of his mountain railway, with engine and car. Considerable interest is being manifested of late, and New Hampshire will make a much better exhibition than was at first expected.

The next debate at Grangers' Hall will take place Dec. 15th.

Rev. Carlos Martyn preached an excellent sermon on Sunday afternoon, having for his subject "The Kind of Revival Needed for the 19th Century." Mr. Martyn is a sound thinker, a close student of men and things, and is rather inclined to discourage than indulge the orthodox stiffness that prevails among Presbyterians. On this occasion, observing one or two drowsy ones in the house, he broke off in the midst of his discourse and requested the congregation to rise and sing "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," which was promptly done, and the audience were then rested and prepared to hear the remainder of the sermon. The church was well filled and it is said that there is a growing interest in these afternoon meetings The subject next Sabbath was announced to be "Men of The World."

The reunion and social meeting of the P. W. T. A. Society will be held at Temperance Hall, corner of Market and Ladd streets, on Thursday evening of this week.

Quite a large audience attended the temperance lecture, Sunday evening. Prayer was offered by Rev. John A. Goss, and Col. J. Horace Kent made an excellent introductory address. Luther Benson, Esq., made a powerful appeal in favor of total abstinence, deseribing his own condition and temptations. He is doing a noble work for reform and deserves sympathy and the hearty co-operation of all who believe in living to aid their fellow men. As a Speaker, Mr. Benson is thoroughly Western in style, witty in illustration and pointed in application. In arguing against moddrate drinking he asked if 50,000 moderate drinkers of fifty years ago have produced a million of drunkards; what will the million of drunkards produce fifty years hence? His appeal was replete with just such striking syllogisms.

It is believed that the rivalry between the old Atlantic Telegraph Cable Company and the new company will be renewed, owing to the demands made by the former, and that a further reduction in the rates will soon ensue.

It is stated that Mr. Blake, President of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad, is organizing a strong combination to build a road from Lynn, through Peabody and Salem, to Newburyport, connecting with the present narrow-gauge road. Now is the time for Exeter to move for a continuation of this line to Portsmouth via Exeter. "What say," News Letter?

Ship Emily Farnum, built in this city by George Raynes & Son in 1853, was driven on Destruction Island on the night of Nov. 18th, bound from San Francisco for Departure Bay, during a snow storm, and became a total wreck. Two of the crew were drowned.

Kearsarge S. F. E. company, No. 3, are to have a concert and ball on New Year's eve.

Schooner Yreka, of and from Boston, Moon master, for Sullivan, Me., was blown off in the late gale, lost main jib, and had decks swept of everything movable. The crew were frost-bitten. On Dec. 1st, lat. 43.21, lon. 67.10, fell in with schooner Mary Hawes of Camden, Me., water-logged and sails blown away. Crew badly frost-bitten, having had no fire for several days and no food during the time. Took off the captain and crew and brought them to this port. Nothing was saved from the Mary Hawes except the clothing on the men. They were rescued with great difficulty in the boat of the Yreko. Several other vessels were passed with sails blown away.

U. S. S. Speedwell, with a draft of men for U. S. S. Marion, arrived from Boston on Saturday afternoon.

A drunken man belonging in York called at the house of Augustus Young in Kittery, on Saturday night, and was refused admittance. Two ladies in the house shut the door against him and one of his little fingers was caught. A passer-by, seeing the trouble the ladies were in, seized the man and pulled him away from the door. It was discovered on opening the door, Sunday morning, that the man had left the top of his finger, which had been deposited on the doorstep in shape of a thimble or raspberry.

One of the can buoys, recently placed in the river near the beacon, has been dragged from its proper position and is now directly in the channel.

The efficient Secretary of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, A. F. Craig, Esq., presented his annual report at a meeting on Monday evening. He notices a great change in public sentiment, and says more care is taken by owners of old, lame and chafed horses to evade observation. During the past year, the Society has circulated several thousand copies of newspapers and five hundred copies of the bird law. Seventy-five dollars' worth of books have been distributed in the public schools; money to buy hay and medicine for poor and sick horses has been furnished; and of eighty-eight cases brought to the notice of the Company's officers, all but four have been remedied without recourse to the courts. Two have been adjudged guilty, one withdrawn and one not sustained. Eleven horses have been condemned and killed, and thirty-nine blanketed. Four men have been prosecuted and seven arrested for cruelty. The Society is in excellent financial condition; the kind-hearted Secretary cheerfully congratulates the Society that as its capital is invested in the hearts of the people, it is "next to impossibility to bankrupt such an institution."

Schooner Celia, reported lost, is safe in Boston harbor with the entire crew.

Suit is brought against the bondsmen of Frank F. Hastings, formerly Acting Paymaster in the navy, for $900, the same being due the government in the settlement of his accounts.

The Gas Company has purchased of Chas. Main, Esq., the Dorr bakery property on Linden street.

Necessity for Economy.

Editor Chronicle; As the report of the Massachusetts Commissioners shows a deficit of $335,000 in the business of the Eastern Railroad for the past year, it is evident that the time is not very far distant when the city of Portsmouth will be called upon to pay the interest on the bonds issued by said city in behalf of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad. It will hardly be pretended that the earnings of the latter road will enable it to pay the slightest fraction of the accruing interes', which amounts to $18,000 per annum. These bonds, amounting to $300,000, will mature on the first of January 1892; as the city is obliged to pay the interest for the unexpired seventeen years, the gross amount, without any calculation of interest on the annual payments, will be $306,000, which added to the bonds will make $606,000, or about 1-10 of the total taxable inventory of the city. In view of that indebtednese and the large increase of taxes which must be raised to meet the interest on the bonds and which will add from 10 to 12 per cent. to the taxes of 1875, it is incumbent on our city government to indulge in no extravagant expenditures, but to economize the finances of the city in every practical manner. CITIZEN.

Aldermanic.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, the petition of Benj. W. Bailey and others for a sluiceway on Manning street was referred.

The committee on gas lights to whom was referred the petition of M. B. Vennard and others for a gas light on Vaughan street, recommended that the petition be granted. Report accepted and adopted.

The committee on fire department, to whom was referred the resolution in regard to a fire alarm, reported that no better system could be procured except a telegram fire alarm; they recommended the purchase of a new steamer. The report was accepted.

A hearing was held on the petition of John Ellison and others for the extension of Dennett street.

Voted, That the Board visit the premises on Friday, Dec. 3, at two o'clock, and that the hearing be continued nntil the next meeting of the Board.

The Evil Fruits of Weak Digestion.

There is no pathological fact more clearly ascertained than that the most formidable phases of nervous disease are directly traceable to imperfect digestion. Insomnia, with its train of direful consequences, proceeds more frequently from weakness of the stomach than from any other cause. Mere sedatives are powerless to cure nervousness, and soon cease to palliate its symptoms. The true way to strengthen the nervous system is to invigorate the digestive and assimilative organs, upon whose unobstructed action its equilibrium is absolutely dependent. The daily use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters will do more to brace and soothe the weakened and irritated nerves, and induce sound, refreshing sleep—nature's grand catholicon,—than all the so-called nervines to be found in the pharmacopœia or out of it. A wineglassful of the Bitters should be taken before each meal.

A NEW "OLD LANG SYNE."

Written for the Portsmouth Mechanics' Association Levee, Dec. 6th, 1875.

Let old acquaintance, passed from sight,
Be often brought to mind;
Call each past member back to-night,
And days of old lang syne.
O, never let them be forgot,
Old friends, a goodly line,
Nor changes from our mem'ries blot
The good in former times.

But while our thoughts we turn oft-times
To brothers gone before,
We'll ever keep this truth in mind,
The present still is more;
We'll cherish close the friends we have,
And thus cause less repine
When brothers dear and those we love
Pass to the old lang syne.

We'll "mind our business" while we may,
"Deal justly, and fear not,"
And so put far the evil days
When pleasure 's vainly sought.
If with our might our hands we use,
The measure of our time,
Welcome the call we can't refuse,
To join the old lang syne.

So, brothers, here's to new lang syne,
The temperance cup we'll sip;
Let those who will smoke and drink wine,
Pray muddle not our wits.
Let woman come, let strong drink go,
As we meet here each year,
And may our greetings, one and all,
Be full of heartiest cheer.

"Heal Thyself."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of about 900 pages, illustrated with over 250 engravings and colored plates, and sold at the exceedingly low price of $1.50, tells you how to cure Catarrh, "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sick, Bilious, and other Headaches, Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Diseases; all diseases peculiar to women, and most other chronic as well as acute disorders. It contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. Men and women, married and single, are tempted to ask their family physician thousands of questions on delicate topics, but are deterred from doing so by their modesty. This work answers just such questions so fully and plainly as to leave no one in doubt. It is sold by Agents, or sent by mail (post-paid) on receipt of price. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

From the Lafayette Daily Courier.

A VALUABLE WORK.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, distinguished in surgery, and the general practice in the profession he honors, has made a valuable contribution to the medical literature of the day, in a comprehensive work entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." While scientific throughout, it is singularly free from technical and stilted terms. It comes right down to the common sense of every-day life. Dr. Pierce is a noble specimen of American manhood. He has sprung from the people; and, with many sympathies in common with the masses, has sought to render them a substantial service in this the great work of his life.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, specifications, assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1876, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from like ones who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large portion of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hope of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars each. I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your Neuralgia Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rowlandie, who are taking Pills, and already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Thousands

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES seeks to maintain a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful practices of quack and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by the pernicious Journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread and irremediable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Returning" spirit, but will Tammany Hall, of New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot confide in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers, and when Governor Tilden, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid Ike Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform broke down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the best mind of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational departments are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

THE WEEKLY SUN.

1776. NEW YORK. 1876.

Eighteen hundred and seventy six is the Centennial year. It is also the year in which an Opposition House of Representatives, the first since the war, will be in power at Washington; and the year of the twenty-third election of a President of the United States. All of these events are sure to be of great interest and importance, especially the two latter; and all of them and everything connected with them will be fully and freshly reported and expounded in THE SUN.

The Opposition House of Representatives, taking up the line of inquiry opened years ago by THE SUN, will carefully and diligently investigate the corruptions and misdeeds of Grant's administration, and will, it is to be hoped, lay the foundation for a new and better period in our national history.

All this THE SUN will contain complete and accurate accounts, furnishing its readers with early and trustworthy information upon these absorbing topics.

The twenty-third Presidential election, with the preparations for it, will be memorable as deciding upon Grant's aspirations for a third term of power and plunder, and still more as deciding who shall be the candidate of the party of Reform, and as electing that candidate. Concerning all these subjects, those who read THE SUN will have the constant means of being thoroughly well informed.

THE WEEKLY SUN, which has attained a circulation of over eighty thousand copies, already has its readers in every State and Territory, and we trust that the year 1876 will see their numbers doubled. It will continue to be a thorough newspaper. All the general news of the day will be found in it, condensed when unimportant, at full length when of moment; and always, we trust, treated in a clear, interesting and instructive manner.

It is our aim to make the WEEKLY SUN the best family newspaper in the world, and we shall continue to give in its columns a large amount of miscellaneous reading, such as stories, tales, poems, scientific intelligence and agricultural information, for which we are not able to make room in our daily edition. The agricultural department especially is one of its prominent features. The fashions are also regularly reported in its columns; and so are the markets of every kind.

The WEEKLY SUN, eight pages with fifty-six broad columns, is only $1.20 a year, postage prepaid. As this price barely repays the cost of the paper, no discount can be made from this rate to clubs, agents, Postmasters, or anyone.

The DAILY SUN, a large four page newspaper of twenty-eight columns, gives all the news for 1875 cents a copy. Subscription, postage prepaid, 55c a month or $6.50 a year. SUNDAY edition extra, $1.10 per year. We have no travelling agents.

Address, THE SUN, New York City.

EPITAPHS.

—ON A MR. PECK.

Here lies a Peck! which some men say,
Was first of all a Peck of clay;
This, wrought with skill divine, while fresh,
Became a curious Peck of flesh.
Through various forms it's maker ran,
Then adding breath made Peck a man.
Full sixty years Peck felt life's bubbles,
'Till Death reliev'd a Peck of troubles;
Thus fell poor Peck as all things must,
And here he lies—a Peck of—Dust.

—ON A TALKATIVE OLD MAID.

Beneath this silent stone is laid,
A noisy antiquated Maid,
Who from his Cradle talked till death,
And ne'er before was out of breath.
Whither she's gone we cannot tell,
For if she talks not she's in Hell;
If she's in Heaven she's there unblest
Because she hates a Place of Rest.

—As he came out of a Woodward avenue gate recently and walked slowly up the street the boys heard him saying to himself, "I know she loves me, and I know I can never love any one else. Let's see, it's the first of November, now. On the first of January I'll walk into the office and tell the old Skinflint that I must have $25 per week or I'll quit. He'll say quit and be damned, and I'll go and see Tom and have him see Jim and get me into a bank at a hundred per week, and then I'll buy a house and lot, ask Jennie to marry me, stick up my nose at that old hunker of a father, fill up the yard with vases and statuary, have silver stair rods and French mirrors, and I'll show this town what is what.—Detroit Free Press.

—Prof. Tice, according to the Springfield (Ill.) Journal, made the following prediction a few weeks ago: "The coming Winter certainly will not be an agreeable one. First, cold, really so, will set in about the 28th of November and continue for nearly a week. It will be warmer from the 15th to the 18th, and then cold again. About the 26th it will be warm and about the 30th cold—very cold—until Jan. 6; then warmer to the 12th; then very cold to the 20th; then warmer for a few days, followed by cold weather till about the close of the month. The month of February will be very boisterous, generally warm, but short spells of intensely cold weather."

—Mr. Redpath is to give Tilton $25,000 for 100 lectures and Beecher $100,000 for fifty-two. So the notoriety of the great scandal suit will be made to pay for its cost. Virtue remains, as heretofore, its own reward.—Boston Times.

Will you please contradict, on my authority, all of these statements, excepting that "Virtue remains its own reward;" and you may even modify that assertion by explaining that there is no money in it, because I have always been virtuous, and I have never been wealthy. Yours for the truth, JAMES REDPATH.

—Professor Walker has ascertained from the census about two-thirds of the million of domestic servants in the United States are of native birth. Leaving out the colored servants, who form about one-third of the million, more than half of the white servants over 16 years of age are native born. The fact is that the immigration of those who are fitted for domestic service has greatly diminished of late years. In a few years more, foreign-born servants will probably be very rare.

—Experiments have been made by Mr. Hirn upon the resisting power of different species of wood compared with that of cast iron. Some of the specimens were immersed for two or three days previous to trial in a bath of colza oil heated to 80 or 100 degrees, Cent. The oil was found to aid resistance, and this was found to vary in direct ratio with the density. In most industrial applications wood has a resistance superior to that of cast iron.

—A Syrian convert to Christianity was urged by his employer to work on Sunday, but he declined. "But," said the master, "does not your Bible say that if a man has an ox or an ass that falls into a pit on the Sabbath day he may pull him out?" "Yes," answered Hayop, "but if the ass has a habit of falling into the same pit every Sabbath day, then the man should either fill up the pit or sell that ass."

—Gen. Sheridan still keeps the horse that bore him to Winchester "twenty miles away." Nothing, 'tis said, could induce the General to part with the noble animal, and it might be advisable for the man who should propose such a thing to him to wear a breastplate in the seat of his pantaloons temporarily.

—The New York Star, thinks that if Tommy Sherman could be bottled up for six minutes, Deacon West publicly excommunicated, and all the gabby, gossiping women who talk behind their hands in every other woman's ear, be shut up, Beecher might have a fair chance.

—"Mrs. Henry," said John to his wife, recently, "if you give me a Christmas present this year, please arrange it so that the bill won't come in till the next month. It's just as well to keep up the illusion for a short time."

—They are still raisin' a disturbance in Massachusetts about Rice pudding a woman on the Gubernatorial Staff.—Chicago Times.

—During this sudden snap be sure to keep your mouth shut on going out of doors and while calling on editors.

—Vice-President Ferry is a bachelor.

Henry Wilson's Parentage.

A Rochester correspondent writes to the Dover Democrat that the great-grandfather of Henry Wilson, James Colbath, was an English emigrant, the great-grandmother, Olive Laighton, an Irish lady. The Laightons of Appledore, Isles of Shoals, are of the same family.

In 1750, we find James Colbath doing business in Portsmouth, where he continued to reside until 1783; he removed to Rochester (now Farmington), subsequently to Middleton, where both himself and wife died in 1800. The father of Wilson, Winthrop Colbath, was born in Rochester, 1784. The mother was born in Kittery, Me., in 1786, her parents removing from that place to Farmington. Their first born, Jeremiah Jones Colbath, was named for Jeremiah Jones, the father of "Clara Augusta," the well known authoress, whom the father held in high esteem. In after years the nickname of "Jed" was so distasteful, he determined when of age to change his Christian name, which so displeased his father he said, "If you change a part change the whole," and he did.

Strange to say, the man for whom he was named was the one who assisted him in the change. On being asked why he chose the name of Wilson, he replied, "Well, aunt, you know old Elder Wilson. I remember how he used to pat my head and tell me to be a good man—I thought it a good name." There is no truth whatever in the report that he assumed his mother's name, or made the change to please the fancy of a young lady.

Four brothers still survive Mr. Wilson. One a farmer in Canada, another in Hingham, Mass., a third in the Custom House, Boston, and the fourth holds a position under government in Washington.

Congress.

The closing hours of the session of the House were consumed in the consideration of the Louisiana question, Monday.

Fernando Wood offered a resolution referring the credentials of Messrs. Morey and Spencer to the election committee.

Mr. Blaine declared that there was no claim made that the credentials were not regularly signed by Gov. Kellogg.

Mr. Wood replied that the other members from Louisiana had certificates signed by Kellogg and McEnery. If these members thought such action important he wanted to ascertain if the Morey certificate were such as entitled the bearer to a seat.

Mr. Wheeler, of New York, said he had trusted the question of who was Governor of Louisiana had been set at rest, at least until the next general election, and regretted that, for a paltry advantage, it should be again raised. Not only had Kellogg been recognized as Governor by the President and by both Houses, but also by the people of Louisiana, and by a solemn statute passed by its legislature at its extra session, held last April. Besides, this man Spencer had absolutely foreclosed himself by having made himself a contestant.

Mr. Frye, of Maine—Is there on record, since the election held in 1872 in the State of Louisiana, a single official act of McEnery, except this single one of signing those certificates?

Mr. Wheeler—Not one.

Mr. Wood remarked that the question settled last session had been confined entirely to the relation of the legislature, not to the election of Governor.

Mr. Lamar of Mississippi regarded it as still a question of law whether the certificate was signed by the proper Governor or not.

Mr. Blaine trusted that Mr. Lamar would restrain his party from such an outrage as was contemplated, not only on State rights, but on the rule of common decency.

Mr. Lamar thought the question should not be decided informally.

Mr. Blaine asked whether it was not a matter of history that last year, in what was known as the Louisiana adjustment, it was perfectly understood that the vote of the House declaring Kellogg to be Governor was a final settlement, and whether the venerable gentleman from Georgia (Stephens,) the very Nestor of the democratic party, had not voted with the republicans in order, avowedly, that it might be a final settlement. Did his honorable friend (Lamar) come here now to head a movement to trample on the other side of that agreement, and to reopen the whole case?

Mr. Lamar admitted that there had been a compromise last session, and that that compromise did acknowledge Kellogg as the acting Governor of Louisiana. He hoped the gentleman from New York (Wood) would act on the suggestion of Mr. Hoar, of Massachusetts, to modify his resolution by omitting the preamble and merely referring the matter to the committee on elections with instructions to report on the prima facie case.

Mr. Wood modified his resolutions accordingly.

After further discussion, participated in by Messrs. Holman, of Indiana, Banks, of Massachusetts, Cox, of New York, and Jones, of Kentucky, the previous question was seconded.

The main question was ordered—yeas, 135; nays, 134. The question was then put on the resolution and it was rejected.

On motion of Mr. Blaine, Mr. Morey was then sworn in.

—Rings off his fingers and stripes on his clothes, Joyce will have comp'ny where Avery goes.—Cincinnati Commercial.

—It's calculated that when a woman turns thirty, unmarried, she still has left 15 1-2 chances out of 100 for getting a husband.

Daily Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1875.

News and Notes.

At Carroll, a young man named Fletcher Pennock, about 22 years old, was instantly killed recently, while at work in the lumber mill of George Richardson, by a slab some twelve feet long flying from the saw and striking him in the head. The stick struck him in the forehead and penetrating the skull crushed through to the back part of the head. Several other men were standing near and had a narrow escape.

The Astor estate is now estimated at only about forty million dollars,—$30,000,000 in real estate and $10,000,000 in personality. Commodore Vanderbilt is the only man in this country who has a property equal to it.

The reading for the Clarke prizes at the High School, in Manchester, took place on Friday afternoon, and lasted about three hours. The prizes were awarded as follows; 1st prize, $12, for declamation among the boys, to Samuel R. Hayes; 2d $8, to Frank S. Ratcliffe. 1st prize $12, for reading, girls, to Miss Annie B. Lincoln; 2d $8, to Miss Jessie B. Farmer. Hon. Moody Currier, Hon. Joseph Kidder and Frank B. Eaton acted as judges.

A St. Louis dispatch says that the Grand Jury found an indictment against Gen. Babcock on Friday for complicity in the whisky frauds.

West Meriden Conn., is in a terrible state of agitation over the liquor question. At the last town meeting, held in October, "no license" was voted. This was because the liquor dealers and their friends stayed away from the polls or refused to vote, thinking that "no license" meant "free rum." After the election the liquor dealers declared that they would sell any way, and the result was that the Methodist minister, Charles Parker, and a few influential citizens called for the organization of a league of citizens which would put a stop to the sale of intoxicating liquors. Such a league was formed, including the persons named, and a woman's right's woman, who held meetings, exhorted the people, raised money, and proclaimed that the traffic in rum should be stopped, But it was not stopped; liquor was sold, but by whom and at what places was not known. The chief of police failed to report violations of the license law, and the league made charges against the chief of police. He was accused of playing cards and drinking in the parlors of the Bixby House. He was suspended. The Common Council gave him a hearing, voted that he should be reinstated, but ordered that he be brought before the Council and be reprimanded by the Mayor. As it happened the chief was not there, and the reprimand was postponed. In the mean time the league, having lost all faith in their local officers, imported two detectives from Springfield. The names were John P. Butterworth and John L. Prince. They soon arrested a number of liquor dealers. Their trial is set for December 11, and meanwhile the excitement increases. On Saturday twenty-eight new complaints were filed against the liquor dealers. In Waterbury there is the same trouble; and it really looks as if the steady Old Nutmeg State was to be involved in a series of whiskey riots.

It is reported that 200 lives have been lost by the explosion at Swaith's main colliery in Yorkshire, England.

The President having granted the request of Gen. O. E. Babcock for a Court of Inquiry into the charges recently made against him in St. Louis, has designated Lieut. Gen. P. H. Sheridan, Major-Gen. W. S. Hancock and Brig.-Gen. H. Ferry to compose the Court, and they will be ordered to meet in Chicago on Thursday, Dec. 9. Attorney-General Pierrepont has telegraphed the United States District Attorney at St. Louis that a Military Court of Inquiry has been ordered in Gen. Babcock's case, and instructing him that the appointment of a Military Court is in no manner to stay any proceedings the Court authorities may determine upon as being proper in the case. The United States Attorney is also directed to give the Court every aid required of him that is in his power, and to use all efforts to facilitate its thorough and complete investigation of the charges. Maj. Asa B. Gardner, Professor of Law at West Point Academy, has been detailed as Judge Advocate of the Court of Inquiry. The official order detailing the Court provides that the Court shall report the facts as found and give an opinion in the case.

Early on Saturday morning five masked men boarded the schooner Silas Brainerd, lying at the pier at the foot of One Hundred and Sixth street, Harlem river, but discovered nothing to reward their trouble but a suit of clothes, which they were carrying off when the captain of the vessel fired on them and one of them fell. His companions helped the wounded man into a boat moored alongside the schooner and rowed away.

At Cleveland, Saturday morning, William Aiden, an Englishman, quarrelled with his wife, and becoming enraged, seized an axe and assaulted her chopping her head from her body, and otherwise horribly mutilating her. He then went to the corner of Garden street, and there assaulted his step-daughter with a hammer and an axe, cutting her in a fearful manner. A Mrs. Benton, who attempted to interfere, was also badly injured with the same weapons. Both women are beyond all hope of recovery. The house presents an awful appearance, the walls and ceilings bespotted with blood, pools of gore upon the floor, dishes broken and chairs upturned, giving silent testimony to the fact of the terrible struggle. Aiden was arrested while deliberately settling up his affairs, and was locked up. The reason he gives for the terrible act is that his wife (who was a widow when he married her) and his step-daughter "were stealing him out of house and home." When questioned further, he said he "wanted to put an end to them all, for they drove him to it."

A Madrid despatch states that Minister Cushing has declared that the United States does not desire the annexation of Cuba.

La Page, the Frenchman, now in jail awaiting trial on a charge of having murdered Miss Langmaid at Pembroke, is very unquiet and restless. A few days ago he succeeded in breaking the chains from his ankles by which he was secured to the floor, but it was discovered in time to prevent any serious results. The officials find it necessary to keep a close watch upon the prisoner, as he is possessed of a great amount of sly craft and cunning, and unusual muscular power, that would make him a very dangerous man, should he by any means get the advantage of his keepers.

A Vienna telegram mentions a rumor that the Princes of Abyssinia, through the American missionaries, have asked the assistance of the United States against the Mahomedan invaders.

Thomas Morrisey of Biddeford, about 50 years old, called on Sunday evening at a house on Island wharf, Saco. Several hours later a man was heard to utter cries, and a gentleman living near found some time after Morrisey among the rocks in the canal. He had several cuts about the head, and from the location they are thought to have been received by a fall. Usually he carried a moderate sum of money with him. When found there was no money about him. He was insensible when taken out of the canal, and died on Thursday afternoon without recovering consciousness.

Theodore Thomas has accepted the post of musical director at the ceremonies for the opening of the Centennial Exposition.

Ex-Gov. Bigler, Hon. Thos. Cochran and Gen. Hawley arrived in Washington, Monday, for the purpose of inviting Congress to make a visit to Philadelphia to look at the preparations that are making for the approaching Centennial Exhibition. They propose that as Congress will probably not be in session on Saturday next, that day shall be taken for the excursion.

Charles Finning of Nashua, while skating on Tarnic Pond in Hudson, broke his leg, Saturday.

The democratic majorities in New York are not so large as was supposed. Mr. Bigelow's plurality over Mr. Seward, the republican candidate, is 14,810; but 11,109 votes were cast for the temperance candidate, which makes the majority only a little over 3700.

The Chicago Times calls the new political party born in that city "the greenback grasshoppers."

The New York Herald says of Mr. Kerr: "His success as Speaker is virtually a repetition of the policy which made Cockrell Senator from Missouri, Wallace from Pennsylvania and Eaton from Connecticut. It shows that the leaders of the democratic party have learned nothing from the results of the war. They are as stiff-necked in accepting the consequences of that great event as Pharoah when he held the people of Israel and would not let them go."

The Cardigan Hotel and stables at Canaan were destroyed by fire Saturday morning. The property was owned by B. G. Howe, whose loss is $5000 and insurance $2500. H. C. Gale, lessee of the hotel, lost a considerable sum, as the furniture was uninsured and little of it was saved. A wooden building owned by Mrs. Colcord was also burned. Loss $1000; insurance $600.

The late storm and blow has not in the least impeded the trains in the White Mountain Notch. There are several points on the road where the trains will meet with great obstructions in the way of drifts. The strong current of wind that sucks down through the mighty gorge acts like a funnel, and thus keeps the track practically clear of snow. From two to three feet of snow has already fallen. By using a few miles of the Boston, Concord and Montreal road they will run the Portland and Ogdensburg trains to Johnson, Vt., a point 200 miles from Portland, on the 1st of January.

The Portland & Ogdensburg railway company has agreed with the Boston, Concord and Montreal company upon the terms of a connection at Scott's and Fabyan's Mills, the latter company to have the former's cars and receive a reasonable compensation to be determined by referees in case of a disagreement. The arrangement is to continue as long as desired by the Portland company, but subject to be terminated by the Concord road upon giving six months' notice.

The Nashua Telegraph says: Had the Congressman of other days been obliged to spend thousands to get a nomination, thousands more to get an election, and still other thousands to cut a figure in the streets of Washington, the First district would never have been represented by such men as Daniel Webster, Ichabod Bartlett, Tristram Shaw, Amos Tuck, John P. Hale, George W. Kittredge, and Gilman Marston. We hope it will not take until another centennial to revive the fashion of sending men of culture, ability and integrity to Washington though they may not be as rich as a brewer.

The Manchester Mirror says: Never before, since the days of the old Washingtonian movement, has Manchester seen any such awakening on the subject of temperance as now. The Reform Club, which for months after its organization had but a feeble and unpromising existence, has succeeded in arousing an interest which has already wrought most wonderful results, and is daily gathering force and power.

At the close of the Friday night prayer-meeting service in Rev. Dr. Fulton's church, Dr. Fulton read a letter in defiance to the members of the church opposed to him. He then begged his friends to allow him to go in peace, and asked them to accept his resignation, and on a third vote his request was granted. He then asked for and obtained letters of dismissal for himself and his family; and then he withdrew from the meeting.

The United States steam sloop Powhatan, Capt. J. S. Jouett, joined the Tallapoosa and the Despatch, and the monitors Nantucket, Passaic, and Wyandotte, at the Delaware Breakwater, the fleet being on its way to rendezvous at Norfolk. While the engines of the Powhatan were being turned to try the machinery, the massive connecting rod of the starboard engine broke short off near the crank. The ponderous piece of metal came down with a tremendous thud, shaking the ship from stem to stern, and causing a panic on board. The Powhatan will be obliged to return to Philadelphia or Chester for repairs.

There was an immense audience at the Brooklyn Tabernacle, Sunday morning, to hear Talmage's sermon on the Bible in the public schools. He denounced all men and all sects that would take the Bible out of the public schools, and said it would never be done while enough of Plymouth Rock was left to furnish flint to make the fires of true patriotism burn. He was frequently applauded. In the course of the sermon he said he saw some politicians present whom he knew by their blood-shot eyes and lecherous lips. They would go down to where all liars and thieves go—to that eternity where Tweed and other politicians go.

The views of the New York Times on Presidential matters are as follows: "A third term would be a departure from well-established precedents, almost amounting now to a part of that 'unwritten law' which must necessarily enter largely into the practical government of any free country. It would be a lamentable event in the history of the United States; and yet repudiation, the loss of national credit, commercial ruin and dishonor would be worse. Why should the democrats be so blind and foolish as to force the people to choose between these two alternatives? Let them adopt the specie-payment policy, and put a candidate forward on that basis, and the third term project would be practically killed, and some new man would undoubtedly be brought forward in the republican convention. Much will depend upon what is done and said in Congress this Winter."

J. R. Cressy of Salmon Falls fell from the roof of his house to the ground, Saturday, and striking his neck on a chisel that he held in his hand, was so seriously injured that his recovery is doubtful.

Senator Cameron of Wisconsin told a Chicago Post and Mail reporter that he thought Mr. Kerr would be Speaker, that the resumption act would be unchanged, and that Mr. Blaine had the best chance for the republican nomination for the Presidency. Of Mr. Blaine he said: "Blaine is a splendid man, and would make a good President. He is a man of wonderful good sense, and during the coming session he will make an admirable leader. He is a man who is straightforward, has a mind of his own, and cannot be easily influenced. He is very popular, and will increase that popularity this Winter greatly."

A large number of Senators are in favor of making Hamlin President pro tem. of the Senate, instead of Ferry.

An intimate personal friend of George L. Fox, the famous pantomimist, says that little if any hope is entertained of the recovery of his mental powers. It is evidently a case of paralysis of the brain, rather than a softening, and a suddenly fatal result would not be surprising. The almost complete loss of his mind has been painfully apparent to his friends for some time, and during the last portion of his New York engagement, his part on the stage was that of an automaton, mechanically performing his allotted work, the statements of his agents to the contrary notwithstanding. When being taken to the McLean Asylum at Somerville, last week, by his brother, Mr. Fox's remarks and manner plainly showed the absence of his intellect and the almost hopelessness of any attempt to benefit him by treatment.

Thomas W. Piper is on trial in Boston for the murder of Mabel H. Young in a church belfry. Ex-Mayor Frederick W. Lincoln is foreman of the jury.

The New York Herald under the caption "Advice to Mr. Beecher," says, in the kindliest and friendliest spirit, that his true course in this complication would be to retire from the pulpit and by this means satisfy public opinion and bring this painful episode to an end.

The Directors of the Cheshire Railroad have voted to reduce the time of the hands in the machine, rail and car shops to eight hours.

In the Iowa Senatorial canvass it is said that Secretary Belknap takes the lead in popular choice, distancing, so far, Harlan, Price, McCrary, Carpenter and others mentioned in the race.

Eliphalet Nott, formerly of Saco, Me., at one time Treasurer of the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad, died on Saturday.

Speaker Kerr appears to be too weak to sustain even the ordinary demands, and the serenade which was to have been given him is postponed on account of his delicate health. It is a question whether he will have the physical ability to maintain himself during the long session.

Vogler Bros., furniture dealers in Concord, have failed.

A Washington special, speaking of the reception of Mr. Lamar's speech, says: "The anti-repudiation and hard-money sentiments were not applauded."

It has been decided to hold the annual exhibition of the New Hampshire Poultry Association in Concord, February 1st, 2d and 3d.

Steamship Deutschland is aground in the North Sea, and 150 lives are reported lost.

Postmaster Burt of Boston has resigned and will be succeeded by Hon. E. S. Tobey.

The President's message was sent in to Congress on Tuesday.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessary for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

SPECIAL SALE
— OF —
Two Large and Elaborate Oil Paintings,
3½x4½ FEET CANVASS.

No. 1. Brilliant Marine View on the Piscataqua, at sunrise, looking down river from the northern end of Noble's Bridge, embracing a part of Badger's Island, the Navy Yard, St. John's Church, etc.

No. 2. Mid-Summer Scene on the Boquet River, New York; group of cattle refreshing themselves in the stream, beneath a large elm, etc.

I offer them below their real value, being desirous to obtain by the sale, a part of the means for an outfit and passage to South Carolina, where I have promised to be in December, as teacher of music and painting in a High School.

The paintings are now on free exhibition for a few days, at studio opposite the Post Office.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. H. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a peculiary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

Jottings.

The newly organized colored troupe of singers are to give a concert in the South Ward Room on Friday evening next. The programme is one that will call forth the peculiar vocal powers of these local concertizers, who, under the leadership of Mr. Edwards, have greatly improved within the past few months. The Ward Room where they are to sing on Friday night is filled at every regular Sunday evening service by those who attend solely to listen to the quaint music of these colored singers. Go early if you woulds ecure a seat.

The next lecture at Kittery Point will be delivered next Monday evening by Mrs. Ames of Boston, a lady of superior culture, and highly popular as a lecturer. Her subject is "Pleasant Homes." The lectures are free—voluntary contributions being relied on to sustain them.

A dispatch, dated Aden, Nov. 24th, says ship Yosemite, Mack, put into Mauritius, leaky, discharged her cargo and went into dock, where she has been stripped, caulked and remetalled; she is now about to reembark the sound portion of her cargo.

The attention of the public is called to the excellent marine painting by Mr. Thomas P. Moses, now on exhibition at the bookstore of J. H. Foster. The subject, a local one, is finely treated, and commends itself to our citizens who desire to preserve historical sketches of this lovely city. This is Mr. Moses' chef dœuvre and deserves more than passing notice. It will remain in the present location only during the remainder of this week. Call and examine it.

At the recent term of the Circuit Court in this city, one man was sentenced to the State prison for a third term. His counsel was advised to except to the verdict of the jury because it recognized the "third term" principle.

Now that we have such a convenient skating rink, which is the joy of so many boys and girls in Portsmouth, we hope to be exempt from chronicling such sad accidents as the following:

Willie Carter, aged nine years, son of Samuel Carter of South Lawrence, was drowned while skating on the Merrimac River on Saturday.

Mr. Hall T. Varrell, of this city, lately connected with the Paymaster's office at the Navy Yard has been appointed clerk to Commander Bradford of the U. S. S. Marion.

The stone-crusher has been removed from Bread-and-Cheese rock, on South street, near Lafayette Road, to the city yard in rear of the Court House, and has been set up there, and is nearly ready to open its rapacious maw and crack up stones again. Two huge piles of crushed stones, for Richards Avenue in the Spring, are left on South road. At the price paid for this stone, 60 cents per ton, delivered at the crusher, it might be the cheapest as well as best road material obtainable. To draw gravel from Lafayette Road costs 50 cents per small horse-load, besides the cost of the gravel and the shovelling of the same, and one bushel of broken stone is worth several bushels of the best gravel for a street.

The rink is just the place for a rinktum, isn't it?

The insurance companies have promptly settled the loss of $3000 on Mr. L. L. de Rochemont's house and furniture, and Mr. Mason's policy of $2000 on barn and hay. An insurance agent in this city, by order of his company, who did not wish to carry that class of property, cancelled an expiring policy on the great Oceanic hotel only a few days before its destruction. This loss has not yet been adjusted; and the companies are considering whether to rebuild or pay the policies.

Mr. James Janvrin has commenced to put up a new house on South street, opposite the Arsenal, for sale. Mr. B. F. Webster is also building two more houses, on and near Rundlett's mountain.

The Holidays begin to blossom already in things of beauty. An exquisite cluster of LEAFLETS—tied together with a ribbon like a veritable bunch of flowers, (as they should be!)—is presented to the public by A. Williams & Co., Boston. It bears the mottotitle "Let not your heart be troubled," and is a compilation of poetry fragrant with devotion. The compiler has happily selected such poems (in the main) as one is not likely to meet in any other similar collection.

Schooner Mary Hawes, of Camden, Me., was found abandoned about 150 miles East of Thatcher's island on Saturday last, by schooner Midnight, Capt. Scott, and arrived at Gloucester on Monday A. M.

The captain and crew of the brig Charles Wesley, who were obliged to leave their waterlogged vessel on Georges' Bank (after several days' exposure to severe weather in a precarious condition,) and go on board of the Schooner Zini of Boston, which brought them to this port, were kindly cared for at Seamen's Home, where they lodged until free passes were obtained for them over the Eastern Railroad through the kindness of Messrs. Justin Hanscom and Thos. E. O. Marvin, who interested themselves in their behalf.

Orders were received at the navy yard on Tuesday to cease work on all vessels but the Marion and the Enterprise. Quite a large discharge was made.

For the first time our citizens will this year have an opportunity of purchasing as Christmas presents a class of goods hitherto unknown to our trade. The Rattan Works have been making some very superior Rattan goods which for beauty, durability and attractiveness cannot be excelled in the State for a Christmas present. Those wishing to order Rattan goods made should do so without delay.

Mr. G. H. Jenness of Rye slaughtered a pig on Saturday that had six ears,—five on one side of the head and one on the other. The largest of the extra ears was about two and one-half inches long.

There are forty or more ex-members of the Portsmouth Artillery Company now living in this city and vicinity. They are considering the subject of renewing their connection with the old Company, as a veteran reserve, to visit Philadelphia next 4th of July with "the boys," and take part in the celebration of the great events in which the original members of the Company were actors. A platoon of the veterans in Continental uniform, with side-arms, would add to the interest which naturally attaches to an organization which dates back to Revolutionary days.

Another reading by Miss Georgia Cayvan is promised.

The receipts from internal revenue for New Hampshire the past year were $302,002. The estimated cost of collection for the coming year is $15,000.

The receipts from customs in York last year were $30.

Pure Water and Pure Air.

Editor Chronicle: As our city is now abundantly supplied with pure water, it may be well to direct our attention to the question "How shall we secure pure air!" The interest in this subject seems to have been entirely frozen, with the freezing of the North and South Mill ponds, and thus the time for action is gradually slipping away till, with the coming Summer months, it will be again too late to take any action at all. What can be done? The mud Boulevard did not commend itself to public appreciation. The cost of dredging, if the writer is correctly informed, would be so enormous, as to render that plan impracticable, and the proposed system of drains would, it is said, cause at high tides a flow of back water into the cellars of the houses located on the border of the pond. The only other plan which has been suggested is, to keep the ponds constantly flooded, and this necessitates the purchase of the outlets by the city. Now it appears by the city tax book, that the owner of the mill privilege at the South pond was taxed the current year on a valuation of $1500, and secured an abatement of $500—his whole tax amounting to $20.20. However this may be the question recurs, "what shall be done?" and the only practicable course appears to be the one already suggested, that is, "purchase the outlets." Pure air must be had or our city will speedily lose its reputation for salubrity. We cannot hope to pass through another Summer, as we did the last, without the presence of malignant diseases, endangering the lives of our families, and ruining the financial prosperity of the city in as far as its prosperity depends upon the presence of those who make Portsmouth the central point of the large and increasing population who seek our adjacent shores as their Summer residence. —The tramp is as needy as any heathen, as easily reached by sensible kindness, fully as promising a subject, and more likely to behave himself when he reforms. It costs nothing to reach him, as most people know to their sorrow, and almost every one is wise and rich enough to act as a missionary toward him. It may be more creditable to convert a man's soul than his body, but in the case of the tramp the last named portion of his nature must be reached first.—Christian Union.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!
☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:
Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and hardly took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.
Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.
BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send me a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD.
Care Watson & Gannett.
Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.
MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.
Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

The New York Times.
A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.
Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.
ESTABLISHED 1851.
In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it still have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.
As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements or questionable notices allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by misguided journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.
As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians. It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.
The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but will it dare to fulfill in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid Lee Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.
In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.
Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.
The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
a new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England
PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

"The very best ladies' magazine published."—Seneca Falls (N. Y.) Courier.
☞ CHEAPEST AND BEST! ☜
Peterson's Magazine
POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.
☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜
"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.
Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called
THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!
The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world.
THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES
are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.
MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES
ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.
N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

MESSAGE —OF— PRESIDENT GRANT

To the Senate and House of Representatives.

In submitting my seventh annual message to Congress in the centennial year of our national existence as a free and independent people, it affords me great pleasure to recur to the advancement that has been made from the time of the colonies, one hundred years ago.

We were then a people numbering only three millions, now we number more than forty millions; the industries were confined almost exclusively to the tillage of the soil, now manufactories absorb much of the labor of the country.

Our liberties remain unimpaired, the bondsmen have been freed from slavery, we have become possessed of the respect, if not of the friendship, of all civilized nations. Our progress has been great in all the arts, in science, agriculture, commerce, navigation, mining, mechanics, law, medicine, etc., and in several our progress is likewise encouraging.

Our thirteen States have become thirty-eight (including Colorado, which has taken the initiatory steps to become a State,) and eight Territories, including the Indian Territory and Alaska, and excluding Colorado, making a territory extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific; on the South we have extended to the Gulf of Mexico, and on the West from the Mississippi to the Pacific.

One hundred years ago the cotton gin, the steamship, the railroad, the telegraph, the reaping, the sewing and modern printing machines, and numerous other inventions of scarcely less value to our business and happiness, were entirely unknown.

In 1776 manufactures scarcely existed even in name in all this vast territory. In 1870 more than two millions of persons were employed in manufactories producing more than $2,100,000,000 of products in amount annually, nearly equal to our national debt.

From nearly the whole of the population of 1776 being engaged in the one occupation of agriculture, in 1870 so numerous and diversified had become the occupation of our people that less than six millions out of more than forty millions were so engaged.

The extraordinary effect produced in our country by a resort to diversified occupations has built a market for the products of fertile lands distant from the seaboard and the markets of the world.

The American system of locating various and extensive manufactories next to the plough and the pasture and adding connecting railroads and steamboats, has produced in our distant interior country a result noticeable by the intelligent parts of all commercial nations.

The ingenuity and skill of American mechanics have been demonstrated at home and abroad in a manner most flattering to their pride.

But for the extraordinary genius and ability of our mechanics, the achievements of our agriculturists, manufacturers and transporters throughout the country would have been impossible of attainment.

The progress of the miner has also been great. Of coal our production was small; now, many millions of tons are mined annually.

So with iron, which formed scarcely an appreciable part of our product half a century ago; we now produce more than the world consumed at the beginning of our national existence.

Lead, zinc and copper, from being articles of imports, we may expect to be large exporters of in the future.

The development of gold and silver mines in the States and Territories has not only been remarkable, but has had a large influence upon the business of all commercial nations.

Our merchants in the last hundred years have had success and have established a reputation for enterprise, sagacity, progress and integrity unsurpassed by people of older nationalities.

This "good name" is not confined to their homes, but goes out upon every sea and into every port where commerce enters.

With equal pride we can point to our progress in all the learned professions.

IMPORTANCE OF EDUCATION.

As we are now about to enter upon our second centennial, commencing our manhood as a nation, it is well to look back upon the past and study what will be best to preserve and advance our future greatness. From the fall of Adam, for his transgression, to the present day, no nation has ever been free from threatened danger to its prosperity and happiness. We should look to the dangers threatening us, and remedy them so far as lies in our power. We are a republic whereof one man is as good as another before the law. Under such a form of government, it is of the greatest importance that all should be possessed of education and intelligence enough to cast a vote with a right understanding of its meaning. A large association of ignorant men cannot for any considerable period oppose a successful resistance to tyranny and oppression from the educated few, but will inevitably sink into acquiescence to the will of intelligence, whether directed by the demagogue or by priestcraft. Hence the education of the masses becomes of the first necessity for the preservation of our institutions. They are worth preserving because they have secured the greatest good to the greatest proportion of the population of any form of government yet devised. All other forms of government approach it just in proportion to the general diffusion of education and independence of thought and action. As the primary step, therefore, to our advancement in all that has marked our progress in the past century, I suggest for your earnest consideration, and most earnestly recommend it, that a constitutional amendment be submitted to the legislatures of the several States for ratification, making it the duty of the several States to establish and forever maintain free public schools, adequate to the education of all the children in the rudimentary branches within their respective limits, irrespective of sex, color, birth place or religion, forbidding the taxing in said schools of religious, a theistic or Pagan tenets, and prohibiting the granting of any school fund for or any part thereof either by legislative, municipal or other authority, for the benefit or in aid directly or indirectly, of any religious sect or denomination, or in aid or for the benefit of any other object of any nature or kind whatever.

UNTAXED CHURCH PROPERTY.

In connection with this important question, I would also call attention to the importance of correcting an evil that, if permitted to continue, will probably lead to great trouble in our land before the close of the nineteenth century. It is the accumulation of a vast amount of untaxed church property. In 1850, I believe, the church property of the United States which paid no tax, municipal or State, amounted to about $83,000,000. In 1860 the amount had doubled. In 1875 it is about $1,000,000,000. By 1900, without check, it is safe to say that this untaxed property will reach a sum exceeding $3,000,000,000. So vast a sum receiving all the protection and benefits of the government without bearing its proportion of the burdens and expenses of the same, will not be looked upon acquiescently by those who have to pay the taxes. In a country where real estate enhances so rapidly with time as in the United States, there is scarcely a limit to the wealth that may be accumulated by corporations, religious or otherwise, if allowed to retain real estate without taxation. The contemplation of so vast a property as that alluded to without taxation may lead to sequestration without constitutional authority and through blood. I would suggest the taxation of all property equally, whether church or corporation, excepting only the last resting place of the dead, and possibly with proper restrictions, church edifices.

FOREIGN RELATIONS.

Our relations with most of the foreign powers continue on a satisfactory and friendly footing. Increased intercourse, the extension of commerce and the cultivation of mutual interests, have steadily improved our relations with the large majority of the powers of the world, rendering practicable the peaceful solution of questions, which from time to time necessarily arise, leaving a few, which demand extended or particular notice. The correspondence of the Department of State with our diplomatic representatives abroad is transmitted herewith.

PORTUGAL.

I am happy to announce the passage of an act by the general Cortes of Portugal, proclaimed since the adjournment of Congress, for the abolition of servitude in the Portuguese colonies. It is to be hoped that such legislation may be another step toward the great consummation to be reached when no man shall be permitted, directly or indirectly, under any guise, excuse or form of law, to hold his fellow-man in bondage. I am of opinion that it is the duty of the United States, as contributing to reach that end and required by the spirit of the age in which we live, to provide by suitable legislation that no citizen of the United States shall hold slaves as property in any other country or be interested therein.

CHILI.

Chili has made reparation in the case of the whale ship, Good Return, seized without sufficient cause upwards of forty years ago. Though she had hitherto denied her accountability, the denial was never acquiesced in by this government and the justice of the claim has been so earnestly contended for that it has been gratifying that she should have at least acknowledged it.

COLOMBIA.

The arbitrator in the case of the United States steamer Montejo, for the seizure and detention of which the government of the United States of Colombia was held accountable, has been decided in favor of the claim. This decision has settled a question which has been pending for several years, and which, while it continued open, might more or less disturb the good understanding which it is desirable should be maintained between the republics.

HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.

A reciprocity treaty with the King of the Hawaiian Islands has been concluded some months. As it contains a stipulation that it shall not take effect until Congress shall enact the proper legislation for that purpose, copies of the instrument are herewith submitted, in order that if such should be the pleasure of Congress, the necessary legislation upon the subject may be adopted.

SPAIN.

In March last, an arrangement was made through Mr. Cushing, Minister in Madrid, with the Spanish government for the payment by the latter to the United States, of the sum of $80,000, in coin, for the purpose of the relief of the families or persons of the ship's company and certain passengers of the "Virginius." This sum was to have been paid in three installments, at two months each. It is due to the Spanish government that I should state that the payments were fully and spontaneously anticipated by that government and that the whole amount was paid within a few days more than two months from the date of the agreement, a copy of which is herewith transmitted. In pursuance of the terms of the adjustment I have directed the distribution of the amount among the parties entitled thereto, including the ship's company and such of the passengers as were American citizens. Payments are made accordingly on application of the parties entitled thereto.

THE WAR IN CUBA.

The past year has furnished no evidence of an approaching termination of the ruinous conflict which has been raging for seven years in the neighboring island of Cuba. The same disregard of the laws of civilized warfare and of just demands of humanity which have heretofore called forth expressions of condemnation from the nations of Christendom, have continued to blacken the sad scene. Desolation, ruin and pillage are pervading the rich fields of one of the most fertile and productive regions of the earth, and the incendiary's torch firing plantations and valuable factories and buildings is the agent, marking the alternate advance or retreat of the contending parties.

The protracted continuance of this strife seriously affects the interests of all commercial nations, but those of the United States more than others, by reason of close proximity, its larger trade and intercourse with Cuba, and the frequent and intimate personal and social relations which have grown up between its citizens and those of the island. Moreover, the property of our citizens in Cuba is large, and is rendered insecure and depreciated in value and in capacity of production by the continuance of the strife, and the unnatural mode of its conduct.

The same is true, differing only in degree, with respect to the interests and people of other nations; and the absence of any reasonable assurance of a near termination of conflict, must of necessity soon compel the States thus suffering to consider what the interests of their own people, and their duty toward themselves may demand.

I have hoped that Spain would be enabled to establish peace in her colony, to afford security to the property and interests of our citizens and allow legitimate scope to trade and commerce and the natural productions of the island.

Because of this hope, and from an extreme reluctance to interfere in the most remote manner in the affairs of another and a friendly nation, especially of one whose sympathy and friendship in the struggling infancy of our own existence must ever be remembered with gratitude, I have patiently and anxiously waited the progress of events. Our own civil conflict is too recent for us not to consider the difficulties which surround a government distracted by a dynastic rebellion at home, at the same time that it has to cope with a separate insurrection in a distant colony.

But whatever causes may have produced the situation which so grievously affects our interests, it exists with all its attendant evils operating directly upon this country and its people.

Thus far all the efforts of Spain have proved abortive and time has marked no improvement in the situation. The armed bands of either side now occupy nearly the same ground as in the past, with the difference from time to time of more lives sacrificed, more property destroyed, and wider extents of fertile and productive fields and more and more of valuable property constantly and wantonly sacrificed to the incendiaries' torch.

THE QUESTION OF RECOGNITION.

In contests of this nature, where a considerable body of people who have attempted to free themselves of the control of the superior governments, have reached such a point in the occupation of territory, in power and general organization, as to constitute in fact a body politic, having a government in substance as well as in name, possessed of the elements of stability, and equipped with the machinery for the administration of internal policy, and the execution of its laws, prepared to aid, and able to administer justice at home as well as in its dealings with other powers, it is within the province of those other powers to recognize its existence as a new and independent nation. In such cases other nations simply deal with an actually existing condition of things, and recognize as one of the powers of the earth that body politic, which, possessing the necessary elements, has, in fact, become a new power. In a word, the creation of a new State in fact. To establish the condition of things essential to the recognition of this fact, there must be a people occupying a known territory, united under some known and defined form of government, acknowledged by those subject thereto, in which the functions of government are administered by usual methods, competent to mete out justice to citizens and strangers, to afford remedies for public and for private wrongs, and able to assume the correlative international obligations, and capable of performing the corresponding international duties resulting from its acquisition of the rights of sovereignty. A power should exist complete in its organization, ready to take and able to maintain its place among the nations of the earth. While conscious that the insurrection in Cuba has shown a strength and endurance which make it at least doubtful whether it will be in the power of Spain to subdue it, it seems unquestionable that no such civil organization exists which may be recognized as an independent government, capable of performing its international obligation and entitled to be treated as one of the powers of the earth. A recognition under such circumstances would be inconsistent with the facts, and would compel the power granting it soon to support, by force, the government to which it had reallyjiven its only real claim of existence.

In my judgment, the United States should adhere to the policy and principles which have heretofore been its sure and safe guides in like contests between revolted colonies and their mother country, and acting only upon the clearest evidence, should avoid any possibility of suspicion or of imputation, a recognition of the independence of Cuba being, in my opinion, impracticable and indefensible.

The question which next presents itself, is that of the recognition of belligerent rights in the parties of the contest.

In a former message to Congress I had occasion to consider this question, and reached the conclusion that the conflict in Cuba, dreadful and devastating as were its incidents, did not rise to the fearful dignity of war. Regarding it now, after this lapse of time, I am unable to see that any notable success of any marked or real advance on the part of the insurgents has essentially changed the character of the contest. It has acquired greater age, but not greater or more formidable proportions. It is possible that the acts of foreign powers, and even the acts of Spain herself, of this very nature, might be pointed in defence of such recognition—but now, as in its past history, the United States should carefully avoid the false lights which might lead it into the mazes of doubtful law and of questionable propriety, and adhere rigidly and sternly to the rule which has been its guide, doing that which is right and honest and of good report.

The question of according or of withholding the rights of belligerency must be judged in every case in view of the particular attending facts. Unless justified by necessity, it is always and justly regarded as an unfriendly act and a gratuitous demonstration of moral support to the rebellion. It is reaffirmed when the interests and rights of another government or of its people are so far affected by a pending civil conflict as to require a definition of its relations to the parties thereto. But this conflict must be one which will be recognized in the sense of international war, as war. Belligerence, too, is a fact. The mere existence of contending armed bodies and their occasional conflicts do not constitute war in the sense referred to.

Applying to the existing condition of affairs in Cuba, the tests recognized by publicists and writers on international law, and which have been observed by nations of dignity, honesty and power, when free from sensitive, selfish and unworthy motives, I fail to find in the insurrection the existence of such a substantial political organization, real, palpable and manifest to the world, having the forms and capable of the ordinary functions of government toward its own people and to other States, with courts for the administration of justice, with a local habitation, possessing such organization of force, such material, such occupation of territory as to take the contest out of the category of a mere rebellious insurrection or occasional skirmish, and place it on the terrible footing of war, to which a recognition of belligerency would aim to elevate it. The contest moreover, is solely on land.

The insurrection has not possessed itself of a single seaport, whence it may send forth its fleet, nor has it any means of communication with foreign powers except through the military lines of its adversaries. No apprehension of any of those sudden difficult complications which a war upon the ocean is apt to precipitate upon the parties both commercial and national, and upon the consular officers of other provinces, calls for the definition of their relations to the parties to the contest. Considered as a question of expediency, I regard the accordance of belligerent rights still to be as unwise and premature as I regard it to be at present indefensible; as a measure of right such recognition entails upon the country according the rights which flow from it, difficult and complicated duties, and requires action from the contending parties of the strict observance of their rights and obligations.

It confers the rights of carriers upon the high seas by vessels of both parties. It would subject the carrying of guns and amunition of war which now may be transported freely and without interruption in the vessels of the United States to detention and to possible seizure. It would give rise to countless vexatious questions, would release the parent government from responsibility for acts done by the insurgents, and would invest Spain with the right to exercise the supervision recognized by our treaty of 1795, over our commerce on the high seas, a very large part of which in its traffic between the Atlantic Gulf States and between all of them and the States upon the Pacific, passes through the waters which wash the shores of Cuba. The exercise of this supposition could scarcely fail to lead, if not to abuses, certainly to collision, perilous to the peace of the United States. There can be little doubt that the result of such supervision would before long draw this nation into war. It would be unworthy of the United States to inaugurate the possibilities of such result by measures of questionable right or expediency, or by any indirection apart from any question of theoretical right. I am satisfied that while the accordance of belligerent rights to the insurgents in Cuba might give them a hope and inducement to protract the struggle, it would be but a delusive hope, and would not remove the evils which this government and its people are experiencing, but it would draw the United States into complications which it has waited long and already suffered much to avoid.

The recognition of independence or belligerency, being thus in my judgment equally inadmissible, it remains to consider what course shall be adopted should the conflict not soon be brought to an end by the acts of the parties themselves, and should the evils which result therefrom afflicting all nations and particularly the United States, continue. In such an event, I am of the opinion that other nations will be compelled to assume the responsibility which devolves upon them and to seriously consider the only remaining measures possible—mediation and intervention. Owing perhaps to the large expanse of water separating the island from the peninsular, the want of harmony and of personal sympathy between the inhabitants of the colony and those sent thither to rule them, and the want of adaptation of the ancient colonial system of Europe to the present times and to the ideas which the events of the past century have developed, the contending parties appear to have within themselves no depository of common confidence to suggest wisdom when passion and excitement have their sway, and to assume the part of peacemaker. In this view in the early days of the contest the good offices of the United States as a mediator were tendered in good faith without any selfish purpose, in the interest of humanity and in sincere friendship for both parties, but were at the time declined by Spain with the declaration, nevertheless, that at a future time they would be indispensable. No intimation has been received that in the opinion of Spain that time has been reached, and yet the strife continues with all its dread horrors and all its injuries to the interests of the United States and of other nations.

Each party seems quite capable of working great injury and damage to the other as well as to the relations and interests dependent on the existence of peace in the island, but they seem incapable of reaching any adjustment, and both have thus far failed of achieving any success whereby one party shall possess and control the island to the exclusion of the other. Under these circumstances, the agency of others, either by mediation or by intervention, seems to be the only alternative which must sooner or later be invoked for the termination of the strife. At the same time, while thus impressed, I do not at this time recommend the adoption of any measure of intervention; I shall be ready at all times and, as the equal friend of both parties, to respond to any suggestions. The good offices of the United States will be acceptable to aid in bringing about a peace honorable to both parties.

It is due to Spain, so far as this government is concerned, that the agency of a third power to which I have adverted shall be adopted only as a last expedient. Had it been the desire of the United States to interfere in the affairs of Cuba, repeated opportunities for so doing have been presented within the last few years, but we have remained passive and have performed our whole duty and all international obligations to Spain with friendship, fairness and fidelity, and with a spirit of patience and forbearance, which negative severy possible suggestion of a desire to interfere or to add to the difficulties with which she has been surrounded. The government of Spain has recently submitted to our Minister at Madrid certain proposals which, it is hoped, may be found to be the basis, if not the actual submission of terms to meet the requirments of the particular griefs to which this government has felt itself entitled. The completion of these proposals have not reached me in their full text. On their arrival they will be taken into careful examination, and may, I hope, lead to a satisfactory adjustment of the questions to which they refer, and remove the possibility of future occurrences, such as have given rise to our just complaints.

It is understood also that renewed offers are being made to introduce reforms in the internal administration of the island. Persuaded, however, that a proper regard for the interests of the United States, and of its citizens entitle it to relief from the strain to which it has been subjected by the difficulties of the questions, and the wrongs and losses which arise from the contest in Cuba, and that the interests of humanity itself demand the cessation of the strife before the whole island shall be laid to waste, and a larger sacrifice of life be made, I shall feel it my duty should my hopes of a satisfactory adjustment and of the early restoration of peace, and the removal of future causes of complaint be unhappily disappointed, to make a further communication to Congress at some period not far remote, and during the present session, recommending what may then seem to me to be necessary.

—Kentucky gives a grunt of satisfaction at its hog crop.

In the House there are several contested seats, and there is a vacancy in the Fourth Tennessee District, caused by the death of the Hon. John W. Head. Hon. Samuel M. Fite, who was then elected to the seat, died a few weeks since, and there is still a vacancy. The democrats have nominated H. Y. Riddle for the vacancy. In the Thirty-third New York District there is also an apparent vacancy. The Board of Canvassers, being unable to decide the question as to who is elected, have left the question for the House to determine.

"Heal Thyself."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of about 900 pages, illustrated with over 250 engravings and colored plates, and sold at the exceedingly low rate of $1.50, tells you how to cure Catarrh, "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sick, Bilious, and other Headaches, Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Diseases; all diseases peculiar to women, and most other chronic as well as acute disorders. It contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. Men and women, married and single, are tempted to ask their family physician thousands of questions on delicate topics, but are deterred from doing so by their modesty. This work answers just such questions so fully and plainly as to leave no one in doubt. It is sold by Agents, or sent by mail (post-paid) on receipt of price. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

From the Lafayette Daily Courier.

A VALUABLE WORK.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, distinguished in surgery, and the general practice in the profession he honors, has made a valuable contribution to the medical literature of the day, in a comprehensive work entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." While scientific throughout, it is singularly ree from technical and stilted terms. It omes right down to the common sense of every-day life. Dr. Pierce is a noble specimen of American manhood. He has sprung from the people; and, with many sympathies in common with the masses, has sought to render them a substantial service in this the great work of his life.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TO-DAY.

Lecture—Ex-Judge C. T. Garland.
House to Let.

Crew Rescued.

Schooner Addie Ryerson, Cousins, from Perth Amboy with pig iron (to be transshipped to Manchester) for this port, arrived here on Wednesday forenoon, the 8th inst. She left Vineyard Haven on the 27th, arriving within about four miles of the Shoals at eight o'clock on the following Monday morning. At the time the heavy northwesterly gale split the vessel's jib and she was compelled to drift away to sea under a double reefed mainsail, the ice making on the vessel to such an extent as to perceptibly deepen her draught of water. At one o'clock Wednesday sighted schooner Delmont, of Portland, to leeward, with her ensign set union down; hoisted outer jib and ran down to her, finding her in a sinking condition and the crew of six men waiting to be taken off.

The Delmont's men were badly frost-bitten, and the assistance of the Addie Ryerson's crew was needed to get them and their clothing on board, which was accomplished at three o'clock P. M., the Delmont going down about two hours later. Made sail on the Ryerson the same evening and sighted the Highland of Cape Cod at about three o'clock Thursday afternoon, arriving in Cape Ann on Sunday morning, where the rescued crew were landed. The Delmont was a vessel of 160 tons register, bound from Philadelphia to Portland with some 250 tons of coal on board. The mate's arm was in a very bad condition, he having been struck by the wheel, and the other members of the crew were in a rather pitiable state.

Death of M. B. Goodrich.

The death of Mr. Marco Bozzaris Goodrich, at about ten o'clock on the evening of the 7th, was the end of a life of more than ordinary adventure and vicissitude. Mr. Goodrich at the time of his death was about 48 years of age, a large part of his life having been passed in absence from this city, where he was born and where the last years of his life were spent. He was one of the California pioneers, leaving here in March, 1849, for that then newly-found land of promise; and remaining there until 1864, sometimes wealthy and sometimes penniless, as was the experience of so many others. In 1861, (the secession trouble having culminated in war) he took a firm stand for the Union, actively and effectively stumping the State in opposition to the schemes of the disunionists there, who proposed to form a new Union at the extreme West, and leave the old Republic out in the cold,—a scheme by which, if successful, they would have aided the rebellion more than they could have done in any other way. The tangible results of the patriotic efforts of Mr. Goodrich and his co-workers were seen in the rejection of the treasonable scheme and the prompt raising of Union troops, of one company of which Mr. Goodrich was offered the command; but doubting his ability as a military officer he declined the position and entered the ranks as a private, the company being attached to the 4th Californian Regiment, which relieved Phil. Sheridan on the Indian Reservation.

In 1864 he returned to this city, where he has since resided. In politics he was a genuine Independent, voting sometimes with one party and sometimes with the other, seeking no office and boldly and energetically denouncing whatever seemed to him to be wrong, no matter which party he hit. Eccentric to a degree, with not a small share of common sense, having decided opinions on most subjects, always outspoken and ready to maintain his views against any antagonist, he yet made few (if any) enemies, and his honesty of purpose and faith in the views he upheld could not be questioned by any who really knew the man. He was chosen a member of the school committee by the democrats at the last election.

Fully aware of his approaching end he contemplated it calmly and without fear, and only expressed one unavailing regret, —that his aged mother and sisters would be deprived of his aid and attention during the closing years of their lives.

The Wreck of the Gallatin.

The San Francisco Chronicle describes the thrilling adventure of a ship-wrecked party, who lately had a most remarkable escape from being swallowed up by the ocean. The ship Albert Gallatin, of this city, in which were Captain Groves, his wife and two children, one a babe, encountered a heavy sea off Cape Horn and lost her rudder. Every effort was made to replace it; but the weather continued severe, and the rough winds and waves tossed the ship to and fro like a cork. At length the overwashed ship was found to be drifting on to the rocks, and all on board were compelled hastily to abandon her. The captain, his wife, two children and five seamen took one boat and the remainder of the crew the other, and the latter have not been heard from since. After all were in the small boat the captain's brave little wife rushed on to the ship and snatched the chronometers and charts and brought them away safely. The boat got away with sixty pounds of bread, but everything was wet, and they had to bail constantly to keep the boat from going down with them. That night was very cold, and the canvas over their heads froze stiff. They could not lie down nor sleep, and had to sit in a stooping position, which Mrs. Groves did with her babe on her lap. After being tossed about for two days they landed on a barren island, where they often found it difficult to get a fire, and suffered intolerably from the cold. Here they found a little wild celery, which they mixed with their salt sea-soaked bread and some preserved meats, which they had served in small quantities. At last they sighted a vessel and made for her. She proved to be the ship Syren, from Boston to Honolulu. The shipwrecked wanderers had now been afloat or on frozen islands for eighteen days, in all of which time they had never had a change of garments. When they were taken on board the men were almost blind. All were nearly starved, and one sailor was out of his mind. Yet during all those eighteen days of dreadful suffering Mrs. Groves had managed to nurse her babe and preserve both its life and her own.

Jottings.

Mr. William Plaisted, having become convinced that the street carriage did not remunerate him as heretofore managed, is intending to try a new plan and will for a few days make round trips, starting from Market Square through Congress, Islington and Cass streets, down Middle street to the Square, and return over the same route, so that persons desiring to ride can take the carriage whenever they see it and be assured of reaching their homes. Should the plan prove successful, Mr. Plaisted will issue a new time-table.

We are engaged in a terrific struggle with the President's message, and ask the indulgence of readers who take no interest in such weighty documents, until the close of the week gives breathing space for more news of a general nature. Ulysses doubtless took no thought of small newspapers when he wrote, and so has our forgiveness, and an expressed hope that he'll not repeat the offence.

A Widely Applicable Remedy.

Few remedies are applicable to such a wide range of disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and this not because it has special properties adapted to the cure of each—such a pretence would be manifestly absurd,—but on account of its wonderfully improving effect upon the general tone of the system, and its alterative action upon the organs of nutrition, secretion and discharge. Besides its well known properties as a remedy for intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, torpidity of the liver, general debility, urinary and uterine difficulties, it invariably proves to be highly serviceable in overcoming anæmia, hypochondria, rheumatism, insomnia, and many other disorder and disabilities originating in poverty or impurity of the blood, nervous weakness or over excitement, or an imperfect performance of the physical functions.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

False Delicacy.

The friends of those who are troubled with bad breath, and, through over squeamishness, dislike to refer to it, commit a positive and cruel mistake, especially if they are aware of the merits and great efficacy of the fragrant SOZODONT. This is the true and only remedy for the difficulty; there is no valid excuse for a bad breath now.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up a small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. I have taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully, MRS. B. T. LANE.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rowlesdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever since for a moment received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and peril, and always against the personal office; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lend THE TIMES to stand firmly by the National Credit.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was in power. Numerous members, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all questions it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subjects. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to improve new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, A. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the fury trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large-sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift.

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequalled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and Receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

MESSAGE
—OF—
PRESIDENT GRANT

THE ZONA LIBRE.

The Free Zone, so called, several years since established by the Mexican government in certain of the States of that Republic adjacent to our frontier, remains in full operation. It has always been materially injurious to honest traffic, for it operates as an incentive to traders in Mexico to supply, without the customary charges, the wants of the inhabitants on this side of the line, and prevents the same wants from being supplied by merchants of the United States, thereby to a considerable extent defrauding our revenue and checking honest commercial enterprise. Depredations by armed bands from Mexico on the people of Texas near the frontier continue. Though the main object of the incursions is robbery, they frequently result in the murder of unarmed and peaceably disposed persons, and in some instances even the United States post offices and mail communications have been attacked. Renewed remonstrances upon this subject have been addressed to the Mexican government, but without much apparent effect. The military force of this government, distributed for service in that quarter, is quite inadequate to effectually guard the line even at those points where the incursions are usually made. An experiment of an armed vessel on the Rio Grande for that purpose is on trial and it is hoped that if not thwarted by the shallowness of the river and other natural obstacles, it may materially contribute to the protection of the herdsmen of Texas. The proceedings of the Joint Commission under the convention between the United States and Mexico, of the 4th of July, 1868, on the subject of claims, will soon be brought to a close. The result of those proceedings will then be communicated to Congress.

VENEZUELA.

I am happy to announce that the government of Venezuela has, upon further consideration, practically abandoned its objection to pay the United States that share of its revenue which, some years since, it allowed toward the extinguishment of the claims of foreigners generally. In this reconsideration of its determination, that government has shown a just sense of its self-respect, which cannot fail to reflect credit upon it in the eyes of all disinterested persons elsewhere. It is to be regretted, however, that its payments on account of the United States, are still so meager in amount and that the stipulations of the Treasury in regard to the sums to be paid and the periods when those payments were to take place, should have been so signally disregarded.

TREATIES RATIFIED.

Since my last annual message, the exchange has been made of the ratification of a treaty of commerce and navigation with Belgium, and of conventions with the Mexican Republic, for the further extension of the joint commission respecting claims; with the Hawaiian Islands, for commercial reciprocity, and with the Ottoman empire for extradition, all of which have been duly proclaimed.

THE COURT OF COMMISSIONERS OF THE ALABAMA CLAIMS

has proceeded with its important duties very assiduously and very satisfactorily. It convened and was organized on the 22d day of July, 1874, and by the terms of the act under which it was created, was to exist for one year from date. The act provided, however, that should it be found impracticable to complete the work of the court before the expiration of the year, the President might by proclamation extend the time of its duration to a period not more than six months beyond the expiration of the one year. Having received satisfactory evidence that it would be impracticable to complete the work well in the time originally fixed, I issued a proclamation, a copy of which is presented herewith, extending the time of duration of the court for a period of six months, from and after the 22d day of July last. A report made through the clerk of the court, communicated herewith, shows the condition of the calendar on the first of November last, and the large amount of work which has been accomplished. Thirteen hundred and eighty-two claims have been presented, of which six hundred and eighty-two had been disposed of at the date of the report. I am informed that one hundred and seventy cases were decided during the month of November. Agreements are being made and decisions given in the remaining cases with all the dispatch consistent with the proper consideration of the questions submitted. Many of these claims are in behalf of mariners, or depend on the evidence of mariners whose absence has delayed the taking or the return of the necessary evidence. It is represented to me that it will be impracticable to the court to finally dispose of all the cases before it within the present limit of its duration. Justice to the parties claimant who have been at large expense in preparing their claims and obtaining the evidence in their support, suggests a short extension to enable the court to dispose of all of the claims which have been presented. I recommend the legislation which may be deemed proper to enable the court to complete the work before it.

CLAIMS OF ALIENS AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

I recommend that some suitable provision be made by the creation of a special court or by confirming the necessary jurisdiction upon some appropriate tribunal for the consideration and determination of the claims of aliens against the government of the United States, which have arisen within some reasonable limitation of time, or which may hereafter arise, excluding all claims barred by treaty provisions or otherwise. It has been found impossible to give proper consideration to those claims by the Executive Department of the government. Such a tribunal would afford an opportunity to aliens, other than British subjects, to present their claims on account of acts committed against their persons or property during the rebellion, as also those subjects of Great Britain whose claims having arisen subsequent to the 9th of April, 1865, could not be presented to the late Commission organized pursuant to the provision of the treaty of Washington.

OCEAN CABLES.

The electric telegraph has become an essential and indispensable agent in the transmission of business and social messages. Its operation on land, and within the limit of particular States, is necessarily under the control of the jurisdiction within which it operates. The lines on the high seas, however, are not subject to the particular control of any one government. In 1869 a concession was granted by the French government to a company which proposed to lay a cable from the shores of France to the United States. At that time there was a telegraphic connection between the United States and the Continent of Europe, through the possessions of Great Britain, at either end of the line, in the control of an association which had at a large outlay of capital and at great risk demonstrated the practicability of maintaining such means of communication. The cost of correspondence by this agency was great, possibly not too large at the time for a proper remuneration for so hazardous and so costly an enterprise. It was however, a heavy charge upon a means of communication which the progress in the social and commercial intercourse of the world found to be a necessity, and the obtaining of this French concession showed that other capital than that already invested was ready to enter into competition with assurance of adequate return for this outlay. Impressed with the conviction that the interests not only of the people of the United States but of the world at large, demanded or would demand the multiplication of such means of communication between separated continents, I was desirous that the proposed connection should be made, but certain provisions of this concession were deemed by me to be objectionable, particularly one which gave for a long term of years the exclusive right of telegraphic communication by submarine cable between the shores of France and the United States. I could not concede that any power should claim the right to land a cable on the shores of the United States, and at the same time deny to the United States or to its citizens or grantees an equal right to land a cable on its shores. The right to control the conditions for the laying of a cable within the jurisdiction of the waters of the United States to connect our shores with those of foreign States, pertains exclusively to the government of the United States under such limitations and conditions as Congress may impose. In the absence of legislation by Congress, I was unwilling on the one hand to yield to a foreign State the rights to say that its grantees might land on our shores while it denied a similar right to our people to land on its shores, and on the other hand, I was reluctant to deny to the great interests of the world and of civilization, the facilities of such communication as were proposed. I therefore withheld any resistance to the landing of any cable on condition that the offensive monopoly feature of the concession be abandoned, and that the right of any cable which may be established by authority of this government to land upon French territory, and to connect with French land lines, and enjoy all necessary facilities or privileges incident to the use thereof on as favorable terms as any other company, be conceded. As the result thereof the company in question renounced the exclusive privilege, and the representative of France was informed that understanding this relinquishment to be construed as granting the entire reciprocity, and equal facilities which had been demanded, the opposition to the landing of the cable was withdrawn. The cable, under this French concession, was landed in the month of July, 1869, and has been an efficient and valuable agent of communication between this country and the other continent. It soon passed under the control, however, of those who had the management of the cable connecting Great Britain with this continent. Thus whatever benefit to the public might have ensued from competition between the two lines, was lost, having the greater facilities of an additional line, and the additional security in case of accident to one of them. But these increased facilities, and this additional security, together with the control of the combined capital of the two companies, gave also greater power to prevent the future construction of other lines and to limit the control of telegraphic communication between the two continents to those possessing the lines already laid. Within a few months past, a cable has been laid, known as the United States Direct Cable Company, connecting the United States directly with Great Britain.

As soon as this cable was reported to be in working order, the rates of the then existing consolidated company were greatly reduced. Soon, however, a break was announced in this new cable, and immediately the rates of the other line, which had been reduced, were again raised. This cable being now repaired, the rates appear not to be reduced by either line from those formerly charged by the consolidated companies. There is reason to believe that large amounts of capital, both at home and abroad, are ready to seek profitable investment in the advancement of this useful and most civilizing means of intercourse and correspondence. They await, however, the assurance of the means and condition on which they may safely be made tributary to the general good. As these cable telegraph lines connect separate States, there are questions as to their organization and control, which probably can be best, if not solely, settled by conventions between respective States. In the absence, however, of international conventions on the subject, municipal legislation may secure many points which appear to me important, if not indispensable, for the protection of the public against the extortions which may result from a monopoly of the right of operating cable telegraphs, or from a combination between several lines:

First—no line should be allowed to land on the shores of the United States, under the concession from another power which does not admit the right of any other line or lines formed in the United States to land and freely connect with, and operate through land lines.

Second—No line should be allowed to land on the shores of the United States, which is not by treaty stipulated with the government from whose shores it proceeds or by prohibition in its charter, or otherwise to the satisfaction of this government, prohibited from consolidating or amalgamating with any other telegraph line or combining therewith for the purpose of regulating and maintaining the cost of telegraphing.

Third—All lines should be bound to give precedence in the transmission of the official messages of the government, of the two countries between which it may be laid.

Fourth—A power should be reserved to the two governments either conjointly or to each as regards the messages despatched from its shores to fix a limit to the charges to be demanded for the transmission of messages.

I present this subject to the earnest consideration of Congress. In the meantime and unless Congress otherwise direct, I shall not oppose the landing of any telegraphic cable which complies with, and assents to, the points above enumerated, but will feel it my duty to prevent the landing of any which does not conform to the first and second points as stated, and which will not stipulate to concede to this government the precedence in the transmission of its official messages, and will not enter into a satisfactory arrangement in regard to its charges.

NATURALIZATION AND EXPATRIATION.

Among the pressing and important subjects to which in my opinion the attention of Congress should be directed are those relating to fraudulent naturalization and expatriation. The United States, with great liberality, extends its citizenship to all who in good faith comply with the requirements of law. These requirements are as simple and upon as favorable terms to the emigrant as the high privilege to which he is admitted, can or should permit. I do not propose any additional requirements to those which the law now demands. But the very simplicity and the want of unnecessary formality in our law have made fraudulent naturalization not infrequent, to the discredit and injustice of all honest citizens, whether native or naturalized. Cases of this character are continually being brought to the notice of the government by our representatives abroad, and also those of persons, resident in other countries, most frequently those, who, if they have remained in this country long enough to entitle them to become naturalized, have generally not much over-passed that period, and have returned to the country of their origin, where they will reside, avoiding all duties to the United States by their absence, and claiming to be exempt from all duties to the country of their nationality and of their residence, by reason of their alleged naturalization.

It is due to this government itself, and to the great mass of the naturalized citizens who entirely both in name and in fact becomes citizens of the United states, that the high privilege of citizenship of the United States should not be held by fraud or in derogation of the laws and of the good name of every honest citizen. On many occasions it has been brought to the knowledge of the government that certificates of naturalization are held and protection or interference claimed by parties who admit that not only they were not within the United States at the time of the pretended naturalization, but that they have never resided in the United States. In others the certificate record of the Court showed the facts that the persons claiming to be naturalized had not resided in the United States. In others, it is admitted upon examination, that the requirements of law have not been complied with. In some cases even such certificates have been matter of purchase.

These are not isolated cases arising at rare intervals, but of common occurrence, and which are reported from all quarters of the globe. Such occurrences cannot and do not fail to reflect upon the government and injure all honest citizens. Such a fraud being discovered, however, there is no practicable means within the control of the government by which the record of naturalization can be vacated, and should the certificate be taken up as it usually is by the diplomatic and consular representatives of the government to whom it may have been presented, there is nothing to prevent the person claiming to have been naturalized from obtaining a new certificate in place of that which has been taken from him. The evil has become so great and of such frequent occurrence that I cannot too earnestly recommend that some effective measures be adopted to provide a proper remedy and means for the vacating of any record thus fraudulently made, and of punishing the guilty parties to the transaction.

In this connection I refer also to the question of expatriation and the election of nationality. The United States was foremost in upholding the right of expatriation and was principally instrumental in overthrowing the doctrine of perpetual allegiance. Congress has declared the right of expatriation to be a natural and inherent right of all people, but while many other nations have enacted laws providing what formalities shall be necessary to work a change of allegiance, the United States has enacted no provisions of law and has in no respect marked out how and when expatriation may be accomplished by its citizens. Instances are brought to the attention of the government where citizens of the United States, either naturalized or native born, have formally become citizens or subjects of foreign powers, but who, nevertheless, in the absence of any provisions of legislation on this question, when involved in difficulties, or when it seems to be their interest, claim to be citizens of the United States, and demand the intervention of a government which they have long since abandoned and to which for years they have rendered no service, nor held themselves in any way amenable. In other cases naturalized citizens immediately after naturalization have returned to their native country, have become engaged in business, have accepted offices or pursuits inconsistent with American citizenship, and evidence no intent to return to the United States until called upon to discharge some duty to the country where they are residing, when at once they assert their citizenship, and call upon the representatives of the government to aid them in their unjust pretensions.

It is but justice to all bona fide citizens that no doubt should exist on such questions, and that Congress should determine by enactment of a law how expatriation may be accomplished and change of citizenship be established.

I also invite your attention to the necessity of regulating by law the status of American women who may marry foreigners and of defining more fully that of children born in a foreign country, of American parents who may reside abroad, and also of some further provisions regulating or giving legal effect to marriages of American citizens contracted in foreign countries. The correspondence submitted herewith shows a few of the constantly occurring questions on these points presented to the consideration of the government. There are few subjects to engage the attention of Congress on which more delicate relations or more important interests are dependent.

THE NEW STATE DEPARTMENT BUILDING.

In the month of July last the building erected for the Department of State was taken possession of and occupied by that department. I am happy to announce that the archives and valuable papers of the government in the custody of that department are now safely deposited and properly cared for.

THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY'S REPORT.

The report of the Secretary of the Treasury shows the receipts from customs for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1874, to have been $163,103,833.69, and for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1875, to have been $157,-167,722.35, a decrease for the last fiscal year of $5,936,111.34; receipts for internal revenue for the year ending the 30th of June, 1874, were $102,409,784.90, and for the year ending June 30, 1875, were $110,-007,493.58; increase, $7,579,708.68. The report also shows a complete history of the working of the department for the last year, and contains suggestions for reforms and for legislation, in which I concur, but cannot comment on so fully as I should like to do if space would permit, but will confine myself to a few suggestions which I look upon as vital to the best interests of the whole people coming within the purview of the Treasury. I mean

SPECIE RESUMPTION.

Too much stress cannot be laid upon this question, and I hope Congress may be induced at the earliest day practicable, to insure the consummation of the act of the last Congress at its last session to bring about specie resumption on and after the first day of January, 1879, at the furthest. It would be a great blessing if this could be consummated even at an earlier day. Nothing seems to be more certain than that a full, healthy and permanent reaction cannot take place in favor of the industries and financial welfare of the country until we return to the measure of values recognized throughout the civilized world.

While we use a currency not equivalent to this standard, the world's recognized standard, specie, becomes a commodity like the products of the soil, the surplus seeking a market wherever there is a demand for it. Under our present system, we should want none, nor would we have any were it not that customs dues must be paid in coin; and because of the pledge to pay the interest of the public debt in coin, the yield of precious metals would flow out for the purchase of foreign productions, and leave the United States hewers of wood and drawers of water. Because of wiser legislation on the subject of finance by the nations with whom we have dealings, I am not prepared to say that I can suggest the best legislation to secure the end most heartily commended. It will be a source of great gratification to me to be able to aprove any measure of Congress looking effectively toward securing resumption. Unlimited inflation would probably bring about specie payments more speedily than any legislation looking to the redemption of legal tenders in coin. But it would be at the expense of honor. The legal tenders would have no value beyond settling the present liabilities or properly speaking, repudiating them. They would bring nothing after the debts were all settled. There are a few measures which seem to me important in this connection, and which I commend to your earnest consideration.

1.—A repeal of so much of the legal tender act as makes their notes receivable for debts contracted after a date, to be fixed in the act itself, say not later than the first of January, 1877. We should then have quotations at real values, not fictitious ones. Gold would no longer be at a premium, but currency at a discount. A healthy reaction would set in at once, and with it a desire to make the currency equal to what it purports to be. The merchants, manufacturers and tradesmen of every calling could do business on a fair margin of profit, the money to be received having an unvarying value. Laborers and all classes who work for stipulated pay or salary would receive more for their income, because extra profits would no longer be charged by the capitalist to compensate for the risk of a downward fluctuation in the value of the currency.

2. That the Secretary of the Treasury be authorized to redeem, say not to exceed two million dollars monthly, of legal tender notes by issuing in their stead a long bond bearing interest at the rate of three and sixty-five-hundredths per annum, of denominations ranging from fifty dollars to one thousand dollars each. This would in time reduce the legal tender notes to a volume that could be kept afloat without demanding redemption in large sums suddenly.

3. That additional powers be given to the Secretary of the Treasury to accumulate the gold for the final redemption either by increasing the revenue, curtailing expenses, or both. It is preferable to do both, and I recommend that a reduction of expenditures be made wherever it can be done without impairing government obligation or crippling the due execution thereof.

THE REVENUE.

One measure for increasing the revenue, and the only one I think of, is the restoration of the duty on tea and coffee. These duties would add probably eighteen million dollars to the present amount received from imports and would in no way increase the prices paid for those articles by the consumers. These articles are the products of countries collecting revenue from exports, and as we, the largest consumers, reduce the duties, they proportionally increase them. With this addition to the revenue many duties now collected and which give an insignificant return for the cost of collection, might be remitted and to the direct advantage of the consumers at home. I would mention those articles which enter into manufactures of all sorts. All duty paid upon such articles goes directly to the cost of the article when manufactured here and must be paid for by the consumers. These duties not only come from the consumers at home, but act as a protection to foreign manufacturers of the same completed articles in our own and distant markets. I will suggest or mention another subject bearing upon the problem of "how to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to accumulate balances." It is to devise some other method of verifying claims against the government than at present exists through the Court of Claims, especially those claims growing out of the late war. Nothing is more certain than that a very large percentage of the amount passed and paid are either wholly fraudulent or are far in excess of the real losses sustained. The large amount of losses proven, on good testimony according to existing laws, by affidavits of fictitious or unscrupulous persons to have been sustained on small farms and plantations, are not only far beyond the possible yield of those places for any one year, but, as every one knows who has had experience in tilling the soil and who has visited the scenes of these spoliations, are in many instances more than the individual claimants were ever worth, including their personal and real estate. The report of the Attorney General, which will be submitted to Congress at an early day, will contain a detailed history of the awards made and of claims pending of the class here referred to.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administation of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfilment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

Dover, Dec. 6, 1875.

There was a million dollar fire on Thursday at Five Points, New York.

As D. C. Barber, a student at Exeter, was going down stairs, he stepped upon a knife which entered his heel about two inches, and had to be cut around by the doctor before it could be extracted.

Lucius W. Pond, the Worcester forger, has been arrested in San Francisco.

A Widely Applicable Remedy.

Few remedies are applicable to such a wide range of disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and this not because it has special properties adapted to the cure of each—such a pretence would be manifestly absurd,—but on account of its wonderfully improving effect upon the general tone of the system, and its alterative action upon the organs of nutrition, secretion and discharge. Besides its well known properties as a remedy for intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, torpidity of the liver, general debility, urinary and uterine difficulties, it invariably proves to be highly serviceable in overcoming anæmia, hypochondria, rheumatism, insomnia, and many other disorder and disabilities originating in poverty or impurity of the blood, nervous weakness or over excitement, or an imperfect performance of the physical functions.

Sons and daughters of Adam everywhere use Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Price 35 and 75 cts

For Coughs, Colds, and Throat Disorders, use "Brown's Bronchial Troches," having proved their efficacy by a test of many years.

Before your Lungs begin to Fester, stop the cough that may otherwise destroy you, with HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

False Delicacy.

The friends of those who are troubled with bad breath, and, through over-squeamishness, dislike to refer to it, commit a positive and cruel mistake, especially if they are aware of the merits and great efficacy of the fragrant SOZODONT. This is the true and only remedy for the difficulty; there is no valid excuse for a bad breath now.

Spaulding's Glue mends everything.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,
SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,
For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs
NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

Henry Wilson Born in Kittery.

Farmington has always been designated as the birth-place of Henry Wilson, but lately it has been said that he was born in a gipsy-camp. Now hear his evidence on this point: On the morning of Aug. 31, 1874, a large company left the Oceanic in the Steamer Major; among them was Mr. Wilson; as the steamer neared Fort Constitution, he said to a lady near him, "Where is Kittery? On her pointing out the place to him, he said "There is where I first saw the light." As his mother lived in Kittery before she was married, it might have been that she was with her friends there at the time of his birth—or a gipsy-camp might have been pitched there.

Jottings.

The cable staff at Rye Beach were entertained on Wednesday evening by Mr. John Connor, a member of the staff who has recently been transferred for service at Torbay. After an elegant supper speeches and toasts were given by his associates and invited guests.

Mr. Obed Wilson, an esteemed resident of York, and widely known, died suddenly at his home early Thursday morning, of paralysis. He was about 55 years of age.

The Rye Cornet Band is to have its annual benefit next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the proceeds to go toward the purchase of a new uniform. Minstrel entertainments open the performances, Prof. Goodall is to play several violin solos, the Portsmouth Double Quartet will sing, and two laughable farces will close the performances: "The Troublesome Servant," and "Prof. Smith's Pupils." G. H. Jenness is stage manager. The posters from the press of Mr. Charles W. Gardner are the best specimens ever printed in Portsmouth.

Rev. Frank Haley, recently of the Belknap church of Dover, has accepted the call of the Seabrook and Hampton Falls Congregational Church, and enters upon his work immediately.

In addition to the torpedoes shipped to New York within two or three days, twenty-four cases and five buoys have been sent by rail from the torpedo station at Newport, R. I., to the navy yard, for the sloop-of-war Marion.

News and Notes.

A high government official states that the forthcoming message on Cuba will contain statements of startling interest, and fully justify the naval preparations. This officer adds that it is by no means certain that our negotiations with Spain can be successfully terminated without danger of grave complications.

The London Times says, editorially: "The Tweed American reformers of 1871 have either gone to sleep or turned mere politicians, or joined in with Tweed's successors. In the midst of this farcical transposition the great offender slips cleverly through the fingers of his custodian, notwithstanding he is almost the size of the Tichborne claimant. Many New Yorkers will feel indignant at Tweed's escape. Many others will be glad at the luck of the poor boy's friend, the luck of a genuine democrat, who redressed the inequalities of fortune, in Robin Hood fashion, and distributed openhandedly the superfluous riches which he took from others." The Times connects Tweed's escape with the political reaction which has carried back into Tammany's hands the politicians whom Tweed represented.

President Grant has appointed John Q. Smith of Ohio to be Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

There is already a grand rush of summer visitors to Florida and the hotels and boarding-houses are rapidly filling up. The Jacksonville papers say that half a dozen Northern steamboats are to be sent to the St. John's, and two or three fine yachts (Astor's and Butler's included) are to be there for the Winter. The St. John's will be a lively and brilliant Winter scene, even the present Winter, and more yachts and steamers will go there, each succeeding Winter. New hotels are in process of erection at several points on the river. Among the prominent arrivals are ex-Treasurer Spinner and Hon. Reuben E. Fenton, of New York. The weather continues free from morning frost, and the noon temperature rises daily to about 70 degrees in Jacksonville.

Senator Wadleigh of this State is made chairman of the committee on patents in place of Senator Ferry, deceased.

In the House, Tuesday the 7th, the drawing for seats consumed over an hour. Mr. Kelley as the member eldest in service, was allowed to select a seat before the drawing began, and chose the seat formerly occupied by Mr. Dawes on the west side of the hall, and thus secured to the republicans the same side heretofore occupied by the members of that party. The democrats filled up their old seats and then took places to the extreme right. Mr. Alex. Stephens had reserved for him the seat formerly occupied by Mr. Clymer, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Seelye, of Massachusetts, who, was one of those drawn early, took the seat immediately in the rear of Mr. Kelley's. Mr. Hoar getting his old seat just across the aisle from Kelley. Ex-Speaker Blaine secured a seat in the same section to the right of Mr. Seelye and immediately in the rear of that formerly occupied by Thaddeus Stevens. Fernando Wood secured a good position on the republican side adjoining the main aisle. Sunset Cox got his old seat in the front row, to the right of the Speaker's desk. Mr. Randall got the seat just behind Mr. Cox. Gen. Banks got the seat just behind the one formerly occupied by him, situated next to the front on the left of the Speaker. Gen. Butler's old place is filled by Mr. McDill, of Iowa. Gen. Garfield had to take a back seat, and Mr. Lamar went to the extreme right on the republican side. The prominent men of both parties fared pretty well in getting well-located seats.

The Manchester Reform Club numbers 1600 members.

The correspondent of the Boston Globe says of the Southern Congressmen: There is a wholesome tameness about the appearance of these Southern ex-Confederate officers, which gives the nervous patriot a firm assurance that no immediate attempt will be made by them to capture Washington. They are not the Southern men of antebellum times. The generation of the Keitts, the Rhetts, the Barksdales, the Toombs, the Wigfalls and the Prestons S. Brooks, seems either to have passed away, or to have been buried in the grave of political oblivion. How fierce and domineering was every movement of these men upon the floor of the House! There is nothing of this in the aspect of the men who have been sent here to represent the South in this Congress. To all appearances, they are as gentle as lambs, and about the only difference you observe between them and other members on the floor is, that when they approach to be sworn in, they take the modified oath instead of the old "ironclad."

A large number of students of Dartmouth College are out teaching, and many more want to be, but can't get places, the demand not being equal to the supply.

Charles Law has been held in $1500 bonds at Concord, for trial on the charge of attempting to feloniously assault the wife of Fred. B. Story, as she was going home a few evenings ago.

It is said that a young married couple in Gilford separated a few weeks since, because of a difference of opinion as to which should get up in the morning and build the fire.

Massachusetts City Elections.

Gloucester chose a republican Mayor, Allan Rogers, by a vote of 1129 to 777 for Robert F. Fears, democrat. Five republican and three democratic aldermen, and twelve republican and ten democratic councilmen were elected.

The republicans of Fall River re-elected Mayor Davenport, who received 1953 votes to 1666 for Louis Lapham, democrat.

Edmund R. Hayden, democrat, was chosen Mayor of Lawrence by a vote of 2162 to 1843 for Knox, republican. The republicans rejoice over the election of all six aldermen and twelve of the eighteen councilmen, giving them full control of the city officers.

Mayor Emerson Wight was re-elected in Springfield by 605 majority, with a republican and reform city council.

Mayor W. B. C. Pearson is re-elected in Holyoke with a republican council.

The citizen's candidate for Mayor of New Bedford, Abraham H. Howland, has 360 majority over Geo. B. Richmond, prohibitionist, the vote being 2477 to 2107.

Thomas Green, citizens' candidate, was chosen Mayor of Chelsea over Rugg, by 216 majority.

[On the removal of the old house on Middle Street, near Union Street.]

There is a house in this notable town,
Some called it black, I call it brown;
In Middle Street it stood yester morn,
But now they've moved it further along.
The brown house was old, so they say,
For it has stood for many a day.
A hundred and fifty years and more,
I can't say positively, perhaps a score.
Full many a tale its walls might tell,
Of childhood scenes—of Abby and Nell,
Of births and marriages not a few,
And many deaths, for they came too.
But father and mother and grandma old
Have passed away, the house is sold.
So good bye, old house with memories dear,
Many will pass, some drop a tear
Where once you stood, but let us greet
That before Spring all Portsmouth will ring
Of a fine new house on Middle street.

My Favorite Flute for Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a noted Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hooker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very great tone. Circumstances in a peculiary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $50.

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and one additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of Agriculture in behalf of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a contiguous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind throughout the country, and commends as a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as through them upon one of the most important of all questions, depends the value of Farm Products.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and the Household, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Record of Current Events, and its Editorial pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1875, but from the size of the 25 cent package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, not with any hope of receiving the permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package for you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth that, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Correspondent. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wished to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roxbindale, who are taking it, and have already much benefitted. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful mass of quacks and medical pretenders, which is to a greater or less degree in all newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party to which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will not be the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party to which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it has watched closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders for arrest of the State's managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform means down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested subserviency, jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational articles and articles specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors or original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Spuill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, greatly stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local care) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large-sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of original and spirited designs of the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments stories, &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MESSAGE —OF— PRESIDENT GRANT

THE WAR DEPARTMENT.

The report of the Secretary of War accompanying this message, gives a detailed account of army operations for the year just passed, expenses for maintenance, etc., with recommendations for legislation, to which I respectfully invite your attention. To some of these I invite special attention.

First—The necessity of making three hundred thousand dollars of the appropriation for the subsistence department available before the beginning of the next fiscal year. Without this provision troops at points distant from supply must either go without food or existing laws must be violated. It is not attended with cost to the Treasury.

Second—His recommendation for the enactment of a system of annuities for the families of deceased officers, by voluntary deduction from the monthly pay of officers. This again is not attended with burden upon the Treasury, and would for the future relieve much distress which every old army officer has witnessed, in the case of officers dying suddenly, or being killed, leaving families without even the means of reaching their friends, if fortunate enough to have friends to aid them.

Third—The repeal of the law abolishing mileage, and return to the old system.

Fourth—The trial with torpedoes under the corps of engineers, and appropriation for the same. Should war ever occur between the United States and any maritime power, torpedoes will be among, if not the most effective and cheapest auxiliary for the defence of harbors, and also in aggressive operations, that we can have. Hence it is advisable to learn by experiment their best construction and application, as well as effect.

Fifth—A permanent organization for the Signal Corps. This service has now become a necessity of peace as well as of war, under the advancement made by the present able management.

Sixth—A renewal of the appropriation for completing the official records of the war, etc.

THE NAVY.

The condition of our navy at this time is a subject of satisfaction. It does not contain, it is true, any of the powerful cruising ironclads which make so much of the maritime strength of some other nations; but neither our continental situation nor our foreign policy requires that we should have a large number of ships of this character, while the situation and the nature of our ports combine to make those of other nations little dangerous to us under any circumstances. Our navy does contain, however, a considerable number of iron-clads, of the monitor class, which, though not properly cruisers, are powerful and effective for harbor defence, and for operation near our own shores. Of these, all the single-turretted ones, fifteen in number, have been substantially rebuilt, their rotten, wooden beams replaced with iron, their hulls strengthened, and their engines and machinery thoroughly repaired, so that they are now in the most efficient condition and ready for sea as soon as they can be manned and put in commission. The five double-turreted iron-clads belonging to our navy, by far the most powerful of our ships for fighting purposes, are also in hand undergoing complete repairs, and could be ready for sea in periods varying from four to six months. With those completed according to the present design and our two iron torpedo boats now ready, our iron-clad fleets will be for the purposes of defence at home equal to any force that can be readily brought against it.

Of our wooden navy, also, cruisers of various sizes to the number of about forty, including those now in commission, are in the Atlantic and could be ready for duty as fast as men could be enlisted for those not already in commission. Of these, one-third are in effect new ships, and though some of the remainder need considerable repairs to their boilers and machinery, the all are or can readily be made effective. This constitutes a fleet of more than fifty war ships, of which fifteen are iron-clad now in hand on the Atlantic coas. The navy has been brought to this condition by a judicious and practicable application of what could be spared from the current appropriations of the last few years and from that made to meet the possible emergency of two years ago. It has been done quietly without proclamation or display, and though it has necessarily straitened the department in its ordinary expenditures, and as far as the iron-clads are concerned, has added nothing to the cruising force of the navy, yet the result is not the less satisfactory because it is to be found in a great increase of real rather than apparent force. The expenses incurred in the maintaining of an effective naval force in all its branches are necessarily large, but such force is essential to our position, relations, and character, and affects seriously, the weight of our principles and policy throughout the whole sphere of naval responsibilities. The estimates for the regular support of this branch of the service for the next year amount to a little less in the aggregate than those made for the current year, but some additional appropriations are asked for objects not included in the ordinary maintenance of the navy, but believed to be of pressing importance at this time. It would, in my opinion, be wise at once to afford sufficient means for the immediate completion of five double-turreted monitors, now undergoing repairs, which must otherwise advance slowly and only as money can be spared from current expenses. Supplemented by these our navy, armed with the destructive weapons of modern warfare, manned by our seamen and in charge of our instructed officers, will present a force powerful for the home purposes of a responsible though peaceful nation.

THE POSTAL DEPARTMENT.

The report of the Postmaster General, herewith transmitted, gives a full history of the workings of the department for the year just passed. It will be observed that the deficiency to be supplied from the General Treasury is increased over the amount required for the preceding year. In a country so vast in area as the United States, with large portions sparsely settled, it must be expected that this important service will be more or less a burden upon the Treasury for many years to come, but there is no branch of the public service which interests the whole people more than that of cheap and rapid transmission of the mails to every inhabited part of our territory. Next to the free school, the post office is the great educator of the people, and it may well receive the support of the general government.

THE SOUTH AMERICAN MAIL CONTRACT.

The subsidy of $150,000 per annum given to vessels of the United States for carrying the mails between the United States and Rio de Janeiro, ceased on the 30th day of September last, and we are without direct mail facilities with the South American States. This is greatly to be regretted, and I do not hesitate to recommend the authorization of a renewal of that contract and also that the service may be increased from monthly to semi-monthly trips. The commercial advantages to be gained by a direct line of American steamers to the South American States will far outweigh the expense of the service.

MERCHANDISE BY MAIL.

By an act of Congress approved March 3, 1875, almost all matter, whether properly mail matter or not, may be sent any distance through the mails, in packages not exceeding four pounds in weight, for the sum of sixteen cents per pound. So far as the transmission of real mail matter goes, this would seem entirely proper, but I suggest that the law be so amended as to exclude from the mails merchandise of all descriptions, and limit this transportation to all articles enumerated, and which may be classed as mail matter proper.

THE BLACK HILLS.

The discovery of gold in the Black Hills, a portion of the Sioux reservation, has had the effect to induce a large emigration of miners to that point. Thus far, the effort to protect the treaty rights of the Indians of that section has been successful, but the next year will certainly witness a large increase of such emigration. The negotiations for the relinquishments of the gold fields having failed, it will be necessary for Congress to adopt some measures to relieve the embarrassment growing out of the causes named. The Secretary of the Interior suggests that the supplies now appropriated for the sustenance of the people being no longer obligatory under the treaty of 1868, but simply a gratuity, may be issued or withheld at his discretion.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

The condition of the Indian Territory, to which I have referred in several of my former annual messages, remains practically unchanged. The Secretary of the Interior has taken measures to obtain a full report of the condition of that Territory, and will make it the subject of a special report at an early day. It may then be necessary to make some further recommendation in regard to legislation for the government of the Territory.

THE PATENT OFFICE.

The steady growth and increase of the business of the Patent Office indicates in some measure the progress of the industrial activity of the country. The receipts of the office are in excess of its expenditures, and the office generally is in a prosperous and satisfactory condition.

THE GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

The report of the General Land Office shows that there were 2,459,601 acres less disposed of during this than during the last year. More than one-half of this decrease was in lands disposed of under the homestead and timber culture laws. The cause of this decrease is supposed to be found in the grasshopper scourge and the drouths, which prevailed so extensively in some of the frontier States and Territories during that time, as to discourage and deter entries by actual settlers. The cash receipts were less by $690,322.23 than during the preceding year. The entire surveyed area of the public domain is 680,253,094 acres of which 26,077,531 acres were surveyed during the past year, leaving 1,154,471,762 acres still unsurveyed. The report of the Commissioner presents many interesting suggestions in regard to the management and disposition of the public domain and the modification of the existing laws, the apparent importance of which should insure for them the careful consideration of Congress.

PENSIONS.

The number of pensioners still continues to decrease, the highest number having been reached during the year ending June 30, 1873. During the last year 11,557 names were added to the rolls, and 12,977 were dropped therefrom, showing a net decrease of 1,420; but while the number of pensions has decreased, the annual amount due on the pension rolls has increased $44,773.18. This is caused by the greatly increased average rate of pensions, which by the legislation of Congress has increased from $9.26 in 1872 to $10.39 in 1875 to each invalid pensioner; an increase in the average rate of 15 per cent. in three years. During the year ending June 30, 1875, there was paid on account of pensions, including the expenses of disbursement, $29,683,116, being $910,632 less than was paid the preceding year. This reduction in the amount of expenditures is produced by a decrease in the amount of arrearage due on all allowed claims and on pensions, the rate of which was increased by the legislation of the preceding session of Congress. At the close of the last fiscal year, there were on the pension rolls, 234,821 persons, of whom 210,363 were army pensioners, 105,478 being invalids and 104,885 widows and dependent relatives; 3,420 were navy pensioners, of whom 1,636 were invalids, and 1,784 widows and dependent relatives; 21,088 were pensioners of the war of 1812, 15,875 of whom were survivors, and 5,163 were widows. It is estimated that $29,535,000 will be required for the payment of pensions for the next fiscal year, an amount $965,000 less than the estimate for the present year.

THE GEOLOGICAL EXPLORATIONS

have been prosecuted with energy during the year, covering an area of about 40,000 square miles, in the Territories of Colorado and New Mexico, developing agricultural and mineral resources, and furnishing interesting scientific and topographical details of that region.

INDIANS.

The method for treatment of the Indians at the beginning of my first term has been steadily pursued, and with satisfactory and encouraging results. It has been productive of an evident improvement in the condition of that race, and will be continued with only such modification as further experience may indicate to be necessary.

THE GOVERNMENT CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONERS.

The Board heretofore appointed to take charge of the articles and materials pertaining to the War, the Navy, the Treasury, the Interior and the Post Office Departments, and the Department of Agriculture, the Smithsonian Institute, and the Commission of Food-Fishes to be contributed under the legislation of last session to the international exhibition to be held at Philadelphia during the centenpial year, 1876, has been diligent in the discharge of the duties which have devolved upon it. The preparations so far made with the means at command give assurance that the governmental contribution will be made one of the marked characteristics of the exhibition. The Board has observed commendable economy in the matter of the erection of the building for the governmental exhibit, the expense of which it is estimated will not exceed, say $80,000. This amount has been withdrawn, under the law, from the appropriations of five of the principal departments, which leaves some of those departments without sufficient means to render their respective practical exhibitions complete and satisfactory.

The exhibition being an international one and the government being a voluntary contributor, it is my opinion that its contributions should be of a character in quality and extent to sustain the dignity and credit of so distinguished a contributor. The advantages to the country of a creditable display are, in an international point of view, of the first importance, while an indifferent or uncreditable participation by the government would be humiliating to the patriotic feelings of our people themselves. I commend the estimate of the Board for the necessary appropriations to the favorable consideration of Congress. The powers of Europe almost without exception, many of the South American States, and even the more distant Eastern powers have manifested their friendly sentiments toward the United States, and the interest of the world in our progress, by taking steps to join with us in celebrating the Centennial of the nation, and I strongly recommend that a more national importance be given to this exhibition by such legislation and by such appropriation as will insure its success. Its value in bringing to our shores innumerable useful works of art and skill, the commingling of the citizens of foreign countries and our own, and the interchange of ideas and manufactures will far exceed any pecuniary outlay we may make.

THE AGRICULTURAL AND DISTRICT REPORTS.

I transmit herewith, the report of the Commissioner of Agriculture, together with the reports of the Commission of the Board of Audit and the Board of Health of the District of Columbia, to all of which I invite your attention. The Bureau of Agriculture has accomplished much in disseminating useful knowledge to the agriculturist, and also introducing new and useful productions adapted to our soil and climate, and is worthy of the continued encouragement of the government. The report of the Commissioner of Education, which accompanies the report of the Secretary of the Interior, shows a gratifying progress in educational matters.

POLYGAMY.

In nearly every annual message that I have had the honor of transmitting to Congress, I have called attention to the anomalous, not to say scandalous condition of affairs existing in the Territory of Utah, and have asked for definite legislation to correct it. That polygamy should exist in a free, enlightened and Christian country without the power to punish so flagrant a crime against decency and morality seems preposterous. True, there is no law to sustain this unnatural vice; but what is needed is a law to punish it as a crime, and at the same time to fix the status of the innocent children, the offspring of this system, and of the possibly innocent plural wives; but as an institution, polygamy should be banished from the land.

ANOTHER EVIL.

While this is being done I invite the attention of Congress to another, though perhaps no less an evil, viz.: the importation of Chinese women, but few of whom are brought to our shores to pursue honorable or useful occupations.

TERRITORIAL LAWS.

Observations while visiting the Territories of Wyoming, Utah and Colorado, during the past autumn, convinced me that the existing laws regulating the disposition of public lands, timber, etc., and probably the mining laws themselves, are very defective, and should be carefully amended and at an early day. In territories where cultivation of the soil can only be followed by irrigation, and where irrigation is not practicable, the lands can only be used as pasturage, and this only where stock can reach water to quench thirst; they cannot be governed by the game laws, as to entries as lands every acre of which is an independent estate by itself. Lands must be held in larger quantities to justify the expense of conducting water upon it to make it fruitful, or to justify utilizing it as pasturage. Timber in most of the Territories is principally confined to the mountain regions, which are held for entry in small quantities only, and as mineral lands. The timber is the property of the United States for the disposal of which there is now no adequate law. The settler must become a consumer of this timber whether he lives upon the plains or engages in working the mines; hence every man becomes either a trespasser himself or knowingly a patron of trespassers. My opportunities for observing were not sufficient to justify me in recommending specific legislation on these subjects, but I do recommend that a joint committee of the two houses of Congress sufficiently large to be divided into subcommittees be organized to visit all mining States and Territories during the coming Summer, and that the committee shall report to Congress at the next session, such laws or amendments to laws as it may deem necessary to secure the best interests of the government and the people of these Territories who are doing so much for their development. I am sure the citizens occupying the territory described do not wish to be trespassers, nor will they be if legal ways are provided for them to become owners of these actual necessities of their position.

A RECAPITULATION OF IMPORTANT QUESTIONS.

As this will be the last annual message which I shall have the honor of transmitting to Congress before my successor is chosen, I will repeat or recapitulate the questions which I deem of vital importance, which will be legislated upon and settled at this session; first, that the States shall be required to afford an opportunity for a good common school education to every child within their limits; second, no sectarian tenets shall ever be taught in any school supported in whole or in part by the State, Nation, or by the proceeds of any tax levied upon any community; make education compulsory so far as to deprive all persons who cannot read and write, from becoming voters after the year 1890; disfranchising none, however, on the ground of illiteracy who may be voters at the time this amendment takes effect. Third, declare Church and State forever separate, and distinct, but each free within their proper spheres, and that all Church property shall bear its own proportion of taxation. Fourth, drive out licensed immorality, such as polygamy, and the importation of women for illegitimate purposes. To recur again to the centennial year: It would seem as though now as we are about to begin the second century of our national existence, it would be a most fitting time for these reforms. Fifth—enact such laws as will insure a speedy return to a sound currency, such as will command the respect of the world. Believing that these views will commend themselves to the great majority of the right-thinking and patriotic citizens of the United States, I submit the rest to Congress. U. S. GRANT.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

John Dolan, convicted of the murder of Mr. Noe in New York, has been reprieved by Gov. Tilden for a week, new evidence having been discovered indicating his possible innocence.

Charles Croghan of Manchester was arraigned Wednesday by U. S. Marshal J. N. Patterson before U. S. Commissioner Charles H. Bartlett for perjury at the October term of the U. S. Circuit Court at Exeter. The respondent swore last October that William F. Sleeper was not in the ward-room of Ward Five when John K. Lyons, a repeater who was arraigned at Exeter, voted in the evening of last election day; that he bought goods of Sleeper at his store in the evening and took two drinks with him in the evening at Maxwell & Flannigan's saloon. The United States produced Mr. Sleeper and E. G. Haynes, who swore that Sleeper was in the ward-room from six o'clock till the polls were closed. The defence offered no testimony and Croghan was bound over in the sum of $500 for appearance at the May term of Court at Exeter.

The recent opinion of the Supreme Court of Maine, makes Hon. John M. Goodwin of Biddeford, and William A. Brackett of Berwick, the republican candidate, is ineligible as a candidate before the legislature.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a meeting of the City Board of Education held at the Council Rooms on Thursday evening last, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas it hath pleased Almighty God, in his infinite mercy to remove from this Committee one of its members, Marco B. Goodrich, we pause in the midst of our every day life to pay that tribute to his memory it so deserves to receive; one with whom to associate was to respect; whom personal feeling or partisan desire could not swerve from his stern convictions of duty; therefore be it

Resolved: That we extend our profound sympathy to the Mother, Brothers, Sisters and relatives of our deceased brother in their extreme affliction;

Resolved: That we here express our sincere sorrow at the loss which this Board has sustained and through it the public schools of this city.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be given to the family of the deceased and entered upon the records.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is finely and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $50.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY,

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

Jottings.

The existence of a "fire-bug" of most dangerous capabilities in this city is no longer doubtful. Mr. Clarence B. Mason brought into our office on Friday two bundles tightly wrapped in newspapers, which he found in a hay mow on the A. K. Warren place near the Plains. By the burning of the barn on the Newington road, Mr. Mason's supply of hay was destroyed, and he purchased the hay in the Warren barn, finding the bundles in the mow while removing it. On picking up one he found it warm, and at first hesitated about opening it, fearing it was an "infernal machine" of some kind. Procuring an axe, however, he cut it open and found it to be cloth wound tightly into a roll and completely saturated with linseed oil. The other bundle was cotton batting, securely rolled up and saturated with oil in the same manner. The two bundles were placed in the hands of City Marshal Marden and attracted considerable attention from citizens who called at the police station.

Several of the Veterans of the Portsmouth Artillery Company were present at the drill at the armory, Thursday evening, and expressed their satisfaction with the present appearance of the famous old corps.

The public schools will have a two weeks' vacation during the holiday season.

The opera "Maritana" is to be the next lyceum entertainment, Tuesday evening, Misses Dora Wiley and Hattie Moore, and Messrs. Gates, Fitch, White and Titus, composing the company. The entire opera will be sung, including duets and trios, the choruses having been especially arranged for the voices of the company. The opera has proved popular everywhere, and has drawn crowded houses in all of the large cities of New England and the West, where their success has been unbounded. "Maritana" is a beautiful opera and well adapted to the lyceum stage. Our people may well anticipate a rare musical treat.

An Old Folks' Concert (followed by an oyster supper for those who were willing to pay a quarter each) was given in the Methodist church at Kittery, Wednesday evening, by the local choirs, assisted by several Portsmouth singers and Harlow's Orchestra. The entertainment was so satisfactory, both as to music and patronage, that it was repeated on Thursday evening.

Judge Samuel Treat, who is trying the Whiskey Ring at St. Louis for defrauding the U. S. Government, is a native of this city. He was born in 1815; first went to school to Henry Jackson, at the Lancasterian school, kept under the Universalist church; then to the High School kept by the late Judge Chandler E. Potter. At that school he was fitted for college. He entered Harvard about 1833, and graduated with honors. He was afterward teacher of an academy in the State of New York. About 1840, he went to St. Louis and commenced the practice of law, at which he was successful, being one of the best advocates in Missouri. About 1850 he was elected Judge of the Circuit Court of St. Louis Circuit. In 1855 he was appointed by President Pierce, Judge of the U. S. District Court for the first Missouri District, which office he has held until the present time to the entire satisfaction of the people of that locality. Judge Treat is a son of the late Mr. Samuel Treat of this city.

Twenty-two liquor-dispensing establishments and four barber shops on Water street, between State street and Liberty Bridge! If that isn't a brisk business locality, we would like to know where there is one.

The P. W. Total Abstinence Society held a social meeting at Temperance Hall, Market street, on Thursday evening, when remarks were made by Messrs. J. A. Goss, J. Dearborn, F. W. Miller, A. F. Craig, Isaac Dow, Moses Yeaton, S. Gilbert, B. F. Thorndike, T. E. O. Marvin and others. After an hour or two of pleasant and animated discussion, the meeting adjourned to next Thursday evening at the same hall, where the Woman's Temperance League, and all others interested, are invited to attend—"rumsellers and moderate drinkers in particular," as old crier Brown used to say.

The rooms of the Young People's Union are liberally patronized this winter, and principally by the class for whom they were designed.

It is reported from Greenland that upwards of 700 wild ducks were killed in Great Bay in a single day last week. The birds are sent to Boston, where they find a ready market.—Journal.

Smelters at Great Bay are obliged to cut through the ice a depth of eleven inches. This is unusual so early in the season.—Journal.

How did those ducks get their living, through ice eleven inches thick?

Rev. Mr. Hebbard will lecture at the Universalist Church to-morrow evening on "The American Woman."

A novel feature has been introduced at the County Farm, which will be productive of much good. A school room has been fitted up and provided with furniture of modern style, and a school has been in session for several weeks, there being twelve scholars from five to sixteen years of age, two prisoners' boys included. The teacher is Edward J. Laighton, from Portsmouth. Mr. Laighton is a man of fine natural abilities.

Subject at the Bow Mission to-morrow evening, "Earthly and Heavenly Treasures." Service at seven o'clock.

Judge C. T. Garland, who is to deliver a lecture next Wednesday evening on his experience as a carpet-bagger in Texas, is one of the ablest men ever reared in Rye. His has been a life filled with vicissitudes, and his thrilling experiences as a Union man in Texas during the rebellion will interest all. His pluck won him distinction and respect, but in 1868 he was driven from the State for mixing the juries in ten counties. He returned under military protection shortly afterward.

Among the papers of the late Capt. Wm. Stavers is a receipt from the Eastern Stage Co., dated May 9, 1836, for $15 for carrying a letter to Boston by express.

Residents near the North mill-bridge were treated to a refreshing whiff of the ambrosial odor which only the mill-ponds of this city can produce, Thursday afternoon. When the municipal smelling-bottle comes out so profusely in cold weather we may expect it to smell to Heaven in Spring.

Schooner Jessie Williamson Jr., will probably winter at Newport.

The latest estimates make the total number of lives lost on the Deutschland seventy-eight. It is now ascertained that the crew numbered ninety-nine, of whom fourteen were drowned. The captain admits that he was an hour and a quarter out of his reckoning.

Eastern Railroad stock fell to $9.87 1-2 per share, Friday.

Since July, 1874, the expenses of collecting the revenue at this port have been reduced $600 a month. Five officers have been dispensed with, and such other curtailments made that the disbursements for expenses now are only about $5000 per year.

Rev. Carlos Martyn's subject of discourse to-morrow in the North church will be, "Men of the World." The young are specially invited.

Aldermanic.

On Thursday evening, the petition of Franklin Ayers and others requesting that a policeman be appointed for Christian Shore was referred.

Michael R. Perkins was appointed Inspector of Petroleum and its products.

The following named persons applied for license to sell petroleum and its products: Wm. A Plaisted, W. C. Newton, Geo. A. Abbott, Samuel Rowe, E. R. Laighton & Co., John H. Wells, Union Store, Div. 110, John H. Slater, Agt.

The bill of J. G. Barnard for use of South Mill water privilege was laid on the table.

The committee to whom was referred the petition of Richard Warden and others for a sewer on Water street recommended that further consideration of the petition be indefinitely postponed. Adopted.

Voted—That the joint standing committee on school houses be instructed to inquire what number of children there are entitled to attend a public school and now attending none, (and who reside in any locality where they could conveniently attend); what school rooms are overcrowded; what location would accommodate the largest number of children so circumstanced; and what would be the cost of such a school house as the public convenience requires; and that the reports of Ald. Marvin and Stevens and the petition of J. C. Butler be referred to the same committee.

Voted—That the proposed extension of Dennett street be laid out according to the plan, and that the sum of $200 be awarded to A. A. Payne for land taken.

A Widely Applicable Remedy.

Few remedies are applicable to such a wide range of disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and this not because it has special properties adapted to the cure of each—such a pretence would be manifestly absurd,—but on account of its wonderfully improving effect upon the general tone of the system, and its alterative action upon the organs of nutrition, secretion and discharge. Besides its well known properties as a remedy for intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, torpidity of the liver, general debility, urinary and uterine difficulties, it invariably proves to be highly servicеable in overcoming anæmia, hypochondria, rheumatism, insomnia, and many other disorder and disabilities originating in poverty or impurity of the blood, nervous weakness or over excitement, or an imperfect performance of the physical functions.

Before your Lungs begin to Fester, stop the cough that may otherwise destroy you, with HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

False Delicacy.

The friends of those who are troubled with bad breath, and, through over squeamishness, dislike to refer to it, commit a positive and cruel mistake, especially if they are aware of the merits and great efficacy of the fragrant SOZODONT. This is the true and only remedy for the difficulty; there is no valid excuse for a bad breath now.

Spaulding's Glue mends everything.

CREEDS.

BY J. G. HARVEY.

The Church needs live and earnest men,
Men of true hearts and deeds;
More of true pity within,
And less of written creeds.

All sects their several parts perform,
Comprising one great whole,
Disputes on doctrines and beliefs,
Will never save a soul.

God never made two minds alike,
The reasons are His own;
To Him are stand accountable,
And unto Him alone.

The inner workings of each soul,
Has its peculiar mould,
In which is cast each thought and act,
On which our lives unfold.

Lives that are holy, pure and true,
Which all the world may scan;
And not professions or beliefs
Doth make the Christian man.

Forms, ceremonies nor mere words,
Will buoy a soul to Heaven,
The life within develops that
Which must to God be given.

Oh for a union of all hearts,
"Tis this the world now needs;
Less bigotry, dissensions, strifes,
With simpler, better creeds.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; EIGHT COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and Canada.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much to call out and direct intelligent, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to other topics of the Farm, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN also contains numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Readings. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reported himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir.—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Cosmopolitan. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted, as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of exercising independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own cost and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing wilespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic "Reform" meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and attempting to pack juries, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to bribe the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to receive them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political robbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and mainly and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports will be exclusively prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

CHEAPEST AND BEST!

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large-sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift.

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world.

THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed exclusively for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mrs. F. H. Burnett, and others.

MAMMOTH COLORED FASHION PLATES

ahead of all others. These plates are engraved on steel, twice the usual size, and are unequaled for beauty. They will be superbly colored. Also, Household and other receipts; in short, everything interesting to ladies.

N. B.—As the publisher now prepays the postage to all mail subscribers, "Peterson" is cheaper than ever; in fact is the cheapest in the world.

Revolutionary Inventions.

A New York dispatch to the American Press Association, dated November 29, says:

Mr. T. A. Edison, the electrician of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph company, while experimenting with light as a force, has made a remarkable discovery, which promises to revolutionize the science of telegraphy. Mr. Edison claims that his experiments have resulted in the discovery of a new force, of a nature similar to electricity, and possessing its efficiency without being subject to many of the varied influences which affect the latter.

The earth has no effect upon the wires as a conductor whatever while operated by this new agent. The wires can work perfectly lying on the ground in any position, so long as they are unbroken. Glass is, however, a conductor. Mr. Edison intends to pursue his investigations with the view of applying the new force to telegraphic uses. It will have numerous advantages over the present method. The current will not be interrupted by anything short of a complete breakage of the wire, instead of being influenced by every variation of atmosphere or change of position, as at present. The wires can be laid along the railroad tracks, under the rails, and a large proportion of the heavy cost of constructing lines as now used will thus be avoided.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, in a late letter, says:

There are now here, and in use, sets of machinery which, although at present used mainly for the transcription and multiplication of law papers, have been so far improved and perfected as to have attracted much attention. The method now in use consists first, of an ordinary type-writer, which prints legibly but coarsely, the letters being made by touching keys arranged like those of a piano. The copy thus made is used as the basis of lithographic printing by the Graphic process; that is, the printed sheet is transferred to a thin composition upon a stone, from which press copies are now taken at a rate often greater than 500 per hour. This method has been in daily use here for many months, and its use makes quite an extensive business.

It is the improvement of this method which it is claimed will enable a printing office to dispense entirely with compositors. The first change has been to give the "type-writing machine" a variety of wheels, each holding twelve kinds of alphabets, etc., embracing all the kinds of type now in use. The next has been to regulate the depths of the impression and the method of "justifying," and this has also been done. It is claimed that this machine can make a fac simile of any newspaper head or column at the rate of ninety letters a minute. The combined work thus done on four or five machines in one hour will, it is claimed, furnish matter enough for a newspaper like the Sun, and the copy thus made will be used like a newspaper "form" on Graphic presses, which have been so improved as to be capable of printing 1200 per hour. As the use of matrifold paper upon a "type-writing machine" will enable it to make four or five copies, one such machine will supply "forms" for as many Graphic presses.

It is expected that the new machines for this purpose will be complete this month, and will be in use before the first of January. The cost of composition by this process will not exceed three cents per 1000 ems, and in view of the advances already made, it seems far more likely that the newspaper of the future will be indebted to this process more than to any other machine for composing or distributing type that has been or will be invented. Experiments are now being made with a view to use cylindrical stones, instead of flat ones, for the Graphic press. If this can be effected the speed of a Hoe press can be given to a Graphic press.

It is understood that Mr. James O. Clephane and other well known stenographers of New York are the owners of this new process, which, we are told, will create a revolution in the art of printing.

A Judge Cornered.

[Nashua Telegraph.]

An incident occurred at the recent term of the Circuit Court at Keene which deserves a wider publicity than it has yet received. Mr. Justice Ladd presided, and among the criminal cases tried was that of the State against one Thayer for illegal liquor selling. When the case was called for trial Mr. Brigham, the alleged purchaser of the liquor, was not present to testify. A man by the name of Bingham was put upon the stand, however, and he testified that he had bought liquor of Thayer. At this point the counsel for the defendant demurred to proceeding with the case further, on the ground that Bingham was not mentioned in the indictment, and moved that the case be dismissed. After some talk on each side, Judge Ladd ruled that it did not make any difference in law as to the spelling of the name. He denied the motion and ordered the trial to proceed. In his charge to the jury the Judge told them to bring in a verdict as if the name in the indictment had been correctly spelt. The jury retired, and it was soon ascertained that eleven of them obstinately believed the respondent to be guilty and were prepared to render a verdict accordingly. The twelfth juror could not get over the wrong name in the indictment, and he refused to agree to a verdict of guilty. The facts were reported to the Judge, who called the full panel before him and prepared to give the recalcitrant juror a scorcher over the shoulders of all. He told them that he was there to instruct them in the law, and whether he was right or not was none of their business. He alone was responsible for that. He repeated his ruling with unusual emphasis and a flushed face, that it made no difference whether the name was Brigham or Bingham in the indictment. It was the duty of the jury to bring in a verdict all the same. The jury again retired. No. 12 said he supposed the Judge was right, but before agreeing to a verdict of guilty he said he wished to remark—which he did in a quiet way—that he did not quite understand why Natt Head was not the same name as Nathaniel Head in law, if Brigham was the same name as Bingham in law. He then voted "guilty."

The quandary of this honest juror is not to be wondered at. Well he might be puzzled, in view of recent events in this State, about one name being the same as another. If it was correct in equity and law to throw out 3771 votes cast for Natt Head because the ballots were not printed Nathaniel Head, when everybody including Natt himself, supposed his name to be Natt, why should it not be correct in equity and law to quash an indictment founded on a mistaken name? If Mr. Justice Ladd was right in sustaining the action of the Governor and Council in rejecting the votes cast for Natt Head, could he be right now in ruling that the name of Brigham is the equivalent of Bingham? We say that it is no wonder that our honest juror was puzzled. We rather admire his consistency in at first resolving that an interpretation of law which is good in one case shall be good in another. If the rights of 3771 voters were properly quashed, over the wrong spelling of a name, he had logic enough to see that the crime of a liquor seller should go unpunished for the same reason. It is a poor rule that will not work both ways, and because the rule set up in the case of Natt Head will not work in criminal or any other practice proves it to be the meanest and poorest rule ever sought to be established in this State. Judge Ladd ruled correctly at Keene, of course, as every honest and intelligent man understands. But the ruling of Gov. Weston and his Council, in the case of Natt Head, was not only incorrect in equity and law, as every honest and intelligent man also understands, but it was a plain, palpable, premeditated act of executive usurpation. And no man knows it better than Justice Ladd.

—Joaquin Miller has revealed some incidents in his early life to a correspondent of the Louisiana Courier-Journal. The poet does not know where he was born; but believes it was in Cincinnati, in 1841. His father was impecunious and wandering, and in a fit condition to take the gold fever in 1849. The family went together to California, and thence to Oregon, where the father was killed by the Modocs, who at the same time took Joaquin prisoner. "They were then a grand people," Miller says. "They really loved me, and somehow I loved the red devils in return. Well, I was with them nearly five years, I reckon, and learned their language better than the English to-day. Then came the Modoc war—the first one—there wasn't any speech-making about that war. It was scalps and an incessant hell! I could have left them, if I had liked; but they were grand rascals, and I fought with them! They were going to make me a chief or something. They were whipped in 1858, I think, and I would have been hanged if caught." He escaped in a canoe, reached San Francisco, and soon afterward joined Walker's expedition to Nicaragua. After that exploit he studied law in Oregon and was admitted to practice. In 1861 he went out gold hunting in Idaho. "I named the territory," he says; "it is an Indian word—from the language of the North Shoshones—and it means the 'Gem of the Mountains.' When the Government ordered the organization of Territory in '62 the name clung to it. 'Idaho' it was, is, and will stand." He made $10,000, and lost it in a newspaper enterprise, was elected district judge, and got married. "After this last occurrence," remarks the Poet of the Sierras, "I didn't have a pleasant moment for years."

—An old farmer once said that he would not have a hired man on his farm who did not habitually whistle. Said he never knew a whistling laborer to find fault with his food, his bed, or complain of any little extra work he was asked to perform. Such a man was generally kind to children and to animals in his care. He would whistle a chilled lamb into warmth and life, and would bring in his hat full of eggs from the barn without breaking one of them. He found such a man more careful about closing gates, putting up bars, and seeing that the nuts on his plough were all properly tightened before he took it to the field. He never knew a whistling hired man to kick or beat a cow, or drive her on a run into the stable. He had noticed that the sheep he fed in the yard and shed gathered around him as he whistled, without fear. He never had employed a whistler who was not thoughtful and economical.

—You inquire. "How can I prevent my little boy from wearing out the knees of his pants?" That problem has been in the market ever since Eve asked Adam the same thing about Cain. We only know three sure ways: You can kill the boy, or you can make his pants without any knees; but perhaps the best way would be to get some other little boy about the same size to wear the knees out, if you have such objections to your own boy's doing it.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL.
Chairman Republican State Committee.
Dover, Dec. 6, 1875.

A Merited Rebuke.

Charges against President Grant have been freely bandied by his enemies, in newspapers and speeches on the stump, while there has been no authoritative statement made to the public that the President could publicly contradict. His appointment and retention of Secretary Bristow, who has persistently and vigorously prosecuted the whisky ring, and his injunction to "let no guilty man escape," show that no act of corruption can be traced to the Presidential doors.

In the Avery trial, at St. Louis, Gen. Henderson, who assisted in the prosecution, intimated that the influences of the ring could be traced to the shadow of the White House. The bold utterance attracted general attention and called forth an indignant telegram from President Grant, to which Henderson replied that his speech was extempore and was not correctly reported. Sworn copies were sent to Washington, and the President laid the case before a Cabinet meeting on Friday. As a natural result, Attorney General Pierrepont sent the United States Attorney at St. Louis a telegram saying that it was regarded by every member of the Cabinet as an outrage upon professional propriety thus to reflect without a shadow of reason on the President, by whom his employment was sanctioned in order that no impediment might be placed in the way of bringing to speedy punishment many defrauders of the revenue at St. Louis. Attorney Dyer was instructed to advise Gen. Henderson of his discharge from further service and to secure in his place the aid of the most able and efficient counsel he can find, without regard to politics.

This prompt action of the Administration is alike creditable and especially opportune, indicating an intention to prosecute without favor the scoundrels whom Secretary Bristow has unearthed and to defend the reputation of the chief executive of the Nation.

News and Notes.

It is evident that an attempt will be made to repeal the resumption bill.

A tug boat near the steamship Mosel at Bremen exploded her boiler, Saturday. The Mosel was just ready to sail for New York, having embarked her passengers. Fifty persons were killed outright and many injured. The explosion was caused by dynamite, so a later account says.

The tearing down of a wall of San Andres Hospital, in Lima, disclosed some 5000 skeletons of people who had been thrown in there, probably during the inquisition.

The jury in the case of George Reynolds, indicted for polygamy at Salt Lake, under an act of Congress, found a verdict of guilty. Judge White's charge is pronounced to be the most stringent condemnation of polygamy that has ever been delivered from the bench. He charged that the efforts of the defendant to excuse himself on the ground of his religion was no defence; that the crime could not be committed in the name of religion; that if the defendant's religion amounted to an inspiration and that he was thoroughly and honestly imbued with the notion that polygamy was a religious duty and practised it accordingly, it was a violation of the act of Congress denouncing it. The delay of the jury was occasioned by three jurors who were Mormons, but not polygamists, being loth to convict Reynolds. It is regarded as a test case, and the judge accordingly charged with great care.

Mr. E. H. Cheney, recently editor of the Lebanon Free Press, has gone to Florida. Good fortune and restored health we wish him.

The President maintains his full confidence in the innocence of Gen. Babcock, but at the same time insists that the prosecution shall be sustained in every respect.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives, at Washington, has had one thousand odd applications for one hundred and thirty offices.

We have just received an advance copy of the Annual Register of Rural Affairs for 1876, published at Albany, N. Y., by Luther Tucker & Son, and mailed to any address for the nominal sum of 30 cents. It is the oldest (and now the only) publication of the kind, and contains 150 pages of practical matter, interesting to every resident in the country, illustrated with no less than 164 beautiful engravings, almost all original. Elaborate almanac pages are prefixed, and a very useful feature is the "Farmer's Register," which gives the addresses of all the reliable dealers in everything a farmer needs to buy—live stock of all kinds, seeds, implements, nursery stock etc., etc. The cover is quite a work of art, and altogether the little book is a gem in its way.

On the 29th ult., two schooners were lost on the Nova Scotia coast with nineteen lives.

The military court of inquiry on Gen. Babcock's case met in Chicago, Friday, when Gen. Hancock read a prepared paper suggesting that the court defer its investigations until after the trial of Gen. Babcock on the indictment found in St. Louis. Then the Judge Advocate submitted a communication from Babcock, requesting an adjournment of the inquiry, so that he could appear at once in St. Louis. Finally it was announced that the court would adjourn from day to day, until its action could be communicated to the War Department.

The vote of Haverhill, Mass., for Mayor was: Joseph K. Jenness 1513; Alpheus Currier 424.

William E. Delaney was hanged at the Queen county jail, New York, on Friday, and displayed extraordinary bravado upon the scaffold. In a written confession he boasted of robberies without limit, mutinies which fatigue calculation, and murders too numerous to mention, the last that of Capt. Lawrence. He was dressed in sailor's holiday attire; said that the reading of the death warrant was like going to a ball, made a short speech, was swung off at 10:40 A. M., and in seven minutes was dead.

The advent of the democracy to power in the House of Representatives is signalized by incidents like this: "J. G. Ball, of Winchendon, Mass., a one-armed soldier, was to-day discharged from his position as door-keeper in the House, to make way for an able-bodied rebel guerilla."

The New York Herald thought on Saturday that even the nomination of President Grant would not do so much harm as the democratic indorsement of Tammany by the selection of Mr. Kerr for Speaker.

Mr. Blaine is coming to be looked upon as the leading republican opponent to the third term scheme, and the most casual examination of public sentiment at the present time shows that he is thereby gaining a strength equaled by none of his rivals save Secretary Bristow.—Tribune.

The New York Tribune's Washington correspondent writes of Mr. Blaine: A man who can achieve the unprecedented parliamentary triumph of defeating and demoralizing the majority on the first day of the session will have no rivals to fear in his own party.

Piracy upon Long Island Sound is becoming frequent. Two Guilford vessels, the Vienna, and the Wm. Winkle, were boarded by five pirates off Hunter's Point, Friday, about one A. M. They shut the men on the Vienna in their cabin, and then boarded the other vessel. A sailor met them with an unloaded gun, and they fired at him twice without killing him. One of the pirates grappled with the sailor, who was pounded and thrown into the sea. The imprisoned crew of the Vienna fired out of the cabin windows as many as forty bullets at the pirates on the deck of the other vessel, and some of them were probably hit. They escaped in their boats, taking only the gun of the man they had thrown overboard. This man managed to regain his vessel, and is now at his home badly injured.

Hon. Samuel Plumer Dow died recently in Epping. He has been a State Senator and member of the Governor's Council, and was at the time of his death a Director in the Concord & Portsmouth Railroad and the Newmarket National Bank.

Despatches from Mahanoy City and Gilberton, Pa., state that there is much excitement in that vicinity in consequent of two dreadful murders committed by a party of masked men, who entered the house of Charles O'Donnell, seizing and binding him and carrying him out of the house, where he was shot dead. A man named McAllister was also taken from his house and shot dead. A later despatch states that a sister of McAllister was also murdered. The murderers are supposed to belong to the Molly Maguires, now a terror to the mining region. No reason can be given by the people living in the neighborhood for the bloody deed.

Seven negroes were killed in a difficulty between the blacks and whites at Rolling Fork, Miss. "No whites were hurt," says the dispatch.

Gov. Irwin of California was inaugurated on Thursday. In his inaugural he urged the legislature to bring the influence of the State to bear upon the general Government to procure a modification of the treaty with China, with a view to the restriction; of of Chinese immigration; that the State should demand a return of the country to specie payment at the earliest possible moment.

—Laura (who is still a trifle romantic)—"Don't you think there is something very solemn about the fall of the dead leaves?" Reginald, her husband (who has outgrown his romance)—"Very. [Pause.] Talking of dead leaves, what the deuce and all have I done with my tobacco?"—Judy.

—Fred: The symptoms of first love are too diverse and innumerable to mention. Perhaps the leading traits are dissatisfaction with your salary, and a contempt for the way your mother irons your shirts.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

NO. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

D. WILSON, M. D.,

The well known Lecturer, Author, and wonderful disease detective, locates the disease and describes the symptoms of every patient without asking a question. He may be consulted daily, Sundays excepted, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M., at the Medico-Thermo-Pneumatic Institute, 165 Harrison Avenue, Boston, (or by letter), where Catarrh, Consumption, Scrofula, Cancers, (without knife, Caustic, Poison or Pain,) Weakness and General Debility, Headache, Rheumatism, Habitual Costiveness, and, in fact, all Chronic (long standing) Diseases are positively cured without the use of Calomel (mercury). When you have tried all other modes of treatment, and after all other physicians have failed to give you relief CALL AND SEE US, or send stamp and description of symptoms by mail. CONSULTATION FREE. We will give $75 to any patient we fail to cure. We give the names (but not the disease) of all we treat as references, and challenge the world to produce one who has not obtained relief. Dropsy cured in six days. Tapeworm (with head attached) removed in three hours. Medicine sent to any part of the world.

Thousands of Testimonials,

And references of patients cured by our mode of treatment might be printed; but we give only a few, believing that our reputation is such that more is unnecessary.

References, etc.

The following named persons have been cured of the worst difficulties that human flesh is heir to by our treatment after other physicians had failed to give relief:—

FRANK M. TUBBS, Pierce's Mill, 416 Dorchester avenue, South Boston.

STATEMENT OF A BOSTON POST OFFICE CLERK.

BOSTON, Nov. 26, 1875.

D. WILSON, M. D.: Dear Sir—I had for a long time been in ill-health from Catarrh and General Debility. A few months since I called at your Institute, 165 Harrison avenue, for treatment, and in a few weeks fully recovered my health, and cheefully recommend your Institution to all who desire Medical or Surgical treatment. Very respectfully yours,
A. B. HUNT,
Clerk Boston Post office.

CONSUMPTION AND CATARRH CURED IN FOUR WEEKS.

The best physician in Charlestown had given me up to die in the last stage of Consumption; my feet were swollen so that I could find no shoes large enough for them; my cough was distressing, and Catarrh in its worst form was constantly troubling me. I had been unable to walk alone for several months; in this condition, and about five months since, I consulted Dr. D. WILSON, at his Institute, 165 Harrison avenue, Boston, and was perfectly cured in four weeks, and am now enjoying perfect health.
MRS. LUCY A. SPENCE,
No. 4 Mead Street Court, Charlestown, Mass.

A LIVING MONSTER,

400 Feet in Length.

For two years, to my knowledge, I have been afflicted with a Tapeworm, and have been treated by the best physicians in Salem, and by traveling doctors, none of whom were able to remove more than a portion of it, the head always being left, and in about ten weeks after, I would be troubled the same as before the treatment. I consulted the physician of the Boston City Hospital, and was informed that they often treated patients for Tapeworm, but never cured them, and that it was impossible to remove the head of the worm. I was about to give up in despair; but hearing of the wonderful cures of diseases always before considered incurable, which were being effected at the Institute, 165 Harrison avenue, Boston, I resolved to consult them. This morning I called at the Institute, and was relieved in a few hours of the entire worm, head and all, the length of which, including all I have passed during the year, is fully 400 feet. DAVID CASHIN,
No. 2 Beach street, Salem, Mass., Oct. 2, 1875.

I have been badly afflicted with gravel and inflammation of the bladder for about five years; have tried to get relief in various ways, but usually with but very little satisfaction. Dr. Caswell operated upon me twice to give me relief, and advised me to submit to a more thorough surgical operation, which I preferred not to do, and continued to suffer until I took treatment of one of the physicians of the Medico-Thermo-Pneumatic Institute, 165 Harrison avenue, Boston. In one or two days I noticed improvement, and I am now entirely well.
ISRAEL S. MOTT,
No. 3 Angel street, Providence, R. I.
April 23, 1875.

One of the young ladies in my employ has been afflicted more than a year with disease which caused a very severe pain in the head, from which she could get no relief even for an hour, although treated by many of the most eminent physicians of the city. A few weeks since she consulted a physician of the Institute, No. 165 Harrison avenue, and in one week was perfectly cured. J. D. GILMAN,
Dining Rooms, 50 Summer street, Boston.
June 11, 1875.

I have for several months been a constant sufferer from rheumatism of the hip [Neuralgia Femoropoplitæ], and to such an extent that I was unable to do anything, and could scarcely walk, until I consulted a physician from the Institute, 165 Harrison avenue, Boston, who gave me treatment; and now, thank heaven, I am cured of the disease. I had previously tried various remedies without obtaining the least relief. JOHN D. WILLIS, 121 South Water street.
Providence, R. I., April 13, 1875.

For months I had been afflicted with severe pains and soreness in my shoulder. My physician pronounced it an incurable cancer. The pain was so severe at times that I could not sit up or attend to my household duties. Having attended your lecture at Woonsocket, R. I., I determined to consult you, which I did with the following result: You pronounced my case curable, and gave me treatment for it. The pain and soreness has now all left my shoulder, and I can sit, ride, walk or labor with perfect ease and comfort, and would advise all persons afflicted with cancer or other diseases to consult you at once. MARY T. BRITTON.
Blackstone, Mass., April 5, 1875.

THE INSTITUTE,

165 Harrison Avenue,

is a large and commodious building, situated on one of the principal streets of Boston, centrally located and of easy access, as nearly all the city horse cars pass the door, and all within a few blocks. Good rooms, with or without board, furnished those who wish to remain at the Institute.

All prescriptions and medicines made at the Institute and sent by express to all patients who do not call at the Institute.

Jottings From Afar.

WHITE ISLAND, Nov. 14.

Since I last wrote you we have had (on the 11th inst.,) another magnificent northeast storm, with as great (though not quite so rapid) a fall of the barometer as during the blow on the night of Oct. 30; with a lull, and a blow-back from the nor'west as on that occasion; giving us even more sea and spray than then; and doing the usual amount of damage to the

of buildings on this island. The ablest descriptive writer would fail to do even scanty justice to the terrible sublimity of the scene during the height of the gale, so I shall not presume to attempt it. The spray swept over the space between the house and tower in dense sheets, often making it impossible to see the tower light from the house, and battering spitefully on the roof and windows of the dwelling, which shook like an aspen leaf—whatever that may be.

POLITICAL REFLECTIONS.

During my watch I laid back in the tower, and speculated on how long it would be before the tower would fall, and on political matters. The day previous a couple of our fishermen friends gave us a short visit, and from them we learned that Gaston had been defeated for Governor of Massachusetts; but our visitors did not know who was the victor, believing him to be one Bartlett, whom we knew to have been a democratic candidate; so my mate and I, after due deliberation, sagely concluded that Dr. Loring must have defeated Gaston and was to be the next Governor of Massachusetts.

ILLUMINATIVE ACCOMPANIMENTS.

I was interrupted in my meditations by the brilliant lighting-up of the magnificent storm-scene around the islands, and a moment later my mate jumped out of bed under the impression that a whole fleet of line-of-battle ships was driving on shore; he had never heard the alarm bell make such a noise before,—and never will again until the connection is repaired, for I broke it in my excess of enthusiasm. But I didn't want him to look at an imperilled fleet, but at a huge fire,—the extensive "Oceanic," on Star island, was on fire and doomed to total destruction. No human means could have transported us to Star island, and we couldn't have done any good had we been there, so we quietly looked and admired, and were glad that it wasn't our own old coop which was burning,—not that we love the said old coop extravagantly, but it is better than none at all.

The fire (as we afterward learned) started at about half-past two o'clock, and had been burning about an hour when we first saw it. At this time the wind was blowing a furious gale from the nor'west, catching the crests of the immense seas which were rolling in from the southeast, and the vast masses of spray which flew aloft from the rocky shores of the islands, and bearing them in the air than I ever saw spray go before; and the glare of the fire on the flying spray brought out myriads of rainbows, which flashed into sight in nearly all directions and instantly disappeared, giving one single touch of gentle beauty to a scene of wild sublimity which in all else spoke of man's utter helplessness in facing nature's wrath. The stoutest canvas would have been blown from the bolt-ropes like muslin by the gale, and a few hours' exposure to such a sea as was then running among the islands would have sorely tried the staunchest fabric of wood and iron (iron alone would have been about as good as a "dipsy lead") ever put together by man's skill; and the fire departments of the world would hardly have saved a timber of the burning hotel, whose long rows of windows were lighted up more brightly than ever before—and for the last time—by the fire which added so much to the terrible beauty of the scene.

When we first saw the fire we could not tell whether it had hold on the hotel or on some of the smaller buildings by which it was surrounded, and we gave our whole attention to the storm and the fire, quite regardless as to whether Gaston, Bartlett or Loring had won the gubernatorial fight in Massachusetts. Soon the flames were of the hotel and flashing up the lofty flagstaff on its top, and then we knew the "Oceanic" was virtually one of the things that had been. Toward both ends of the huge structure the fire spread, rapidly lapped up outlying buildings (including the "Union House" and the residence of John B. Downs,) sent vast volumes of smoke and flame and large masses of burning material away to leeward on the gale, and reduced everything within its reach to a smouldering wreck before daylight broke on the scene of desolation and ruin, and the lightkeepers commenced to get themselves some breakfast with a sweet sense of having done their whole duty in the matter,

By sunrise, the heavy nor'wester had beaten the sea down very much, and at an early hour in the forenoon a Rye whaleboat came out, and ran into Star island roads. This boat contained mine host Lougee of the Sea View House, the popular clerk, "Gus," a hearty and jovial Kentuckian (on a cruise eastward from Washington,) and a full boat's crew for the oars, if needed. Later in the day the sea was so smooth that the whaleboat was run on our slip, and we were greeted by probably our last instalment of visitors for this year; and during their welcome but too brief stay we learned that our Governor had not been endorsed by the voters of Massachusetts, Hon. Alexander H. Rice having been chosen instead of Bartlett or Loring. We also learned that had received a most terrible shaking in the West, the democratic "tidal wave" of last year having seemingly flattened out about as suddenly as the heavy sea around the islands on the night of the fire had done.

I don't think I can find a more satisfactory place than this to stop. PAKEHA.

Jottings.

Quite a number of ladies from Stratham will come to Portsmouth, to work in the new tailoring establishment.

Four families in this city have received benefit to the amount of $3925 from the County Odd Fellows Mutual Relief Association since its formation. During the past five years 26 members have died. The whole amount paid out foots up $26,032. The association now has 1263 members.

There will be a meeting of the Portsmouth Artillery Company this evening at Rechabite Hall for business and drill.

A freight train on the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad broke apart Saturday morning, and a car of corn was thrown from the track and two other cars injured. A brakeman was injured slightly. Loss $500.

Theodore Tilton will lecture here under the auspices of the public library committee.

The officers of the Direct United States Cable Company announce that their line is interrupted 130 miles east of Nova Scotia.

Messrs. Robert B. Borthwick and Geo. W. Lewis left this city on Saturday for California.

Passed Assistant Engineer J. B. Upham and Assistant Engineer F. W. Townrow are ordered for examination by the Retiring Board.

Lieutenant John J. Brice has arrived from Washington with the chronometers for the Marion.

The next farmers' and citizens' public debate will be held at Grange and Mercantile Hall, on Wednesday evening next. The subjects will be mainly agricultural at this meeting, but among the questions proposed for future discussions, are these: Is deceit ever justifiable? and should the bible be read in the public schools?

Mr. C. C. Wilson advertises an entertainment by which he hopes to replenish his scanty purse. Mr. W. is a worthy man, and being blind, has a special claim upon the public sympathy.

Until 1641, Portsmouth, which then included Kittery, Exeter and Dover, was an independent republic. In that year it placed itself under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, until 1679, when New Hampshire was formed into a separate province. With its present limits it was incorporated, May 28, 1653.—Exeter Democrat.

The stockholders' train after the P. S. & P. R. R. meeting on Tuesday will leave here at 2.10 P. M., reaching Boston at 4.45.

Miss Dora Wiley, the soprano singer of the Opera Company which is to present "Maritana" to-morrow evening, has been engaged to sing at the Church of the Mediator, Providence, R. I.

Two Large and Elaborate Oil Paintings,

3½x4½ FEET CANVASS.

No. 1. Brilliant Marine View on the Piscataqua, at sunrise, looking down river from the northern end of Noble's Bridge, embracing a part of Badger's Island, the Navy Yard, St. John's Church, etc.

No. 2. Mid-Summer Scene on the Boquet River, New York; group of cattle refreshing themselves in the stream, beneath a large elm, etc.

I offer them below their real value, being desirous to obtain by the sale, a part of the means for an outfit and passage to South Carolina, where I have promised to be in December, as teacher of music and painting in a High School.

The paintings are now on free exhibition for a few days, at studio opposite the Post Office.

THOS. P. MOSES.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses (ticker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $50.

Daily Chronicle.

—The Independent gives, on the authority of Mr. F. B. Carpenter, a notable story of Henry Wilson that has never yet been published. The evening before his inauguration as Vice-President he called on Mr. Sumner and said; "Sumner, can you lend me $400? I have not got money enough to be inaugurated on." Mr. Sumner replied: "Certainly. If it had been a large sum I might not have been able to help you; but I can always lend a friend $100." He then gave Mr. Wilson a check for the amount, and after Mr. Wilson had retired, Mr. Sumner turning to Mr. Carpenter, remarked: "There is an incident worth remembering—such a one as never could have occurred in any country but our own." That cancelled check, if still in existence, with Senator Sumner's signature on its face, and Vice-President Wilson's on the back, would be a very desirable autograph.

—At the court in Belfast, Me., recently, Judge Libbey sentenced Martin L. Tower to twenty-five years in the State prison. This fact was communicated to the prisoner's mother, who was struck by the magnitude of the sentence. "What did they do that for?" she exclaimed. "Twenty-five years! why, he won't be contented there three weeks."

—Small boy—"Say, pa, will you buy me a new sled for Christmas?" Close-fisted parent—"Johnny, I don't think there's going to be much snow this Winter, and you wouldn't have a chance to enjoy a new sled; but I'll tell you what I will do. You just be a good boy and I'll get your saw filed so that it will cut through a stick of wood just like cheese!"

—A darkey who was stopping to wash his hands in a creek, didn't notice the peculiar actions of a goat just behind him, so when he scrambled out of the water and was asked how it happened, he answered: "I dunno 'zactly; but 'peared as of de shore kinder h'isted and frowed me."

—There is a baby in Nashville who was born in a private box at the theatre there recently during the performance of the play.

"Heal Thyself."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of about 900 pages, illustrated with over 250 engravings and colored plates, and sold at the exceedingly low price of $1.50, tells you how to cure Catarrh, "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sick, Bilious, and other Headaches, Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Diseases; all diseases peculiar to women, and most other chronic as well as acute disorders. It contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. Men and women, married and single, are tempted to ask their family physician thousands of questions on delicate topics, but are deterred from doing so by their modesty. This work answers just such questions so fully and plainly as to leave no one in doubt. It is sold by Agents, or sent by mail (post-paid) on receipt of price. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

From the Lafayette Daily Courier.

A VALUABLE WORK.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, distinguished in surgery, and the general practice in the profession he honors, has made a valuable contribution to the medical literature of the day, in a comprehensive work entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." While scientific throughout, it is singularly free from technical and stilted terms. It comes right down to the common sense of every-day life. Dr. Pierce is a noble specimen of American manhood. He has sprung from the people; and, with many sympathies in common with the masses, has sought to render them a substantial service in this the great work of his life.

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does both, and has proved beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information relating to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all Industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies sent gratis on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, MUNN & CO. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through them.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 167 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For five or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I first benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold many, what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most every thing, but nothing did good. I have taken only two pills and can say they are worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. B. D. LEONARD,

Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up a small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and Wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. P. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rosendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

JOHN H. SLATER, AGENT.

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has addressed political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as a "party" paper, nor has it ever looked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican Party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never cease to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of Inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was in power. Democratic reform, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and a Democratic Board of Police did their best to abolish the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will never be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from all interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

a no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice up to his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

COMBINED PAPERS—FORTY-SIXTH YEAR.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Breeds of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

The Volume for 1876 contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as thereon depends the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

Dover, Dec. 6, 1875.

LOST REASON AND HIS BRIDE.

Troy Press.

It is an old saying that one-half of the world is not aware how the other half lives. This saying, which is both old and common, may be fully illustrated in the life and death of Ephraim Canton, who died in a town not twenty miles from West Troy, on last Sunday evening. At the time of his death Mr. Canton was fifty-eight years of age, and for the last thirty-six years of his life never saw but four human beings, and during the same period never set eyes on sun, moon, stars, or the bright arching heavens. Neither did he see the hills, valleys or forests of his native country.

He did not hear of the great civil war that came so near destroying the great model republic of the world. He died in ignorance of the emancipation of the negroes, and never heard of any of the great questions that troubled the public mind during that period of time. In the month of January, 1835, Ephraim Canton, then a young man, about 21 years old, formed the acquaintance of a young lady of rare accomplishments and beauty, in Cohoes, and immediately became smitten with her beauty and proposed for her hand in marriage. The lady at first seemed favorable to his suit and gave him sufficient encouragement to ensure success, and finally promised to become his wife. The day of the ceremony of the marriage was to take place was appointed, which was to be on the 25th of May, 1836. Early on the morning of that day Mr. Canton, accompanied by a suite of his friends, set out from his native village in the direction of Cohoes with intention of getting married, and bringing back his blooming wife to his home in the country village where he was long regarded by the fair sex as the beau ideal of a young man. When the party reached the home of his affianced they were astonished at seeing no preparations made for their reception, and Mr. Canton inquired the cause of his mother-in-law that was to be. The lady informed him that on the night previous her daughter, his expected wife, departed for the city of New York, making no excuse for her departure, but left a note for him which read as follows:

REJECTED AT THE ALTAR.

MR. CANTON,—In consequence of certain stories damaging to your character, that I have heard, I hereby cancel my engagement to become your wife, and at the same request you to forget me as soon as possible. With my best wishes for your future welfare.

I remain, yours, etc.,

EMILY———.

The disappointed groom made the best of the inevitable for the time being, and entreated his friends to return home, making somd excuse why the ceremony could not come off on that day. They all returned home, and Mr. Canton's mother, on hearing of the disappointment, sympathized with her son and advised him to go to bed and sleep off the effects of it, and when he got up in the morning he would feel better. The humiliated son took her advice and retired to his room, taking with him some carpenter's tools which he possessed. He carefully locked his bed room as soon as he had entered it, and commenced to cut a small, one foot square window through the wooden partition that divided his bed-room from the parlor. He then fixed his bed so that he could reach the window with his hand without leaving the bed, and then calling his mother told her to pass his food through that window to him, and to admit no one to see him, and finally if she knew what was safe, not to make any effort to enter his room herself. Notwithstanding this warning she was nearly every hour of the following days begging of her son to get up, but it was of no avail. She then thought to starve him out, and refrained from giving him food for thirty-six hours, but that had no effect, and finally she sent for a neighboring man, and with assistance, broke in his bed-room door and entered. But the son was still refractory and refused to speak to any person, and all the efforts made and inducements offered could not prevail on him to speak one word or to leave the bed. We have not time or space to mention all the ruses that were made to get him to leave the room, all of which failed, and to make a long story short, he never left his bed-room from the May morning in 1836, until he was taken from it for his coffin on Sunday afternoon. During the thirty-six years that he remained in bed he never inquired for anyone or anything in the outside world. His life is shrouded in mystery, and probably will remain so. He lost his reason when he lost his bride.

News and Notes.

While Congressman Jones is splurging about Washington with his $3000 team, Hon. Charles S. Whitehouse, his late competitor, is engaged in managing the woollen mills at Gonic and East Rochester, from seven o'clock in the morning until nine o'clock at night. Which is the most valuable citizen and representative of the intelligence and ability of the citizens of the first Congressional district?

Mrs. Mary Minard, an elderly widow lady residing in Nashua, was discovered Monday morning sitting in a rocking chair with her throat cut and a razor lying upon her lap, which was filled with blood. She attempted suicide only the night before by taking chloroform. She was out of health and despondent.

The disgust of Northern and Western democrats with the absorption of all the House offices by the Southerners increases. Mr. Paul Stevens of Maine, assistant librarian of the House, was removed Saturday afternoon to make a place for a Texan, who took the modified oath. It is rumored that in a few weeks, when all the House offices have been filled with reconstructed democrats, the administration will retaliate for the discharge of Northern soldiers at the capitol by weeding out all the democrats in the departments. It is well known that there are a large number of democrats in good positions in the department, some of whom have been retained in accordance with the spirit of the civil service rules. It is expected that after Jan. 1st all the cabinet officers, by direction of the President, will adopt the precedent set by the Bourbons in the house, and remove all clerks who are known to hold democratic opinions or be of democratic antecedents. There are over 100 democratic clerks in the treasury, and nearly as many more in the interior department. The Evening Star says: "Virginia has swooped down upon the offices in a way that puts not only New England, but all the other States of the Union out in the cold. Not since the days of the war, when confederate prisoners were marched through our streets, has there been such an irruption of gaunt, hungry Virginians."

Senator Wadleigh is complimented with the chairmanship of the committee on patents, a position on the committee on elections, and on the committee on military affairs and claims. Senator Cragin is chairman of the committee on Naval Affairs and is a member of the committee on Territories and Railroads.

The January Galaxy will contain the first part of a new serial story by Wm. Black, author of "A Princess of Thule," "Strange Adventures of a Phæton," etc, etc. He is called "Madcap Violet." The same number will also contain a very important article on our National Surveys, by Capt. Chas. W. Raymond, and the "English Interregnum," by Justin McCarthy. Articles by Prof. H. H. Boyeson and Albert Rhodes will also be found in the same number.

The body of Miss Kate Conner, of Manchester, was recovered from the canal on Saturday, where she is said to have drowned herself. Her face was found to be badly cut, and the skull fractured, presenting appearances of foul play.

Mr. Blaine's forthcoming speech in the House will be the most carefully prepared and brilliant effort of his career so far. He will treat largely of the financial issue, and the school question will occupy a subordinate but still prominent place in his speech, in which his friends confidently expect him to demonstrate his right to the leadership which has been so generally conceded to him.

The Havana Vose de Cuba, commenting on that part of the President's Message which relates to Cuba says: "Gen. Grant's language seems to have been chosen to wound the susceptibility of the Spaniards. He seems to like playing with fire. He does not know the temperament of the Spaniards any more than Napoleon did."

Calvin Abbott, an unmarried man, fifty years of age, shot Thomas Gorman, who is twenty-six years old, at Henniker, Saturday morning. Gorman says Abbott asked him to go up to the village with him, and he refused. Abbott said, "Then d—— you, I'm going to shoot you." Gorman, thinking him in sport, replied, "Shoot if you want to. Abbott went into his sleeping room, came out with a gun and shot Gorman in the leg. It was found necessary to amputate it at the knee. Abbott says he intended to frighten Gorman.

A despatch from Bremerhaven states that sixty-eight persons were killed and twenty-five wounded by the explosion on the quay of the Mosel, and eight are missing. A passenger on board the Mosel has since attempted to commit suicide, but was prevented. He will be examined.

District Attorney Dyer has appointed Col. James O. Broadhead, one of the leading lawyers of St. Louis, to fill the position made vacant by the dismissal of Gen. Henderson. Hon. Thomas T. Grover, who was offered the position of special counsel for the Government, in the place of Henderson, declined for private reasons. Two more whiskey ring members have been convicted, Burbach and Reynolds, of Milwaukee.

Edward A. Stokes, father of Edward S. Stokes, the murderer of James Fisk, died suddenly on Friday afternoon last at his residence in New York.

—Never borrow if you can possibly avoid it.

—Make few promises.

Daily Chronicle.

TUESDAY. DECEMBER 14, 1875.

Cutting and Drying.

The Concord correspondent of the Boston Herald who, being a democrat, ought to know, says:

The democrats lack harmony, and are casting about for a leader. Plans have been laid deep and shrewd to insure the nomination of one man to satisfy his ambition and the ambition of his friends. The politicians have little thought for the defeated candidate of last year, and it seems pretty evident that they intend to shelve him. He polled a large, in fact the largest democratic vote ever thrown, they admit; but still they think he didn't quite fill the bill. Scarcely had the votes been counted ere the plans for the campaign began to take shape. In the convention which nominated Hiram R. Roberts, Warren F. Daniell led him a close race. The men who coached Daniell for that fight were ambitious; though overcome, they were not vanquished, and since the hour of their defeat, it has been one continued effort to secure his nomination in the approaching convention. Will this effort succeed? It certainly looks as if it might, though there is a strong undercurrent against the nomination, which may yet make itself felt. Upon the merits of such a nomination, which is accomplished simply because the machinery of the convention had been arranged for the result, no nomination is necessary. The result of this nomination, should it be made, will scarcely carry out the pretensions of the party, or their promises to put forward their best men for office. It will ignore the claims of centennial year, and should the candidate be elected, will call upon a man to represent the home of a host of statesmen, who would have remained in obscurity forever, had he not have been heir to a water power and a paper mill.

Our Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 13.

In a former letter I indicated that Randall was most likely to be the Speaker of the House, but at the same time stated he was liable to be bargained away by the candidates for subordinate positions, and to procure Western dominsation on the important committees of the House. The latter view proved the correct one. The rebels and copperheads secured all the positions elective by the House. George M. Adams of Kentucky was the only exception. He was in the Union army, but in his long Congressional career has been hunkerish enough to cure that defect in his earlier record. They are all, with the exception of Thompson of Ohio, south of the line of 38.-30; and he is a carpet-bagger from Virginia, who represented and had no opposition of any any account. Kerr lives south of Louisville, Ky., on the Indiana side, and was as venemous as any copperhead who ever joined the Golden Circle. The Postmaster of the House is from Virginia, and is said to have appointed all his subordinates but one from that State, and most of them from Alexandria, where he lives. This created a row in the Virginia delegation, and among the members generally, and he has dropped some of his Alexandria friends and filled their places from other parts of the State, and taken in one poor Northerner out of the cold from the State of Connecticut to accommodate Barnum.

THE OHIO FINANCIAL IDEA,

NEW HAMPSHIRE OFFICE SEEKERS.

There are a half-dozen fellows or more here from New Hampshire, waiting, hungry enough not to be particular, but not a tear of pity or sympathy even can they draw from the tawny, long-haired gentlemen who are now dispensing the democratic patronage. They are of about as much account here as a June bug would be in furnishing lightning for a first-class thunder shower. If "Old Seaweed" were only here to sugar their rum with guano as of old, it might cultivate a more friendly feeling toward the tide water section of the State. As it is, no appeals are heeded. They see by the Fall elections it is their last and only chance; and when urged to regard its effects upon the coming election, they have a way of shrugging their shoulders, and grunting out "eh?" which is delightful but decidedly cooling.

REBELS TO THE FRONT.

Fitzhugh of Texas, who was Sergeant-at-Arms of the Confederate Congress, becomes the Doorkeeper of this democratic House of Representatives, almost a majority of which were rebel officers. He hails from Virginia, but emigrated, carpet bag in hand, to Texas. He has more appointments and patronage at his disposal than all the other officers of the House, and so far as known, has appointed but two persons outside this District and the Confederacy,—one from Ohio and one from New York.

A COPPERHEAD CHAPLAIN.

Townsend, the Chaplain, is the Episcopal minister in the District, and was urged for the place by Barnum of Connecticut, who assured his fellow-members of the soundness of the reverend gentleman,—giving as evidence, that he was too much of a copperhead to get a support in Connecticut during the war.

The Speaker is a man of ability and personal integrity. During a long service in the House, he was never tainted or even suspected of being in any of the jobs, in which so many of his democratic fellow-members have been caught. He is an unmagnetic man, and more acquainted with books than with men. He is having a in making up his committees, and it is very doubtful if they are ready to be announced when this reaches you. He has neither the robust health, voice, tact or talent which makes the successful Speaker, as is now universally apparent. The first movement of the democracy under the lead of Fernando Wood, to keep out Morey of Louisiana, proved him such a failure as a leader, that it is now doubtful if he gets the chairmanship of the Committee of Ways and Means. It was a great triumph for Blaine to divide the democratic party and beat them in the first movement they made.

THE MESSAGE

of the President is regarded as a strong positive document which will give the democratic House themes enough to occupy them while the Speaker is getting his committees ready for business. One can catch in it the sound of the tramp of manifest destiny toward the Isthmus, with the school house moulding the people on the way into progressive republican ideas. EXE.

Florida Correspondence.

SAND POINT, Fla., Nov. 24.

Am very busy securing a location. Have a nice piece of land in view, eminently suitable for orange and other fruit culture, and sugar cane. Good land, open to homestead entry, is scarce, and in small bodies. Plenty of land can be bought, but is held at ranging from $25 to $100 per acre, uncleared.

We consider this portion of the State superior to any other yet visited. Adjectives fail me, that are not hackneyed, to express our admiration. The southeast and northwest breezes prevail during the hot months. The thermometer reached 94 to 95 once or twice only during August and September, and averaged about 85 at noon in the shade. The heat was so tempered by the sea breeze that it was only by reference to the thermometer which we carried that we were made aware of its presence. I have spent one month in mid Summer in northern Maine and New Hampshire, at one time within twenty miles of Canada line, and there than here. I could enlarge upon this subject for hours but cannot spare the time.

I have no faith that orange culture will bring in remunerative returns under five or six years, although crops can be raised by unusual success in three or four, but not very extensively.

SUGAR CANE,

from which is manufactured the finest syrup I ever tasted, pays the second year. On this river it requires no planting for spaces of time ranging from five to fifteen years. It has ratooned on Capt. Burnham's grove on Banana river, east side of Merritts' island, for the past fifteen years. He makes forty or fifty barrels of syrup per season, for which he receives seventy-five cents per gallon by the barrel. The home demand is greater than the supply. Cane land is not plentiful, though by cow-penning cane can be raised on pine land, but will not yield so heavily. I think if this syrup were put in the northern market, properly advertised, it would bring from a dollar to a dollar and a half, wholesale.

BANANAS AND PINEAPPLES

can be raised profitably here and are of superior flavor. Limes and lemons have not received the attention they should. They will doubtless, and undoubtedly pay well. The disadvantages of the river are: first, musquitoes, (with a capital) but no worse than we found them on the St. John's; second, lack of quick transportation. The river, however, is being rapidly settled up. One is not out of sight of a house for forty miles from Sand Point south, and ten miles from the same place north. I was astonished at the number of people. [And let me digress here and speak a word in regard to the people. They are uniformly the kindest and most hospitable of any that I have ever met. Many of them are from Georgia, Alabama and interior Florida, who came here to get rid of the negroes, with a sprinkling from the North and West. They cordially greet people, from whatever section of the country, and do all they can to assist them. The "Cracker" element, so called, is not half so bad as has been painted.]

I think the transportation problem will be solved when the river becomes settled thickly enough and produce in sufficient abundance is raised from exports to warrant the investment of capital in its carriage. A railroad is proposed and said to be subscribed for, to be built this Winter between Aurantia, nine miles north of Sand Point, and Enterprise on the St. John's River. B. K. Bliss, a prominent seedsman of New York city, is said to be a heavy stockholder and pledged to seeing it through.

THE HOME CONSUMPTION OF ORANGES is so large that I am told but little leaves the State or gets farther north than Savannah and Charleston. I am assured by those owning groves, that they experience no difficulty in disposing of all they can raise. They receive from one and a half to two cents each by the barrel. Those are the lowest figures. The best sell for four and five cents. The Indian River oranges are said to be superior in flavor to any. There are some disadvantages, none of which are serious. A steamer will begin running soon on the river. She lays at her moorings opposite Sand Point. By the way, this is one of the most in the world. It is straight as an arrow for 140 miles. A line it is said, would touch neither bank if stretched from one end to the other. It ranges from two to seven miles in width. The "narrows," so called, is merely a portion of the river broken up by mangrove islands. There are two navigable channels through them, the west one of which averages at least one mile in width at its narrowest point.

FINE OYSTERS ARE FOUND in that locality, and so plentiful that it is said they are gradually filling the channel. The influx of settlers and visitors yearly increasing will soon remedy that.

A great advantage of this portion of the State over all the rest, is its freedom from chills and fever or malarious diseases of any kind. We have not seen a case generated here, but a few who came from other portions of the State to get free from disease brought it with them. A case of sunstroke here was never known. It is always cool in the shade and seldom oppressive in the sun. When the thermometer gets to 70 degrees one goes for a coat or a fire, and at 56 degrees, where it was one morning lately, we were frozen solid (?) This is but a mild exaggeration. For October and November the thermometer in the shade at noon has averaged 75 degrees, has once (yesterday) been 84 degrees. I call that temperature equable.

As soon as we are permanently located will write you where. The place we have in view is about sixty miles south of Sand Point and is very desirable.

With $2000 cash a man can live independently in this region. It is not best to put all of it into a bearing grove, as many are doing, but far better to buy a good piece of land, or enter it under the homestead law if possible, or buy from the State at $1.25 per acre, as circumstances might direct, have it cleared of wood, etc., set out an orange grove, lemons and limes, start a banana and pine-apple patch, [that, by the way is going to be a big business eventually.

PINE APPLES

can and have been raised very successfully on this river] as well as a cane patch, grow sweet potatoes, peas, beans, tomatoes, etc., etc., for own use, and reserve enough money to live upon for the succeeding three or four years, and a very small amount will do it, if a person is ordinarily successful in their kitchen garden.

DEER ARE PLENTY

and can be shot by an experienced person in paying quantities for home consumption. The river abounds in fish and furnishes many families a large part of their daily food in that line.

There are many portions of the river that afford

A FINE CATTLE RANGE.

Cattle can be bought for from $15 to $25 per head, are marked and turned loose, require no feeding and increase 33 per cent. yearly. Clothing costs but a trifle; nobody cares for style, and a man is not judged by his exterior covering.

Above all things this river beats the world for BOAT SAILING.

I would like to see a regatta here, and shall sometime probably, as every one owns one or more boats.

People on the St. John's will do their utmost to dissuade anybody from coming to this river. Cause: they seldom return. The superior advantages are so evident that they have no wish to go back.

The steamer Volusia, Capt. Lund, leaves Jacksonville every Saturday at noon for Salt Lake, upper St. John's. Conveyances meet the boat there, and "tote" passengers and baggage to Sand Point, a distance of six miles. Charge one dollar each; for baggage forty cents per hundred pounds. I think the charge on steamboat from Jacksonville to Salt Lake is $14, making the total cost from Jacksonville to Sand Point, $15, exclusive of baggage. Several hotels at Sand Point average $2.50 per day for transient boarders and less by the month. Most everybody takes boarders as far South as Fort Capron, Indian River inlet, where the price is nearly the same as at Sand Point.

A private boarding house in connection with the raising of fruit might pay. Hotels I'm afraid of. W. R. M.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of pulling their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability as his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

Jottings.

The costumes to be worn at the opera to-night are elegant. Evening tickets twenty five cents each.

Schooner Hannibal from Hoboken with coal consigned to C. E. Walker & Co. ran shore on Pull-and-be-d——t Point on Monday morning. Steamer Knickerbocker pulled her off, towed her to Walker's wharf and beached her. She will discharge where she lies. The cargo is insured, but the vessel is not. She is badly damaged.

Rev. James DeNormandie preached his five hundredth sermon Sunday forenoon.

The question before the P. S. & P. R. R. stockholders to-day is whether they will consent to receive less than the ten per cent. guarantee made them by the Eastern.

That fine new piano will be disposed of by auction at Franklin Hall to-day.

We publish to-day a very interesting letter written by Mr. Wallace R. Moses of this city, who with his brother Fred has been prospecting in the Indian River region, Florida, during the Summer and Fall.

Mrs. Jane Benson, formerly of New York, will hold a course of revival meetings commencing this evening at seven o'clock in the Advent chapel.

Mr. Frank L. Keyes, who came here from Concord, and has been living at Newcastle, is now residing in Mrs. Hill's residence, at corner of Islington and Cabot streets. Mr. Keyes was formerly of the gallant Second New Hampshire Regiment and left here in Co. B., known as the "Goodwin Rifles." After being in the first Bull Run engagement, he was detailed to the regular signal service and served under McClellan through the Peninsula campaign. At Malvern Hill he received a wound from the bursting of a shell close to him, which caused a permanent injury to his spine and hips. He was confined for seven years in a sitting posture in bed, but last year was able to ride out. He has no use of the lower limbs, but is nevertheless quite industrious, making with the aid of his wife, many neat kinds of fret saw work in white wood and black walnut, which he is glad to show visitors at No. 48 Islington street. Samples of his work will be shortly on exhibition at Foster's bookstore. At his home he has some fret saws, screws and other materials for those who have occasion to use them. We hope our citizens in selecting Christmas tokens will not forget this wounded soldier, who relies on his single pension as his principal means of support.

The steamship Faraday will sail immediately for the American shore to repair the Direct Cable.

Paymaster Z. T. Brown is detached from the Phlox and other vessels at the Naval Acadmey, but is to remain on duty as naval storekeeper at the Academy.

Mr. Plaisted's team will leave Market Square this evening for the festival at Rye at six o'clock.

Those Resolutions.

We cordially endorse the following communication which came to us anonymously through the mail:

Editor Chronicle: Without knowing or caring who was the learned author of those "resolutions of respect" adopted at a recent meeting of the School Committee in reference to the death of one of its members, we must venture the assertion, that for stupidity of arrangement, total disregard of the common rules of grammar, and the substitution of the word "mercy" for one that would not convey a direct insult to the departed committee man, they cannot be exceeded. That a series of resolutions of sympathy should be passed, is well enough, because it is a custom. But that the King's English should be tampered with, and the dead mocked in the manner shown forth in those resolutions, is disgraceful even to our present school committee! JUXTA.

York.

A petition to the selectmen is being circulated for the purpose of widening one of the streets, as laid out under our charter, as a city, by Fernando Gorges in the year 1640. Said street runs from the County Road, (leading from York Corner to the Marshall House) to Rufus Varrell's wharf. It is now very narrow, insomuch that teams cannot pass, except at its termini, and the proposed widening is absolutely necessary, considering the increased and continually increasing amount of shipping from that wharf.

A petition to the Congress of the United States is also being circulated among our citizens and those interested in navigation, for the purpose of erecting a pier at what is called the "Narrows" near York Harbor. No doubt exists but that we shall be allowed an appropriation for the purpose. P.

Fire Department.

The city council committee on fire department have been in consultation with the Board of Engineers regarding the possibility of having a fire alarm. After giving the matter a careful investigation, it was decided that the cost, about $10,000, would not warrant them in recommending it but that a new steamer costing one-half as much should be purchased to take the place of Dearborn 1, which cannot be relied upon at any time, especially after having been drawn to a fire, the jar and strain of going over cross-walks adding to the weak condition of the machinery. About one-quarter of the tubes in the boiler are leaking and plugged, and it is almost impossible to keep a fire in the furnace, as the water from the leaky tubes drips into it. When working, a large stream of water escapes from between the boiler and pump, which destroys the force of the stream, so that nearly one quarter of the water is wasted. A large amount of money has been expended in repairs, $2500 if we are rightly informed, and still the Dearborn is in need of extensive repairs, and when finished could not be relied upon except as a stationary engine. The wheels are in a shaky condition, the spokes working nearly quarter an inch in the felloes. The hubs are weakened, bolts dropping out every time the steamer is taken out for a fire or alarm, and it would not be surprising to see the Dearborn a wreck in one of our streets at any time. A new steamer is needed; the Dearborn can be placed at the Hanover street reservoir, and thus a fire could be reached with he hose at any point in the central part of the city.

A Widely Applicable Remedy.

Few remedies are applicable to such a wide range of disorders as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and this not because it has special properties adapted to the cure of each—such a pretence would be manifestly absurd,—but on account of its wonderfully improving effect upon the general tone of the system, and its alterative action upon the organs of nutrition, secretion and discharge. Besides its well known properties as a remedy for intermittent and remittent fevers, dyspepsia, constipation, torpidity of the liver, general debility, urinary and uterine difficulties, it invariably proves to be highly serviceable in overcoming anæmia, hypochondria, rheumatism, insomnia, and many other disorder and disabilities originating in poverty or impurity of the blood, nervous weakness or over excitement, or an imperfect performance of the physical functions.

Before your Lungs begin to Fester, stop the cough that may otherwise destroy you, with HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR.

False Delicacy.

The friends of those who are troubled with bad breath, and, through over-squeamishness, dislike to refer to it, commit a positive and cruel mistake, especially if they are aware of the merits and great efficacy of the fragrant SOZODONT. This is the true and only remedy for the difficulty; there is no valid excuse for a bad breath now.

SPECIAL SALE

—OF—

Two Large and Elaborate Oil Paintings,

3½x4½ FEET CANVASS.

No. 1. Brilliant Marine View on the Piscataqua, at sunrise, looking down river from the northern end of Noble's Bridge, embracing a part of Badger's Island, the Navy Yard, St. John's Church, etc.

No. 2. Mid-Summer Scene on the Boquet River, New York; group of cattle refreshing themselves in the stream, beneath a large elm, etc.

I offer them below their real value, being desirous to obtain by the sale, a part of the means for an outfit and passage to South Carolina, where I have promised to be in December, as teacher of music and painting in a High school.

The paintings are now on free exhibition for a few days, at studio opposite the Post Office.

THOS. P. MOSES.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. H. for $60. The Flute has eight parts and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

Daily Chronicle.

—Mr. Henry Clews publishes a letter commenting with some bitterness on the charges made against him by Mr. Benjamin H. Cheever, of whose character he evidently entertains no very lofty opinion. In this letter Mr. Clews says that he formed a sort of partnership with Mr. Cheever on the basis of receiving from Mr. Cheever aid in securing the Government financial agency, chiefly through Mr. Cheever's association with "Mr. James Van Buren from the West, a gentleman of powerful influence." The eminent firm of B. H. Cheever and James Van Buren never performed their part of the programme, however, according to Mr. Clews, and none of the Government financial business was obtained through their influence. "I most positively assert," concludes Mr. Clews, "that neither the President nor any member of the Administration ever had, directly or indirectly, any interest whatsoever in the Government Financial Agency, or any other business connected with my New York or London firms." Mr. Cheever replies to this letter of Mr. Clews, reasserting his original charges and claiming that the suit against Messrs. Clews & Co. was abandoned by him simply because he hadn't the money to prosecute it. Mr. Cheever says, in conclusion: "I now say to Mr. Clews, I shall pay no further attention to his personal attacks, and I give him permission to publish all our correspondence concerning the financial agency business, and to tell all he knows, with the understanding that if I can find certain documents, for which I am making diligent search, I may give some to the public he appeals to so confidently.

"Heal Thyself."

The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book of about 900 pages, illustrated with over 250 engravings and colored plates, and sold at the exceedingly low price of $1.50, tells you how to cure Catarrh, "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Sick, Bilious, and other Headaches, Scrofula, Bronchial, Throat, and Lung Diseases; all diseases peculiar to women, and most other chronic as well as acute disorders. It contains important information for the young and old, male and female, single and married, nowhere else to be found. Men and women, married and single, are tempted to ask their family physician thousands of questions on delicate topics, but are deterred from doing so by their modesty. This work answers just such questions so fully and plainly as to leave no one in doubt. It is sold by Agents, or sent by mail (post-paid) on receipt of price. Address the author, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y.

From the Lafayette Daily Courier.

A VALUABLE WORK.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, distinguished in surgery, and the general practice in the profession he honors, has made a valuable contribution to the medical literature of the day, in a comprehensive work entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser." While scientific throughout, it is singularly free from technical and stilted terms. It comes right down to the common sense of every-day life. Dr. Pierce is a noble specimen of American manhood. He has sprung from the people; and, with many sympathies in common with the masses, has sought to render them a substantial service in this the great work of his life.

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all Industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will alone save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room, in Work Shop, Factory, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, the undersigned, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five Years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new person, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can say I am another man. Some of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as any. And the friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I have told her of its virtues, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 19, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reedendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures and policy of any Administration, or upon the conduct of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and principles which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is absolutely powerless for resistance, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it "reformed" Democratic members, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his old friends left the side of the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in packing a caucus or a Convention, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. In all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and aggressive character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. T. Trowbridge, Charles Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

a no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Spatil Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country, placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

Dover, Dec. 6, 1875.

THE ART OF NOMENCLATURE.

The art of the nomenclator has been neglected in these modern days. There seems good reason for calling attention to its great importance. A few hints on the subject may lead to its scientific investigation. Names have a great influence on destiny.

BOYS.

Call a boy John, and he will be steady; call him Charles and he will deviate into Charlie, and go in for flirtation. It is to be remarked that Messrs. Smith, Brown, and Jones are fond of christening their sons Stanley, Howard, Clinton, Grosvenor, though they have no claim to connection with those noble families. Howard Smith is a queer combination. Why not go to earlier traditions? As thus: For the son of a statesman named Smith, Pericles Smith; for the son of a poet named Smith, Homer Smith; for the son of a doctor Smith, Æsculapius Smith; for the son of a soldier Smith, Achilles Smith; for the son of a democratic Smith, Thersites Kenealy Smith; and so on, to the end of a very long chapter indeed.

GIRLS.

Difficult. All questions about girls are uncommonly difficult. Would you, pretty reader of this column, rather be Kate or Kezia, Jessie or Jemima, Amy or Amelia, Lily or Lucinda, Sally or Sophonisba? We like to give girls names of poetic form. A famous poet called his daughter Rotha, after the river which flowed beneath Rydal Mount. And may not fair christenings be found in English poetry? Have not Spencer's Una and Shakspeare's Rosalind and Jonson's Earine a right to be remembered?

DOGS.

Rover, Lion, Neptune, Dash, are among the stupid old names for dogs, which have become stereotyped. Inventive people have other names. Punch has his ancient immortal canine comrade, Toby.

MAID-SERVANTS.

Fair Lucilla ought to have her name legibly written on her face. Polly and Sally and Sukey materially differ. But are there any Pollys and Sallys and Sukeys now? Not a bit of it. Miss Marianne comes as cook, Miss Sara as house-maid, Miss Susanna as lady's-maid—all in the latest fashionable attire. The mistress who is deciding whether or not to engage them gets many a wrinkle about the latest fashions from their elegant costumes.

Horses for Farmers.

For the ordinary American farmer, who cultivates the average-sized farm of about one hundred acres, in a variety of crops, a breed of horses is required suited to the heavy work of the farm, the hauling of crops to market, and also possessing the fleetness desirable in carriage horses.

Such farmers cannot afford to keep separate teams for draught and carriage purposes. They want horses which, when hitched to the plow, will move with unyielding strength through sod and stubble, will draw the wagon loaded with grain, hay, corn or roots to the barn or stack, the loaded manure wagon over the soft, yielding earth; that will force the reaper through the stoutest grain, or the mower through the thickest grass; that will move wagons heavily laden with the farm's products to market, and at the same time, when the farmer wishes to get over the ground rapidly, with carriage or light wagon, will be on hand.

Some will say that the farmer has no business with fast horses. If he has not, we should like to know who has. He is generally located miles from his market town, whither he is often obliged to go several times a week, to market, on business, to church or lectures, and he cannot afford to lose much of his valuable time on the road.

Frequently he is on the road in Winter, when the mercury is in the vicinity of zero, and he wants no team with a snail's pace then; and often, in Summer, he is miles from home, an approaching shower makes it important that he should outstrip the wind. At such times, if he has a horse, or a team that will make a mile under four minutes, he will appreciate it.

We should here say, that a farmer should never have a horse that will go his mile under three minutes, for he himself or his growing boys will sometimes be strongly tempted to trials of speed with those professional gamblers who are to be met with in every town, and who are more dangerous to the good moral and business habits of farmers and their sons than almost any other influences, save that of the grog-shops.

In mingling with farmers the past season, we have been pleased to learn that many of them understand this want and are trying to meet it. Daniel Rogers, of Wheatland, has horses of his own breeding that seem to combine strength, endurance and fleetness in a remarkable degree, and he has many occasions to test their travelling capacities, on the fifteen miles between his residence and Rochester. He has adhered to no particular breed, but has selected such animals of both breeds as seemed to him to possess the points desired.

Shelby Reed, of Chili, has a splendid lot of horses of his own breeding, that exhibit the characteristics required for farm work and roadsters. They have a large infusion of the blood of a Scotch bred horse, and also of a Canada bred horse, called "Black Prince."

For those large farmers who can afford to keep distinct breeds for the farm and road, the English draught horse and the French Percheron are well adopted to the farm; and even for both purposes, where the descendants of "Old Sampson," an English draught horse, imported into this county about thirty-five years ago, have been bred to horses possessing fleetness, a cross combining the desirable qualities, has been produced.

Meetings of Creditors.

One of the most amusing places to visit in these times of business depression is "a meeting of creditors" of one of the firms that have suspended payment. If you are one of the creditors, you have the honor to receive an invitation to attend the meeting. It is generally neatly printed, and in it they request the pleasure of your company at such a day and hour, at their own lawyer's office. Perhaps you swear a little when you read it, which is naughty. If too good to do that, you swear mentally (but I have heard some swear openly and call the firm bad names,) and at last you decide to accept the invitation.

On arriving at the meeting you find a mixed assemblage, about half smoking, and most of them in the best humor, but there are a few sour creditors, who have old-fogy notions of right and wrong. One of the creditors, perhaps only on paper, jumps up and says, "I nominate Mr. Jones as chairman." If it is a "crooked" failure, it is generally a friend of the firm's. The motion is seconded and carried. Secretary nominated, motion seconded and carried. Everything is "carried" at a meeting. A motion is never negatived. Meeting organized, hats come off.

Some one moves that a statement of liabilities and assets be read. Motion seconded and carried. Statement generally reads something like this: "Liabilities about $80,000; stock on hand about $12,000; present value about $9000; bills receivable and open accounts, $23,000; bills bad, $9000. Firm offers thirty cents at six, twelve and eighteen months. Up jumps one of the old-fogy creditors, and wishes to ask Mr. Smith, one of the firm, what he meant by stating to him a month ago that he had $90,000 stock, and only owed $30,000.

Mr. Smith replies in a bland voice that "the gentleman who last spoke must have misunderstood the tenor of his remarks at the time he mentions."

Irate old creditor says he "rather thinks he did not, and is ready to go on the stand and swear to it."

Up jumps another old fogy and "wants to know how his books stood on Dec. 31."

Mr. Smith replies that his books were not "balanced."

Old fogy "wants to know why they were not balanced."

Mr. Smith replies because they could not make them "balance." [Laughter.]

Then young America jumps up and says "he does not see that talking will mend matters; time is more valuable, and he cannot afford to lose any more of it at this meeting, as he has several more to attend to-day. [Laughter.] The firm, no doubt, needed more capital to conduct their business properly, and took this means to obtain it. [Laughter.] No doubt if they settled with them on these terms the firm could take a larger store in a better location. [laughter,] and most of the creditors could sell them more goods than they did before [laughter,] and get worse 'bit' next time. [Laughter.] Therefore I move that the offer be accepted."

The chairman states that the motion is before the meeting. Motion carried.

Young America—I move we adjourn. Carried.

The President will send in his supplemental message with regard to the state of affairs in the South possibly before the holiday adjournment.

How the Widow Caught Him.

[Providence Journal.]

A gentleman of an autobiographical turn relates how he was instructed in the custom of taking toll, by a sprightly widow, during a moonlight sleigh ride with a merry party. He says:

The lovely widow L. sat in the same sleigh, under the same buffalo robe, with me.

"Oh! oh! don't, don't!" she exclaimed, as we came to the first bridge, at the same time catching me by the arm and turning her veiled face toward me, while her little eyes twinkled through the moonlight.

"Don't what?" I asked, "I'm not doing anything."

"Well, but I thought you were going to take toll," replied the widow.

"Toll!" I rejoined. "What's that?"

"Well, I declare!" cried the widow, her clear laugh ringing out above the music of the bells, "you pretend you don't know what toll is!"

"Indeed I don't then," I said, laughing; "explain, if you please."

"You never heard, then," said the widow, most provokingly—"you never heard that when we are on a sleigh-ride the gentlemen always—that is, sometimes—when they cross a bridge claim a kiss and call it toll? But I never pay it."

I said that I never heard of it before; but when we came to the next bridge I claimed the toll, and the widow's struggles to hold the veil over her face were not enough to tear it. At last the veil was removed, her round rosy face was turned directly toward mine, and in the clear light of a frosty moon the toll was taken, for the first time in my experience. Soon we came to a long bridge, with several arches; the widow said it was of no use to resist a man who would have his own way, so she paid the toll without a murmur.

"But you won't take toll for every arch, will you?" she said, so archly that I could not fail to exact all my dues; and that was the beginning of my courtship.

Daily Chronicle.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1875.

News and Notes.

A dispatch from Col. J. Horace Kent announces the probable re-election of Cobb as Mayor of Boston by about 2000 majority.

The Clerk of the House has appointed his uncle, Green Adams, of Kentucky, chief clerk in the place of Clinton Lloyd. Mr. Adams was a memoer of the Thirty-sixth Congress, and afterward the Sixth Auditor of the Treasury. The salary is $3000.

Ohio newspapers of all parties vouch for Mr. John Q. Smith, the new Indian Commissioner, as a man of the most undoubted integrity. They say he is always a partisan but never dishonest.

The grangers are to hold a grand encampment near Philadelphia, to enable members of the order to attend the Centennial Exposition next year. Sixty acres of land have been leased, and an immense building is to be erected, in which accommodations are to be provided at a cost of $2 each day. This is done to avoid the extravagance and impositions of hotels. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will lay a double track to the Exhibition grounds, to be used exclusively by the grangers. Shares of $50 each are to be issued to the amount of $200,000.

There seems to be little doubt now but that the Mississippi legislature will impeach both Gov. Ames and Lieut.-Gov. Davis.

Stokes who shot Fisk, has been for the last two months confined to his bed in the hospital at Sing Sing with asthma and chills and fever, contracted in the prison. His constitution appears much broken, his hair is almost white, and his form is bent and attenuated. His term of imprisonment by the law, will expire next September, but his counsel claim that it should end by the 6th of January. A strong effort will be made to procure his release from the Governor at that time.

Gen. Banks feels confident of the rise of a people's party which will overthrow both of the old parties.

Blaine will undoubtedly be the conspicuous figure in the House this session. Perhaps he feels that the eyes of the whole country are upon him, and that upon his action now depends his fate before the republican National convention that meets next Summer. Since the opening of the session, Blaine's Presidential aspirations have had a good deal of encouragement. He discovers in conversation with members from different States that his friends are more numerous than he supposed. This is especially true of the West, where the "third term" idea does not appear to meet with much favor among the republicans. The Southern republicans, whose power for or against the candidate will end with the nominating convention, are generally against Blaine, and in favor of Grant for a third term. They will not be able to carry more than one State—South Carolina.—Wash. Cor. Bos. Globe.

Carl Schurz denies that he attempted to connect President Grant with the whiskey fraud.

Miss Kate Noyes, of Lansingburg, N. Y., is in a critical condition from poison arising from kissing her deceased niece, who died of diphtheria. The young lady had a slight sore on her lip at the time. A swelling commenced in her lip, which soon extended to the nose, and it is feared the difficulty will reach the brain.

The new President of Cuba, Aguilera, is expected soon to run a blockade, and shipments of arms and ammunition are likely to follow.

Senator Hamlin evidently longs for private life. He is reported by the Washington Star to have said last week that the law increasing postage rates shall not be repealed by the aid of his vote, and that at the proper time he proposes to defend the law on the floor of the Senate.

The friends of Hon. Cassius M. Clay will endeavor to secure for him the democratic nomination for Vice-President.

George Alfred Townsend won $2000 on the election of Speaker Kerr. He is temporarily writing on monogram paper and drinking green-seal.

Mr. Tobey's nomination as Postmaster at Boston, vice Burt, was reported by Senator Hamlin, from the Committee on Post Offices and Post-Roads, and was unanimously confirmed by the Senate, in Executive session.

The Wolfeboro' Temperance Reform Club number 284 members.

The Dartmouth '76 crew will be composed largely of men who rowed last year.

Mayor Atkinson of Newburyport was re-elected on Tuesday.

The slaughter of Randall and the foreshadowed packing of the committee of ways and means in opposition to protection are a great grief to the Pennsylvania democracy. The old Keystone State will undoubtedly celebrate the Centennial with an overwhelming majority against the democracy.

THE NATIONAL GRANGE.

The annual meeting of the National Grange, just held at Louisville, Ky., transacted much business of importance to Patrons. Thirty-six States and two Territories were represented at this meeting. The secretary's report showed that in the past three years, 22,620 charters have been issued, making a total of 24,290 charters since the inception of the order. The Masonic order has 12,330 lodges in the world, and the Odd Fellows, 7,051, and from this it will be seen how extensive has been the spread of the Grange membership in the United States. State Secretaries report a paying male membership of 762,263, in addition to the 92 granges organized since their reports. The total amount of money received during the past three years, was about $350,000, "exceeding the united paid-up capital of the purely agricultural societies in the United States, since they first had an existence." Receipts for the year ending January 1st, 1875, were $216,381.02.

There have been 3,172 deputies supplied with manuals and documents. The secretary thought his office should be made one of record and also a bureau of information to members, on such subjects as crop statistics, etc. He stated that after it was decided to move the headquarters from Washington to Louisville, it took him only three days to make the transfer. The report of the executive committee showed that $23,800 had been loaned to State Granges, and $6,068.47 donated to States suffering from insect ravages and floods.

An important feature of the grange proceedings was a report of the Finance Committee recommending that the salaries of the officers be increased to the following figures, which was so ordered: Master, $1,200 per annum and expenses; Treasurer, $600 per annum and expenses; Secretary, $2,000 per annum and expenses. The Secretary is required to give a bond of $10,000, and the Treasurer one of $5,000.

The election of officers resulted as follows, the Master receiving a plurality on the tenth ballot:

Master—John T. Smith, Arkansas; Overseer—J. J. Woodman, Michigan; Lecturer—A. H. Smedley, Iowa; Steward—A. J. Vaughan, Mississippi; Ass't Steward—Mortimer Whitehead, New Jersey; Chaplain—S. H. Ellis, Ohio; Treasurer—F. M. McDowell, Kentucky; Secretary—O. H. Kelley, Kentucky; Gatekeeper—O. Dinwiddie, Indiana; Ceres—Mrs. J. T. Jones, Arkansas.

The Oyster Trade of Baltimore.

[Baltimore Sun.]

The prevailing cold snap has greatly increased the demand for oysters, and is not unfavorable for dredging. No less than two hundred pungies laden with bivalves arrived in Baltimore recently, and had an aggregate of probably sixty thousand bushels. The average price was fifty cents. Large quantities of oysters are shipped to various distant points during cold weather in cans containing several gallons. The average daily arrival of vessels with oysters for some days past has been about eighty, from East Wye, Severn, Hunger and Pocomoke rivers, Tangier Sound, Terrapin Sands, Herring Bay, Plum Point, Governor's Run, and other fishing grounds. The prices at wholesale ranged from 75 cents to $1 25 per bushel for fine lots, and from 30 to 50 cents per bushels for medium. Very few cherry stones have arrived yet, and they generally bring fancy prices. As might be expected a large proportion of the bivalves received here are purchased by the packing houses. Ten cargoes, purchased on one day, to be delivered at Canton, were for packing purposes.

The season so far this year has been behind that of 1874. It is expected, however, that with the approach of the holiday season there will be a revival of the trade. Some days as many as fifty cases containing oysters in the shell, in bulk or in barrels, are sent to the West by Adams Express Company. Considerable quantities are also shipped to New York and other points North and East. At present it takes 50,000 bushels daily to supply this market, and three-fourths of this quantity is to fill orders for shipment. There are about 1,400 vessels in the oyster trade this season that come to Baltimore, 200 less than last year, and yet the supply is ample for all requirements. Oyster catching in Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries gives employment to 50,000 people. This does not include those employed in packing-houses and others connected with the oyster interest in Baltimore.

Grounds for a Suit.

[San Antonio Herald.]

An excited individual, with a bloody nose, rushed yesterday into a lawyer's office, threw his hat in the corner and himself into a chair, and breathlessly said: "Can a man sue me for $250,000 damages for me telling him he didn't have sense enough to frame a new constitution for the State?"

"Certainly he can," responded the lawyer.

"After he had banged me in the nose and kicked me in the abdomen, and told me I was a blear-eyed penitentiary outcast, before a whole crowd, and a bankrupt bodysnatcher, then he can sue me for damages, too, and attach my homestead?"

"Yes," observed the man of law, "and he can have you hauled up before the Recorder and fined for using abusive and insulting language, besides."

"Well, then," said the unhappy man, as he applied his handkerchief to his nose, and pulled his hat over his brow, "the next time I vote for a Constitutional Convention to accommodate the democratic party I guess she will know it, that's all."

"I guess she will," mused the lawyer as he closed the door.

—"I fought for the preservation of the Union for four years and lost my health in the weary march and picket watch, and my arm on the field of terrible carnage. I have now been driven from my only source of support—my position at the Capitol—and a man who fought four years to destroy the Union, who lost his health and leg in the contest, has been given my place." These are the plain words of a brave soldier—that is all—but they tell a story full of food for quiet reflection; a story whose meaning the simplest mind will easily comprehend.

—"Mrs. Sage, I should like to know whose ferry-boats these are that I tumbled over in the hall?" "Ferry-boats, indeed, sir! Those are my shoes! Very polite of you to call 'em ferry-boats!" "Didn't say ferry-boats, Mrs. Sage; you misunderstood me—fairy boots I said, my dear friend."—Graphic.

—"I told you so," says Nast, and reprints a picture from Harper's Weekly of January 6, 1872, with the Legend, "Stonewalls do not a prison make." Tweed is represented as being driven in by the officials at one side of the city prison, while his friends are preparing to receive him at the other.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents and Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

Harbor Improvements.

The Board of Trade committee are projecting a petition for an appropriation for a breakwater at the lower (Newcastle) bridge, which can probably be constructed for $75,000. An erroneous report has been spread that the proposed breakwater should be built between Wood and Gerrish's islands, and that an appropriation of $1,000,000 was to be asked for. The great need of a breakwater is at the bridge. The vast volume of water from Great Bay, the Cocheco and Berwick rivers is emptied through such narrow channels that there is always great danger to shipping when the tide ebbs. The great force of the current cleans the bed of the river of its sediment and there being three outlets to the sea, viz: through the Narrows, above or behind the navy yard, and through Little Harbor—deposits it in the shape of mud along the more tranquil inner passage via the South End, the upper bridge and Little Harbor.

Little Harbor has a ledge from Jaffrey's Point which forms a natural bar over which there are but four feet of water at low tide. A hundred years ago there was a depth of water of ten feet or more at Little Harbor, and the cob wharf at the Cushing place is covered with ten feet of mud. It appears singular to one unacquainted with the Piscataqua river that there is not force enough to carry off this sediment, but when it is fully realized that it finds lodging in acres of "eel-grass," which of itself forms a deposit in decay, the mystery is solved. To sweep all this to the bar and over it would require a swifter current than ever the present generation has seen in that locality.

The stranger views with a feeling of inexplicable awe the course of the tides and eddies below as well as above the Narrows; but most singular of all is the mystery of the tide running swiftly south under the bridge between Marvin's and Goat islands, and setting due north under the next (lower) bridge. It empties near the most mischievous point in the river. The tide going down through the Narrows strikes Goat island and shoots partially across toward the passage between Seavey's and Clarke's islands. That portion of the tide running from the Narrows under the second bridge forces the body of water south of it out under the lower bridge, and this current striking the main tide deflects it more than it otherwise would toward Clarke's island, where many a vessel has gone ashore, drifting down with the tide and losing a breeze at a critical moment. This difficulty the breakwater would remove. The main tide would run out nearer the centre of the river, and the currents setting through the upper and middle bridges would unite in sweeping away the deposits of centuries at Little Harbor. We hope the petition will meet with the earnest support of our citizens, for the breakwater would eventually save a great amount of property and probably life. The proposed breakwater is to be less than 800 feet long and the greatest depth thirteen and a quarter feet at low tide.

P. S. & P. R. R. Meeting.

The adjourned meeting of the Portsmouth, Saco and Portland Railroad, at their hall at the Kittery end of Portsmouth bridge, on Tuesday morning, was a large gathering of earnest and interested stockholders, who evidently felt that their money was in peril. The meeting was called to order by the clerk of the road, and in absence of the President, Mr. Wooldredge, who it is said started a day or two since on a trip to California, Mr. S. L. Thorndike of Beverly, was elected chairman.

It was the evident intention of the former meeting to order that the contract between the Eastern Road and this corporation should be printed and sent to each stockholder, with the report of the committee, prior to this meeting, but by a technicality the passage of such vote was defeated, and no printed report or other paper has been issued.

Several stockholders arose after the reading of the records, and stated that such vote was passed, but the clerk denied this, and Mr. C. L. Pitkin of Boston stated that he made such a motion, but was requested to put it in writing, and while he was doing this, a voice which sounded like the president's, was heard to say, that the publication of the contract would be an injury to the Eastern road, and he wished somebody would move to adjourn the meeting, which was done, before any vote could be taken on his resolution for publication.

On motion, the said contract, in all its length and details, was read in full by the chairman, from the records of the Portland road; and then the examining committee appointed at the previous meeting, was called upon to report, and C. L. Woodbury, Esq., chairman, read a long report, ending with presenting three different resolutions for consideration or adoption by the meeting. One, which was recommended by all the committee, provides that the receipts from the business of the P. S. & P. Road, shall be held as trust funds by the Eastern, to be used solely for the benefit of the P. S. & P., and that the accounts of the latter road shall be left separate and distinct, as provided in the contract. This was adopted unanimously by the meeting.

The second resolution, from a minority of the committee, including Mr. Woodbury, recommended that the Eastern road should be allowed to pay six per cent per annum for the next two years, instead of ten as provided in the contract; and as an offset, that the Eastern shall assume the new taxes assessed on the Portland road by Maine, and shall surrender their right given in the contract, to issue any sum of the $500,000 of bonds or notes endorsed by the P. S. & P., than the $25,000 already issued. This also was unanimously adopted, and the meeting adjourned in good feeling.

The third resolution, from a majority of the committee, recommended that the P. S. & P. road accept six per cent for two years, but hold the other four per cent as due from the Eastern road, to be paid without interest at the end of five years. This did not seem to meet with much favor, and was not taken from the table.

Resolutions of Respect.

At a meeting of the Portsmouth Sportsman's Club held Thursday evening, Dec. 9th, to testify their respect for the late Marco B. Goodrich, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That by the death of Marco B. Goodrich, we have lost one whose manly character and upright dealings have endeared him to all;

Resolved, That while we deplore the event which has deprived us of his genial presence, we will ever cherish his memory as a true man and a true sportsman;

Resolved, That to the family of the deceased we offer our sincere sympathy in their great affliction, and trust that their deep sorrow may be tempered by the sweet remembrance of those qualities which made him so true in all the relations of son and brother, and by the hope of that reunion in the future, when all sorrow and grief shall have passed away;

Resolved, That the Portsmouth Sportsman's Club attend the funeral of their deceased Ex-President, Marco B. Goodrich;

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of the deceased;

Resolved, That these resolutions be engrossed upon the Records of the Club.

MARCELLUS ELDREDGE, President.

Jottings.

We wish every citizen of Portsmouth might listen this evening to the lecture of Judge Garland of Rye on his experience as a "carpet bagger" in Texas during and since the rebellion. Judge Garland is a man of no ordinary ability, who maintained his opinions in private and public life at the peril of his life. A friend who has heard him lecture says it should be delivered on the floor of Congress. The Judge is on Redpath's list of lyceum lecturers and will have ample opportunity to present his views to the people of the United States. The life of the Republic depends on the efforts of such men, and the citizens of Rye are to be congratulated that the town has reared such a deep thinker, able advocate and fearless official.

It is understood that a petition for a call for a special meeting of the stockholders of the Eastern Railroad corporation is now in course of circulation for signatures. The meeting is to be held for the purpose of considering the embarrassed condition of the road, and to see if measures can be taken to lift it out of the slough it is now laboring in.—Herald.

Dr. J. B. Cherry was arraigned before the Police Court on Tuesday for practicing medicine without a certificate from the State Censors. The case was continued to next Monday.

A Health-Promoting Stimulant.

Physicians, who certainly ought to be the best judges of such matters, declare that wholesome stimulation is not only desirable, but essential in many instances. When the temporary good effect of a sound stimulant is confirmed and rendered permanent, as in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, by the action of tonic and alterative principles combined with it, it becomes infinitely more efficacious as a renovant of physical energy and a corrective of those conditions of the body which invite disease. The Bitters have received the emphatic sanction of medical men who have observed the effect of that popular stimulative cordial as a remedy for weakness, nervousness, dyspepsia, constipation, inactivity of the liver, malarious fevers, and many other disorders. Its basis is sound old rye, the purest liquor known to commerce, and itself possessing tonic properties of no mean order.

SPECIAL SALE — OF — Two Large and Elaborate Oil Paintings, 3¼x4½ FEET CANVASS.

No. 1. Brilliant Marine View on the Piscataqua, at sunrise, looking down river from the northern end of Noble's Bridge, embracing a part of Badger's Island, the Navy Yard, St. John's Church, etc.

No. 2. Mid-Summer Scene on the Boquet River, New York; group of cattle refreshing themselves in the stream, being a large elm, etc.

I offer them below their real value, being desirous to obtain by the sale, a part of the means for an outfit and passage to south Carolina, where I have promised to be in December, as teacher of music and painting in a High School.

The paintings are now on free exhibition for a few days, at studio opposite the Post Office.

THOS. P. MOSES.

My Favorite Flute For Sale! THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a well-known Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight parts and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

—We have seen very pretty transparencies made by sticking ferns and gay clusters of leaves between sheer folds of lace, and fastening the whole or rather surrounding it by a slender frame made of cigar lighters. Any long vine which you have been so fortunate as to have succeeded in pressing will loop itself gracefully over your pictures or brackets. Ivy, the stems inserted into flat bottles of water and the bottles tied to the backs of picture frames, can be trained to grow around pictures with very fine effect. In a warm, moist atmosphere the ivy vine grows rapidly, either in pots or in vases of water, and its verdure is really a decoration to indoor life in the Winter. The gray trailing moss of the South, weird and phantom-like, or the fluffy, feathery flower of the clematis are graceful for drapery in their exquisite and airy lightness and apparent fragility. Nothing is prettier than the bitter-sweet. Its delicate coral cups break open, revealing an inner ball smooth as wax and tinted with gold. With clusters of this or holly berries shining out from glossy leaves, or the running cedar that may be had in the forests for the seeking, home may be decorated to your heart's content. Then if it have heart's content too—the cheer of simple, unaffected living, the warmth of good humor, the tenderness of courtesy, and the grace of thankfulness—be it never so lowly, there will be no place like home.

—Owing to the new food and drug adulteration act, the London tea merchants have been obliged to cease importing green teas form China, because they are mixed with other substances in the shape of coloring matter, and therefore liable to be confiscated and destroyed.

A Remarkable Professional Success.

[Missouri Republican, (St. Louis).]

Among the notable professional men of this country who have achieved extraordinary success is Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. The prominence which he has attained has been reached through strictly legitimate means, and, so far, therefore, he deserves the enviable reputation which he enjoys. This large measure of success is the result of a thorough and careful preparation for his calling, and extensive reading during a long and unusually large practice, which have enabled him to gain high commendation, even from his professional brethren. Devoting his attention to certain specialties of the science he has so carefully investigated, he has been rewarded in a remarkable degree. Not a few of the remedies prescribed by him have, it is said, been adopted and prescribed by physicians in their private practice. His pamphlets and larger works have been received as useful contributions to medical knowledge. He has recently added another, and perhaps more important work, because of more general application, to the list of his published writings. This book, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," is designed to enter into general circulation. Dr. Pierce has received acknowledgments and honors from many sources, and especially scientific degrees from two of the first medical institutions in the land.

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Miner, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the day. Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Receipts, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; also containing the most reliable and correct progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the most weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of great value to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American, European and Colonial Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all inventions Patented through the Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws of the U. S., and 167 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudoritic and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I got them for the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold more than a gross of the Pills since I began selling. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can say nothing in one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,

Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I send for you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not organized, established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will devote closely these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. The people would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "victories" in the spirit but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly the Democratic opposition meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers, and when packing juries, and, when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested views, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and of direct and special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Editorial Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

COMBINED PAPERS—FORTY-SIXTH YEAR.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, which will be strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among every Department of all Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is covered in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as any publication in the country, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to the markets, as to them and the crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and its Practical Receipts, under the heading of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administation of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country pinced on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL.

Chairman Republican State Committee.

MY HERO.

'I shall build the wall, Nelly.'

'Why, uncle dear,' I said, 'how changeable you are. It was only yesterday you told me you had given it up altogether.'

'Yes, I had yesterday, Nelly; but I've altered my mind to-day. I shall build the wall and carry it right around the house, and have high gates, and a big key to lock 'em up, and keep it in my pocket.'

'Why, whatever for?' I said, laughing.

'Because,' he answered, as he put his arm around me, and began stroking my hair in his dear old loving way—only it does tumble it so—'because it's quite time; else I shall come home one of these days and find it ain't home any longer, as some of these fellows will have carried off my little house-keeper.'

'Oh, uncle!' I said, turning all hot and red as I bent down, cutting Phil's sandwiches, 'how can you talk such foolishness!'

'Taint foolishness, my little lassie,' he said watching me very hard; 'it's nature. Noll Murray put into me plump and plain, yesterday—spoke right out.'

'What about, uncle?' I said, feeling hotter and quite angry.

'What about, pussy!' he said chuckling. 'Of course, you don't know. Told me like a man that he loved you, and he said he thought he ought to tell me so; for if he didn't he felt as if he came to the mill under false pretences. Ha, ha, ha!'

'I'm sure, uncle,' I cried angrily, 'I never gave Mr. Oliver Murray the least encouragement. Oh! don't, uncle, you're coming off all floury on my dress.'

'To be sure I am, Nelly,' he said laughing 'same as I have hundreds of times, like a jolly miller should. And so you've never given him any encouragement, eh?

'Never, uncle,' I cried indignantly; and in spite of all I could do, the tears would gather in my eyes, and one fell spat on the bread and butter between which I was laying slices of meat.

'Why, you wicked young fibster,' he cried, laughing, 'every look of those eyes is an encouragment; every wave of that sunny brown hair; there is an encouraging dimple in that cheek, another in that, and one in your chin. Why, pussy, pussy, you are a wicked little encouragement to all young men for miles around—from top to toe—and I don't wonder at Parson saying what he did.'

'What did Mr. Wilson say?' I cried eagerly, for I loved our dear old gentle clergyman.

'What did he say?' laughed uncle, placing his great hand under my chin and looking me full in the face; 'why, that he should forbid you the church—have you locked out, because the lads were all staring at you instead of listening to the sermon.'

'It's all nonsense, too, about John Fleming, I suppose,' said my uncle, watching me very narrowly. 'Wonderful how fond that chap's got of me lately!'

'Has he uncle?' I said bending over the sandwiches.

'Has he? Yes, he has; he calls whenever he's going into town, to see if he can do anything for me; calls of an evening to see how the horses are; calls of a morning to tell me the price of wheat, hang him; he's alway calling, he's so fond of me—eh, Nelly? You've seen it, haven't you?'

'I—I've—I think I've seen that Mr. Fleming does come very often, uncle,' I said, and I know my neck grew scarlet as I tied the sandwiches up in a little packet, and though I tried so hard I kept getting more confused—the more so that I knew dear uncle was watching me narrowly.

'Yes,' he said drily, 'I should think you had,' and he sighed gently. 'Nelly, my little lassie,' he said taking me once more in his arms, and speaking very seriously, 'it's all very natural and I don't murmur, though it'll be a black day for the old mill when my darling's taken away.'

'Yes, I say, when my darling's taken away; but don't be in a hurry, my child. All isn't gold that glitters; many a good true little heart had been won by a handsome face and smooth words, when if that true little heart had the wisdom to see it, there has been sterling worth and a more faithful love hidden behind some rough out side. It isn't the ruddiest apple in the orchard that's the best, Nelly. There's many a better one with a rough skin, that's better tasted and firm and sound, where your handsome, streaky fruit's bitter, mealy, and rotten at the core.'

I couldn't help it now. But I burst into tears.

'Has Noll Murray said anything to you, lassie?'

'No, uncle,' I said angrily, 'and if he did I—'

'Should say no to him—eh, lassie?'

'Yes, uncle, of course,' I exclaimed; but all the same my heart kept beating strangely.

'I'm a plain, blunt man, my dear,' he said; 'and I tell you I am sorry for it. Murray's a staunch, true man, well to do, and as open and honest as the day. Has Fleming said anything to you?'

I didn't answer. I couldn't—I was choking.

'Silence gives consent,' he said quietly. 'Well, my dear, it must come, I suppose, some day, but don't hurry. I won't thwart you in your wishes, but if I must lose you some day, I should like to feel that you'd gone to a happy home.'

I hardly know what followed, only that I threw my arms around his neck and was sobbing on the honest, broad old breast, where I had so often cried myself to sleep, when first he fetched me, a poor, trembling little orphan, years before, to his own widowed home, where he had shared his love between me and his own child, cousin Phillip, ever since. I know I sobbed and I cried as if my heart would break as I told him again and again that I loved no one but Phillip and him, and that I never wished to go away from the dear old mill.

I was in the midst of one of my most passionate protestations, when some one cried—

'Hallo! what's the matter?'

I turned hastily away, for there was Phillip with his fresh, young, eager face and wide-opened eyes at the door, fastening his pony's bridle to the ring, while he came in to fetch his sandwiches and the puffs which I had made for him to carry to school.

'Hallo!' he said again, 'what's the matter; has cousin Nelly cut herself?'

'Here,' said uncle gruffly, 'you take your dinner, sir, and be off. You'll be late.'

'Oh, no, I shan't,' father, cried the boy.

'Then you'll be galloping the pony all the way along, you dog,' said uncle. 'Now look here, Phil, you are going mad over that pony. You cantered across the low meadow last night.'

'Yes, father,' said the boy, hanging his head.

'And you got jumping the ditch—now don't deny it, sir; there are hoof marks in the soft turf.'

'I wasn't going to deny it, father,' said the boy, frankly. 'It was only a little ditch, and Jack Sanders said I couldn't.'

'Oh!' said Uncle sharply; but I know he looked pleased the while; 'and, so, then, if Jack Sanders or any other chuckle-headed fellow dares you to do anything you're to break your neck, eh? Now be off to school.'

'All right, father,' cried the boy, and the the minute after there was a trampling of the pony's hoofs outside, and with my eyes now dried I walked with uncle round to the front of the mill cottage, where we stood at the gate, as bright, happy and eager in the sunny morning, and the boy cantered along, and dashed down to where the glistening river ran bubbling over the pebbly ford.

'Look at that young dog!' cried uncle crossly, but with a smile on his face, as Phil drummed the pony's side with his heels and galloped through the water, splashing, flying and sparkling in every direction.

I smiled up in uncle's face, and we went back to the house together, the pretty old place standing in its beautiful garden, with the busy water mill and the wooden bridge about fifty yards away, while the bright little river ran noisily along its bed, after turning the great splashing wheel, and all round the great high Derbyshire hills shut us in from every blast.

'Don't be in a hurry, my child,' uncle said, seriously, as he kissed my forehead. 'And now for business—Why, hallo!' he said, tapping the barometer, 'how the glass is going down. Rain, my dear, and lots of it, before long. Well, the river is very low.'

He went out then, and I tried to be busy over the household affairs, but somehow, I couldn't keep my thoughts off my uncle's words; and when once I caught a glimpse of myself in the glass, it was to see that my cheeks were red as fire.

At last I was setting in the parlor, working by the open window, feeling more at peace, when I heard footsteps which set my heart beating furiously, and a minute after there was a tap at the door, and John Fleming came in after our homely, neighborly style.

'Ah, Miss Wilmot,' he said; 'I've just come back from town. I thought Mr. Wilmot would like to see the paper. Isn't he here?

Now, as John Fleming stood there, flushed with exercise, a fine, handsome, tall fellow of five-and-twenty, I couldn't help thinking what a picture he made of health and strength. My heart was beating fast, for I knew he professed to love me, and in girlish way I was attracted to him, he was so attentive, so fond of waylaying me, and so tender and respectful in his way; but fresh from my conversation with uncle then, I could not help feeling that it was an underhand way of coming to see me, to drop in with such an excuse when he perfectly well knew that uncle was in the mill, as he always was at that time of the day.

'Uncle is in the mill,' I said; and I meant to speak coldly, but somehow the words would not sound as I meant them to sound. and the next minute he had drawn a chair to my side, and was talking to me as he had never done before. He was calling me Nelly and praising my beauty; telling me he loved me with all his heart, and that if I refused him he should never be happy again. And all the time his handsome face was bending over me, and when I dared to peer up in his eyes they were looking so earnestly into mine that I grew fluttered and trembled. When I tried to speak my voice was all of a shake, and I kept on thinking as he spoke of what happiness it would be to have him loving me through life as he said he would; and I'm afraid that my face betrayed this for he kept on talking more earnestly each minute.

And still through all came dear uncle's words—'don't be in a hurry;' and when I asked myself did I love this man, the answer came, and I felt that I should run away, and cry all by myself, but he tightly held my hand.

'You know I love you, Nelly,' he whispered in deep, earnest tones, and he tried to take my other hand, which I was drawing away when I heard voices coming, and I heaved a sigh of relief as John Fleming started up, looked through the window, and then gave his foot a stamp of vexation.'

[Conclusion to-morrow.]

Daily Chronicle.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1875.

Congress.

On Tuesday, the Senate passed the bill continuing the Alabama Claim Court of Commissioners six months longer.

Mr. Jones, of Florida, presented a memorial of the Florida Fruit-growers' Association, asking the location of a National garden for the concentration and perfection of tropical and semi-tropical flora in that State. Referred to the committee on agriculture.

Mr. McMillan was allowed to withdraw his papers claiming a seat in the Senate, by a vote of 30 to 28. The democrats and Mr. Dawes voted against it.

In the House, Mr. Blaine introduced a bill proposing an amendment to the Constitution, providing that no State shall make any law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, and that no money raised by taxation in any State for the support of public schools or derived from any public fund therefor or any public lands devoted thereto shall ever be under the control of any religious sect, and that no money or lands so devoted shall be divided among religious sects or denominations.

Mr. Holman of Indiana introduced a bill to repeal the resumption act; a bill to repeal the bankrupt act; and a bill equalizing soldiers' bounties.

Mr. Harrison introduced a bill amending the constitution, making the Presidential term six years, making a President ineligible for re-election, and providing that all Ex-Presidents shall be U. S. Senators for life after the expiration of their terms.

Mr. Fort of Illinois offered a resolution that in all the subordinate appointments under any officers of this House, it is the judgment of the House that wounded Union soldiers who are not disabled from the performance of duty shoul be preferred.

Ninety-seven republicans voted in the affirmative and 103 democrats in the negative. On a vote by tellers, there were 99 yeas and 126 nays.

Mr. Hancock of Texas introduced a bill to restore to the pension list the names of persons stricken therefrom on account of disloyalty.

On Wednesday, the 15th, the House adopted a resolution against a Presidential third term by a vote of 232 to 18.

News and Notes.

Since Keene has been a city, the democrats have had the mayoralty. On Tuesday, Judge Edward Farrar, republican, was elected over Mayor Colony, democrat, by 277 majority. Colony's majority last year was 20. Republican gain 297! The democrats had 42 majority in the fifth ward. The republicans carried all the other wards.

The Wheeler & Wilson sewing machine factory at Bridgeport, Conn., was burned Tuesday evening. Loss $500,000.

Hon. Clark Jillson, Mayor of Worcester, is re-elected over Verry, democrat, by a vote of 3900 to 3436.

The election in Newburyport on Tuesday was very exciting, the republicans carrying All the city council except one. The vote for Mayor was the largest ever cast, 2100. Mayor Atkinson is re-elected by 398 majority, receiving 1249 votes to 851 for Griffen, democrat.

Mayor Henry L. Williams is re-elected in Salem by a vote of 2040 to 1012 for Calley.

Mayor Jacob M. Lewis is re-elected in Lynn, receiving 1292 votes. Peach had 833, Purinton 739, and Drown 266.

The Boston municipal election, Tuesday, brought out a very heavy vote, 27,200. Mayor Cobb, citizens' candidate, was re-elected over Halsey J. Boardman, the nominee of the republicans and democrats, by 2666 majority, Cobb receiving 14,923 and Boardman 12,257, there being but twenty scattering votes.

Lowell has chosen Hon. Charles A. Stott, republican, for Mayor over Abbott, democrat, by a vote of 2578 to 2027. Seven republican and one democratic aldermen are elected.

The republican National committee will meet in Washington Jan. 13th to fix a time and place for holding the convention for the nomination of a candidate for President.

Jedediah Huntington, of Cornish, was instantly killed, Monday, by a sled load of wood running over his head. He was about 55 years old, and leaves a wife and two children.

Seventeen out of the nineteen grand jurors voted for the indictment of Gen. Babcock.

Samuel C. Ham, of Barrington, and Wm. Leighton, of Strafford, were thrown from a carriage Monday, and were seriously injured. Leighton is over 90, and cannot recover.

A heavy deficiency has been discovered in the accounts of the late Daniel Blaisdell, of Hanover, for forty years Treasurer of Dartmouth College, and for the last ten or twelve years President of the Dartmouth Savings Bank and of the National Bank in that place. The amount of the defalcation is said to be in the neighborhood of $30,000. The family of the deceased Treasurer have turned over his estate to the college to cover the defalcation. His salary at first was but $300, then $700, and for the last five years $1500 per annum.

Willie Mason, aged six years, son of Erwin Mason, and Warren Wilson, aged five years, son of Clark Wilson, were drowned near Oil Mill village, Weare, Tuesday.

Politics will be lively in Connecticut next year. The new Constitutional amendment providing for Fall elections goes into effect, so that they will elect a Governor and State officers and members of the legislature in April and again in November.

Henderson sawed off the limb he performed on, and now wonders if anybody else was struck by lightning. — Daily Graphic.

For some time past the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad have been keeping a watch on certain conductors in their employment who, on salaries ranging from $800 to $1,000, have been indulging in fast horses, brown stone fronts and costly luxuries. One of an economical turn is said to have saved in five years $500,000 out of an annual income of $1,200. Many changes have taken place, and the practice is believed to have been checked.

The President, in conversation with a friend, said: "I have told Bristow to go on with his prosecution of the whiskey thieves, no matter who is hit, and I mean it. I want nobody covered up or screened, and the guilty must be punished."—Springfield Republican.

The present distinctive point at issue between the United States and Spain is stated in non-official but usually well-informed circles as follows: The United States ask, first, that in future all American citizens in Cuba accused of violation of the law shall be tried by civil Courts and not by military tribunals, with all rights in such cases as are secured by the treaty of 1795; and second, that all sentences where American citizens who have heretofore been tried by military tribunals shall be annulled. Spain in some degree concedes the claim of the United States to the first proposition, agreeing that in future American citizens accused of violation of the law shall be tried by the ordinary tribunals with the right to be heard by counsel, to summon witnesses, and employ all other necessary safeguards to the accused; but with the reservation that all such trials shall be according to the law of 1821, which provides for more expeditious proceedings than those of the civil Courts for common crimes in time of peace. She also offered to reverse all sentences passed by court-martial on American citizens where it shall be shown satisfactorily that such sentences were in violation of established law. This reply is unsatisfactory to the United States, which takes the ground that American citizens, accused of crime, cannot be tried by court-martial, but are entitled to trial before civil tribunals only, as secured by treaty stipulations, instead of such reservation as proposed by Spain.

Because so many distinguished people have stopped at the Westminster Hotel, New York, an impression largely prevails that it must be very expensive to live there. Such, however, is not the case. While the Westminster enjoys the reputation of being one of the most select, and one of the best appointed and most comfortable hotels in the world, the experience of those who have been its guests is that the prices are no higher than at other large first-class hotels. Indeed, the many advantages it affords, its rich appointments, quiet and convenient location, and its superior internal arrangements and discipline, render it only the best, but likewise the cheapest.

William Lloyd Garrison.

The Newburyport Herald says on Friday morning last an elderly gentleman came into the office of that paper and said "it was his birthday. He was 71 years old. Fifty years ago, on the 10th of December, 1825, he had attained his majority and finished his apprenticeship as a compositor in that office, having served seven years and two months. He wished to celebrate the anniversary by setting up matter where he had learned the mystery of printing, and to see if his hand had forgotten its cunning. A case and stick were accordingly furnished him, but the copy he selected himself, "My Psalm," by Whittier. The gentleman proved to be a rapid and correct compositor; in fact, no errors could be discovered in his proof. His name is tolerably well known in the world. It is William Lloyd Garrison.

At the time when Mr. Garrison was the oldest apprentice in the Herald office, Joseph B. Morss was the youngest, and, while the matter was being set, Mr. Morss came in and met his old fellow-workman celebrating his semi-centennial. William Lloyd Garrison is a native of Newburyport, and was educated in the common schools of that city. He had one brother and three sisters, all dead, leaving him sole survivor of his generation of the family. One sister came to her end very strangely: In Newburyport lived a Mr. Norton, with a garden adjoining theirs, and, having dug up some flowers, he threw them over the fence where Miss Garrison was with another girl. The girls took them, chewing and swallowing them. They proved poisonous, both were taken ill, and Mr. Garrison's sister soon died. The family came from St. Andrew, in New Brunswick."

During Mr. Garrison's stay at the Herald office, we think when he was at work as a journeyman, the late T. H. Miller of Portsmouth was also employed there for a while, and both were intimate and valued friends of Mr. Whittier of Amesbury; and the triple regard and friendship ceased only with the death of Rev. Mr. Miller. Well may the Herald editor pronounce Mr. Garrison a swift and accurate compositor, even now, for we have often heard the late Mr. Miller say that he was the best compositor he ever met—the fastest, easiest and most correct. A single mark on his proof was a rarity. Mr. Garrison and Mr. Miller, we think, were both afterward employed in the book office of Wells & Lillie in Boston, of which Henry W. Dutton, since of the Boston Transcript, was foreman, and James Gordon Bennett, of after celebrity in the New York Herald, was book-keeper.

—The equality of reward and punishment is fully exhibited in the fact that the same cruel frost that nips the fingers and freezes the toes of the poor debtor, also covers the windows of the butcher shops, and hides him from the observation of his creditor.—Norwich Bulletin.

—Mr. Astor's death doesn't seem to make much difference to most of us. We are not cutting off any more coupons than usual, and ten cents a pint for peanuts comes just as hard as it ever did.—Brooklyn Argus.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

Suburban Thoughts.

WHITE ISLAND, Nov. 30.

Some time ago a prominent official of the Light-House Board visited this station, to see how much it was necessary to raise the light in order to make it of use to vessels coming down the coast from the eastward; and I believe he thought raising the lantern fifteen feet would about do it. Now, I presume, this will not be done, for the removal by fire of the Oceanic gives the light a free sweep (excepting where the crest of Appledore Island intercepts it for a short distance) to the eastward, and if the hotel is rebuilt the government will doubtless take good care it is not again run up so high as to depreciate the value of the light-house as an aid to navigation.

I have been informed by a light-house official that in the middle of the main channel between the eastern and western groups of these islands, is to be buoyed in the Spring. This action should have been taken long ago, for though no vessels have ever been totally wrecked on that rock, a good many have scraped the barnacles off their bottoms with it. In moderately smooth weather the rock gives no indication of its proximity to the surface, and it is as fairly in mid-channel as if the channel had been measured to fit it. Last summer a tug-steamer, with an excursion party from some Massachusetts port on board, undertook to run into Star Island roads over Halfway Rock, but did not make out very well. Handkerchiefs were waving, passengers cheering and mysic playing as the boat steamed rapidly past White Island, but very suddenly and the cheers gave place to a grand chorus of shrieks when the boat bumped on the rock. There was not much swell at the time, yet enough to repeatedly lift the boat upright and then drop her until her rail on one side would go entirely under water, sending stools and deck-buckets back and forth among the passengers at a lively rate. The ladies were terribly frightened, and several of them begged piteously to be taken on board a racing-shell which was pulled up near at hand by a Portsmouth gentleman, they overlooking the facts that the

would capsize if the occupant should shift his cigar from one side of his mouth to the other, and that a man so reckless of his own safety as to pull from Portsmouth to White Island in such a craft wasn't a suitable custodian of the safety of other people, on deep water. The male passengers were not at all alarmed, and as soon as a big seine-boat which the steamer had towed astern was brought up alongside they showed their coolness and by all crowding into it, and magnanimously leaving all the room on board the steamer to the women. One Spartan father calmly marched to certain safety in the seine-boat, leaving four beloved daughters behind on the steamer's deck.

ARDENT YOUNG LOVERS

and faithful husbands tore themselves from the arms of their sweethearts and wives and dashed alone into the boat, utterly regardless of best clothes and fish-scales; and but two or three ladies in all were to be seen in the masculine crowd; and it was said that even they were placed there by other women's husbands. But more boats soon arrived, all the passengers were safely landed, the Major hauled the unlucky steamer off the rocks undamaged, and the tug went home by water and the passengers by rail, the latter having had enough pleasure-excursion for one day. It was a noble exhibition of skillful seamanship, feminine fortitude and manly courage and generosity, all through—almost enough to make a fellow feel glad he was a man, and wasn't dead. PAKEHA.

Jottings.

The opera company rendered "Maritana" most pleasingly on Tuesday evening, the soprano singing of Miss Dora Wiley and the fine tenor of Mr. Harry Gates being especially commendable. We hear that our citizens will soon be favored with another appearance of the company.

John Appleton Haven was one of the few remaining old New York merchants. Mr. Haven was born in Portsmouth, and graduated at Harvard University in 1813. He commenced his career as a merchant in Boston shortly after having obtained his majority, and exhibited great tact and industry in business. Becoming quite successful, he removed to New York in 1829, where with his brother, the late J. Woodward Haven, he established the house of Haven & Co., which for upward of thirty years was chiefly engaged in the New Orleans trade, receiving consignments of Louisiana products. During his whole career he was universally esteemed for honor and uprightness as a merchant and a man. He was in his 84th year, having been born in 1791. The deceased leaves five children, the eldest of whom is Mr. John Haven. His estate adjoins the property of Charles O'Conor and James Gordon Bennett.

Over two hundred workmen in the Construction department at the navy yard were discharged on Wednesday, leaving about fifty to complete work on the Marion.

Ex-Gov. Israel Washburn, Jr., of Maine, delivers the next lecture in the lyceum course, on Tuesday evening of next week. His subject will be "The Laws and Conditions of Success in Life."

The name of John Sise, Esq., is prominently mentioned as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner before the republican State convention.

The lecture of Judge Charles T. Garland, Wednesday evening, at the Temple, was a cogent presentation of the views of a Northern Unionist, who after living in Texas throughout the rebellion had the bravery to heroically defend free speech as a private citizen and public official, when the National government was lukewarm in offering protection to those best entitled to it. The lecture was interesting beyond description, giving detailed accounts of his escape to Louisiana and his speedy return with troops, his official conduct in mixing the juries in ten counties of Texas. He blamed the Administration for its leniency to convicted murderers and untried criminals and gave instances showing that because of this and of the corruption of some of the State officials the State is now more unsafe to reside in (in some portions) than in 1869.

Mr. C. C. Wilson, who is blind, gives a concert this evening at the Temple, assisted by other talent. He is very deserving and we hope our citizens will make the occasion a benefit that will gladden his heart.

—With all the hue and cry about the ill-health of American women, the statement is made by the President of a life insurance company that it is a fact that women live longer in America than in any other. They are less robust and muscular than the women of other nations, but their tenacity of life is strong, and their constitutions are sufficiently enduring to keep them alive considerably longer than their appearance, as a general thing, would warrant.

A Health-Promoting Stimulant.

Physicians, who certainly ought to be the best judges of such matters, declare that wholesome stimulation is not only desirable, but essential in many instances. When the temporary good effect of a sound stimulant is confirmed and rendered permanent, as in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, by the action of tonic and alterative principles combined with it, it becomes infinitely more efficacious as a renovant of physical energy and a corrective of those conditions of the body which invite disease. The Bitters have received the emphatic sanction of medical men who have observed the effect of that popular stimulative cordial as a remedy for weakness, nervousness, dyspepsia, constipation, inactivity of the liver, malarious fevers, and many other disorders. Its basis is sound old rye, the purest liquor known to commerce, and itself possessing tonic properties of no mean order.

Beware of counterfeits. Inquire for Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Take no other. See that the name of "F. W. Kinsman" is blown in the bottle. Price 35 cents.

The World does not contain a Medicine that will cure a distressing and dangerous Cough or Cold as rapidly and certainly as HALE' HONEY OF HORE HOUND AND TAR.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. H. for $50. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

A Remarkable Professional Success.
[Missouri Republican, (St. Louis)]

Among the notable professional men of this country who have achieved extraordinary success is Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. The prominence which he has attained has been reached through strictly legitimate means, and, so far, therefore, he deserves the enviable reputation which he enjoys. This large measure of success is the result of a thorough and careful preparation for his calling, and extensive reading during a long and unusually large practice, which have enabled him to gain high commendation, even from his professional brethren. Devoting his attention to certain specialties of the science he has so carefully investigated, he has been rewarded in a remarkable degree. Not a few of the remedies prescribed by him have, it is said, been adopted and prescribed by physicians in their private practice. His pamphlets and larger works have been received as useful contributions to medical knowledge. He has recently added another, and perhaps more important work, because of more general application, to the list of his published writings. This book, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," is designed to enter into general circulation. Dr. Pierce has received acknowledgments and honors from many sources, and especially scientific degrees from two of the first medical institutions in the land.

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and by far the most popular illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Inventions, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars sent free to any address. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents; Cost; How procured; Rejected Cases, Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first box their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life was almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have received word for them. I purchased one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. A friend told me three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, Mass., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and sides, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they would prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, Mass., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rowlesdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has upheld from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the combinations advocated by mischievous Journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserves the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, but when a journal professes to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not projected, established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the Right. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" tendencies. It controls the State of New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES does not believe them, for it is not too closely and too clearly what a Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what the Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attraction to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the re[illegible]ted States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

MY HERO.

[Concluded.]

'Here's that lout Murray!' he exclaimed, and he snatched up the paper he had let fall, and stood in the middle of the room as uncle came in, closely followed by Oliver Murray, who gave a start as he saw Fleming, and then his frank face twitched and I saw a cold, grim shadow cross it, and knew that he was suffering intense pain.

'Ah, Fleming!' said uncle, quietly, 'you here?'

'Yes, Mr. Wilmot,' said Fleming, smiling, 'I've brought you over the paper, that's all—just off. Good morning. Good morning, Miss Wilmot,' he said, pressing my hand.

'Good morning, and thank you, my lad', said uncle, quietly, his eyes fixed on me the while; and then, with a short nod to Oliver Murray, John Fleming went out, while our other visitor crossed to me and shook hands in a quiet grave way, and I could see how the pain I had caused shining out of his eyes; for had not this man, with all the tact of a gentleman, told my uncle that he loved me?—though, save in his grave, gentle way with kindness, he had not shown it to me.

I could not help comparing the men—the one tall, handsome, and distingue; the other broad-shouldered and plain—as I said a few words distinctly in reply to his enquiries; and I saw his lip quiver as I read him through and through, as a girl may read any true, frank man; and he was saying to himself, 'God bless her! May she be happy with him.' And then in spite of my outer coldness, the throbbing of my heart began again, as I could not help thinking how true and earnest and tender was this grave, grey-eyed man toward the woman who he felt was gone from him forever; and my heart seemed to swell with great pity for one who could be such a gentleman at heart.

'I think you're right, Murray,' said my uncle, tapping the glass again. 'She's gone down again in the last hour or two, wonderful.'

'I could hear the distant thunder as I came across,' said Oliver, gazing at me the while; 'they're having a heavy storm on the hills, and I thought I'd come and warn you.'

'Thanky, my lad, thanky,' said uncle. 'Murray will have a bit of dinner with us, Nelly—but hang it, man, what's the matter! you look like somebody else. You were as cheery as a cricket as we came.' I dare hardly glance at him, but I did; and I saw the grieved, pained eyes wander from me to uncle and back again, and there was a terrible silence in the room.

At last he spoke;

'I've been took aback, Mr. Wilmot,' he said, with a piteous smile! 'I have been surprised this morning, and after what I said to you, sir, it has come upon me like a thunderclap. I'm not myself—I—Miss Wilmot,' he said, making an effort over himself, and speaking calmly, as he came to where I stood feeling white now, and took my hand, 'we may be neighbors for years, so I think it better—to speak out plainly—I said some words to your uncle yesterday—in ignorance—I did not know what you know now, or I would not have spoken. I meant to have—to have asked you to be my wife, for I was blind to everything—but the fact that I loved you very dearly. Now it is all over, and I say—God bless you! May you be very happy!'

He raised my hand to his lips and kissed it as if I had been a queen, and my heart swelled more and more with the great pity that filled it even to bursting; and he dropped it and stood gazing reverently at me. I could bear it no more, but ran upstairs to throw myself on my bed, and lie there sobbing as if my heart would break.

I don't know how long I lay there, dinner and everything forgotten but those two soft, tender, piteous eyes looking into mine, when I awoke to the fact that the room looked very dark, that it was thundering very heavily, and there was the sound of rushing waters.

I hastily bathed my eyes, which were now dazzled by the lightning, and smoothed my hair to go down below; but out of doors the rain was coming down in a sheet, and the little river had swollen so that its frothy surface was level with the foot bridge.

'Oh, miss, ain't it awful?' said a voice at my elbow. 'Master's at the mill with Mr. Murray and the men, and they're afraid something will be swept away—oh!'

The girl—our maid—gave a shriek as a vivid flash of lightning seemed to fill the house; and for the next hour the lightning, rain and thunder were incessant, though I never left the window for a moment.

Once, in the midst of it all, uncle and Oliver Murray came running up from the mill, drenched, both of them, to the skin, to fetch a screw wrench and couple of crowbars, and water streamed from them as they said a few cheery words, telling me not to be afraid, and then ran back.

Suddenly the storm seemed to be swept back toward the hills, the rain ceased as if by magic, the thunder grew more distant, the lightning more rare, but I hastily tied on a hat and went out over the streaming paths; the sight of the little river was now terrific. The water was almost black, but covered with foam as it rushed along. The bridge was swept away; corn sheaves, dead sheep, loose hay and trees were being whirled along, and if it went on swelling I could see that the mill would be in danger.

'Ah, Nellie, dearest!' said a voice, 'I've come to see if I can be of any help,' and there stood John Fleming, well dressed, dry and unruffled, as he threw off a Mackintosh.

Just then out from the mill came uncle and Oliver Murray, grimy, soaked, and with their hair clinging to their foreheads.

'Ah, Fleming; come to help?' said uncle grimly; 'better stand aside, my lad, we shall soil you.'

He laughed, and whispered something to me about Oliver Murray's appearance; but I turned away indignantly, as Murray smiled pleasantly, and said—

'Ah, I don't look much of a lady's man now.' 'Oh, good heavens! I forgot that boy,' cried my uncle, and he ran down a few yards to the edge of the stream, waving his hand frantically, for there, on the other side of the swift current, now a hundred yards broad, came our boy Phil, cantering on his pony to where should have been the ford, but which was now a fierce torrent, fifteen feet deep.

'Back, Phil, back!' cried my uncle; and we all waved our hands to him; but the reckless boy, who heard nothing for the roars of the waters, made our blood run cold, for without a moment's hesitation he gave the pony the whip, dashed down the road and plunged in to swim across.

I uttered a shriek, I think for the first time in my life; uncle gave a groan and staggered back; Oliver Murray stood as if turned to stone; and John Fleming caught me in his arms and tried to turn me away from the dreadful sight; but I struggled from him, to see our darling wave his hand for help, as the current swept him and his pony out farther into the stream.

Once the gallant boy tried hard to turn the pony's head to swim back, but he was in the power of a torrent that would have mastered a hundred times the Shetland's strength, and I knew that there was not a particle of hope.

We all ran down by the side of the rushing stream; and could now see the boy's despairing look, as he waved his hands to us, while John Fleming ran about crying;

'A boat, a boat! Go back, Philip, go back!'

'Oh, uncle,' I cried, catching his arm, 'you must not—you cannot;' for he was taking off his coat.

'Oh, my boy! my boy!' he groaned. 'God help me, I can't swim a stroke.'

At that moment my eyes fell on Oliver Murray, and I felt again my poor uncle's words, even in that horrible hour of trial. The man was noble—handsome now, in the wondrous look that came over him; for while the spick-and-span well-dressed rival ran calling for help, the other had thrown off his coat, vest and boots, and rolled up the dripping shirt over his great muscular arms.

One moment he was by my side, to catch my hand, as his bright gray eyes looked into mine, saying plainly, for I read them—

'Good bye!'

The next moment he was running from us twenty yards down the rushing stream, where with a dash and a plunge, he forced his way in and swam boldly out, trying to meet the drowning boy.

I pray heaven I may never again see such a sight as that though my heart throbbed with joy the while as I saw my hero struggle on, now swept away and whirled around in an eddy, now borne under in a whirlpool, while the pony battled bravely on in the mid-stream—but without Philip, who was now swimming alone but sinking—sinking as I watched him, unable to remove my eyes from the horrible sight.

It was like a hideous nightmare. I remember Fleming coming to me, to draw me away and believe I struck at him with my hands to keep him back. I remember seeing uncle running along, far out in the water that threatened to sweep him too, away, and I remember seeing our darling sink while Oliver was swimming far below. Then all seemed to be misty, dreamy and confused, till I woke like one from a trance to hear the shouting of those by my side, for I could not have been insensible a minute.

'Yes! No!'—'He'll never do it!'—'He's got him!'—'No, no, it's all over!—Oh!'

There was one deep groan in chorus then and I dashed lower down the stream to see low down in the rushing water, a dark head and a pair of stairng eyes, not twenty yards away from the edge. Then I saw the strong swimmer was spent, was being swept away and that all was over, when the stream bore him against a standing tree, to which he clung till a brave fellow swam to him with a rope and I saw what seemed to be three bodies dragged ashore,

It was a hard fight for life even then, for both Murray and our darling were insensisible when carried up to the mill cottage; but willing hands were about; the doctor and Mr. Wilson helped; and that evening I knelt by Oliver Murray's bedside holding his hand as I wept over it tears of thankfulness and joy. I don't think it was then, but two days afterward while I was his nurse—for he was very ill, cut and injured by the stones of the valleyside—that, in answer to a question, I told him he was mistaken about John Fleming.

'But you love him!' he said, in a faint whisper.

'No,' I said in a low voice, 'and I never could.'

Need I tell you that I hid my blushing face in his two hands, that were stretched out feebly to me? or, more than that, need I say that for many, many happy years I have been the wife of Oliver Murray, my hero?

News and Notes.

The jury in the case of Piper, the alleged murderer of Mabel Young in a church belfry in Boston, disagreed, nine being for conviction and three for acquittal.

It was an unpardonable neglect on the part of the confederate officers of the National House of Representatives to fail to honor the request of Congressman Thompson of Massachusetts, (who defeated Gen. Butler last year,) for the appointment of just one friend to office. Unlike the irrepressible Butler he subsides into non-entity and is content to trot along at the heels of the confederate caravan rather than essay to manage and control the performances.

At the request of Gen. Babcock the military court of inquiry in his case is dissolved on account of his trial at St. Louis by civil process.

Congressman Holman has disclosed himself to be of the opinion that "that they have made a d——d pretty confederate mess of this business." And Holman is a democrat.

A correspondent of the New York Graphic labors under the appalling conviction that Boss Tweed was kidnapped, and has gone to join Charley Ross.

It seems proper that the local celebrations of the Fourth of July, 1876, which will be held throughout the land should be made to contribute to a permanent historical memorial of the Centennial Celebration. In each county provision should be made for the delivery of an address tracing the history of that particular community for the past century, or from the time of its settlement, and including a sketch of its growth, its resources, industries, prospects, etc. These addresses should be published in a uniform size,—that of the Congressional documents, for instance,—in order that they may be bound together by States. To competent persons the preparation of such addresses would not be an unduly burdensome task; but in the aggregate they would constitute an invaluable historical repository such as no nation has ever had the opportunity to collect.

Mrs. Henderson, postmistress at Keene, died on Thursday.

William K. Thompson has confessed that he is the owner of the cask of dynamite which exploded on steamer Mosel, whereby 170 lives were lost. His motive was gain.

Congress.

In the Senate on Wednesday, the 15th, Mr. Morton, of Indiana, submitted the following concurrent resolutions:

Resolved, by the Senate, House of Representatives concurring, That the people of the United States constitute a nation and are one people in the sense of National unity;

Resolved, That the Government of the United States is not a compact between States in their municipal and corporate characters, but was formed by the people of the United States in their primary capacity; that the rights of the States are defined and guaranteed by the Constitution and not by any outside theory of State sovereignty, and that the rights of States cannot be enlarged or diminished except by an amendment to the Constitution;

Resolved, That the rights of States have the same sanction and security in the Constitution as the rights and power of the National Government, and that local domestic government by the States within the limits of the Constitution is an essential of our free republican system;

Resolved, That the doctrine that a State has the right to secede from the Union is inconsistent with the idea of Nationality, and is in conflict with the spirit and structure of the Constitution, and should be regarded as having been forever extinguished by the suppression of the rebellion.

In the House, Mr. Hale, of Maine, offered the following resolution and moved the previous question on its adoption:

Whereas, the country is suffering under the evils of an irredeemable currency, which causes uncertainty in business and stimulates speculation to the prejudice of legitimate business and labor: and

Whereas, both political parties in the United States stand committed against repudiation and in favor of a speedy return to specie payment: and

Whereas, Congress established a like policy in the Act of March 16, 1869, which was followed by the Act of Jan. 14, 1875, providing for the return of specie payment on the 1st day of January, 1879: therefore

Resolved, That in the judgment of this House prompt legislative measures should be taken to render said Act of Jan. 14, 1875, effective by placing in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury whatever power may be necessary to that end.

A democratic member, Jones of Kentucky, moved to lay the resolutions on the table, but was coaxed by his associates to withdraw it.

The House refused to second the call for the previous question, 75 to 145, and the resolution was referred to the committee on banking.

Mr. Starkweather, republican, introduced a bill changing the postage law so that third class matter, including transient newspapers, should be sent for half the present rates. The House refused to second the previous question, yeas 68, nays 128, and referred it to the post-office committee.

Mr. Cook, democrat, of Georgia, introduced a bill to refund the cotton tax collected between 1863 and 1868.

Mr. Lawrence of Ohio, republican, introduced a bill declaring it to be the sense of the House that that policy of finance shall be speedily pursued which, without an unnecessary shock to business, will ultimately equalize the purchasing power of the gold and paper dollar. He remarked that the resolution embodied in substance the principles put forth in the last republican platform of Ohio. He moved its adoption.

Mr. Holman, of Indiana, democrat, moved its reference to the committee on banking, and it was so referred.

On motion of Mr. Holman, the following resolution was passed, yeas 223, nays 33:

Resolved, That in the judgment of this House, in the present condition of the financial affairs of the Government, no subsidies in money, bonds, public lands, endorsements, or by pledge of the public credit, should be granted by Congress to associations or corporations engaged, or proposing to engage, in public or private enterprises: and that all appropriations from the public treasury ought to be limited, at this time, to such amount only as shall be imperatively demanded by the public services.

The following resolution was passed, 232 to 18:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this House, the precedent established by Washington and other Presidents of the United States, in retiring from the Presidential office after the second term, has become, by universal concurrence, a part of our republican system of government, and that any departure from that time-honored custom would be unwise, unpatriotic, and fraught with peril to our free institutions.

Ten of the eighteen members who voted in the negative are from the South. Mr. Blaine absented himself and did not vote.

A bill was introduced reducing the salary of the President after March 4, 1877.

The committee on Freedmen's Affairs was unanimously abolished.

The House voted to take a recess from Dec. 20th to Jan. 4th.

A Temperance Orator.

Mr. Luther Benson, the "Hoosier orator," who has spoken in this city several times, is the most effective speaker on that subject that we ever listened to. As a sample of his remarks at Manchester we quote the following from the Mirror:

He was a democrat himself; and in Indiana, when Lincoln issued his emancipation proclamation, they told him the shrieks of the white woman would be heard as she fled from the vengeful lust of the black man, and the freedmen were coming up to Indiana to burn and pillage. He was awful scared, and expected to see the torches setting fire to the barns. He waited three years and didn't see nary a torch. Then when the civil rights bill passed, Gov. Hendricks said there was to be miscegenation all over the State. He was more scared then; he didn't know what miscegenation meant. He consulted the dictionary and found out, and then waited ten years to see the intermarriage of white and black. He had known of but two instances, and he would give his word of honor that the nigger got the worst of it in both cases. (Continued laughter and applause.)

Now there are $700,000,000 spent for liquor in this country every year. Supposing into the water which runs the steam engines of this country they had been putting that same amount of spirits as necessary to make them run. And supposing some man had just discovered that pure water was just as good, and that the spirits were a waste. Just apply the same to human machinery. A man's heart beats in 24 hours 106,000 times when he drinks water and 14,492 times more when he drinks whiskey. The daily work of the heart lifts 122 tons a foot. When we drink whiskey we make the heart lift 24 tons more. Do you think that don't hurt the heart? You tear your engine to pieces when you increase its speed without increasing its strength.

When a man dies and whiskey kills him, if he is pretty respectable, they call it congestion of the brain, pulmonary consumption, etc.

At for himself he could prove he was never going to be drunk again. He was drunk ten years, left off for ten months, then fell and was drunk for ten days and then quit. By the same proportion, if he could leave off for ten months after drinking for ten years, he could leave off after drinking for ten days, just one hundred and forty-seven years, nine months, eleven days, twenty-three hours, nine minutes and sixteen seconds. (Applause.) But he would say for himself that his appetite this afternoon was as strong as hell.

He was here in New England for one thing, among others, because his temptations were less. He was never asked here to drink. But out in Indiana he was asked a dozen times a day. They didn't seem to have heard that he had stopped drinking. There was a pullet once sitting on the top of a house and a fox came by and asked her to come down and be neighborly. He couldn't shake hands hearty when she was up there. The pullet replied that these were dangerous times and she felt safer up on the house. "But," said the fox, "you haven't heard that the birds and beasts have declared universal amnesty and are going to live in peace hereafter." The pullet, however, stretched out its neck and seemed to gaze afar off. "What do you see?" said the fox. "Oh, nothing," replied the pullet, "only some hunters and a hound or two." "If that's the case," said the fox, "I guess I'd better be moving off." "Oh, no," cried the pullet, "don't hurry. You are forgetting this declaration of amnesty between birds and beasts." "I ain't forgetting it," replied the fox, "but I'm afraid there may be some fool of a hound who hasn't heard of it yet." "So," said Mr. Benson, "I'm afraid some darned hound of a rumseller hasn't heard of my proclamation of abstinence yet." (Laughter and applause.)

Planetary Display.

There are four planets in full view to the naked eye at this time. One is the morning star. It rises from one to two hours before the sun this month. This is Jupiter. It is a very large body, being fourteen hundred times larger than the earth. Its year is about twelve of ours so is a year in one constellation. It is now in Libra, where it has been since September and will be till next September. It has four moons, one of which is four times as large as our moon. The others are smaller than ours.

There are now three evening stars. We name Venus first, as it is frequently the evening star. It has been such since September, but setting soon after the sun, it was not seen till lately. It is a beauty. Coming in sight now, it shines with golden light and is worthy of the attentive gaze of intelligent beings. It is a neighboring world to ours, being the next inside of the earth's orbit.

Face the south, and a little to the right hand of the sun's place at noon, but lower in the south, is Mars. This is also a neighbor to our world, being the next outside of it. Its usual appearance is red, fiery, but is less brilliant now than sometimes.

Saturn is a little way to the right hand of Mars. This planet is a wonder. It is large, its year is about thirty of ours and it has eight moons. The distance of this planet from the sun is such that the light is much less than here, but its nights must be glorious, several moons shining at the same time, some rising some setting, some going into eclipses, some emerging from them.

The starry heavens were contemplated with interest before there were any printed books and before the elements of the planets or any of the comets had been calculated. We may contemplate them with more interest, delight and prophit J. F.

—The free and independent voter had his patience well tried at the polling places. No sooner had he appeared in the dim distance than twenty or thirty eager ticket distributors beseiged him with "Here's your Reg'lar Republican ticket, sir;" "Straight Democratic ticket;" "Have a Citizens' ticket, sir?" "Vote the People's ticket, here 'tis"—and before he had found time to scan the first ticket his arms were filled with twenty other varieties—pasted, scratched, glued, and otherwise adapted to the individual palate. After having emerged from the first onset and dodged the countless lines and knots of excited politicians that thronged the voting room, he deposited his ballot and scooted—wondering what this great and glorious Republic of ours was coming to, anyhow.—*Bos. My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. H. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $50.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TO-DAY.

Christmas and New Years—C. H. Mendum & Co.
Dr. Kenison, Chiropodist.

The School Committee.

Those who are aware of the antagonism existing among the members of our school committee will not be greatly surprised to learn that a meeting of this organization a few evenings since was marked by such disgraceful conduct as is seldom witnessed in a well ordered community. The cause of the quarrel was the intention of a certain portion of the committee to take advantage of the loss of one of the members of the Board, by death, and elect a High School board. The unenlightened public should be informed that previous to the fatal illness of the late Mr. Goodrich, the committee have been divided into two factions of five members each on the question of the election of a new High School committee, Messrs. Newton, Pender, May, Nowell and Walker composing one party, and Messrs. Badger, Call, Jones, Goodrich, and Walden forming the opposite faction. Each body of dissenters has held out with that bull-dog tenacity and stubbornness which would indicate that something of a momentous character was pending, when the truth is that there is nothing of the sort at stake, as the present High School committee holds over until a new committee be chosen, and the exigency is not such as to justify the dead-lock that has existed since the organization of the present school board. On the evening above referred to the equality of numbers in the two factions had ceased, and the contestants stood five to four, affording an opportunity for victory that was too tantalizing to be resisted. Accordingly the matter was presented at an early stage of the meeting, and the scene immediately became intensely animated. Even the usual limited parliamentary rules were dispensed with. The chairman was treated with as much indifference as though he had been a man of straw, members were loudly talking across the table to each other, at each other and against each other, using harsh epithets, and exhibiting outbursts of temper that found expression in personal abuse, and shameful conduct.

Individually, every member of this Board is, for aught we know, a gentleman, and well informed in many things that relate to the public weal; but as a committee, they are an utter failure, and the time has arrived for some one to come forward and say so. The interests of our schools are too sacred and too dear to us to be contaminated by political huckstering; and he who seeks to carry partisanship into our school legislation is unworthy of a seat upon the school board, and we will ever cry against him, without regard to his party name or affiliations.

Jottings.

Attention is directed to Buzzell & Son's new advertisements for the holidays. They have a remarkably good and useful lot of articles for Christmas presents, and those who mean to do a practically useful as well as generous thing will go and buy some of these things as substantial tokens of esteem for their friends.

The Boston Transcript mentions as "an interesting occasion, the anniversary discourse by Rev. James De Normandie of Portsmouth, whose fourteen years and five hundred sermons make up by far the longest existing pastorate in that city, and which seems likely to lengthen indefinitely with his life work." We copy the Transcript's reporter's epitome of the sermon, Anniversary at the Unitarian Church.

The pastor, Rev. James De Normandie, stated that the morning's sermon of Sunday, the 12th, was the five hundredth discourse he had preached to his people from that pulpit, in a period which will reach fourteen years on the second Sunday in next month—which includes a year's absence in Europe. He, therefore, made this the occasion of a few thoughts upon the work of the ministry, especially as to its theological and intellectual side, from the text, Acts viii, 12—"Preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God."

Deducting the Sundays he has exchanged or been absent, he finds he has preached 775 times. It therefore appears that he has repeated sermons about one-third of the times he has preached! His first impulse was to make an apology for having written so many; but here, as in so many other matters, one's theory and practice have perhaps a necessary conflict. Some clergymen think all the life departs from a sermon repeated; but the speaker thought that depends upon whether it had any real life or vigor of truth or religious thought at first.

Perhaps most preachers would be glad if every day they could come to the pulpit with a fresh subject freshly treated—but the range of subjects actually distinct is really very small; religion is only the repetition of a few well-known truths, which the preacher tries to make fresh and inviting by varying expressions or illustrations, in which conformity to divine truth is better than novelty. It is doubtless the sense of repetitions, and the desire for freshness, which leads to the frequent changes of pastorates in our day. Very few men can bear the strain of speaking more than a few years with any increasing, or even sustained, interest, to the same congregation. The average human mind is not competent to such a fund of illustration.

In theory, I am very sure it is better for any preacher and any congregation to have one discourse prepared with great care, and repeat it two or three times, than three or four sermons of doubtful statements or hasty and ill-considered thoughts. The only drawback in the repetition of sermons is that some, when they hear a familiar text, are tempted to lose their interest in a sermon whose general course of thought they at once recall; but I feel much more pleased at the remembrance than the forgetfulness of a discourse. There is, I am convinced, no higher tribute to the intellectual culture of a parish than its willingness to listen occasionally to repetitions of its pastor's sermon; and this tribute, without any reservation, and with real gratitude, I have to pay to you. It reveals some general appreciation of the laborious work of composition.

There are not many in this congregation who look upon sermons with that commercial test that questions whether they receive the worth of their money if they do not hear a new sermon every Sunday; and that there are not, reveals a standard far above the average. The writing of sermons is one of those matters which, like all fine works of art, can be judged only by those whose own literary taste has been in some measure cultivated; and certainly, judging by its models in the past for a number of generations, few parishes have had a better training than this. The mere writing of sermons is no great task—almost anybody in the business can turn off one or two every day in the year; but to do such work with any degree of excellence and thoroughness is very laborious and exhausting.

Within fifty years the whole style of sermons had entirely changed; and no congregation of the present day would patiently listen to the long homilies even of Jeremy Taylor, Tillotson, Chrysostom, Jerome, Bernard or St. Paul. The work of the clergy has also grown very different within half a century, from another reason—that whereas formerly ministers were almost the only persons of education, now the diffusion of knowledge is so general that the pastor must be far more thorough in his researches and accurate in his statements, to keep abreast of his congregations. But the real test was stated to be, whether amid all changes of opinions, forms and creeds, the pastor considers the things which concern the kingdom of God—that is his one unfailing, unchanging duty; if he fulfils that his work is not in vain; if he fails in that, he fails in all. The speaker said his pastorate had fallen in a time of a new era of theological conditions—a period of great theological unrest, which, by a divine guidance, has to pass over all denominations. For our own body of worshippers, after a fierce contest, we had forced a reluctant confession from the popular mind of New England, that a freer interpretation of the scriptures and a denial of the five points of Calvinism might subsist with a Christian life; but twenty-five years ago not one, even in our own body, had any conception of the conflict of theological opinions which was to arise and spread over Christendom.

Just at this time, too, the study of science, calm in its majesty, and somewhat severe in its aspects, began to come into apparent conflict with all the questions of theology, and demand their revision and resetting according to its own declarations and established verities. Few theologians could look upon the study of results of science with hospitable vision. Without regarding her investigations, preachers went on with their old theological methods, as if the study of nature was not to be; while thoughtful men out of the Church everywhere were reading about and accepting the established knowledge of nature, and neglecting the churches because they could not there find the food they asked for. Strange to say, but a fact of prodigious import, there is not one of our old parishes, whose ministers were considered liberal or scholarly twenty years ago, or whose ministers of a later day have ignored these truths and their pressing applications, that can to-day hardly be called alive. They set themselves against the current of divine truth and revelation, and the stream flowed on and left them dry and alone.

There are in Boston alone a dozen such parishes, where one has to look around to see if he has any fellow worshippers. On the other hand, perhaps quite as many parishes have been brought to the same condition by their preachers forgetting to discern and cling to the truth there was in the old, and with ill-judged haste accepting everything which had the single recommendation of novelty. Far more truly broad and liberal than these, the younger preachers of other denominations have, behind their forgotten creeds or the mental reservations they have secretly held, taken up these liberal truths and won the congregations to themselves.

The discourse was so full of thought and so replete with illustration, that we find it difficult to condense it within the limits we can possibly afford at this time. The speaker alluded to another realm of study which has been opened within a score of years—that of comparative religions, of Christianity and what we call heathen or worldly philosophies—a prolific theme for the theologian. The work of preaching is twofold—the truth of thinking and truths of living. It is all idle to suppose the time of doctrinal preaching is past. There never was a time when there was greater need or demand for it. In preaching, the demand is now for conciseness, and condensed composition is a work of time. "I wish," said the king to Dr. South, complimenting him on a sermon, "I wish you had had time to make it longer." He replied, "May it please your majesty, I wish I had had time to make it shorter."

A Health-Promoting Stimulant.

Physicians, who certainly ought to be the best judges of such matters, declare that wholesome stimulation is not only desirable, but essential in many instances. When the temporary good effect of a sound stimulant is confirmed and rendered permanent, as in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, by the action of tonic and alterative principles combined with it, it becomes infinitely more efficacious as a renovant of physical energy and a corrective of those conditions of the body which invite disease. The Bitters have received the emphatic sanction of medical men who have observed the effect of that popular stimulative cordial as a remedy for weakness, nervousness, dyspepsia, constipation, inactivity of the liver, malarious fevers, and many other disorders. Its basis is sound old rye, the purest liquor known to commerce, and itself possessing tonic properties of no mean order.

Beware of counterfeits. Inquire for Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. Take no other. See that the name of "F. W. Kinsman" is blown in the bottle. Price 35 cents.

The World does not contain a Medicine that will cure a distressing and dangerous Cough or Cold as rapidly and certainly as HALE' HONEY OF HORE HOUND AND TAR.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Mrs. Sniffles' Failure.
[Brunswick (Mo.) News.]

Mrs. Sniffles has had more trouble with Lycurgus, and has been strengthened in the belief that he is totally unlike other men—in fact, tectotally unlike many of them. He had been on a long sober stretch up to a couple of weeks ago. About that time he learned that his only aunt, a rich old lady in St. Louis, had died and left him an immense fortune—to get, if he could. This was a sore disappointment to our friend, for he expected to be made a rich man by the death of this (once-respected) relative. Never was the news of an aunt's death read with more poignant grief by surviving kin. A postscript to the letter conveyed the sad intelligence stated that the good old soul had bequeathed her entire wealth to a benevolent institution. This was the rusty rod of iron that pierced his soul, and made murky the fountain of hope. He tore the letter to pieces, and bent his faltering steps to the nearest saloon. He drank—he fell.

Mrs. S. was in despair. She had thought his reformation was complete, and now "the old man was drunk again," with no sign of ever letting up. Finally she bethought her of the system in vogue at certain inebriate asylums—that of mixing liquor with every article of food until the patient acquires a lasting distaste for alcohol. She determined to try that plan on Lycurgus.

She procured a gallon of the worst whiskey to be had, and put some of it in the old man's coffee, to begin with. It has been his unvarying custom to drink but one cup at a meal. That night he passed his cup back to be refilled, saying as he smacked his lips:

"Better coffee 'n usual, old gal."

Next morning she increased the dose. He drank three cups, and fell from his chair as he was reaching for a fourth. He slept until noon, and went out to dinner. There was beef soup and whiskey—half and half. Sniffles ate it all, and said, as he wiped his mouth:

"You're git'n to be a better cook'n anybody, m'dear. But yer didn't make soup 'nuff."

At supper everything was saturated with whiskey, and Sniffles ate until he became helpless, and his wife had to drag him to bed.

The gallon of whiskey was soon gone, and the only change that Mrs. Sniffles noticed in her husband was that while it lasted he came to his meals with greater regularity than usual.

She is not the woman to give up anything without a fair trial. She got another gallon, and came near starving herself to death while she fed it to Sniffles in everything that he ate and drank. His appetite increased at a fearful rate, and he complimented her every day on her newly acquired skill in cooking.

The second gallon soon went the way of the first, and, after two or three meals had passed without the seasoning of which Sniffles had become so fond, he said, in tones that would have touched the heart of a tax-collector:

"Mirander, dear, the vittles don't taste as good as they used ter. Seems to be something or 'nuther missing."

Is it any wonder that the poor woman gave up in despair?

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this in a manner far beyond any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improvements, Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and most widely illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the small sum it will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, and Professional men, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting House, Work Shop, Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thirteen volumes are now preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars sent free to any address. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Models of new inventions and sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentees. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 140 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad State of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, as from little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir,—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad in the worst form I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. The testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. After I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 19, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

JOHN H. SLATER, AGENT.

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests and of the people be most effectively served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and traditions upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as the "organ" of any party, nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will be a friend, and no more, of any party whose candidates and principles it believes to be entitled to the confidence of the people of the country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the forces of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is essentially corrupt in its nature, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by honest and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York the party of infamy, and of repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was in office—plunder, robbery, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and Lucius Robinson tried their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential year, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. It will endeavor to maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the requirements of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest writers in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxe trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $25, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestion, which is superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any other veterinary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and timely Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly gives a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal commercial and horticultural establishments of the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administation of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

"CARPET-BAGGING" IN TEXAS.

Judge Calvin T. Garland's Lecture.

It seems easy for the North and the South to misunderstand each other. We can all hear whatever suits us concerning Southern questions. Journalists go South partly to have a good time. Northern statesmen, with an eye on the White House perhaps, usually go South a little before each Presidential election. The good opinion and influence of such visitors is eagerly sought. Being always well entertained by high-caste Southrons, they become gratefully eulogistic of Southern hospitality. Under different circumstances, the testimony of our leading journalists and statesmen might be deemed conclusive. As it is, their experience differs somewhat from that of the resident carpet-bagger, and of the school mistress who teaches negroes.

A resume of Southern affairs based on the observations of a month must be imperfect. I once heard an Englishman express surprise at seeing no buffalo in America, when he was still 300 miles from the frontier. Another, 'tis said, just arrived in New York, ordered "rattlesnake-boots" before he would venture outside the city. Europeans can hardly realize that our country embraces so many distinct faunæ. A single Southern State (Texas) is an empire in itself. A residence South for half a generation cannot enable one to solve problems which will vex generations to come.

I was unfortunate enough to be in Texas during our late civil war. Although escaping the rebel conscription, I still felt keenly my ignoble situation; compelled to live in an atmosphere of slavery in an enemy's country. But I resolved to do something sometime, for the enslaved race.

The war ended, and I had done nothing. I had supposed emancipation and reunion would bring free speech; but not so. We had to talk of a New South with bated breath, just as during the war we whispered Union sentiments.

The dawn came. I was overjoyed when the Southern Unionists, in convention at Philadelphia, adopted the principle of negro suffrage. It seemed peculiarly fit that the only possible way of salvation for the South, should be blazed by such a body of patriotic Southerners.

Late in 1867, in caucus with other reconstructionists at Jefferson, Texas, although enthusiastically in favor of negro suffrage, I particularly deprecated a "color line;" and therefore urged that we enlist as many whites as possible in the work of reconstruction. To this end, we planned a canvass of Northern Texas, and prepared a list of appointments.

But the time was not propitious to broach the unwelcome subject of negro suffrage. Our canvass was broken up at its second meeting by the mobbing of our chief speaker. As we could not safely address the whites where there was military protection, we thought it would be madness to try in the more remote towns. So we were forced to fight it out on the color line.

We were not ignorant of the consequences. Occasional massacres were inevitable, but we couldn't believe a general war of the races possible. The negro was a non-combatant, unless wielding a Federal bayonet. His weakness, just then, was his strength; his helplessness, his safety.

Not so with his leaders. Distinguished conservatives, men ordinarily noted for moderation and sagacity, advised on the stump, and through the press, that when the hour of vengeance should come, the deluded negroes should not be held responsible, but that the retribution should be visited upon the white pariahs; that the blood of these caste-destroyers should be the first to water the soil they cursed by their presence.

Such threats terrified the slavish poor whites, and so caused the parties to form on a color basis. When it came to the white man's party against the negro party, most of the white Unionists even, were caste-loving enough to cleave to the former. The situation was most dangerous in counties where the blacks were most numerous; where half a dozen whites led a thousand colored voters. Such was the condition of Marion County, Texas, where I lived.

When our projected canvass and appeal to the white people failed, our only alternative was to organize the blacks into Union Leagues. They were ripe for the harvest. Wealth and intelligence had spurned the invitation to sit down with negroes at the reconstruction feast; and so we called in "the poor, the maimed, the halt, and the blind."

With me, at least, this was not mere partisanship. The names "republicans" and "democrats" are sometimes infelicitous because of their party associations. More truthful are the names radical (for the foe of oligarchy, peonage, and caste) and conservative (for the supporter of these old systems.) Nevertheless, being fully preoccupied with pressing reforms too long delayed at the South, we were blind to those great corruptions, which, even then, had begun to rot the dominant party.

Our politics was exciting enough for the most adventurous. We were naturally overjoyed at the immense accession of colored voters, and to see the old flag unfurled at their humble meeting-houses. Whether we were worthy or unworthy, it devolved upon us to teach these ignorant masses the belongings of citizenship. From Provisional Governor down, every leader with independence enough was impressed into this service, without regard to the proprieties supposed to belong to official station. I have been almost convulsed with laughter to see a Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, early in 1868, giving out to several hundred negroes "The Battle Cry of Freedom," two lines at a time, just like a backwoods colored preacher, or a frontier Methodist "circuit-rider." I never realized before how much a politician can condescend to serve his "fellow-citizens," when they are no longer "niggers," but voters.

Arrayed as we were against pride of caste, race, and section, in a land of mob-law, of course our acts were fraught with peril. Often we dreaded the assassin's bolt as we went home at night from our political meetings. But homicides, and assaults with intent to kill, at the South, have been few compared with cases of driving away odious persons, and minor annoyances. Men are hard to kill and don't hang up and in convenient places to be shot at.

Actual massacres at the South have been few compared with the threatened ones prevented by the military and civil authorities, or by well-disposed private citizens. We were saved once by the prompt arrival of Federal cavalry; but to prevent further danger, the commanding officer felt compelled to order our political meetings discontinued. On other occasions, I have known the mob element to be appeased only by the ignominious backing down of the military authorities.

On July 4th, 1868, I knew the blacks to save themselves by instantly fleeing home from the grounds where they were celebrating the Nation's Birth-Day. I escaped so narrowly myself that I cannot forget the occasion. May our Centennialists be able to show that the time for such scenes has gone by!

This same disturbance caused ten ex-Union soldiers, living in our country, to flee the country. Maj. Boyle, now U. S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Texas, then lived at Jefferson. During his three year's residence in Texas, he had not dared to admit having been a Union soldier. On telling me, some months afterward, when Jefferson was filled with troops, he charged me to keep it secret, saying: "I fear for the very walls to hear it."

In the Spring of 1868 came the KuKlux conspiracy, with its various orders of "Knights" suggestive of the Dark Ages, and of vanity, arrogance, and outlawry. The "Death Brigade" rode nightly, professedly to "regulate the country and disarm the blacks"; but often bent on assassination, robbery, and defloration. Sometimes these "bloody-moon" men claimed to be spirits of the Confederate dead, to awe the superstitious.

[An instance has been mentioned of a dozen KuKlux, in hideous, ghostly costume, riding up to a negro cabin, and in sepulchral tones, demanding of the inmates as many bucketsful of water to quench the thirst caused by a long stay in Tophet. They would then slyly pour this water on the ground while pretending to drink it to, the horror of the credulous negroes.

Such stories are often apocryphal. Negroes at a camp-meeting can be full of faith and pathos while singing "Judgment day is rolling 'round;" but a KuKlux disguise is "too thin" to make them believe the resurrection has already come. If Aunt Dinah dared, she would be more likely to answer the half-disguised voices in this wise: "Can't fool dis chile! Better g'way f'm dar wid yer mouf, 'n' stop dis yere kuklukin'!"]

Hardly had this conspiracy become general, before daggers, coffins, skeletons and other suggestive devices were sketched at both public and private places, and even in the columns of newspapers. In 1868, a Northern journal of immense circulation published this item: A paper called the Ultra Ku Klux has been started at Jefferson, Texas. Look out for dead niggers." This may have been "fun for the boys," but it was "death to the frogs."

The main feature of this Ultra Ku Klux was so-called "Dirty Column." It was really a death column. It designated as subjects for popular vengeance eight noted men whose names I recall. Soon afterward, two of these were assassinated; five were driven from their homes; the eighth stood its ground, and survives, scarred and maimed by bullets.

The same sheet spoke of the time when I should be "on no foundation," and when such as I would be "kukluxed from the face of the earth." Such suggestions were far from agreeable at a time when they were far more likely to be carried into execution than the judgment of a Texas Court.

[During those days, it was hard to teach the Southern mind to tolerate radicalism. My articles in the Union Intelligencer of Jefferson, early in 1868, were thought to have precipitated the forcible suppression of that paper, and the driving away of its editor and publisher.

In August of the same year, when matters at Jefferson were unusually critical, I wrote two certain articles for the Tyler Index. Friends urged me not to head these communications as from Jefferson, on the ground that it would endanger our lives. Contrary to my custom, I yielded to their wishes, and selected for a heading "Canton, Van Zandt Co.," as the place above all others in North-eastern Texas where in my judgment, ex-Federal soldiers and other Unionists were numerous enough to defend themselves. Soon after these articles were published, 150 bandits captured Canton and drove the radicals from the county. In this raid, a District Judge had a hair-breadth escape, and a Mr. Page was beheaded and his head stuck on a pole. Whether my published articles credited to Canton incited this attack or not, I erred in thinking men of my views safe, at that time, anywhere in that section.]

As I have shown, there were needed more moral courage and address than we had to split the white vote, and thereby to avert the dreaded color line. This line was not equally dangerous everywhere South. It was not very dangerous in Virginia, although an F. F. V. cherishes color caste as "the apple of his eye." It is the credulity, impulsiveness and vindictiveness, distinguishing the unacclimated Caucasian race in the far South, that makes the color line dangerous in the Gulf States.

We all remember how these traits were shown in Texas, before the war, during the alleged abolition plots and burnings. And in 1862, I saw with anxiety that the people of Northern Texas were insane enough to think the Unionists of Cook county had plotted to kill all rebel adults, and children too, above a certain age. Forty-seven of the accused, mostly Northern men, were promptly hanged at Gainesville.

Since then, whenever Southern whites imagine, as recently in Georgia, that negroes have plotted to kill their men, children and homely women,—sparing the handsomest for wives, I can smile incredulously, and think of Gainesville. Besides, if the African nature is so darkly disposed toward white women and children, the blacks will never again have the chance to do such deeds, that they had while the white men were absent in the rebel army.

In the Summer of 1868, usually the first question with us on meeting each morning was: "What did the Kuklux do last night?" The few troops outside the large towns could hardly protect themselves.

By October 1st, there were in Jefferson forty soldiers armed with breech-loading rifles. About then, our delegates came home from the Constitutional convention. We decided to risk a political meeting so as to hear from them. The people met close to military headquarters for safety. They were addressed by one delegate only, the others holding aloof through fear.

A few hours afterward, this delegate, Hon. Geo. W. Smith, and two others, were forcibly taken from the protection of the military by 300 citizens, and riddled with bullets. The mob was organized and led by distinguished ex-Confederate officers and civilians. The troops were easily overpowered and their officers guarded by disguised men. Judge Caldwell, of the Texas Supreme Court, and other reconstructionists, escaped by hiding.

The next night, our little band took rooms in the chief hotel, while the troops were posted at its entrance. We thought the people would not attack us there in the centre of the town, through fear of causing its destruction and thus losing their property. Our great fear was assassination while trying to leave town.

Next day, Judge Caldwell was allowed to leave by steamboat, via New Orleans, to attend the Supreme Court at Galveston, but only after pledging himself in a public speech to give no unfavorable account of the outbreak. Even then, his escape was attended with further difficulty and danger.

The rest of us were worse off than prisoners of war. A pretended safeguard would have proved an "apple of Sodom," as later at Coushatta.

At the preceding term of the District Court for Marion county, I had in vain urged the Judge and Sheriff to place negroes on the juries. This was now charged home to me in a boisterous manner on the streets. There was reason to believe this meant death. I had already inferred from the conduct of the Conservative leaders that whatever leniency might be shown others, I had none to expect.

Dreading the dangers of flight, I went with a surviving delegate to Major Curtis, commanding the troops, to see if there were any protection or fight in him. Instantly guessing our desire, he didn't wait to hear our request; said at once he couldn't protect us, and told me to take to the woods. What of it! Other American citizens, seeking Federal protection in their own country, have found themselves "on a cold trail."

But where should we go? It was nearly sundown, and we expected another outbreak that night. We were perhaps hundreds of miles from safety. Every white man was to be presumed an enemy. For an outlaw, the country might be a Paradise; for a caste-breaker it was more like that other place.

I proposed a land route; my friends insisted on Red River. We dared not go by steamboat, considering Judge Caldwell's difficulty in leaving that way. After wandering awhile in the woods, myself and two companions got an old skiff and struck out for Louisiana. Back-water from Red River delayed us, but in the first night we passed the most dangerous points on Big Cypress Bayou.

Next morning, we entered the upper end of Caddo Lake. This is 60 miles long, and a great curiosity. It was once a vast forest which was drowned by the overflow caused by the famous "Great Raft" that dammed up Red River. Most of it is still thickly studded with dead cypress trunks which have stood in the water perhaps for centuries. The sluggish current gave us a hard pull down the Lake until we got lost among the labyrinthian passages at the lower end.

At last we found an old negro who piloted us through the outlet into Twelve Mile Bayou. Our pilot evidently thought us KuKlux. He said all the blacks in that vicinity were Conservatives. Perhaps they were—"from the teeth out."

We spent our third night out in a negro cabin on Twelve Mile Bayou, half-a-dozen miles above Shreveport. Our mulatto host had a look of settled despair. He also was careful to tell us promptly that all negroes thereabouts were Conservatives. But we felt safe with these poor creatures; we only feared whites might discover us. Our colored friends said nothing of the massacre just perpetrated near by, in which 160 odd blacks were killed in Bossier Parish, opposite Shreveport, and forty odd on the Shreveport side of Red River.

'Twas a Sunday morning when we entered Red River and neared Shreveport in utter ignorance of this massacre, which was hardly over. Had we known of it, we should have hid in the swamp above town. Luckily the city was in a lazy mood that morning; the levee was deserted, and we were hardly noticed; although reports of our flight had reached Louisiana.

Touching at the lower end of the levee, we first heard of the massacre. Here we took on board a leading negro refugee, also from Jefferson, who like us had jumped "out of the frying-pan into the fire."

A little below Shreveport, we saw in the river the dead bodies of two black victims of the massacre, lodged against some drift or bushes at the water's edge. Hurrying on, we saw men riding along the river banks in a suspicious manner. At night, we were fifty miles below Shreveport in a much disturbed neighborhood.

Next day we were ninety miles below Shreveport, and 180 below Jefferson, at the plantation of a friend who had been driven from Texas for his politics. He had slept in his gin-house the night before for safety, and our advent didn't reassure him.

Just after our arrival, a party of armed men rode up to his gate and stopped. We felt relieved to see them leave soon. They had been chasing negroes down the river from near Shreveport, and were returning home. At this plantation, we ventured to take a steamboat for New Orleans, where we arrived in time to see the troubles just before the Presidential election of 1868.

Gen. Reynolds, commanding the Fifth Military District, having reported Jefferson as the centre of trade, travel, and lawlessness in Northern Texas, and having recommended that a regiment of troops be stationed there permanently, the place was soon occupied by a strong force, and within two months from my flight, I was back home.

In July, 1869, I was made Judge of the Eighth Judicial District, embracing eight counties in Northeast Texas, and bordering on Louisiana, Arkansas, and the Indian Territory.

A great obstacle to the reign of law and justice was then the exclusion of colored citizens from the jury-box. With jurors tainted and ruled by partisan feeling, race prejudice, and caste pretension, combined, crime was committed with impunity when the victims were colored. Now, while the South was subject to the United States military authority, was the time, if ever, to reform the jury system.

The main cause of my previous exile had been my advocacy of mixed juries. Now, strangely enough, I had a chance to try the experiment.

The project seemed full of difficulty and danger, and the result doubtful. On serious reflection, it seemed probable I should lose my life in the attempt. None were so odious as the official who would violate caste. Noted bandit leaders had recently held sway at points within my circuit, and the country was still somewhat disturbed.

County officials generally, whether military appointees under the Reconstruction Acts, or not,—had been disobeying the State law requiring them to revise the jury lists annually. In this way, the lists were kept exclusively white.

In August 1869, I held Court at Linden, Cass County. The county officers were military appointees. I broached the jury subject to the county Judge. He replied: "I don't think any nigger fit for a jury-man."

It depended on the Sheriff, under general instructions, to summon jurors regardless of color. He failed to do so, pretending he could find no blacks duly qualified.

But I had done trusting Sheriffs in this matter without specific directions. Thenceforth, my practice was to tell the Sheriff the exact number of blacks I wanted for each jury, taking care that the colored jurors should bear about the same proportion to the white jurors, that the colored voters did to the white voters.

At Boston, Bowie County, we had the first mixed grand jury. One petit jury was white; the other, colored. The lawyers asked that I have summoned enough of both white and black talesmen to prevent the races being mixed on either jury by filling temporary vacancies from the other. I reminded them that this practice would augment Court expenses, and they at once yielded the point.

Here we learned of the wounding of Judge Hart, and the repulse of his military escort, in the Judicial District adjoining mine on the West. Accordingly, troops escorted me to Clarksville, Red River County, where Court was also held with mixed juries.

Thus far all had been smooth sailing. The jury lists not having been revised, my way was clear to select the material I wanted. Besides, the aforesaid counties were attached to the Post of Jefferson, commanded by Brt. Brig. Gen. Geo. P. Buell, without whose hearty co-operation the juries could not have been so easily mixed at that time.

But in Paris, Lamar County, outside of Gen. Buell's command, the county officers and other leading citizens had planned to save the old system. To this end, the jury lists had been revised, but nearly or quite all the colored voters' names had been left off. The juries had alsobeen regularly drawn and summoned, but of course, with such a revised list, were all white.

The county officials—military appointees and professedly good reconstructionists—were anxious I should acquiesce in their action. It was thought I wouldn't dare mix juries in counties not attached to the Post o Jefferson.

Court opened. Those summoned for grand jurors were called in. None had an excuse,—a thing very unusual. The schemers had supposed I wouldn't have the heart to dismiss these white men—carefully selected and anxious to serve—to fill their places with negroes.

But I believed law and justice required the bottom rail to "go up higher." So I excused enough whites to make room for six blacks who were impaneled at the organization of the grand jury.

I afterward learned that leading citizens had pledged the whole force of the County to back the Sheriff if he would refuse to summon these new jurors. There was also an anxiety to know whether or not Gen. Reynolds authorized, or would support, the stand I had taken. I could say nothing on that point. I knew nothing whatever of Gen. Reynolds' views on jury questions.

In Hopkins County, in 1868, a supply train had been captured, and the military beseiged at Sulphur Springs by several hundred armed men. The blacks also had suffered much and were still naturally shy. The whites had just caused those about town to hide in the woods to avoid jury duty, by telling them they would be killed if they served.

Two abortive attempts were made to get the number of blacks I wanted. I then resolved to give the Sheriff a week, if necessary, to scour the County for jurors; I ordered the arrest of all blacks hiding out, and all whites advising thereto, to be punished for contempt. Next morning, the material was so abundant that I impaneled more black jurors than I had at first intended.

At Quitman, Wood County, where I was well acquainted, the new system was introduced without trouble.

At Mt. Pleasant, Titus County, as at Paris, the County officials, instigated by the whites, had everything prearranged, as they thought, to save their County from such contamination. They yielded gracefully, however, on being told that I had irrevocably decided to take my juries mixed, and not straight.

At Jefferson, Marion County, two white grand juries had failed to indict any of the mob that had overpowered the troops, and killed citizens under U. S. military protection, as I have stated. I organized a grand jury of nine whites and nine blacks, who indicted several leaders in that affair.

After the reconstruction of Texas, as Judge of the Fourteenth Indicial District, I first mixed the juries in Dallas, Tarrant, and Ellis counties. There were gusts of excitement and opposition at first, even extending to the bar, but in every instance perfect harmony soon followed.

I was strongly urged not to mix the juries at Fort Worth, on the ground that it would be particularly unsafe to do so at that point. I disregarded this advice, and never held a more satisfactory term than for Tarrant county.

But here, nevertheless, in a case of the State vs. one Dr. Anderson, an ex-guerilla, was shown the power of race prejudice to sway juries. Anderson had murdered a half-breed Choctaw. His lawyers beat counsel for the State in selecting jurors, getting them mostly from among frontiersmen who had suffered from Indian raids. Proof of guilt was clear, but hatred of Indians outweighed conscience. There was a disagreement, with eleven jurors for acquittal, one for conviction.

Afterward, on habeas corpus, I refused to grant bail. A threatened rescue was prevented by proper vigilance. Under my successor, Judge Hart, a jury of the same stripe acquitted Anderson, and got a severe reprimand from the Bench.

By the end of 1870, I had mixed the juries in ten counties, and the system was so well inaugurated, that, with the aid of favorable legislation, it became general throughout the State. The whole South is riper for this reform than is generally believed.

Some white jurors would get excited at first, but all would soon get in good humor and remain so, even when both races had to room together all night at their deliberations.

An intelligent black juror once told me the change had the happiest effect in making the races respect and understand each other, and reason together. At first, he said, the whites were dictatorial, and displeased when the blacks differed with them; but soon they would condescend to argue until all could see their way clear to an agreement.

At Clarksville, the black petit jury once filed into Court from their deliberating room, for further instructions in a case. A noted lawyer thereupon insisted that white jurors often agreed too hastily, being too self-confident to ask fresh instructions; but that "twelve honest niggers before deciding must always know the why and the wherefore."

Without the protection black jurors give, the South would have been made too hot for the carpet-bagger; 'tis a pity they sometimes protect him in his stealings. I wouldn't like to live South under the old jury system. It has often sent the innocent to the Penitentiary or the gallows. Southern prisons overflow with negroes, while most of the great crimes are committed by whites. I could give facts tending to show that, since the war, more Union, than rebel soldiers, have been convicted in Southern courts.

I have been through the farce of trying a distinguished citizen for murder before a jury, a majority of whom I believe to have been his accomplices in the crime. Such cases must still occur wherever disguised mobs operate. The new jury system is not a panacea.

In Cass County, where as I said, the Sheriff got no black jurors, no indictments have ever been found for many of the blackest crimes. I have thought, and said once to a large planter of that county who had vainly sought both State and Federal protection for his laborers, that were I to hold court there again, I would get a grand jury all black, without even a mulatto on it, rather than let such crimes remain unnoticed.

Obviously, even a single negro, Indian, or Chinese grand-juryman, might give invaluable aid in discovering crimes committed among his people, or upon them.

I doubt the wisdom of educational or freehold qualifications for jurors anywhere. In the South, at least, where a whole race is illiterate and landless, such restrictions would perpetuate caste, injustice, and outlawry. It is safer to have ignorance and poverty in the jury-box, than prejudice and ruffianism.

To shield the rights of all; to teach the masses the laws of the land: every honest citizen of sound mind should be liable to serve as a juror. Were not the jury system so great an educator of the people, its unwieldiness might outweigh its advantages.

After my return from Louisiana, many desperadoes were arrested by the military. This show of enforcing a vigorous policy emboldened the well-disposed citizens, who killed many outlaws, including the notorious Baker and Bickerstaff, whose bands had been active in resisting the troops and killing negroes.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON.
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

Jottings.

In the North Church, to-morrow afternoon, there will be a Pilgrim Memorial Service, commemorative of the landing of the Pilgrims, in 1620. The anniversary occurs next Wednesday, but the coming Sunday immediately precedes that date, and is therefore selected as a proper time for such a service. Mr. Martyn's subject will be "Old John Carver at our Centennial." All are invited.

Rev. Wm. Fowler will endeavor to revive religious interest in Portsmouth, shortly.

The fine hall in the newly finished block at the corner of Market and Daniel streets, is leased by the Knights of Pythias, and they are about to finish and furnish it elegantly for occupancy on the first of January.

Mr. John A. Haraden has purchased the right for Rockingham and Strafford counties for the sale of a burglar proof window fastener; it is a very neat and cheap arrangement and can be adjusted to the window frame by any one in a few moments, securing the window from being opened from the outside. Any one can see these fasteners or have them applied to their windows by leaving their orders at No. 5 1-2 Warren street.

Magoon's second trial is set for April 11th at Exeter.

Thanks to Hon. Jacob H. Ela, Fifth Auditor of the United States Treasury, for a copy of his annual report.

The school teachers of the city will be paid on Monday.

Rev. Wm. H. Alden will speak at the Bow Mission on Sunday evening. Services commence at six o'clock.

Rev. S. S. Hebbard will lecture to-morrow evening on "The Devil in Modern Society."

Mrs. Jane Benson (colored), formerly of New York, preaches at the South ward room to-morrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. The Jubilee Singers will be present.

Rev. James De Normandie will preach at the vesper service to-morrow evening on "The Lesson of Religion to the Poor."

The Unitarian and Universalist churches will have their annual Christmas festivities for the benefit of the children.

Mr. H. W. Briant will open his new drug store to-morrow (Saturday) evening. From a personal inspection of the elegant establishment we can promise the public a genuine sensation; and if people who enter its doors can refrain from contributing to the treasury of the proprietor before leaving, they will exhibit powers of self-restraint of no ordinary character.

Mr. William H. Moore, of this city has been appointed yeoman of the U. S. S. Marion. A good selection.

The driver of the milk-wagon to which an accident happened at the corner of Washington and State streets, Friday morning, is worthy of commendation. The horse slipped on the snow-covered pavement, fell and broke a shaft. The boy with remarkable self-possession and without the least temper, loosened the traces and pushed back the wagon. Perhaps some credit is due to the horse, because he was apparently more contented to lie down or stand still than to go. The boy might have made things much worse by abusing the horse or getting in a rage. Perhaps it is owing to the S. P. C. A.

News and Notes.

It is a bit of forgotten history that Jefferson was formally nominated to the Presidency for a third term by the legislatures of Massachusetts, Vermont and Rhode Island. He promptly declined the nomination. Boston Journal

At a meeting of the Governor and Council, Thursday, Daniel S. Dinsmore, of Laconia, was nominated Judge of Probate for Belknap county. Dr. Ezra Pray, of Rochester, was appointed a member of the Board of Agriculture for Strafford county, and Hiram Parker, of Lempster, for Sullivan county. J. H. Follett, who was sent to the State Prison for three years for stealing in Dover, has been pardoned. He had served two years.

U. S. Senator John W. Johnston has been re-elected by the Virginia legislature.

The three negro murderers of the Polish peddler Weisbourgh were hanged at the New York Tombs on Friday. Weston and Thompson died easily, there being scarcely a quiver of their bodies. It was terrible, however, to witness the struggles of Ellis. Scarcely had he been swung into the air when with a sudden jerk he drew himself upon the rope with both his pinioned hands, and with fearful screams cried out "Save me!" His body writhed in frightful tortures, and it soon became evident that the rope had not been properly adjusted. Still no one interfered. Three times in succession he drew himself upon the rope, struggling terribly, and the third time succeeded in adjusting the rope properly round his own neck and terminated his agony.

The entire family of Thomes McCann, of Bangor, Me., narrowly escaped suffocating. A large gas main in the street broke and the gas followed a sewer into the house. When discovered two of the girls and one boy were almost dead.

William K. Thompson, the wholesale assassin who blew up the Steamer Mosel, is a native of Brooklyn. He was born in New York, married a New Orleans lady, and has four children, the youngest a baby. He lived in Virginia during the war and engaged in the business of a blockade runner, whereby he grew rich. He lost his money and became embarrassed. The clock-work which set off the infernal machine that destroyed 170 lives was made in Germany. The apparatus was constructed to run noiselessly for ten days, when it caused a lever to strike with a force of thirty pounds. Twenty similar machines had been ordered. After the explosion, Thompson attempted suicide and died of his wounds on Thursday. The motive for this diabolical scheme appears to have been to procure exaggerated and fictitious insurance, and to share afterward with others.

A frightful pit explosion occurred at Mons, Belgium, Thursday, killing one hundred and ten workmen outright and injuring many others.

A Washington dispatch to the Boston Herald predicts that Collector Howard and Postmaster Pierce, who are at the Capital, will probably be unable to secure more work at the navy yard.

Gov. Gaston has appointed Hon. Otis Philips Lord of Salem Judge of the Supreme Court of Masschusetts.

Daily Chronicle.

—A young and pretty woman, who was a passenger by the train from the East yesterday morning, had her attention attracted to some pictorial papers which one of the newsboys was vending at the depot, and inquired the price. "Ten cents apiece." "I would like to have one, only I haven't any change with me." "Then you don't gets 'em," classically remarked the dealer in literature. The woman hesitated a moment, and then intimated that she would kiss the newsboy if he would give her the paper. Kissing was goodies that he had never hoped for under such circumstances, and he intimated his willingness to accept the proposal, scarcely thinking she was in earnest; but kiss him she did, right on the platform, and then possessing herself of the paper, she entered a car, leaving the newsboy blushing, grinning, and yet looking worried, as if he felt a streak of electricity running up and down his back.—Sacramento Union.

A Remarkable Professional Success.

[Missouri Republican, (St. Louis)]

Among the notable professional men of this country who have achieved extraordinary success is Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y. The prominence which he has attained has been reached through strictly legitimate means, and, so far, therefore, he deserves the enviable reputation which he enjoys. This large measure of success is the result of a thorough and careful preparation for his calling, and extensive reading during a long and unusually large practice, which have enabled him to gain high commendation, even from his professional brethren. Devoting his attention to certain specialties of the science he has so carefully investigated, he has been rewarded in a remarkable degree. Not a few of the remedies prescribed by him have, it is said, been adopted and prescribed by physicians in their private practice. His pamphlets and larger works have been received as useful contributions to medical knowledge. He has recently added another, and perhaps more important work, because of more general application, to the list of his published writings. This book, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," is designed to enter into general circulation. Dr. Pierce has received acknowledgments and honors from many sources, and especially scientific degrees from two of the first medical institutions in the land.

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, that consults taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and New Industries, Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best illustrated paper, at $3 per devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The Weekly receipts are well worth the time the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Specimen copies and Prospectus giving full terms sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 182 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man; and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained names for them. I have procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and these I gave to say, "Send for a package." Each one I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did me any good. I have used three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. H. LEONARD,

Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and study in Reedsdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

JOHN H. SLATER, AGENT.

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the combinations of dishonest dealers, by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserves the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has ever supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been given freely and independently, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will be seen, therefore, that the principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country, are those which are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing the widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but the Democracy of the New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES's record in favor of "Reform" is known to be too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when charges were leading orders of arrest against its managers and threatening imprisonment, when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform has come down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested clanship, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dudley Cox, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent its spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and its contents currently reflect the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock, of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-digested Record of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the re-united States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

Dover, Dec. 6, 1875.

"CARPET-BAGGING" IN TEXAS.

Judge Calvin T. Garland's Lecture.

I thought proper to urge especially the enforcement of that feature of the reconstruction acts which authorized the trial of criminals by military commission. It was good policy to give amnesty to the ex-Confederate; but not to the assassin.

Unhappily, the Government made no respectable effort to enforce the law. Of those who had forced a Federal safeguard at Jefferson to kill citizens, a hundred might have been convicted of murder. As it was, a few were sent to the penitentiary by a military commission, and were pardoned out by President Grant.

At Jefferson, we had the Rose case, similar to the Yerger case in Mississippi. Like Yerger, Rose lay for months awaiting execution, but the President never took the responsibility of ordering it.

Sometimes, murderers were turned loose by the ruling of the Courts that such a conviction by military commission barred a second prosecution in the Civil Court. I so ruled in two cases. The two men, named Rose and Robinson, thereby set free, afterward fought and killed each other, to the great relief of society.

In our State political campaign of 1869, most of the republican office-holders, military appointees, coalesced with the Conservatives. Our leading reconstructionist, Gen. Hamilton, became the Conservative candidate for Governor, supported by more than 100 newspapers, including the leading republican journals. Gov. Pease, most of the Supreme and District Judges, and, in fact, nearly all the so-called "respectability" of our own party, joined the Conservatives proper in this movement. Administration aid was also counted on, partly because of Judge Dent's candidacy in Mississippi.

Separate schools for the races, and hostility to carpet-baggers, were leading features of the Conservative policy. East of the Colorado the color line was closely drawn. A broad distinction was made between a Conservative republican or unionist, and a radical.

It was clear that the triumph of such a movement, without opposition, would endanger free discussion. We expected defeat at the polls. The uppermost thought with me was to vindicate free speech while the presence of troops made it possible.

To this end, two parties were necessary. For the united Conservative elements of both parties to take the State by storm, would perpetuate the mob doctrine that all within the pale of society must join in maintaining Southern caste.

We nominated a State ticket, and secured five organs of small circulation, including my paper, the Jefferson Radical. A significant plank of our platform was our endorsement of Gen. Reynolds' action in bringing to trial the assassins of the martyr, Smith. This obliged us to defend the most odious provision of the reconstruction acts.

But we made such headway, both in Texas and Mississippi, that the administration was inclined to favor us just before the election. Contrary to all expectations, we won.

But our range of selection for candidates among those who could read and write had been so small that we got into office comparatively little brains or honesty. Our triumph, therefore, was ephemeral. We could only hope to protect the blacks and obnoxious whites from mob violence, and to inaugurate the era of free speech, during our "little brief authority."

We urged the passage of State "Force Bills." Our legislature promptly passed a bill to regulate the carrying of deadly weapons; a military bill, providing for martial law in lawless counties at their own expense; and a State police bill, creating a State constabulary, of which Sheriffs and their Deputies were to be members ex-officio, designed to pursue criminals across county lines without waiting for fresh writs, and to operate where local prejudice prevented arrests.

Under the new regime many hundred arrests were made, but a still larger number of offenders fled to parts unknown. Early in 1871, in 108 counties, 702 persons charged in the Courts with murder still evaded arrest, and a much larger number of murderers had never been indicted. Early in 1872, as U. S. Attorney, I made to the department of Justice a report showing by facts and figures great progress in enforcing law and order in Texas.

In 1868, the Clayton administration in Arkansas suppressed lawlessness by declaring martial law; scouring the disturbed counties with militia; and shooting outlaws on conviction by military commission.

Excepting Clayton's, no Southern State administration was so successful in repressing disorder as that of Gov. Davis in Texas. Unhappily, Davis at last succumbed to the profligacy which has swamped so many Southern State governments; the militia, State, police, and other useful laws, were perverted for party purposes, and are now repealed.

The Federal Government has been derelict in executing the KuKlux act. In most cases, prosecution have not been pushed. The policy of the government for the last ten years has been leniency to bandits for the avowed purpose of "conciliating" the Southern people, as though the latter were a community of scoundrels.

If Southerners generally have acquiesced in the lawlessness among them, it is because they think the outlaws stronger than the government; just as the Sicilians acquiesce in brigandage, because the brigands have always baffled the Italian government. Safety is sought in neutrality, because of the shuffling policy which might any day leave active supporters of law to the mercy of outlaws.

By assuming that leniency toward ruffians is necessary to conciliate the South, we ignore the better class of Southern people. In the Spring of 1872, while I was serving as U. S. Attorney at Tyler, Texas, the foreman of our Federal grand jury was a large planter, a Southerner, and a Conservative. That jury indicted 100 KuKlux. A better foreman to direct such an inquest could hardly be found. He was fully alive to the necessity of protecting plantation laborers. His jury indicted many in his own neighborhood. Let the government recognize and sustain men of his stamp as the true representative men of the South!

Many of these indicted KuKlux had scoured the country in force, disarming the blacks just before the State election in 1871. They came to Tyler, endorsed by the Adjutant General of Texas—now a fugitive defaulter—to influence the grand jury not to indict them. Others had assassinated a U. S. Deputy Marshal to prevent his testifying against them in the Federal Courts.

Such cases must be within the legitimate scope of the Enforcement Acts. At least, the Government should protect its own witnesses and court officers, if not the constitutional rights of citizens.

And yet, we are told, such prosecutions have been suspended partly because the U. S. Supreme Court may pronounce these acts unconstitutional. It would be truer to say the Government has backed down before senseless partisan clamor against the enforcement of the laws.

These laws can cut both ways, whether so intended or not. In January, 1872, in the Federal Court at Austin, Texas, I prepared indictments against Gov. Davis, and Secretary of State Newcomb, for violations of the Amendatory Enforcement Act of Feb. 28th, 1871, by fraudulently counting in as Congressman a candidate who was not elected, and by issuing to him a fraudulent certificate of election. In my opinion, the Governor and his Secretary were guilty, and could have been convicted but for partisan interference.

The enforcement of law has been considered more as a party matter than as a national matter. The screening of official law-breakers, while denying protection to citizens, is anything but encouraging to the friends of good government.

It is the citizen, more than the corrupt State Government, that needs the protection. The KuKlux Act was a step in the right direction, because it aims to protect citizens. The late so-called "Force Bill" was a weak thing, except for mischief; it contemplated too much the safety of the party, and too little the safety of the citizen; too much the protection of the republican State government, and too little the protection of the plantation laborer in his constitutional rights.

It is time we should draw the line between centralization and decentralization, and define the duties of the National and State governments, respectively, to protect personal rights, that we may know where to fix responsibility. Our republican government may safely be made as strong as a monarchical one, because the people can get rid of an incompetent President by election, or a corrupt one, more summarily, by impeachment.

One cause of Southern lawlessness is the remissness of civil officers. Courts have often imposed merely nominal fines upon men of influence charged with felony. My immediate predecessor on the Bench, Judge Banks, was once shot through the body and dangerously wounded, for his politics, at the court-house in Quitman, Texas. His assailant was fined—ten dollars.

Executive officers of courts often loosely guard influential prisoners outside of jail, as lately in the Northern case of Boss Tweed. Judges have permitted this so much that some sheriffs and marshals consider it their prerogative to decide how they shall keep criminals. While on the Bench, I could see the glaring impropriety of such a custom. After I determined to break it up, it so happened that the first favored prisoner I had to order peremptorily to jail was Judge Mabry, one of my predecessors on the Bench, charged with murder. It would have been a mockery of justice to allow so powerful a defendant the liberty of the town, even in custody of an officer.

In 1871, at Tyler, I prepared complaints against parties in Wood County, for violations of the KuKlux Act. It was thought they couldn't be arrested without bloodshed. A black State policeman, named Johnson, offered me his services to go after them. The Acting U. S. Marshal thought it more prudent to send a white deputy who arrested the KuKlux, but allowed them to keep their arms. They swaggered around Tyler, overawing my witnesses.

As they were carrying arms in violation of the State law, Johnson undertook to disarm them. Two Tyler lawyers, composing the firm of House & Godly, obstructed the Black policeman, and were both shot dead by him. This terrible event had one good effect. It taught the whites to respect the negro, at least as a conservator of the peace.

In 1871, I was in Waco, Texas, when City Marshal Hoffman was assassinated in a barber's shop, while being shaved. The murderer then coolly rode across the public square, exchanging shots with a black State policeman, paid his toll at the suspension-bridge, crossed the Brazos to East Waco, and escaped up the river bottom. I saw him riding over the bridge pursued only by the black policeman—on foot. The people generally seemed to care nothing about arresting the assassin.

The submissive character of the Southern masses invites oppression and outrage. The Blacks have been cowed by slavery; the poor whites by oligarchal domination and conscriptions. The majority of both races, and notably the poor whites, are afraid to complain or testify against the lawless. Rather than incur the danger of doing they often hide out or leave the country.

Just after the Clinton, Miss., massacre, Frederick Douglass advised his race to defend themselves. For the sake of lasting peace this advice ought now to be followed.

If self-defense were not lawful, Government would smother individuality by constant interference. Self-defense is the prerogative of the individual; vengeance of the Government. Self-defense suffices in ordinary cases; Government is the last resort.

Every citizen must protect himself and family when feloniously assailed; he must be himself a conservator of the peace in such emergencies. I have sometimes publicly advised the blacks to shoot down marauders, not vindictively, but to prevent the commission of felonies.

Since emancipation, it has been no easy task to teach the negro that his house is his castle. Formerly, whenever bandits ordered his cabin-door opened he dared not disobey.

One of the first cases I knew of where a negro resisted was near Dallas. On being refused admittance, the prowlers tried to force an entrance. They broke a hole through the door only to make way for a ball from the negro's old horse-pistol. In fleeing, they carried off their dead man. I was told that neighborhood was very quiet afterward.

At the Spring Term, 1872, of the Federal Courts at Tyler, a chief witness against the KuKlux was a Dr. March, a prominent merchant and planter of Rusk County, and universally respected until he took a stand against outlawry. The sufferings of himself and family from outrages had shattered his nervous system. At the Fall term, I saw him at Tyler. His face wore the scar of an ugly wound, but his health was restored.

He had "conquered a peace." In the last attack on his store, he shot two ruffians dead, and shot another in the back, crippling him for life. He also pointed out to me two other KuKlux, attending Court, whom he had badly "winged."

It is onerous to have to expose crime, and to charge responsibility for it on a high-spirited people. I have done enough of this work in years past to know the odium and danger attending it.

It isn't strange Northern people discredit such statements. Many good people at the South even, know nothing of extraordinary crimes committed right among them.

In 1871, I published in the Jefferson Radical, an account of the murder of a colored woman in Collin County, for no crime whatever, by a mob. The McKinney Messenger, one of the two papers published in that County, denied the statement. We then gave our authority. The Messenger, after further enquiry, said the charge was "too true."

Caste is intolerant like slavery. But conspiracies to kill odious persons are now less frequent than combinations to destroy their business or social standing. There is often real danger when brave men charged with radicalism feel obliged solemnly to renounce their principles in published cards. But most who thus apostatize do so mainly to keep in business and society.

I must hurry over important branches of my subject. I have dwelt much on the mixed jury experiment in order to show the feasibility of mixed schools. I have long contended that the decisive battle between equality and caste must be fought in the public schools. Snaky politicians cannot always wriggle around this issue.

Co-education of the races is especially necessary in the improverished South on the score of economy. But Southern white republican legislators have proved false to impartial education. Promises made in conventions and Union Leagues have been broken on getting into office.

The bugaboo of mixed schools has frightened our statesmen out of all propriety. No public functionary, standing on either the Philadelphia, or Cincinnati platform, could consistently oppose any feature of the Sumner bill, on principle. And yet on the vital school clause, New Orleans ruled Butler, and Richmond captured Grant.

The approval of an adequate Civil Rights bill might have given Grant a place in History as a statesman as well as a hero. But the Administration acts as though its chief stock in trade (the negro) must be husbanded by doling out Civil Rights, grudgingly, in homeopathic doses.

Nothing is clearer to me than the ultimate unification of the races at the South. The ex-slaves are not yet safe from outrage and occasional massacre. They are safe from extermination or expatriation. So mixed a people need not fear such a fate at the hands of those bound to them by ties of blood.

Those who expect the blacks to die out naturally will be perpetually confounded by our census. The African, in the greater part of our country, will doubtless be absorbed by the Caucasian, who is already styled "a hybrid, a thousand times crossed." But in the "Black Belt," the dark element is most likely to absorb the white.

A great need of the South is a press independent enough to advocate unpopular ideas and measures. The so-called radical papers are too weak and subservient to do much in the way of reform, especially those established to live on public printing provided by partisan legislation.

I needn't say I realize how extensively corruption and inefficiency pervade the Southern civil service, both State and Federal. The half has never been told. My experiences regarding this matter alone would make a whole lecture.

As U. S. Attorney it was my duty to prosecute some cases against a whiskey ring of great political influence, one of those indicted being Lieut. Gov. Flanagan, of Texas, a son of U. S. Senator Flanagan. In the Fall of 1871, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (Douglass,) in obedience to a written request from President Grant, ordered me to have these cases continued until the next Spring term of the Federal Court at Tyler.

Supervisor Cobb, who had hurried to Washington to thwart the Ring, went to Douglass and protested against this concession. Douglass said he couldn't help it in the face of Grant's letter. Cobb then protested so strongly at the White House that the President withdrew his request. Douglass then countermanded his order to me.

Cobb said he believed some one of the President's private secretaries had fraudulently obtained the Executive signature to the letter that was to shield the Ring.

At the Spring term, 1872, I was again ordered (by Attorney General Williams) to have these cases continued until the next Fall term. Perhaps this order was also obtained by foul means. At any rate, the Ring finally got clear altogether through its political influence, if not through fraud.

In the light of these facts, and others equally striking which I learned officially, I don't wonder at the Babcock scandal.

The President's message, recommending the exclusion of illiterates from the elective franchise after 1890, intimates that universal suffrage is chargeable with the degradation of the public service. But I have mentioned the chief cause of this so far as concerns the radical State governments, namely: The narrow range of selection for office.

Von Moltke says our civil war never produced a great General, because our aristocratic West Point system had narrowed our range of selection for commanders down to 500 graduates; while any German soldier might win promotion. In the "Black Belt," the colored voters are led by a handful of whites and educated blacks. There being as many offices as leaders, each leader gets an office, whether he be competent or incompetent, honest or dishonest.

There is no speedy remedy for this. To abridge the suffrage, by imposing educational or property qualifications, would be cutting the throat of the republic. The ballot had to be given to the freedmen for their protection partly because of their ignorance and poverty. The one qualification most needed is for Conservatives to qualify themselves to be voted for by treating the blacks justly, and conceding their equality.

Complaint is made that the blacks vote solidly against their employers. But if the ex-slave can show so much independence as a citizen, "there's life in the old land yet." If Northern workmen had more of this independence coupled with their intelligence, monopoly and the money power would not so seriously threaten our republican institutions.

After estimating the voting population of Virginia of 150,000 whites and 100,000 blacks, the Richmond Enquirer lately said: "White men may go over to the negro, but the negro will not come over to the whites." This statement will be true of the whole South so long as complexional caste is their main political issue. "The mountain must come to Mahonet." The blacks cannot yield to caste without dishonoring their citizenship.

Meanwhile, conscientious whites are at fault if they don't exert some kind of political influence over the blacks.

In 1872, I opposed the administration, and tried to radicalize the Greeley movement in Texas. Returning home from the canvass in Central and Southern Texas, I found the blacks in Northeast Texas supplied with tickets on the side of a proposed constitutional amendment allowing the legislature to grant the State lands to railroads. Our constitution of 1869 had reserved these lands for homesteads and in aid of free schools.

I aroused the blacks against the proposed amendment. They invited me to address them on the subject. This frightened the republican leaders who had distributed the tickets. They promised the negroes and myself to yield the point. So I induced most of the blacks in my county to have their tickets altered and to vote "against the amendment."

They knew I was against them on the main issue—between Grant and Greeley—but they believed I sought their interests in the disposition of the public lands. On this question they abandoned their leaders and followed me. Just so, the planter who has earned the confidence of his laborers, can persuade them at least to scratch from their tickets the names of dishonest candidates.

It may have been expected I would say much in defence of the so-called "carpet-bag governments." I have no disposition to do this. But whenever the North harshly judges these governments. I sometimes think of the leniency shown to Northern Rings, like those to defraud the Indians and the revenue. Even staid old Massachusetts can be reminded how she championed, through Ames and Butler in Congress, both the Credit Mobilier fraud, and the back pay grab.

But enough of these experiences for a single lecture. My impressions may not have been always correct; I hope at least they have been suggestive.

News and Notes.

The resolution offered by Mr. Edmunds, that the Senate elect a President of the Senate pro tem., will probably result in the displacement of Mr. Ferry. It is well known that Senators have been unwilling that he should permanently preside, holding that he is a pronounced inflationist, and generally that he has not sufficient ability, which means that he is not ultra enough to suit the majority. It is thought that the committee will report in favor of the resolution.

Harper's Weekly sounds the bugle note for '76, and declares that the only man whom the republicans can elect is some man whom the Administration coterie would strongly oppose.

Collector Chester A. Arthur of New York has been reappointed by President Grant. He is the only Collector of New York who has served a whole term within a quarter of a century, and not one complaint has been lodged against him.

President Grant has commuted the sentence of the Jefferson Borden mutineers to imprisonment for life. The petition was headed with the signatures of several distinguished persons, among them Gov. Gaston, Mayor Cobb, Collector Simmons, and a number of Maine officials. It set forth that the vessel was half-manned and half-provisioned, and that there was some justification for the mutiny on these grounds as well as on account of the cruelty of the captain. The petition was presented to the President by Senators Hamlin and Morrill, of Maine.

Judge Donohue of New York granted a stay of proceedings on Thursday, by which John Dolan, the convicted murderer of Mr. Noe, is saved from the gallows. A new trial may be ordered. New testimony against Dolan is said to have been found. Gov. Tilden refused to commute the sentence to imprisonment for life.

The Claremont Eagle says that on the 6th, as Mr. Albert Straw of that town was riding along the Redwater Brook road near the residence of Mr. James Pemberton, a dog that he met sprang at the horse. The horse jumping to one side upset the buggy, and both horse and driver went over the embankment. The bank at this point is some fifty feet in height, very steep, and rough with rocks and ledges. Mr. Straw was stunned by the fall, and it is supposed lay indensible for about three-quarters of an hour, when he recovered consciousness. Faint and maimed and bruised, he attempted to crawl up the road, but when about half-way up the bank he slipped, and again fell to the bottom. Another effort was more successful, and though every motion was torture, he finally reached Mr. Pemberton's house, and was taken home. A physician was summoned, and the most serious injuries found to consist of a severe bruise on the forehead, a broken rib and a broken shoulder. During the night it seemed very doubtful if he would live till morning; but the next day he rallied, and is now comparatively comfortable, with every prospect of a good recovery. A very thick cap drawn down low upon the head is probably what saved his life. His clothing was torn to shreds, and it was certainly a narrow escape from instant death. The horse remained in the brook for some hours and was then rescued, and with the exception of a few bruises now seems little worse for his tumble.

Postmaster General Jewell declines to run as the republican candidate for Governor of Connecticut. Where is General Hawley.

The New York Nation, usually the first to find fault with any act of the administration, has the candor to say in reference to the dismissal of Ex-Senator Henderson from the Government service at St. Louis: "Mr. Henderson has been dismissed, and it is difficult to see how the President could have taken any other course under the circumstances. There may be men in existence who would put up with what Mr. Henderson said, but we doubt if they have as yet shown themselves in any civilized Government."

The total number of killed and wounded by the Mosel explosion is now estimated at two hundred.

Frank Jones voted in Congress that "as the Union of the States is restored, all citizens thereof are entitled to consideration in the appointments to office under this Government."

The vote of Keene for Mayor was: Farrar, republican, 755; Colony, democrat, 478.

The President has appointed George T. Seward, Consul-General at Shanghae, to be Minister Plenipotentiary to China, vice Avery deceased; also, James Birney, of Michigan, Minister to the Netherlands.

Grant's friends are one by one going to the penitentiary. It is very sad.—Laconia Democrat.

Never mind, Bro. V., one by one the friends of your party are coming out. It is very encouraging.—Canaan Reporter.

Congressman Henry W. Blair, the only republican member of the House from this State, voted against the third term.

John Connor, of Manchester, made a desperate effort to commit suicide by cutting his throat with a razor, inflicting three gashes. He will probably recover. Consumption and depression of spirits was the cause.

Lamar's certificate as a member of the House from Mississippi is sealed by the blood of murdered American citizens.

Harper's Magazine for January has an abundance of excellent reading matter. "Cambridge, on the Charles," gives within moderate limits, and with the aid of numerous illustrations, a full account of the oldest university town in the United States. Among other articles are the fifteenth number of "The First Century of the Republic," "Gothic Architecture," illustrated, the continuation of Julian Hawthorne's novel of "Garth," and the fourth series of Hon. S. S. Cox's "Legislative Humors."

Mr. Pond, the Worcester forger, is comfortable in his new quarters in the jail at Worcester.

There is a good deal of talk about having the National republican convention held in Philadelphia on the Fourth of July. That is the best place for it.

Samuel Bowles withdraws Charles Francis Adams and nominates ex-Senator Henderson.

Mr. Blaine's amendment seems to have the almost unanimous support of the republican press. The democratic press say very little about it.

The School Committee.

Ed. Chron.; After reading the article relating to the school committee, I am persuaded you have not been familiar with all the proceedings of that body. At the first meeting, only five members presented themselves for qualification and organization, and although the full committee consisted of ten members, requiring six for a quorum, the immaculate five (who exactly correspond with the five last mentioned in the article to which I refer) pretended to organize by choosing Mr. Moses Howe Call as chairman, and re-electing the old secretary; and not being satisfied with this illegal proceeding and desiring to follow the "Senate stealers" actually attempted to steal the school committee; and when the other five at the next meeting presented themselves for qualification, they were calmly told it was too late—that not having appeared at the first meeting they were disqualified. And when one of this last number desired to know under what law, he was told by the very astute and illegally chosen chairman that it was agreeably to a law of Massachusetts!

When reminded that our good old city was still within the limits of New Hampshire, and after an unsuccessful attempt to rid himself of the obnoxious members by calling on the police, he consented to have them qualify. Subsequently, an attempt was made to elect a High School committee, resulting in a tie vote; the immaculates voting for Messrs. Hodgdon, Call and Jones, and the others for Messrs. Hatch and Bartlett of the present High School committee, and Dr. May of the general board.

I submit that in comparison the last mentioned will not suffer in point of intellectual attainments, at least. I deprecate such proceedings as you refer to, even in a ward caucus, and more especially in a body as dignified as our school committee should be. CANDOR.

The Eastern Railroad.

A large meeting of the bondholders and creditors of the Eastern Railroad was held Saturday forenoon at Boston to take into consideration the condition of the road.

Mr. Ward, representing Baring Brothers, said a plan for reorganization the road had been drawn up which would no doubt, if adopted, be concurred in by the Barings and their clients.

Mr. Morrison read the plan, which in brief provides for mortgaging the road for $14,000,000 and the issuing of bonds to that amount, 65 per cent. of which will be guaranteed, or in the shape of a preferred stock, and 35 per cent., of which will come in as secondary stock, and which may never possibly be paid. The plan also provides for the appointment of trustees to manage the road, and giving creditors a vote in their election for every one hundred dollars of their indebtedness.

In case the trust is not managed in the way indicated, the mortgagee has the right to foreclose. In view of the time which must elapse to obtain the necessary legislative sanction to the scheme, the advisability of appointing a receiver, so as to prevent any attachments being put upon the road, was suggested in the plan of reorganization as one worthy of consideration.

Mr. Welsh, of Sohier & Welsh, explained the main features of the plan, and urged its adoption.

Hon. Charles Levi Woodbury objected to it because all classes of liabilities were not represented. For instance, the Portsmouth, Saco and Portland would be left out in the cold and their liabilities, which were contingent on the sums due them by the Eastern, would be unprovided for.

Hon. Wm. G. Russell, representing the road, argued that the legislature would not sanction such a proposal, because whatever legislation was obtained it must, in view of all preceding legislation in Massachusetts, necessarily include all the liabilities of the corporation. He said the plan proposed would strangle the Eastern Railroad in eighteen months.

He suggested that a committee of conference be appointed by the bondholders to meet the directors and stockholders and see what could be done. The question of attachments had been considered, and he was not prepared to say how long the road would be free from such annoyances.

Hon. Charles Levi Woodbury spoke against the road going into bankruptcy, and said all should be in favor of making the best they could out of the matter and assist in doing what was the best for all concerned. He said that while the road was laying groaning and sweating in the bankruptcy court, each creditor trying to scale down the other's claim and to get the most for himself, the connections of the road would be lost and the stock of the competing roads would be at a higher premium.

After further remarks from Messrs. Welsh and Russell, Hon. Dwight Foster, who represented some of the bondholders, moved that it was the sense of the meeting that the directors of the road take steps forthwith for the appointment of a receiver.

This was deprecated by Mr. Russell, and Mr. Lawrence, the President of the road, said a large part of the creditors had agreed not to trouble the corporation.

The meeting was of the opinion that a receivership meant bankruptcy and voted down the resolution, and a committee of three on the part of the bondholders was subsequently appointed to meet and confer with the directors in reference to the plan submitted and any counter plan which might be agreed upon, and to report at an adjourned meeting. The committee consists of Lemuel Shaw, Charles J. Morrill and Dwight Foster. The meeting then adjourned.

Jottings.

Col. Hackett sold at auction Saturday: 1500 County of Rockingham sixes at $102.-25; 1000 at $101.75; 400 of the same at $100.75; 500 City of Portsmouth (municipal bonds) 5 per cent, 1883, at $97.75; 1000 City of Portsmouth 5 per cent., municipal, at $96.50; 10 shares of National Mechanics and Traders Bank at $111.

Harper's Magazine for January has a delightful illustrated article on "The Oklawaha," Florida, by Constance F. Woolson.

A petition is to be presented to the next legislature for freeing from toll the bridge spanning the river from South Newmarket to Stratham.

The "Bohemian Girl" will probably be produced by the Boston English Opera Troupe, on their second appearance here.

People wanted to know where the fire was, Friday night, at half-past nine o'clock, when the North bell rang. One or more fire companies rallied and dragged their carriages about town, and it was finally concluded that there was lack of fire instead of too much, and that a little more warmth applied in the proper place would send the bell-ringer to his post of duty at sixty instead of ninety minutes past eight o'clock.

The petition for the improvement of the Squamscott river, well freighted with signatures, has been sent to Washington.

Wilson & Magraw have a large collection of designs for fret-work and materials for making frames, brackets, etc., including mahogany, walnut ash, letter and other woods. Many a father or son out of employment can find material here of which to fashion handsome, useful and acceptable articles for holiday presents to their friends. The little toy engines afford a large fund of amusement. Before you purchase, call at Wilson & Magraw's.

The Union Square Theatre Company will present the popular drama of the "The Two Orphans" at the Temple on Friday evening next.

Congress.

In the Senate, Thursday, Mr. Morton called up the resolution to authorize the appointment of a special committee of five Senators to inquire into the circumstances attending the recent election in Mississippi. He spoke in favor of the resolution and referred to various statements of persons residing in Mississippi to show that republican voters were intimidated and ballot-boxes stuffed in that State. He called the attention of the Senators to the total vote in that State in 1869, 1872, and 1873. In 1869, at the election on the adoption of the Constitution, the total vote was 114,283. In 1872, at the Presidential election, it was 129,463; in 1873, the last Congressional election, it was 117,948; and at the recent election it was 163,565, an increase of more than 34,000 on the highest vote ever given before. The republican majority in the State in 1869 was 38,089; in 1872 it was 22,-975; and at the recent election the democratic majority was 30,147. The total democratic vote in 1869 was 38,097; in 1872 it was 47,288; in 1873 it was 44,286; and in 1875 it was 96,906. It had been alleged by those who made the statements to him that a large part of the vote at the last election was spurious and fraudulent, as the republican vote, though it fell off somewhat, did not fall off in a corresponding ratio. He read from papers in his possession to show that there was intimidation in many counties; and said at least one democratic paper had called upon its friends after the election to be true to their party and not recognize those who had voted the republican ticket. At Columbus there were armed men, and where there had been a republican majority in previous years there were but seventeen republican votes. The ballot-boxes were taken possession of by democrats in republican counties and stuffed by them. In Yazoo the republican vote in 1872 was 2437, and the democratic vote 411. At the last election there were but seven republican votes cast there, while there were 4044 democratic ones; and it was said that these seven republican votes were put in under compulsion in order that it might be shown that the republicans could vote there.

A Health-Promoting Stimulant.

Physicians, who certainly ought to be the best judges of such matters, declare that wholesome stimulation is not only desirable, but essential in many instances. When the temporary good effect of a sound stimulant is confirmed and rendered permanent, as in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, by the action of tonic and alterative principles combined with it, it becomes infinitely more efficacious as a renovant of physical energy and a corrective of those conditions of the body which invite disease. The Bitters have received the emphatic sanction of medical men who have observed the effect of that popular stimulative cordial as a remedy for weakness, nervousness, dyspepsia, constipation, inactivity of the liver, malarious fevers, and many other disorders. Its basis is sound old rye, the purest liquor known to commerce, and itself possessing tonic properties of no mean order.

New Publications.

The January Eclectic beginnlag a new volume and a new year, is a good specimen of the magazine, and offers a favorable opportunity for new subscribers to begin. It is embellished with two fine steel-engravings, "The Flower-Gatherers" and "George Washington and his Family." The first is a child-piece, very beautiful in design, very tender in sentiment, and admirably engraved. The second is peculiarly appropriate to the centenial year, comprising portraits of Washington in his uniform, as general of the army, of Martha Washington, of Wm. Lee, and of the children, Geo. Washington Parke Curtis and Eleanor Parke Curtis. Each monthly number of the Eclectic contains at least one steel-engraving, usually a portrait of some man distinguished in letters, art, or politics. Of the literary attractions of the January number, the most striking are: A synopsis of the curiously fascinating Memoirs of Saint Simon; an article by Prof. Tyndall on Materialism and its Opponents; a paper by Col. Chesney on Sherman and Johnston; Galton's suggestive paper on The History of Twins; an admirable biographical article on Two Danes: Thorvaldsen and Anderson; an entertaining treatise on Automatic Chess and Card Playing; a description of The Dutch and their dead Cities; a collection of O'Connelliana; a brief paper on the natural history of the Arctic Regions; and another giving the Recent History of the Pitcairn Islanders. Published by E. R. Pelton, 25 Bond street, New York. Terms, $5 per year; single number, 45 cents.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses (dealer of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver, and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $50.

It Pays! It Pays!
WHAT PAYS?
IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.
IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household that which will interest, instruct, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.
Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information per aiming to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions, Advice, Practical Writers, for Work men and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the most widely illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.
The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.
Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Students, and the lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Office, Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.
A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Address, Publishers of SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.
PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.
Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, and persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 300 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1876, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold many I never heard from, they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up a pin, and I attied from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my days. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me. I have stated it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than at 45---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The fraudulent juree of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as a "party" organ, nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always believed it to be the best party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will continue to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step towards repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor. And in preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions of little meaning. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when that party was in power. Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders against them, packed its managers and threatening its property, and when Sammy Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cheat THE TIMES. What Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential campaign, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue bias of any kind. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in the thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dubose Cook, William Black, and many others are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sedoride and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

Dover, Dec. 6, 1875.

REMARKABLE DUEL.

On the 12th day of June, 1863, I witnessed a duel between a Captain Jones, commanding a Federal scout, and Captain Fry, commanding a Rebel scout, in Greene county, East Tennessee. These two men had been fighting each other for six months, with the fortunes of battle in the favor of one and then the other. Their commands were camped on either side of Lick Creek, a large and sluggish stream, too deep to ford and too shallow for a ferry-boat; but there a bridge spanned the stream for the convenience of the traveling public. Each of them guarded this bridge, that communication should go neither north nor south, as the railroad track had been broken up months before. After fighting each other for several months, and contesting the point as to which should hold the bridge, they agreed to fight a duel, the conquerer to hold the bridge undisputed for the time being. Jones gave the challenge and Fry accepted. The terms were, that they should fight with navy pistols at twenty yards apart, deliberately walking toward each other, and firing until the last chamber of their pistols was discharged, unless one or the other fell before all the discharges were made. They chose their seconds, and agreed upon a rebel surgeon (as he was the only one in either command) to attend them in case of danger.

Jones was certainly a fine looking fellow, with light hair and blue eyes; five feet ten inches in height, looking every inch the military chieftain. He was a man whom soldiers would admire and ladies regarded with admiration. I never saw a man more cool, determined and heroic under such circumstances. I have read of the deeds of chivalry and knight-errantry in the middle ages, and of brave men embalmed in modern poesy; but, when I saw this man Jones come to the duelists' scratch, fighting, not for real or supposed wrongs to himself, but as he honestly thought, for his country and the glory of the flag, I could not help admiring the man, notwithstanding he fought for the freedom of the negro, which I was opposed to.

Fry was a man full six feet high, slender, with long, wavy, curling hair, jet black eyes, wearing a slouch hat and gray suit, and looking rather the demon than the man. There was nothing ferocious about him; but he had that self-sufficient nonchalance that said, "I will kill you." Without a doubt, he was brave, cool, and collected, and, although suffering from a terrible flesh wound in his left arm, received a week before, he manifested no symptoms of distress, but seemed ready for the fight.

The ground was stepped off by the seconds, pistols loaded and exchanged, and the principals brought face to face. I never shall forget that meeting. Jones, in his military, boyish mood, as they shook hands, remarked that—

A soldier braves death for a fanciful wreath,
When in glory's romantic career;

Fry caught up the rest of the sentence, and answered by saying—

Yet he bends o'er the foe when in battle laid low,
And bathes every wound with a tear.

They turned around and walked back to the point designated. Jones' second had the word "Fire;" and, as he slowly said, "One—two—three—fire!" they simultaneously turned at the word "One" and instantly fired. Neither was hurt. They cocked their pistols, and deliberately walked toward each other firing as they went. At the fifth shot, Jones threw up his right hand, and, firing his pistol in the air, sank down. Fry was in the act of firing his last shot; but, seeing Jones fall, silently lowered his pistol, dropped it to the ground, and sprang to Jones' side, taking his head in his lap as he sat down, and asking him if he were hurt.

I discovered that Jones was shot through the region of the stomach, the bullet glancing around that organ, and coming out to the left of the spinal column; besides, he had received three other frightful flesh-wounds in other portions of the body. I dressed his wounds, and gave him such stimulants as I had. He afterward got well.

Fry received three wounds—one breaking his left arm, one in the left, and the other in the right side. After months of suffering he got well. Neither of them asked for a discharge, but both resumed their commands when they got well, and fought the war out, to the bitter end, and to-day are partners in a wholesale grocery business down south, doing a good business, and verifying the sentiment of Byron that "A soldier braves death," etc.

WAR WITH MEXICO.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The boys on the street made a good deal of sport of the old man as he walked up Woodward avenue yesterday, an old musket with a bayonet on his shoulder, a red comforter tied aronnd his waist and a rooster's tail feather in his old hat. He marched along like a soldier, giving no heed to any one, and finally called into a store in charge of a young man with emaciated side-whiskers and pale blue eyes.

"War agin Mexico!" exclaimed the old man as he brought the butt of his musket down with a great jar and stood at attention.

"Something in our line to-day?" inquired the young man as he came forward.

"I want some powder and shot," replied the man as he shouldered arms. "I am off for Mexico this afternoon?"

"We don't keep such things here," replied the young man.

"Powder and shot!" exclaimed the warrior, as he brought his gun to a right-shoulder shift, and nearly knocked the stove pipe down with his rusty bayonet.

"I say we don't keep 'em," called the young man, in louder tones.

"Shoulder arms, and—

We'll march upon the Mexicans
And pile 'em in a heap,
And as we go the blood shall flow
In rivers wide and deep.

Hurrah for me and General Taylor! Order arms! Shoulder arms! Forward march!"

"Please don't make so much noise," said the young man, when he could get in a word.

"Noise! Noise, you young calf!" cried the old man. "D'ye think I can whip Mexico without making any noise about it? I'm going to clean 'em out in thirty days, and I want powder and shot!"

"We don't keep such goods," was the reply.

"Let 'em come for me—right face—left face—'bout face—'tention, and—

When Buena Vista hove in sight,
Each man his gun did load;
Each one prepared to shed his blood
Along the dusty road."

"Please go out!" entreated the young man, who was kept dodging to avoid the old bayonet.

"Powder and shot!" yelled the old man.

"We haven't any!"

"For'ard—gin 'em some more grape—down with the greasers!" shouted the veteran as he drove the young man out from behind the stove and into a corner.

"G'way—police—get out!"

"Powder and shot?" cried the old man; "for—

I'll meet old Santa Anna,
And all his greaser crew—
Around my brow I'll wrap the flag,
And my very best I'll do.

Powder and shot, or I'll let you have the bayonet!"

A crowd had been gathering, and at this critical moment an officer entered the store and collared the old fighter and marched him off.

"Surrounded and tooken prisoner!" exclaimed the old man, as he went down the street, "but 'rah for me!"

A MASCULINE CRUSADER.

Detroit has been trying a new kind of crusader, as follows. Saturday morning a sandy-haired young man, six feet three inches high, and looking almost like a walking shadow, called at the Central Station, and after solemnly blowing his nose he remarked:

"This is an awful wicked town."

"Well, there are some wicked people here," replied the Captain.

"Vice and malice walk hand in hand up and down every street and avenue," continued the stranger as he doubled up and sat down.

"Well, I'm sorry," replied the Captain. "I wish everybody would be good enough to melt away and dissolve in a blaze of glory."

"But the wicked shall be rebuked," said the stranger as he put his foot down, "and the minions of Satan shall be put to flight."

"I want a ticket to that entertainment when it comes off," smiled the captain.

"I have walked far to meet Satan and conquer him," said the stranger. "Point me out the wickedest and vilest quarter of the city, and there will I take my stand and do battle."

"You'd better husk your own corn and let wickedness alone," replied the captain. "What brought you here, and where are you going?"

"My friend, the Lord sent me here to battle against wickedness, and I'll fight till I die. I want to go right out and find the strongholds of Satan and deal them sturdy blows until they cry for quarter and victory is mine!"

After borrowing a chew of tobacco, the stranger left the station and soon made his appearance at a saloon on Beaubien street.

"Here doth Satan reign," he said to the bullet-headed man behind the bar.

"No whiskey without cash," replied the bar-tender.

"Whiskey! whiskey, you degraded minion of Satan!" exclaimed the tall man, "know ye that I have come here to enter Saran out of this place and let in the light of knowledge and goodness!"

"Slide!" growled the bar-keeper, pointing to the door.

"Thrice-dyed in wickedness, pledge me that you will at once turn from the evil of your ways!" shouted the tall man, as he danced around.

"Here you go!" answered the bar-tender, making a rush for him.

But he didn't go. He knocked the man of drinks into a corner and kicked him after he was down, and when a crowd gathered he stood on the steps and said:

"Ye wicked and malicious, I have come among you to knock Satan off his feet, and I'll purify this town or perish in the attempt!"

The police took him to the station, and Monday morning he will be judged according to the deeds done in the body.

A Daring Robbery.

Between four and five o'clock Saturday morning, the United States express car on the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern train, was entered between Ferguson and Jennings station, ten or twelve miles from St. Louis. The messenger, Charles Kincaid, was thrown into a large package chest and locked up, and the safe was robbed of from $10,000 to $20,000 in money and bonds. Kincaid says he was lying on one of the package boxes in the car, half asleep, when he felt a heavy hand upon his shoulder, and on turning his head around was confronted by a pistol in the hands of a masked man. Before he could speak he was seized by the collar from behind, and, under the cover of two more pistols in the hands of another masked man was thrust into a large package box, which had been emptied of its contents by the robbers, and the lid closed on him and locked. He does not know what occurred after that until the train reached St. Louis, where he was released, except that he heard the men working at the safe, and supposed they were robbing it.

News and Notes.

Speaker Kerr announced the House committees, Monday. The chairmen of the principal committees are: Harris of Virginia on elections; Morrison of Illinois on ways and means; Randall of Pennsylvania on appropriations; Cox of New York on banking and currency; Swan of Maryland on foreign affairs; Lamar of Mississippi on Pacific Railroad; Knott of Kentucky on the judiciary; Whitthorne of Tennessee on naval affairs. Congressman Frank Jones is the third member of the naval committee. Congressman Bell is a member of the committee on the revision of the laws and of the militia committee.

Gen. Babcock will appear to plead to the indictment against him in St. Louis Jan. 11th.

The Judge who granted the stay of proceedings by which Dolan gets a brief respite from the gallows, declares that he has no doubt that Dolan killed Mr. Noe.

Charles O'Conor, the eminent lawyer, is convalescing.

The resolution of the last Congress, instructing the heads of departments to distribute patronage as evenly as possible among the several States of the Union, will go into effect on the first of January. It is not expected that there will be any immediate revolution in the organization of the departments, but where there is an excessively large number of clerks claiming residence in one State, when in fact there residence is the District of Columbia, some of them may be discharged. In future appointments regard will be paid to the law, and preference will be given to applicants from those States which have less than a proportionate number of clerkships on the 1st of January.

A little volume, "Safety Book-keeping," is issued by Robert Clarke & Co., Cincinnati, the object being the detection of defaulting book-keepers. It is retailed for $1.00 and may be ordered at the book-stores.

A farmer of Bow, named Calvin Robinson, about 60 years old, was found dead in the woods near his place, Saturday. He left home Friday morning with a pair of oxen for a load of wood, and his oxen returning without him, search was instantly made. His body was found lying on the road. Cause, probably, heart disease.

Prominent parties are being involved in the Chicago whiskey ring. The Treasury department is increasing the vigor of its investigation, but the officials decline to give information of the progress made.

A despatch from San Diego says all the Mexicans living on the road between San Diego and Campo are concentrating in Lower California. About one hundred are just below the line. A large number are in Neaut Valley. Further trouble is apprehended. The citizens of Campo are well armed and vigilant.

John Atkinson, of Saco, hanged himself Friday evening.

On the 10th inst., the Cuban insurgents, commanded by Gonzales, burned the town of Jakney Grande and the estate of Rasarto. On the 12th they stopped at Palmyra, a mile from Valmaseda's camp, a train of seventeen cars loaded with provisions and ammunition, to which they helped themselves and fired the train.

Charles D. Tilly, who was wounded in a duel Thursday at Augusta, Ga., died.

It is proposed to organize a Centennial Legion for next year, to be composed of one company of one hundred members from each of the original States.

The business men of Pittsburg, Pa., have passed resolutions requesting Congress to repeal the bankrupt laws.

James Carr, of Lowell, a feeble minded youth, aged 18, was found frozen dead, Saturday night, on the ice on the Merrimac river at Lawrence. He wandered from home on Friday.

The preachers of Chelsea were recently favored with a beautiful fearful example case which they did not neglect. A young lady there fell down and died in the midst of waltzers, who were stepping to merry music. A dozen girls might break their backs at the washtub without any special Providence.

Among the intentions of marriage recorded last week in Lowell was one of a bride of 67 to a groom of 72 summers.

A farmer in Montague, Mass., missed some corn, rye, etc., the other morning, after a light snow of the previous night. Finding the track of the thief, who took off the plunder in a wheelbarrow, he traced him some two miles directly to his own house and found him—his own brother.

Wm. Mullen, a resident of Chester, was found Friday night, frozen to death near the railroad station in Fremont. A dog was found with the body. There was a bottle of rum in a pocket of the deceased.

Mary Ogle, colored, threw herself before a train near Pittsburg, Pa., Saturday, and was instantly killed, and as the train was backing up to pick up the body, an old man walking on the track was run over and killed.

The outlet of Lake Winnipesaukee at Weirs has frozen completely over this season, an occurrence that has not happened before for more than fifty years.

Lamar's chances to be Senator from Mississippi are not good. The local rifle-holders acknowledge the efficient service his tongue has rendered; but they say he has been well paid, and it is fair to reimburse some other patriot with an office.

Josie Gault and a Miss Watson, of Suncook, who are said to have seen La Page crossing a certain field on the day of the murder, have each received letters threatening them if they testify to the fact.

Advices from Fort Clark, Texas, state that Mexicans crossed the river below San Felipe and stole 800 head of cattle and fifty horses from Strickland & Slaughter. Citizens are raising companies and threaten to cross the river. Great excitement prevails.

A shocking accident occurred at Nashua on Monday. Locomotive engineer Samuel W. Eager, finding that a switch was set wrong, reversed his engine and was caught between the tender and the engine cab. He lived a half hour in great agony. The locomotive was wrecked.

The Rice school, at Boston, corner of Dartmouth and Appleton streets, was damaged to the extent of $25,000 by fire, Sunday night, which caught from a red-hot bar with which the janitor was endeavoring to thaw out the frozen water pipe.

York.

The temperance lecture by Mr. J. R. McKelvey, of Portland, at the M. E. Church, on the 14th, was well attended, over 300 persons being present. Mr. McKelvey is, or claims to be, a reformed drunkard, and hence "knows whereof he speaks." He gave a very interesting talk of an hour, after which the pledge was passed and seventy names were obtained. A generous contribution was made to defray his expenses. On the 20th, a Mr. Blanchard, of Portland, spoke at the Orthodox vestry on the same subject; on Thursday evening, a meeting will be held at the town hall, when it is expected that Mr. McKelvey will address the meeting. Much interest is manifest in the cause. REPORTER.

—He was a man of dissolute practices and irregular habits, and he lived here. He groaned in his sleep, and his wife arose to light the lamp. He beheld the vast display of striped stockings, and then murmured to himself:

"I've got 'em sure, this time."

"Got what?" she inquired.

"Got the delirium tremens. I'm seeing animals of all kinds. I've just seen a zebra."

She turned down the light, and the menagerie was closed.—Norwich Bulletin.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

JOHN TAGGART."

School Committee Meeting.

The general school committee held a meeting on Saturday evening according to adjournment, every member being present promply at eight o'clock. After the records were read and approved, Mr. Jones of District Two moved that "Swinton's School Composition" be introduced into the first division of the grammar schools, to take the place of Brown's Grammar, and suggested that as some of the members of the committee might possibly desire information upon the merits of the new book, he would also move that a gentleman from District Three, an ex-member of the committee who was present at his (Jones') invitation, be permitted to address the Board in reference to the advantages of adopting the book.

Mr. Pender of District One moved that the matter of considering the merits of the "School Composition" be referred to the committee on text books, to report at the next meeting. Mr. Jones replied by saying that he was chairman of the committee referred to, and would like to have the opinion, not only of the committee, but of any interested parent, relative to the propriety of making the change; after a little further discussion, the book was referred to the text-book committee. Mr. Nowell then moved that the ex-member be allowed to expatiate upon the merits of the work in question, which motion, being seconded by two or three, was unanimously passed. The retired committee man then arose and after expressing a desire not to obtrude himself or his opinions upon the honorable Board, and explaining that he was present by a special invitation of one or two members of the committee, he proceeded to comply with the request in relation to the introduction of the school-book in question, speaking of it in the highest terms and of Swinton's series of grammatical text-books. He spoke of the success which had followed the introduction of the "Language Lessons" into the Intermediate and second Grammar schools and thought that as the "Language Lessons" were used in the second grade grammar schools and Swinton's Grammar in the High School that the first Grammar schools should have the intervening book and thus make use of the entire series. He as a parent and as one having a deep interest in the schools, hoped the committee would report favorably and thus make sure of success in the matter of teaching the proper use of the English language.

The resignation of Miss Dixon was introduced, read and accepted, and Miss Nellie Giddings appointed to fill the vacancy.

A petition was presented by Mr. Jones, asking for an increase of salary, signed by Miss C. Walker, and several others. The matter was referred to the committee on salaries, to report at next meeting.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Pender to abolish the teacher meetings as they were productive of no benefit and were very unpopular with the teachers.

Pending discussion upon this resolution Mr. Jones moved that as the teaching of sewing in public schools was not conducive to the best welfare of the scholars but was prejudicial to good discipline, that it be abolished. Mr. Newton was not aware that sewing was taught in the District of which he was a member, but thought it was a good thing as many children could learn no where else if not at school.

Mr. Badger thought that if sewing was to be taught in the schools, a room should be provided separate from the school rooms. Fically the subject was referred to the chairman of the subcommittee.

Mr. Pender moved that Messrs. Nowell, Badger and Walker be appointed a committee to revise the existing school regulations or submit entirely new ones to the board and report February 1st, 1876.

The motion was opposed by Messrs. Newton and Jones, but was passed by a small majority.

Mr. Pender then brought up his resolution in regard to the teachers' meetings. After some discussion, in which Mr. Pender suggested that as it would be well no doubt for the teachers to meet together, that they be allowed to close their schools for one half day in each month for that purpose. The resolution was passed.

Mr. Nowell stated that he had received a letter from Miss Ham asking to have her vacation extended to February 1st. which was granted.

Mr. Jones moved that substitutes receive the full pay of the teachers for whom they serve. As this seemed to be aimed at Miss Ham, Mr. Nowell entered the lists for her defence. Mr. Newton agreed with Mr. Jones, and said the teachers in his District always gave their entire pay to any one substituting for them. Mr. Jones and Mr. Nowell then entered into a debate, which lasted for a short time, when the matter was dropped by mutual consent. Mr. Jones then offered a resolution upon the subject of written examinations, which was referred to the committee on rules and regulations.

It was then moved that the Board proceed to ballot for High School Committee, which seemed to produce a little flottering among the members, but the excitement was subdued by Mr. Badger moving that the matter be postponed until Moncay evening, Dec. 27th, which was carried.

The committee then adjourned to Monday evening, of next week.

Jottings.

There is a thief who steals papers from our subscribers on State street. Watch for him!

Ex-Gov. Israel Washburn of Maine lectures at the Temple this evening on "The Laws and Conditions of Success in Life." There remain but two more lectures to close the lyceum Course.

Nearly every church member in town played poker last Sunday.

Col. J. Horace Kent of the secret service has unearthed another counterfeiter named Timothy J. Shanley, whom he arrested on Saturday at Webster, Mass., for passing ten dollar bills raised from ones, by neatly pasting a "10" over the figure "1,"

As Mr. Charles A. Wiggin, 55 years old, was feeding the picker at the Glasgow gingham mill, at South Hadley Falls, Saturday morning, his right arm was drawn into the machine and detached near the shoulder. His injuries are said to be fatal. He formerly resided in this city, where he was for twelve years city messenger.

A letter from Illinois to a prominent citizen of Portsmouth contains the following: "Give us Blaine and Bristow for President and Vice President. They will carry Illinois 'looming!'"

Mr. Lewis B. Marden of this city writes to the American Newspaper Reporter that he has worked five years in the same office, and lost but four days during that time. He won't do for a tramp!

P. S. There's nothing like getting into the papers! Mr. Marden, while engaged in getting the Times press under way on Monday had his coat torn to shreds and narrowly escaped being wound around a revolving shaft with it. Better get caught tramping than that-a-way Lewis!

The next meeting of the Farmers' Club will be held at Portsmouth Grange Hall on Wednesday evening, Dec. 29th, when Mr. Sanborn, of the State Board of Agriculture, will read an essay on "The Future of Agriculture." The public are invited.

The beauty of lines and attractive appearance which have made the best class of merchantmen built in the United States well known the world over, can be appreciated by our citizens if they will take a look at the superior ship Jean Ingelow, of about 1,100 tons, belonging in Portsmouth N. H., which has just arrived here from New York. She is one of the most sightly ships which has entered this port for some time, and can be seen at Commercial wharves.—Charleston (S. C.) News.

The Jean Ingelow was built by Mr. Wm. F. Fernald in 1870 and sailed from here in 1871. She is commanded by Capt. George S. Tanton, brother of Mr. Harry Tanton.

A petition to Congress is being circulated by the Board of Trade, to have an appropriation made for a survey of the site of the proposed breakwater between Goat island and Newcastle. A breakwater at that point would render the navigation of our river very much less difficult than it is at present.

The joint meeting of the P. W. Total Abstinence Society and the Women's Temperance League, at Temperance Hall on Thursday evening last, drew a good attendance from both societies; and after an interesting discussion, it was decided to hold another similar meeting on Thursday, Dec. 30th, when the proposal to form a Portsmouth Temperance Reform Club will be considered.

The plucky Secretary of the S. P. C. A. went to Seabrook, Monday morning, on the seven o'clock train, and rode six miles in an open wagon to investigate a case of cruelty. A yoke of oxen had been left unfed and unsheltered through the cold days and nights of the Fall and early Winter—that was all!

Bracing weather, that of Sunday. One wanted to brace one's self against a building to gain strength to go around corners against the piercing, howling blast. Next morning, the mercury dropped to sixteen below zero, and old Boreas shut up shop—probably to save his wind for another day.

And in your kindness of heart, remember that the holiday season affords a convenient time to give freely to the poor. Blessings always follow the willing giver.

At an inpromptu gathering of republicans in this city a few days since the conversation led to a ballot for a Presidential candidate; three-fifths of the number declared themselves in favor of Blaine and the others for Bristow, and it was unanimously agreed that Blaine and Bristow, or Bristow and Blaine, ought to be the ticket.

One of the crew of fishing schooner Grace Choate fell overboard from the deck, at Commercial wharf, near midnight of Sunday, and was nearly drowned when rescued. The cold bath completely chilled him and he is quite ill from its effects.

Dr. J. B. Cherry, whose case was continued to Monday, and who was charged with practicing medicine without a certificate from the State Board of Censors, didn't appear, and the case was again continued until Wednesday. He is absent on his own recognizance in the sum of $500.

"Look at 'em! Look at 'em!"—the holiday advertisements. If you are in business, go and do likewise; if not, go buy!

E. Underhill & Co. having removed to No. 16 1-2 Daniel street (up stairs) offer a fine assortment of harnesses and a good assortment of sleigh bells at low prices.

ARAB HORSE MAXIMS.

Let your colt be domesticated and live with you from his tenderest age, and when a horse, he will be simple, docile, and faithful and inured to hardship and fatigue.

If you have your horse to serve you on the day of your trial, if you desire him to be a horse of truth, make him sober, accustomed to hard work and inaccessible to fear.

Do not beat your horses, nor speak to them in a loud tone of voice; do not be angry with them, but kindly reprove their faults; they will do better thereafter, for they understand the language of man and its meaning.

If you have a long day's journey before you, spare your horse at the start; let him frequently walk to recover his wind. Continue this until he has sweated and dried three times, and you may ask of him whatever you please, he will not leave you in difficulty.

Use your horse as you do your leather bottle; if you open it gently and gradually you can easily control the water within, but if you open it suddenly the water escapes at once, and nothing remains to quench your thirst.

Observe your horse when he is drinking at a brook. If in bringing down his head he remains square without bending his limbs, he possesses sterling qualities and all parts of his body are built symmetrically.

Four things he must have broad—front, chest, loins and limbs; four things long—neck, breast, fore-arm and croup; four things short—pastern, back, ears, and tail.

—"Is that a friend of yours?" asked a gentleman, pointing toward a party who was sailing rapidly down the street. "Can't tell you till next Saturday," returned the individual addressed, "I've just loaned him five dollars."—Brooklyn Argus.

—Landlady (fiercely)—"You must stay or copy that bed with your boots on." Boarder—"Never mind; they're an old pair. I guess the bugs won't hurt 'em. Let 'em rip, anyhow."

A Remarkable Professional Success.

[Missouri Republican, (St. Louis).]

Among the notable professional men of this country who have achieved extraordinary success is Dr. R. V. Pierce of Buffalo N. Y. The prominence which he has attained has been reached through strictly legitimate means, and, so far, therefore, he deserves the enviable reputation which he enjoys. This large measure of success is the result of a thorough and careful preparation for his calling, and extensive reading during a long and unusually large practice, which have enabled him to gain high commendation, even from his professional brethren. Devoting his attention to certain specialties of the science he has so carefully investigated, he has been rewarded in a remarkable degree. Not a few of the remedies prescribed by him have, it is said, been adopted and prescribed by physicians in their private practice. His pamphlets and larger works have been received as useful contributions to medical knowledge. He has recently added another, and perhaps more important work, because of more general application, to the list of his published writings. This book, entitled "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," is designed to enter into general circulation. Dr. Pierce has received acknowledgments and honors from many sources, and especially scientific degrees from two of the first medical institutions in the land.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player suddenly met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Sicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. M. for $50. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with silver, and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and procures thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for a few years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific progress of the day. Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; contains a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Lawyers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the inventor. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaints, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that I could scarcely eat a luncheon. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hope of becoming any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I report myself entirely well. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package for you for a friend, and he was so well pleased with the result that he ordered another. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "send for a package for me." I have sold many who said good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills as it can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth a little more dollars and, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. M. D. LEONARD,

Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent for you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever, and my friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I found still more benefit than would not be without them if money would buy them. I think the must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

JOHN H. SLATER,

AGENT.

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household. It has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

AS A Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischief-us Journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

AS A Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever been asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians. It will strive closely to those principles in the important Presidential issues which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to assist in the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, but of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing whispered ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This difference will divide the TIMES from the Democratic Party, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of repudiation in Indiana and other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what, during the late war, was meant when it was attacking Democratic rioters, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did not rest to call the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what the Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from sectional aims, political robbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the party body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational departments are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of a high character and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas W. Hinchinson, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

In the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in Soul, America or anywhere else, nor by one who has discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

COMBINED PAPERS—FORTY-SIXTH YEAR.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance, for one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the thousandfold variety of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and continues to do a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as these throw light upon one of the most important of all questions—What to Buy and What to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administation of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

"SPECKERLATION."

[New York World.]

He stirred some sugar in his gin-and-seltzer, which made it bubble and sputter furiously. Then he drank it down, and most of it came out of his eyes, which he wiped with a red silk handkerchief. Then he looked across the table and said moistly through his mustache, "Young man, do you speckerlate?"

The writer replied that he was a stranger in the street and had never tempted fickle fortune, adding, "Won't you try some-th——?"

"The same for me," interrupted he, "a little gin-and-seltzer, Fred—with sugar—with sugar, for me:" and there was a ring of thirsty eagerness in his voice which was thrilling.

"You don't speckerlate, eh?" said he. "Well, never do it. Look at me? I speckerlated. I know all about it. Got scooped myself; operated, on a 'margin,' bought 'puts' and 'calls,' 'straddles' and 'spreads;' got cleaned out, and—"

Here the writer interrupted to assure the speaker that he didn't understand a word of all this lingo, and asked him to explain himself in comprehensible terms.

"All right," said he; "I'll tell you my story if you like, and explain as I go 'long. Ah! well, oughter be my turn, I guess, but—well, since you're so pressing, I will just take a drop more gin-and-seltzer—with sugar. You see, I was brought up in the country, out West, and during war times I made lots of money running a saw mill out in Oshkosh, Michigan. Saw-milling was my joy and pride, and it paid, too, you bet! I got to be one of the best judges of saw logs in all that country, so when I had scraped together a clean $100,000 by hard work I began to reckon that I was out of my sphere. It occurred to me that my scope wasn't big enough. I reckoned it all up and found that if I had had as good luck at anything else as I had had running a saw-mill I should have made $475,917.37 1-2. Well, then, you see I concluded to come on here and double things up a little in Wall street. I turned all I had into cash and landed here one fine day, bought some good clothes, started a bank account, took rooms at the Hoffman House, and came regularly down into 'the street,' which, you see, means any one of the three or four streets where stock brokers have their offices and do business. I soon made the acquaintance of Little, Bighead & Co., who were the leading brokers and had the reputation of being 'entirely reliable.' For the first few days, I contented myself with hanging about the office and watching the 'ticker,' which is the telegraph instrument, by means of which the various transactions in the stock and gold boards are recorded in each office, being printed on a long paper tape. One day I said to Mr. Bighead, in the most confidential way, behind the door of the back office, on which the word 'Private' was painted in big letters, that I should like to buy a few shares of stock. He grasped me by the hand with a sort of convulsive throb, and says he, 'Quackenbush, Quackenbush,' says he, 'I believe you're a born sinner; I do, so help me ——' and he turned his eyeballs aloft in the most plously pathetic manner. 'Now, just plank up your margin, and we'll execute your orders with the greatest possible pleasure.'

"'Margin!' says I, 'What's that?'

"'Oh, only a little formality,' said old Bighead. 'You see, people don't exactly buy stocks out and out—that would take too much money. For instance, New York Central is selling at par to-day—that is, the stock is worth 100 cents on the dollar. The shares are $100 each, so that to buy 100 shares (which is the smallest lot of a stock generally dealt in) you would have to give your check for $10,000. Instead of doing this, you deposit 10 per cent. of that amount, viz, $1,000, with us, and we give our check for the stock, holding your $1,000 as a "margin" in case the stock should decline in price, or, to use the street phrase, we "carry your stock on a margin." Should the price decline ten "points"—that is, to 90—your "margin" would be "wiped out," and we should call on you for a further deposit, or else sell out the 100 shares of stock for your account, charging you $25 for buying and selling, and interest at the ruling rate on $10,000 for the time we had carried your stock for you." Before night I had deposited a certified check for $5,000 with Little, Bighead & Co., as a margin. The next morning everybody greeted me with great cordiality as I entered the office. Notwithstanding the "Private," in big letters, on the inner office door, they all knew that I had become a speckerlater. For a long time I fingered the paper tape, trying to make up my mind what to buy. Presently Bighead says to me, 'Well, Mr. Quackenbush, do you feel pretty 'bullish' to-day?'

"'No,' says I; 'I feel pretty calliish, though.' Everybody laughed like they would split their sides.

"'What's the matter now?' says I.

"'Oh nothing, nothing. But I forgot that you wasn't familiar with Wall street slang. You see when a man goes 'long' of stock, that is, buys it with the idea that it will rise in price, he is said to be 'a bull,' and when he thinks the market is in such a condition that stock will have a general rise he is said to be 'bullish.' On the contrary, when he operates for a fall in prices he is said to be a bear or to feel bearish.'

"'Thunderation!' says I; 'in that case I'm obliged to be bullish, for I haven't got any stock to sell if I did think they were going down

"'Then you would have to 'go short,'" he said; "that is, you would have to sell some stock that you did not have at the market price, taking the chance of buying it at a lower price, and in the meantime we could borrow the stock for you and deliver it to the person you sold it to."

Just then a small office boy slid down off of a high stool and skipped into the back office, singing in a shrill voice:

He who sells what isn't his'n,
Must ante up or go to prizzen.

"Finally choking down a big lump that kept rising up in my throat, I managed to give an order for 100 shares of Pacific Mail. I selected this stock on a very curious principle, as I now look upon it. It was selling way above par, and, it occurred to me that it must be really a very desirable property to reach so high a price. I had hardly received my 'notice,' a little paper slip thrust into my hand by Mr. Little, with ostentatious privacy, when I felt somebody pulling at the sleeve of my coat on the other side. Turning, I saw at my elbow a most respectable looking person, of noble bearing, with gold rimmed eyeglasses and a gray beard. He pinched my arm, winked at me in the most mysterious manner, and then passed into the street, evidently wishing me to follow him. Once outside he grasped my arm, and leading me around two corners and backing me into a dark doorway, he said, gazing cautiously about as if to make sure that we were quite alone: 'Quackenbush, I like your looks, and I'll tell you a thing I wouldn't mention to anybody, or have you mention, not for worlds. It's a dead sure thing. I got it straight as a string, way from the inside. Here he sunk his voice to an imposing whisper, and murmured in my ear: 'Rock Island's a sale. Mind you, I don't say it wont have a spurt up, but it's a dead sale. For heaven's sake, now, don't tell those idiots in the office anything about it. I can't do anything there myself because they would all know it and follow my lead; but you can, Quackenbush. Go in and sell it short; there's five per cent. in it at least; there's a strong pool on the short side, and they are bound to break it clean down within a week. Not a word now to a living soul!' I went back to the office highly elated. I had no idea that it was so easy for an outsider to get reliable information about the inside workings of Wall street. Then I looked at the tape. Pacific Mail had gone up two per cent. during the time I had been away. Whewh! I could hardly get my breath to give the order to sell out at this profit. Two hundred dollars clear money in half an hour! What an infernal fool I had been to waste the biggest part of my life in a saw-mill. Before night Pacific Mail had advanced two and half per cent. more, and I went home saddened at the thought of the $250 more I might have made if I had hung on. However, I had sold 200 shares of Rock Island upon the advice of the respectable-looking gentleman with gold rimmed eyeglasses. I could not sleep much, thinking of the mistake I had made in selling my Pacific Mail, and the first thing next day I bought it back at a full ten per cent. above my original purchase. Within a week Pacific Mail had sold down six per cent., or as they variously expressed it in the office, had had a 'break,' or got a 'set back,' or a 'black eye.' I utterly refused to realize my loss of $600 on it, and when they advised me to 'cover' my Rock Island, which had gone up three per cent. I laughed at the idea. Finally, however, I got thoroughly frightened, and had to close both transactions at a total loss of $1,500, as against the $200 profit.

"A few days after this Mr. Bighead took me into his private office and said to me, 'I see you talking often with Colonel Blatherby (the gentleman with the gold-rimmed eyeglasses.) Does he give you 'points?'

"'What do you mean?' says I.

"'I mean to ask does he tell you confidentially that one stock is going up or another down; does he say that he has special means of knowing what this or that 'pool,' or clique of operators are about to do?'

"'He has once or twice given me a hint upon which I have acted,' replied I.

"'Well,' said he, 'I feel it's my duty to tell you to look out for him; he is a professional 'point giver;' that is to say, not having any money with which to operate himself, he picks up something by putting in circulation rumors and giving 'points' to anybody whose opinions he can influence.'

"I was distressed to find that the respectable-looking Colonel was not reliable, and determined in the future to act only upon information got directly from the officers and directors of the different railroad companies, who must, I thought, be able to know the real conditions of their own organizations. Adhering strictly to this plan, I contrived to lose $67,000 in three months on advice freely given, me by the directors of the different companies in whose stocks I dealt. About this time a new method of stock operating came into vogue and in sheer desperation I went largely into the purchase of 'privileges.' Stock privileges are of four sorts, 'puts,' 'calls,' 'straddles' and 'spreads.' They are all contracts signed by a member of the Stock Exchange, or somebody in whom you have confidence. If a stock is selling at say 70, and I think it is going down, I buy a 'put' on it at say 67 for thirty days. For this I pay $106 25; and if the stock declines any time within the thirty days to say 65 I buy the stock at that price and 'put it' to the signer of the privilege at the price he agreed to take it at, viz., 69. Thus I make $400, less the price paid for the 'put' and commissions. Of course he doesn't generally want the stock at that price, and so, instead of making me buy and deliver it, he simply pays me the difference.

"A 'call' is just the reverse of this. For a certain sum the maker of the contract agrees to deliver to the purchaser 100 shares of a given stock at a given price within a given time. A 'straddle' is a double privilege and costs more money—generally from $2500 to $450 per 100 shares—and gives me the right either to 'put' or 'call' the stock at the market price at the date of the contract any time within the thirty days, so that I make money if the market goes up or down, provided the fluctuation is wide enough to amount to more than the price paid for the privilege. A 'spread' differs from the 'straddle' only in this: that the 'call' part of the contract is fixed at a figure above the market and the 'put' part at about the same distance below. Sometimes I stood on my privileges'—that is, simply held them till the expiration of specified time or till I was able to use them to advantage. Sometimes I deposited them with my brokers as a 'margin' and bought or sold stock 'against them,' as the phrase is. You see how that is, don't you? If I have a 'put' on 100 shares of stock at, say 60, and the present price is 16 1-2, I deposit the 'put' with my broker, and he buys the stock at the market price. If it goes up, of course I make the advance, less the price of the 'put,' and if it goes down my broker is protected by the 'put' which gives him a place for the stock at a fixed price. I have only to pay in that case the $150 difference and the commissions.

"Of course I made money sometimes, or else my courage would have failed me, and I should have given it up entirely. At the time of the Chicago fire I happened to be heavily 'short' of stocks, and in the crash that followed that event I realized $30,000 clear profit. This lucky hit gave me some little prominence as an operator. So later in that year I was let into a 'pool' to 'corner' Rock Island. A 'pool' is a clique of men who operate together through a leader, and divide their profits, and a 'corner' is effected by purchasing nearly all of a given stock that is for sale. This makes it necessary for those who are 'short' of the stock to buy it in at a very high price or else to pay a high premium to borrow it from day to day. The stock is then said to be 'scarce for delivery.' Up to a certain point our 'pool' was a great success, and under the leadership of W. S. Woodward we ran her up to 131, when, to our consternation, there was a sudden break in the price. We soon found that some members of the pool, tempted by the high price, had begun to sell out privately. There was a panic among us then—a regular scramble to get out the best we could—and in an hour the stock was selling freely at 100. In that short hour my $30,000 profit had melted away and I had sent $20,000 more to look for it. Yes, thank you, I will take a little more gin-and-seltzer—with sugar.

"So I went on, sometimes winning and more times losing, till one day Messrs. Little & Bighead declined to buy or sell stocks for me without a 'stop order'—that is, if I wanted to buy a stock quoted at, say, 76, I had to give an order at the same time to sell it out if it dropped to, say, 74, and just the reverse if I wanted to sell 'short.' Following this process soon brought me to a low financial ebb, and one day Messrs. Little & Bighead 'called up my margin'—that is, demanded that I should 'put up' more money to make myself 'solid' for purposes of stock transactions. I was unable to respond to the demand, and was obliged to 'confess myself 'busted'—or 'scooped,' as they call it.

It made me sad for a time to see how I was treated in the office of Little & Bighead after this. The off-hand manner in which everybody elbowed me away from 'tape' when I wanted to look at the prices of stocks, it was sad, too sad, to talk about, and I began to have a respect for the lumber trade which I had never before felt."

Here the writer's informant shed a passing tear of regret with his tumbler of gin-and-seltzer, with sugar, and rose slowly from the table, taking care to close, by an habitual effort, the terrible equatorial gap, and wandered to the "tape" near the door. As he hung over the "ticker" eagerly, I asked him what the strange letters and figures meant. "Well," said he, "take 'em as they come; they are abbreviations of the names of different stocks, and their market prices in full. 'S. 3' signifies that the seller has three days in which to deliver his stocks, and has that number of days' credit in the transaction. In a very quiet market seller 3 makes a fractional difference in the price. For instance Lake Shore may not be obtainable at 72 1-2, the seller demanding 72 5-8. The purchaser bids 72 1-2, seller 3, and gets it. 'B. 3,' means that the buyer has three days in which to receive the stock bought. 'X div.' means that the sale is made dividends off. 'C.' means a cash transaction—stock to be delivered and paid for the same day. 'R.' means regular way, that is, stock sold or bought to be delivered and paid for the next day. 'To pass a dividend' means that the directors have voted against declaring a dividend. 'Dividend declared,' means that the stock will pay a dividend.' Then he turned to the writer and said, breathing freely an aroma of gin-and-seltzer, with sugar: "Don't you never speckerlate, young man, don't you never speckerlate; but—but, I say if you do mean to do a little business in that line take my advice and buy a little Northwest. I've got a dead sure thing on Northwest way from the inside. One of the Directors is a personal friend of mine, and I tell you it's a dead sure thing. Just take a 'flyer' in a hundred shares and I'll trust you as a gentleman to do the fair thing by me if you make, as I know you will. There's 5 per cent. in it, sure pop, and——"

The writer excused himself lest he should have too much faith and make too much money on a "sure point."

News and Notes.

Senator Boutwell's bill to increase the efficiency of the navy and promote the maritime interests of the United States, proposes a system of bounties on shipbuilding, as follows: The Secretary of the Treasury is to offer a bounty, of not more than $8 per ton, to be paid each year for five years for the construction in the United States of iron steamships of not less than 1000 tons each nor exceeding 500,000 tons, in the aggregate, and not more than 100,000 tons to be authorized in any one year, the said ships to be employed exclusively in the foreign trade. Proposals are to be received and preference given the first year for 50,000 tonnage on the Atlantic coast, 25,000 upon the great lakes and Mississippi river, and 25,000 on the Pacific coast. The vessels are to be constructed on models approved by the Navy Eepartment, and the government is to have the right to purchase and employ them upon appraisement of a disinterested commissioner. The bill also provides for the payment of bounties on vessels hereafter launched as follows; six dollars per ton for sailing vessels of four hundred tons and upwards employed in the foreign trade and between the Atlantic and Pacific ports of the United States, and four dollars per ton for sailing vessels of not less than 200 tons burden authorized to engage not more than three months per year in the coasting trade, provided that if vessels of the two last named descriptions are afterward enrolled for the coasting trade the bounties shall be refunded to the government less one per cent. per year. A bounty of four dollars per ton for the period of five years is provided for vessels employed in the cod or mackerel fishery, not less than four months each year. All employed in the foreign trade or fisheries may purchase supplies in bond without the payment of duties. The bill finally provides that vessels hereafter built by the Navy Department for open sea service shall not exceed 1,000 tons each.

On Tuesday morning, while one of the ventilators for the new school house at North Hampton was being hoisted, it came in contact with the staging. The derrick gave way and the ventilator in falling to the ground, struck Mr. William Dewzer, the foreman of the building, breaking one arm and otherwise injuring him.

The sum of the whole matter is that the President chose the Secretary who began the attack on the Ring; supported him in that attack; did not lift a finger in behalf of Joyce, or McDonald, or Avery, when they were tried and convicted; appointed the ablest lawyers to conduct the prosecutions; and reiterated, after Babcock's indictment and arrest, his ringing utterance: "Let no guilty man escape." He has done his duty fearlessly and well. His reward comes in the shape of unmeasured villification from the so-called "independent" press, which has shown itself signally independent, in this case, of the commonest rules of courtesy, decency, and common sense.

Speaker Kerr left New England out in the cold in his selection of chairmen for the committees.

The announcement of the committees of the House has given great satisfaction to the republicans, and created very general dissatisfaction among the democrats. The appointment of Morrison, of Illinois, as the head of the ways and means committee and leader of the House, caused universal astonishment. Although he has been a member of several Congresses, there were many on the floor and a number of the oldest correspondents in the gallery who did not even know him on sight. The appointment of Proctor "Duluth" Knott as chairman of the judiciary is held to be equal to an announcement of Mark Twain for the position. The democrats say with truth that the republicans are the strongest upon each of the important committees of ways and means, appropriations, banking and currency, and judiciary. Messrs. Wood and Cox are both very indignant, and neither of them hesitated to express themselves with great severity toward the Speaker. The Pennsylvania delegation is exceedingly dissatisfied, and says that two of its lawyers, who are as prominent as any in the House, have been put upon insignificant committees, while such as Proctor Knott are given prominent positions. It is a matter of universal comment that the Pacific Railroad committee is packed in the interest of the Texas Pacific.

Seabrook has a determined "fire-bug." A short time ago, the barn of George Phillbrook, at the village, was set on fire but the flames went out without doing any damage. A town meeting was called to offer a reward, to meet Jan. 1st. Last Sunday evening, some ladies saw a man run from the same barn, and a haystack near by was discovered on fire. It was consumed and the barn caught—but by strenuous efforts the barn and contents were saved. And now, all along the main road, people are watching for an opportunity to go gunning for the incendiary.

Two democratic ex-members of the House have lately sought work in the document-folding room, work which includes the wheeling of mail matter in a barrow to the post office.

The Senate was in session with open doors for a few minutes only on Monday, during which time Mr. Ferry was declared to be President of the Senate until January 7th, or until a new appointment shall be made, on motion of Mr. Edmonds, the vote standing twenty-four for Mr. Ferry to twenty-one for Thurman. This course was considered necessary in view of a possible contingency in the death of the President during the recess of the Senate.

Senator Cragin is reported as saying that the President intends intervention in Cuban affairs, and that our navy is in a fair condition.

The Congressional visit to Philadelphia will result almost certainly in a grant of the million and a half that the Centennial managers ask. So much has already been done by Pennsylvania, and especially by Philadelphia, that there will be far less hostility now to a national appropriation than a year ago. The public feel that we have gone too far with the Centennial to let it fail; and if it is to be helped, the help should be given at once.

A Horrible Murder.

The dead body of a handsome young Jewess, gashed and bloody, was discovered in a corn field near East New York, on Tuesday afternoon of last week, by a farm laborer. The identity of the victim was not ascertained for two days. The first step toward the capture of the probable murderer was taken when it was found that the girl, whose name was Sarah Alexander, had been seen on Sunday night accompanied by a man of Hebrew-Polish appearance. This fact was established by the testimony of several witnesses, as was the further fact that the pair were seen near the scene of the murder. The second point was made when it was ascertained that P. Nathan Rubenstein, her second cousin, was in her company on Sunday afternoon, and that he answered to the description given of the man who was with her.

Another point was found in the declaration of Rubenstein's father, that Nathan had, on Monday morning, informed the family that he had in a dream seen Sarah murdered in a corn field, and that she desired him, Nathan, to bury her. The fourth point in the evidence of guilt was supplied when the police discovered that the shoes of Rubenstein not only fitted certain footprints in the corn field, but that a crack in the sole of one of his shoes and a patch on the other corresponded to marks found in the footprints. Further than this, a knife found in the corn field has been identified by the person who sold it to Rubenstein, and several other points of hardly less importance have been developed against Rubenstein, who is now under arrest, though he stoutly denies his guilt. The Hebrews of New York are greatly excited over the affair, as such crimes are exceedingly rare among their people. The law against murder was first given to the Jews, and they have been distinguished for their observance of it.

Some singular developments have just come to light regarding Rubenstein's religious notions and practices. It appears that several weeks ago, Rubenstein entered into a contract with a poverty-stricken fellow Israelite, whereby the latter for a consideration of $45, agreed to assume all the sins committed by Rubenstein since the last day of atonement last Fall, and to bear punishment for them in the next world. The contract was formally drawn up in Hebrew, signed, sealed and witnessed. The novel agreement was the subject of much discussion among the Polish Jews. When the party that assumed the sins reached home and told his wife, she made such strenuous objections that the husband sought Rubenstein again and tendering back the money proposed to rescind the contract. Rubenstein refused to accept the money or return the instrument. Suit was then brought against him in the Beth Hammedrash, a Rabbinal tribunal supported by illiterate Polish Jews; the case to be tried by Chief Rabbi Abraham, Joseph Ash and two assistants.

The suit was decided against Rubenstein and in favor of the petitioner. The grounds were, first, that there are some sins for which not only the transgressor or person assuming them suffers, but also his wife and children, and it did not appear that Rubenstein had been guilty of such sins. The wife being an interested party was therefore entitled to prohibit the contract if she had not been a party to its consideration. Second, there is a Talmudic law prohibiting a Jew from overcharging a fellow Jew more than one-sixth of the amount involved in a bargain. It did not appear what Rubenstein's sins had been, and question whether he did not get the better of the other party to his contract to a greater extent than one-sixth of fifteen dollars could not be determined. The contract, therefore, could not be sustained. From this decision Rubenstein appealed to the Deth Hammedrash on Bayard street. Here the suit was compromised by rescinding the contract, the party of the first part retaining the money, but binding himself for the space of one year to recite daily a certain number of Psalms and prayers on Rubenstein's behalf.

—Sweet meets—two fond lovers in a first embrace.

The Gem of the Toilet

The world says is SOZODONT. It renders the teeth pearly white, gives to the breath a fragrant odor, extinguishing the ill-humors which usually flow from a bad and neglected set of teeth. SOZODONT is so convenient, and produces a sensation at once so delightful, that it makes it a pleasure to use it.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Ricker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

Jottings.

The Policemen's ball on Christmas eve promises to be a very popular affair. A large number of tickets have been sold and citizens are to aid in making it a success. Officers and invited guests from other cities are expected. Supper will be served in the banquet hall, avoiding any necessity of going out in the cold.

One of the worst of incendiaries is a wooden fire board. On Sunday night a fire board in the house occupied by Chief Engineer Seymour at Christian Shore caught fire and burnt a hole in the floor, going out of itself.

The 13th annual N. H. State Musical Festival is to be held in Phenix Hall, Concord, Jan. 10th to 14th. B. B. Davis, John Jackman and J. H. Morey are the managers; and well do they manage both business and musical affairs, too. The usual attractions of solo and chorus singing and playing are offered, and the usual arrangements of reduced railroad and hotel fare, etc. Among the numerous talent announced, are "Masters Willie and George M. Nowell, youthful violinist and pianist, from the Boston Conservatory of Music."

The following minstrel "gag" "brought down the house" at the recent band festival in Rye:

Bones—"Ye see; I can't afford to lose dat gal, 'cause she's wuth a good deal ob money."

Interlocutor—"Then she's wealthy?"

Bones—"Golly; I guess you'd think she's wealthy, if you see de fodder she stows away."

Int.—"I said wealthy. I mean is she rich?"

Bones—"Rich? That ain't no name for it. Dat ar gal's wuth twenty-seven thousand dollars!"

Int.—"Twenty-seven thousand dollars! What; all in cash?"

Bones—"No! She's got fourteen cents in cash, and de rest in Eastern Railroad stock!"

As the stock held in Rye amounts to $100,000, it is easy to understand the effect of the colloquy.

A Political Straw.

At the banquet given at Philadelphia to the Presidential and Congressional excursion party, President Grant, Ex-Speaker Blaine, Postmaster General Jewell, Senators Morton and Conkling, and Gov. Hartranft were present. Philadelphia is a republican city by at least 10,000 legitimately, and the State of Pennsylvania is of the same political persuasion by from 15,000 to 20,000 majority. At every place where Mr. Blaine made his appearance, people crowded to see him. At the banquet given by the citizens, loud calls were made for Blaine long before the toast to which he was to respond was reached. In this connection a very significant incident occurred. Senator Morton was responding to a toast—"The United States Senate;" the next toast on the list was "The House of Representatives," and tee crowd got it into their heads that Blaine was the man who ought to respond to this. Horticultural Hall, where the banquet was given is very large, and Morton's voice could not be heard all over it. After he had spoken some time, the audience not hearing him, supposed he had finished, and yelled lustily for Blaine. This was very embarrassing to Blaine as well as to Morton, and the gentleman from Maine, rising in his seat, beckoned with his hand for his enthusiastic admirers to keep quiet and hear Morton through. Order was finally restored, but Morton took the hint and soon concluded. When the next toast was announced Blaine was again demanded by the audience, but they were doomed to disappointment, for it appeared that Mr. Hancock of Texas was on the programme for it. At last when Blaine arose to reply to the toast "Commerce," a scene of the wildest enthusiasm was presented. Cheer upon cheer resounded through the vast hall. Hats were thrown up in beautiful confusion, and with an extravagant disregard of their original cost and present value. Blaine improved upon the mistakes and failures of those who preceded him. Instead of standing upon the platform, he mounted his chair, so that his burly but handsome figure could be seen by all. He pitched his voice in the proper key, spoke deliberately, and instead of boring his auditors with a dry homily on the subject of commerce, delivered a brief, humorous after-dinner speech, to the infinite delight and relief of all present. When he began to speak, cheers again broke forth, and notwithstanding he beckoned for order and quiet, it was several seconds before the pent-up enthusiasm had exhausted itself so that he could proceed. It is not often that a public man receives so spontaneous and hearty an ovation, and it is very evident that so far as the citizens of Philadelphia are concerned, Blaine is the coming man.

—Teacher—"What is the definition of flirtation?" Intelligent young pupil—"It is attention without intention."

—During a recent examination of a class of youngsters in one of the Chemung county (N. Y.) schools, the teacher asked: "What is monarchy?" and was immediately answered by a bright little boy, "A country governed by a king." "Who would rule if the king should die?" "The queen." "And if the queen should die, who then would be ruler?" "The jack."

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1876 of the sterling Medical Annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. It combines, with the practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1876 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

Brown's Bronchial Troches, for Pulmonary and Asthmatic Disorders, have proved their efficacy by a test of many years, and have received testimonials from eminent men who have used them.

In every town and village persons may be found who have been saved from death from consumption by HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Political parties may rise and fall; thrones crumble and republics spring into being on their ruins, yet the name of Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam will be remembered and ever cherished as the greatest and best cough remedy in the world.

A SCENE IN THE SHERIFF'S OFFICE.

[San Francisco Call.]

The newly-elected Sheriff was sitting in his office sad-eyed and haggard. He held in his hand a stack of manuscript representing the applications of 879 candidates for positions of Deputy Sheriff, each of whom said he had worked hard for him at the polls, and had gained him all the way up from 200 to 1000 votes from their personal friends who did not vote the democratic ticket.

A man attired in a blue shirt, with a paper collar and a red nose, entered the office, and, grasping the hand of the tired official, greeted him cordially. "Ah, Mr. Sheriff, but it's glad I am to see you looking so hearty; don't you remember me?"

"I don't think I do," remarked the official, "although there is something in your face which is familiar to me."

"Ah, Mr. Sheriff, I thought you'd know me. I worked for you all day election, and got you a thousand votes, and I come for that place."

"Well, I am sorry to say that I have already promised all the places at my disposal."

"Oh, give me a place: I don't care what it is."

"Oh, by the by," said the Sheriff, with a malicious grin in his eye, "there is a place, but it's not worth much, and I don't think you'd take it."

"Ah, Mr. Sheriff, I'll take anything; I don't care what kind of a place it is. Tell me what it is, and I'll jump at it with me coat off."

"All right," said the Sheriff; "there is a Chinaman going to be hanged at the jail next month, and he wants somebody to take his place. I think it will just suit you."

The man with the red nose ceased to smile, and asking the Sheriff for a quarter to pay for his lodging that night, as he left the office and mingled with the throng of would-be Deputy Sheriffs on the outside.

"O wearisome condition of humanity."

How many wretched homes in our land! How many heart-broken invalids! Life with many signifies a mere onerous existence. All are subject to disease, but when health is removed the hope is nearly gone out. Sickness is usually incurred through exposure or carelessness. Especially is this true with those diseases peculiar to woman. Through her own imprudence and folly she is made to drag out a miserable existence, a source of annoyance and anxiety to her friends, and anything but a comfort and pleasure to herself. Exposure to the cold at times when she should be most prudent, and overtaxing her body with laborious employment, are both fruitful causes of many of the maladies from which she suffers. Gradually the bloom leaves her cheeks, her lips grow ashy white, her vivacity departs, she continually experiences a feeling of weariness and general languor, and altogether presents a ghostly appearance. What does she need? Should she take some stimulating drug, which will for a time make her "feel better," or does her entire system demand reparation? She requires something which not only will restore to health the diseased organs, but will tone and invigorate the system. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do this. It imparts strength to the diseased parts, brings back the glow of health, and restores comfort where previously there was only suffering.

Every invalid lady should send for "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," in which over fifty pages are devoted to the consideration of those diseases peculiar to Women. It will be sent, post paid, to any address, for $1.50. Address, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Agents wanted to sell this valuable work.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay for several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages.

SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before eight I felt like a new man or person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

JOHN H. SLATER, AGENT.

The New York Times.

A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.

Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.

ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful love or quack and medical quackeries, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discerning support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to be no "party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on a system of patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor—and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now locate loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in Indiana, it has no reasonable ground for confidence. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were impeached, when officers sold out their managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Rebellion and cripple the Union. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871: that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subjects. Its Reports will be prepared with the most care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, Justin McCarthy, Black, and editions of one being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, greatly stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

COMBINED PAPERS—FORTY-SIXTH YEAR.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $25, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestion, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Reports of Markets, and devotes special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—Higher or Lower Prices to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation, and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

PHYSIOLOGY IN WATER.

Some interesting experiments have been made in France by M. Papillon, with a view to test the action of certain phosphates, administered in distilled water, on the bony structure of various animals. These were virtually experiments on artificial drinking-waters, and they prove that mineral matter in dilute solution is capable of being assimilated by the body, the structure of which may thus be materially modified. Indirectly they show that the effect of altering the chemical composition of the water supply of a community may involve questions of great importance to the physical development and health of its members. The very composition of our bones is affected by the quality of the water we drink. If the water contains lime, that substance will be taken up and will appear as phosphate of lime in the bones; if it contains strontia or magnesia, these will appear as phosphates of strontia or magnesia. If the water is deficient in mineral matter, there will be a corresponding deficiency in the constitution of the bones. It is said that such instances have occurred in Holland, in districts where the inhabitants can obtain only rain water for drinking purposes. This fact, probably combined with an absence of lime in their food, occasions a softening and distortion of the bones of the body. By varying a water supply it might be possible to alter the physical organization of a population; and in future ages, from the examination of the bones of by-gone generations, the character of the water they were in the habit of drinking might perhaps be deduced.

Much attention has of late been directed to organic impurities in drinking water, but those of an inorganic nature have been almost overlooked, although, as was pointed out in a paper read by Mr. W. J. Cooper at the last meeting of the British Association, serious mischief has in many instances resulted from the incautious use of deep spring waters. At Hendon, England, an Artesian well was bored to supply water for some valuable horses which were being reared there. The water was bright-looking, pleasant to the taste, and quite free from any organic impurity; the foals, however, that drank it soon died, and the whole stud were seriously affected with diarrhœa. Professor Way, one of the Royal Commissioners of Water Supply, analyzed the water, and it was found to contain sulphates of magnesia and soda in considerable quantity. On discontinuing the use of the water the disease was arrested. A similar case occurred at Rugby, but in that instance human beings were the sufferers. The water from an Artesian well free from organic impurity was bailed with satisfaction on that account; the community, however, were attacked with diarrhœa caused by the sulphate of magnesia, or Epsom salts, in the water, and the supply had to be discontinued, as there is no known method of freeing water from sulphates.

In the paper to which we have referred above, Mr. Cooper remarks:

"The opinions of some of the leading authorities on water supply have undergone considerable modification recently. A few years ago, Dr. Frankland returned all solid matters in water as impurities, in the analyses he made. I was therefore much surprised to hear him recommend as a supply to a district containing 14,000 inhabitants a water proved by analysis to contain 12 1-2 grains of anhydrous sulphate of magnesia per gallon, equal to 25 grains per gallon of Epsom salts. This evidence was given last session before a committee of the House of Commons. Dr. Frankland stated that it was absurd to say that a water containing such a quantity of Epsom salts could be objectionable from a dietetic point of view. Fortunately for the health of the people the parliamentary committee refused to allow the district to be supplied with Epsom salt solution. The water of St. Ann's Well, at Buxton, the slightly purgative quality of which is considered as one of its merits, contains an amount of magnesia equal to 13 grains of Epsom salts per gallon. It is known that goitre and other throat and glandular affections, and even idiocy, have been attributed to inorganic salts in drinking water. We know that the human system is easily deranged by a change in the drinking water. The spa and chalybeate waters at the favorite places of resort have been renowned for ages for their medicinal virtues. If the entire organic structures of the human body are liable to alteration when excess of mineral matter is introduced into the system, it is essential that health-seekers at these medicinal springs should place themselves under medical supervision. And one of the first considerations in the inauguration of a water supply should be to insure a perfect freedom from excess of any mineral except those comparatively harmless ingredients, chloride of sodium and carbonate of lime."

In the discussion which followed the reading of this paper, several leading sanitary officers gave the results of their experience, which was almost unanimously in accordance with the views presented. It appeared to be the general opinion that the importance of the subject had not been justly appreciated. It is not enough that water should be free from organic impurities; it must also be free from any mineral contamination that would in course of time act injudiously on those who constantly use it.

—The story of a Christmas gift made two years ago comes to us in time to carry its meaning to such of our readers as have no money to give away. A lady traveling in Europe in 1871 was taken by her friends to visit a small asylum in the South of France for poor and deformed children, where a good Protestant pastor and his wife took them in, reared them with the tenderness of a father and mother, and taught them occupations by which they could at the proper age earn their own living. The American was very much interested and touched, and remained for a week in the little farm-house, studying closely the management of the pupils. After the Franco-Prussian war, she learned, by a chance item in a newspaper, that, in consequence of the poverty of the people, the asylum, which had depended on voluntary contributions, must soon be closed, and its helpless inmates turned adrift on the world. She had no money, and, indeed, no thought of obtaining any, but, in the fullness of her sympathy, she wrote a description of her visit to the asylum for one of the magazines. The story of the old pastor and his life's labor of love, told with the simplicity and magnetism of real feeling, was read by a man of great wealth, and a few months later, about Christmas time, the lady who told it heard that through her means, the asylum was endowed with a sum which would support it for at least two years longer. She had not known, as none of us can know, how great a harvest a few kindly words would yield.

The St. Louis Whiskey Ring.

A New York Herald dispatch says:

It is generally understood that Judge Treat has asked Judge Dillon to sit with him in the trial of these great cases, in order to obtain his judgment in regard to the punishment which should properly be inflicted upon each of the thirty odd distillers and revenue officers who had pleaded guilty. It will be remembered that Judge Treat refused to sentence McDonald on the ground that he wanted to know all the evidence in the other cases in order to duly apportion the measure of guilt to each of the actors in this great whiskey conspiracy. I have conversed with some of the distillers, and although they are very cautious not to express any confidence in the leniency of the Judges, there is no doubt that they flatter themselves with the hope of getting off with fines and a short imprisonment in the County Jail. Many of them have rendered important service to the Government, and their hope in this respect is based on the promises of the prosecution. The revenue officers do not seem to be confident of getting off with a slight measure of punishment on account of the outspoken determination of the Government to punish them much more severely than the distillers, who, as it has been conclusively shown, have been so fleeced by the various political assessments and demands of the officers that they scarcely made anything out of their stupendous frauds. As all these men are out on bail, and are rather too numerous to be watched separately with any degree of vigilance, it is thought by many persons that some of them will fail to put in an appearance when they are called up for sentence, but will be found to have gone to meet Boss Tweed and Harry Genet. However, the prosecution are not very anxious on this score, and say that the Government would just as lief have the amount of their bonds (from $15,000 to $20,000, or whatever it may be) as to have the body of John Jones or Tom Smith. When it is considered that many of these thirty odd self-convicted defrauders of the Government belong to the very highest circles of St. Louis, then only can the social effect of these frauds be understood—an effect which in a moral point of view resembles the physical aspect of an earthquake. A dozen men who have been invited regularly to the most recherché parties for years past are now missed at those festive occasions because people whisper "They are in the Ring," and they are now awaiting sentence. So all-pervading has the Ring proved to be, so constantly have the names of the persons implicated in it increased in numbers from day to day, that probably every school girl fears her beau may, after all, be found to be mixed up with it. While the disclosures have broken up the crooked distilleries they have thus broken many social ties, for McDonald, Joyce and their comrades were great society men and well liked for their generosity and geniality, qualities in which they resembled the old New York Ring.

News and Notes.

Gen. Natt Head declines a Senatorial renomination in the second district.

A few days since, W. N. Dow, ex-Treasurer of Rockingham county, and largely engaged in lumber trade, met with a severe accident while leaving a moving train on the Boston and Maine Railroad at Newmarket Junction. He was thrown across the platform on the ground, and received a ghastly wound over the right eye. He was picked up insensible and carried to his home. His injuries are not dangerous, though he will be disabled for some days.

Mr. Reagan of Texas, ex-Postmaster General of the ex-Confederacy, is appropriately second on the committee on expenditures of the Post Office department in the democratic House of Representatives.

Every democratic member of the House from New England voted for Mr. Kerr for Speaker, in caucus, and Mr. Kerr returned the compliment by failing to give any member from New England the chairmanship of a single one of the forty-seven House committees. The South has twenty-four. The Nashua Telegraph says: There is but one explanation of this slight of New England. If not intended as an open insult before the country and the world, it is the logical consequence of restoring to power in the national government the men who so recently sought to destroy it, as well as those who, like Mr. Speaker Kerr himself, opposed every measure that was adopted in Congress to crush the rebellion, destroy slavery and save the Union.

Two large hogs were recently slaughtered by Mr. William Lane of North Hampton, which weighed respectively 640 and 532 lbs.

When the name of Wood was announced as middle-man of the committee of Ways and Means, the perpendicular form of the polished Fernando arose like a towering phœnix and two hands went simultaneously into two pockets, and two legs started with measured stride for the cloak-room, and a half-suppressed voice muttered, "All h— shall dust up for this!"

In Providence a boy pulled away a chair that his sister was about to sit upon. She fell to the floor, hurt her spine went into convulsions, and is likely to die as a consequence.

The Scranton Republican of Friday has the following: "The passengers on a train on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Road yesterday were startled by the thrilling situation of a young woman upon the track, a little way from the Pittston Station. It appears that she was walking along the road, and by some mishap had her foot caught between two rails. This, in the presence of an approaching train, made her position most alarming. She grew white with terror, pulled at her foot with all her might, and struggled to free herself from what seemed to her a fearful fate. At length as the train approached nearer, she managed by a superhuman effort to tear her foot away from between the fatal rails, leaving the shoe that had been on it behind, and hastening away in sheer exhaustion from the spot. We could not learn her name, but those who witnessed the accident will long remember that woman's agony as she seemed to stare death in the face."

It is not customary, we believe, for lawyers to abuse their own clients, and as Mr. Henderson tried to make a new departure in this respect, his services were dispensed with. That's all there is to it.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Mr. Blaine declined to vote, not because he is in favor of a third term, but as the best way to escape the charge had he voted for the resolution of desiring to get Grant out of the way to make room for himself. We think however, he should have voted according to the convictions of his constituents, which are undoubtedly his own. A man who permits his aspirations for the presidency to interfere with his duty as a representative, even in a slight respect, must make a slight mistake.—Nashua Telegraph.

The Yale University boat club has voted to withdraw from the rowing association of American colleges and to challenge Harvard to row an eight-oared, four-mile straight-away race, with coxswains.

The Mobile Register begins to take a cheerful view of things. It endeavors to show that the people of the South are in a better condition than those of the North, by proving that in the North investments in cotton spinning mills yield an average of 17.98 per cent. while the Southern mills pay an average of 24.16 per cent., or over six per cent. more than the Northern mills.

It has been discovered that Eli Sherman, town treasurer of Marion, Mass., who died recently, was a defaulter to the amount of two or three thousand dollars, and that his death was caused by arsenic administered by himself.

The pamphlet entitled "General Sullivan not a Pensioner of Luzerne," with the report of the New Hampshire Historical Society vindicating him from the charge made by George Bancroft, has reached a second edition. It contains an elaborate defence of Sullivan, with a review of the circumstances bearing upon his relations with the Minister of France in whose pay he is alleged to have been. The position taken in this pamphlet is that the money advanced by Luzerne to Sullivan was a loan, and not a bribe, though it may have been the French Minister's object to have put the latter construction upon the transaction. Sullivan's pecuniary straits, the esteem in which he was held by Washington and others, are referred to in support of these views, and the original letters published in this pamphlet together with the attendant circumstances, certainly justify the zeal which the descendants of the General have shown in defending him from Mr. Bancroft's charges.

According to the estimate of the secretary of the New Hampshire board of agriculture, hawks, foxes and other birds and beasts of prey destroy more than half the chickens and turkeys batched in the State.

The circumstances attending the death of Walter Langmaid at Pembroke, are very sad indeed. During the past few days he has been delirious, and his mind has constantly reverted to the horrible butchery of his sister Josie, and for several hours before he died he was constantly repeating "I'll take care of the head; you take care of the body." It is a sad postscript to that chapter of brutish crime which stands without a parallel in our history.—Concord Patriot.

The people of New Hampshire pay six million dollars annually for Western flour, and the leading agriculturists of the State are urging the farmers to grow more wheat.

The adoption of the anti-third-term resolution by the House is interpreted in various ways by the press. Some journals think it kills the spook finally, others that it has little if any significance. The Chicago Tribune, the newspaper which astounded the country a short time ago with the brilliant suggestion that the President retire now and be renominated in 1881, thinks the resolution puts the question out of politics, and adds: "Meanwhile it is sad to contemplate how many democratic orators have been nipped in the bud, and how many democratic editorials will be still-born, on account of the summary disposition of the third-term scare-crow. There isn't the shadow of an excuse for any further agitation of the third-term question. Grant says he doesn't want a third term, and everybody else has declared that there is no intention of forcing it upon him, so that we can't see how this question can cut any more figure in the political literature of the day."

The fast train West leaving Albany on the New York Central Railroad at 3.10 P. M., of the 21st, when near Canastata, about twenty miles east of Syracuse, and while going at full speed ran off the track. The locomotive and every car went off, the locomotive being turned completely over. No one was seriously injured. The cause of the accident was a misplaced switch.

A horrible massacre is reported near Itoka, in the Indian Nation. The bodies of four persons were found burned on the prairie, two of which were females. Two were burned beyond recognition; the others were whites. A pony with a lady's side saddle and a gun were found near; they had all been shot. Three men, seen riding nine miles from the spot are supposed to have done the shooting. The prairies were fired to destroy the traces.

Advices from Eagle Pass state that 200 Comanche Indian warriors are reported by Mexican traders at the canyon of San Rodgero, 40 miles above Rimalo. It is thought the object of the gathering is to make raids into Texas.

A cable despatch from Cairo, Egypt, conveys the information that Dr. Munsinger's expedition of 300 men fell into an ambuscade recently, near Tadjura, Egypt, and 140 men, including the Doctor, were massacred after a desperate fight with the natives, lasting five days. The remainder of the party succeeded in reaching Tadjura.

H. C. Wilcox, republican, is re-elected Mayor of Meriden, Conn., by 233 majority.

Gen. Lane, a candidate for Vice-President in 1860, is now a farmer in Oregon. His son is a Representative in Congress from the same State.

John Connors, who attempted to end his life with a razor at Manchester and failed, died the same afternoon of consumption.

The steamer Gironde, bound for Brazil, collided in the river Gironde with the steamer Louisiane, of the General Transatlantic Company, homeward bound from the West Indies. The Louisiane immediately sunk. Sixteen persons were drowned, including the captain. The Louisiane sunk ten minutes after she was struck. The Gironde rescued 100 of her passengers and crew. All the persons drowned were passengers except the captain.

The defalcation of the Kansas Treasurer Lippin, amounts to $80,000. His bonds are over $1,000,000; so the State loses nothing.

A Washington correspondent gives the following incident: "On Saturday, a one-armed Union soldier, formerly a door-keeper of the House, was discharged, and his place supplied by an ex-Confederate. He took a hasty glance around the scene of his former comfortable life, and buttoning up his jacket, made a bee-line for the Department of the Interior, where he laid his case before the Secretary, and asked to be appointed to a clerkship. Chandler was very sorry, but had no vacancy. 'But,' urged the shrewd applicant, 'Mr. Secretary, there is a democrat holding an office in your department.' The name was given, and the democrat being sent for, speedily made his appearance. 'Are you a democrat?' asked Chandler. 'I am, sir,' was the reply. 'Then,' responded the Secretary, 'I think you had better swap places with this gentleman,' and in a jiffy the change was made."

James Fife caught his arm in a planer at Ford's Mill, Suncook, and injured it so that amputation was necessary.

A special from Berlin says it is now ascertained that the total number killed by the explosion at Bremerhaven is 128, and of wounded 56. The Bremen Aid Committee reports that twenty of the injured are hopelessly maimed, and there are fifty-six widows and one hundred and thirty-five orphans of the victims of the disaster, for the benefit of whom it proposes to raise a subscription of $75,000.

Mount Vesuvius is in an eruptive condition. Professor Palmeri of Naples thinks that the period of eruption will be rather long.

Despaiches from Fort Clark state that a party of Mexicans crossed the river 12 miles below San Felipe, and surprised Pond's ranche, killing three men, capturing all the arms and horses, and 600 cattle. Companies of citizens are preparing to follow them. Much trouble is apprehended.

Gen. Valmasceda's resignation as Captain General of Cuba has been accepted, bnt it greatly embarrasses the Government. Gen. Jovellar will undoubtedly return to Cuba as Captain-General.

Disastrous storms have visited Gibraltar, flooding the stores of the garrison and causing great damage to houses and other property. Two vessels were wrecked during the prevalence of the storm, and twenty-one persons composing the crews drowned.

The stated programme of the democrats of the National House is to cut down the appropriations $40,000,000, reduce the army and navy, and adjourn. Brave talk, but let's see them do it!

"Vick's Floral Guide" for 1876 presents new beauties, pictorial, literary and practical, and those who are interested in the most charming expressions of nature will find it cheerful Winter reading.

I offer them below their real value, being desirous to obtain by the sale, a part of the means for an outfit and passage to South Carolina, where I have promised to be in December, as teacher of music and painting in a High School.

The paintings are now on free exhibition for a few days, at studio opposite the Post Office.

Jottings.

The best of turkeys were selling in the market on Wednesday at twenty-five cents per lb. Chickens were not abundant and sold two cents cheaper.

If the Pilgrims had been favored with such weather as blessed humanity hereabouts on the 255th anniversary of their landing at Plymouth Rock, there might have been some excuse for their selection. From sixteen below zero at seven o'clock on the morning of the 20th, the mercury rose in forty-eight hours to forty above. Most any Pilgrim would have been deceived by "such conduct as those" on the part of Old Perhapsibilities.

Laconia is to have a fire alarm—but Portsmouth cannot afford to trouble itself to have the location of fires struck upon the bell first giving the alarm! It's "too much trouble," yo' know!

The Portsmouth Artillery, who are to attend the centennial, have secured a good location near the New Hampshire headquarters. Seventy-five acres of land are set apart at Fairmount Park for camping grounds for military organizations.

Charlie Smith of Newmarket, Congressman Jones' secretary, is in Washington waiting for Jim Clayton to be "bounced" out of the place of assistant journal clerk of the House.

Ship Emily Farnum, from San Francisco Nov. 12th. for Departure Bay, before reported wrecked, had fine weather until the 16th, when it blew quite a gale from the southeast, which lasted twenty-four hours. On the night of the 18th the storm increased again to a brisk gale with heavy snow squalls. At midnight land was reported right ahead, and an effort was made to stay the ship, but she would not stay. Then tried to wear her, but found it too late, and again hauled the ship to the wind, trying to weather Destruction Island, but the heavy sea swept the vessel down on the rocks, and at 12:30 she struck. An hour later the ship parted in the middle. The chief officer and four men who had taken refuge on the rocks were swept into the sea. The former was subsequently rescued from a piece of floating wreck; two of the men swam ashore, and two were drowned. The remaining fourteen clung to the afterhouse, where they remained until morning. With the aid of a raft made from pieces of the wreck they all managed to get safely on the island. A large fire, which they built, attracted the attention of the Indians on the main land, who came to their assistance in canoes. The entire party, including the Indians, were weather-bound on the island for three days, subsisting on four bags of flour and a few cabbage heads saved from the wreck. They footed it to Quenalt in company with the Indians, and from that place proceeded to Gray's Harbor. They subsequently reached Astoria and from there were brought down to San Francisco.

The fire alarm at about six o'clock last evening was caused by burning hay in the barn of Mr. Floron Barri on Fleet street. It was thrown out of doors and wet down with a few buckets of water. The alarm was promptly given, but there proved to be no need of the services of the engines.

The Rattan Works have some of the most beautiful and useful Christmas presents we have yet seen, all manufactured here. They will certainly compare favorably with the best made elsewhere. Purchasers of holiday presents will meet with courteous attendance by Mr. Urch, the proprietor.

The revival meetings in the Advent chapel under the labors of Mrs. Jane Benson are increasing in interest every evening. Meeting this evening at seven o'clock, and through the week.

Presentations.

The High School teachers were welcomed with Christmas and New Year greetings, Wednesday morning, and presented with elegant testimonials of regard by their pupils. Mr. Clarke received a large and beautiful picture framed in heavy gilt; Miss Bailey one of Rogers' groupe of statuary, "Rip Van Winkle on the Mountain;" Miss Hooper an elegant vase; and Miss Magraw a nice writing desk, bound in silver.

At the Haven School, Mr. Sherburne was given a silver cake basket, Miss Shackford a globe watch case; and Miss Green of the Manning School, a vase of glass and silver.

At the close of the school on Wednesday at Smith's Academy, Master Robert R. Simes presented Mr. and Mrs. Smith with an elegant silver cake basket and bouquet of flowers.

—Keely's motor company is organized now formally with officers and capital. The concern is expected to "mote" in about three months more. So mote it be.

—Chinese women, even of the highest class, are not nearly so handsome, nor by any means so cleanly either in person or habits, as their Japanese sisters.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson, in his new book, says; "I have heard with admiring submission the experience of the lady who declared 'that the sense of being perfectly well-dressed gives a feeling of inward tranquility which religion is powerless to bestow.'"

—The Sultan of Turkey's harem has 1200 inmates.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Ricker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

Daily Chronicle.

—Rather more than two hundred years ago, a princess of England went to Belgium, and to prevent sea-sickness the great doctor of the day, Sir Theodore Mahern, issued the following instructions, which, perhaps, some ladies may still be disposed to try: Cinnamon, coriander, anise, ambergris, musk, and sugar were to be made into long tubes, which she was to munch from time to time. She was to drink a warm posset, should there be an excess of vomiting. A plaster made of balsam of Peru, of gum mastic, and of laudanum was to be applied to the stomach. She was also to smell the comforting vapors which arose from the following compound; well-toasted bread, orange and citron peel, rose leaves, flowers of lavender, and cloves, to be hashed up together. On this Canary wine, elderflower vinegar, and cinnamon water were to be poured, portions to be successively applied to the nostrils. When she arrived on the other side she was to have an aromatic plaster applied to the stomach, and, what was more to the purpose, she was to have her stomach strengthened with burned claret, having in it a sprig of rosemary, some cinnamon and sugar, or with a caudle of ale or small beer made with Canary wine, eggs, sugar, and cinnamon. Such were the ways of comforting that distressed organ.

—A Russian paper announces that a belief in the approaching end of the world has seized on the Cossacks of the Don. Many, especially aged people, are giving up their worldly affairs, wearing shrouds and ordering their coffins. On every road there are seen men repairing to Moscow to be consecrated priests, in order that the smallest village may have its own priest and church. The authorities are passive, hoping that the movement will die out of its own accord. It has originated with the dissenters.

—Up rises Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, aged eighty-five, born in Boston, and for forty years co-editor of Godey's Lady's Book, to prove the incorrectness of "the true story of Mary's Little Lamb," published a short time ago by the Springfield Republican. She wrote "Mary Had a Little Lamb" herself with her little pen, forty-six years ago in Boston. It was published in Boston in 1830, in a little book of "Poems for Our Children," and set to music by Professor John Mason.

—The scale on which they do business at the Fairbanks Scale Works, St. Johnsbury, Vt., is shown by the fact that in a single week in October 175 hay scales were made, or an average of one scale for each twenty minutes of the working hours; and in the same week there were sent from the factory thirteen car loads of other scales, the weight of which amounted to 140 tons.

The oldest free public library in the United States is at Peterborough. It was established in 1813, and now contains about 4000 volumes.

"A REPOSITORY OF FASHION, PLEASURE, AND INSTRUCTION."

Harper's Bazar.
ILLUSTRATED.

Notices of the Press.

The Bazar is edited with a combination of tact and talent that we seldom find in any journal; and the journal itself is the only one in the great world of fashion.—Boston Traveller.

The Bazar commends itself to every member of the household—to the gentle girl fond of droll and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes, to paterfamilias by its tasteful designs for embroidered slippers and luxurious dressing-gowns. But the reading-matter of the Bazar is uniformly of great excellence. The paper has acquired a character which makes its enjoyment it affords.—N. Y. Evening Post.

In its way there is nothing like it. Fresh and trust-worthy as a fashion guide, its stories and essays, its poetry and squibs, are all invigorating to the mind. —Chicago Evening Journal.

It Pays! It Pays!
WHAT PAYS?
IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the day.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that suits a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication in the world. It is the cheapest weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all Kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Workmen and Engineers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries, constituting a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save to mechanics and families many times its cost.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special report as to whether an invention is new, can usually be obtained, Examinations are made at the Patent Office, Washington, and all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee, are published in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, without charge. This is done for the benefit of the inventor, and as the cost of procuring a Patent is considerable, and the value of the Patent depends upon the notice it receives from the public, the preliminary examination, and the publication of the claims, are regarded as important and useful by inventors. Patents are often sold in part or whole by reference to the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN list of inventions for sale. Inventors who are about to apply for Patents are invited to send for pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. Reference is given in pamphlet to the Postmaster, the Chief of the Money Order Division, and to officials in the Patent Office. Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch Office, Corner F & 7th Streets, Washington, D. C.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 2, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have been unable to work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I first benefited by the two packages, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find pay for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir.—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. I use no other. Testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.30 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent for you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicines. I must still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Roslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

The New York Times.
A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.
Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.
ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by various Communals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserves the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any favors whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on principles sound and patriotic alone. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for regardless leaders or politicians.

It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at this time at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the basis of low paper repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and corruption and national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party vows its loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were being ordered to pardon certain of its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterwards to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and measures who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subjects. It will be prepared to do this in the most care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and professional reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England
PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

All Fractions will be good with $15.00 to purchase a whole $20.00 Bond.

This is a chance for a fortune, and no chance for loss.

A $20 Bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn one of the following premiums.

$100,000.
$21, $50, $100, $200, $300, $500, $1,000, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000, $35,000, $100,000.

The Bonds issued by the Industrial Exhibition Co., are a copy of the European Government Loans.

The Bonds are a safe investment.

PEOPLE OF SMALL MEANS

Can find no better or safer investment No chance of loss. A fortune may be acquired

On December 6th - - - - On January 3rd.
PURCHASE NOW.

How to Purchase.

In person, or by certified Check, or Express, or Postal Order, or Draft, or enclose greenbacks in a registered letter, to, and made payable to the Industrial Exhibition Co.

The funds raised by sale of these Bonds, will be applied to the erection of a Crystal Palace, which every American will be proud of.

Recollect, the Industrial Exhibition is a legitimate enterprise, chartered by the State of New York.

Its Directors are the best citizens of New York.

It has had seven drawings since July, 1874, and paid out in principal and interest, $750,000.

Any one obtaining a premium, the company pledge itself not to make public.

This enterprise is simply a new form of bond; in no sense is it to be regarded as a lottery.

There are no blanks. Be sure and purchase at once.

$5 will buy a Fraction for December 6th, 1875.
$5 " " Quarter Bond for Jan. 3rd, 1876.
$10 " " Half Bond " "
$20 " " Whole Bond " "

All Bonds are exchangeable into city lots in the suburbs of New York City.

Each Bond-holder is regarded as an honorary member of the Industrial Exhibition Co., and is welcome at the Parlors of the Co., No. 12 East 17th St. Agents Wanted.

All communications and remittances to be made to the Industrial Exhibition Co., 12 East 17th Street, between 5th Ave., and Broadway, New York City.

For the purpose of giving the Bond-holders of the Industrial Exhibition Co., full and complete information as to the progress of the Company, and a complete list of the drawings, an Illustrated Journal will be published, viz:

The Industrial Exhibition Illustrated,
Subscription One Dollar per Year.

Any one sending a club of 15 subscribers, with $15, will be given a Premium of one Fraction or $ Bond, club of 27 subscribers, a $ Bond; club of 50 subscribers a whole Bond. Address,

INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION ILLUSTRATED,

COMBINED PAPERS—FORTY-SIXTH YEAR.

The Country Gentleman
POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY one year, $3.00. FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly reports the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is found in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate the best varieties of Seeds of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and cultivators.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Wool-yard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and a most interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-digested Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments in the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

New Hampshire State Grange.

The annual meeting of the State Grange was held at Manchester Grangers' Hall on Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 22d and 23d. There was a large attendance of ladies and gentlemen from all parts of the State,—Masters of local grangers and their wives. Secretary Shaw reported seventy-two subordinate grangers and 3190 members in the State, being thirty-three new granges since last annual meeting. Treasurer Clough reported the finances in a good condition and $1100 in the treasury, but this was heavily drawn on during the session by the members voting themselves mileage and pay for attendance, for the first time. The first grange in the State was organized a little more than two years ago, and the growth of the order is astonishing.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Master, Dudley T. Chase, of Claremont; Overseer, Isaac A. Reed, of Newport; Lecturer, Samuel Putnam, Cornish; Steward, Kimball Webster, Hudson; Assistant Steward, William O. Noyes, Derry; Chaplain, A. S. Wilkins, Amherst; Treasurer, D. M. Clough, Canterbury; Secretary, C. C. Shaw, Milford; Gatekeeper, F. L. Taylor, Danbury; Ceres, Mrs. F. L. Taylor, Danbury; Pomona, Mrs. George L. Stearns, Grafton; Flora, Mrs. C. B. Mason, Portsmouth; Lady Assistant Steward, Mrs. Elliott Whitford, Nashua.

Mr. Chase, who was re-elected Master, and is also a member of the Executive Committee of the National Grange, is one of the most devoted and influential grangers in the country, and with Secretary Shaw and Treasurer Clough, have labored diligently and judiciously to place the Order in New Hampshire on its present fixed foundation. Mr. Chase, in his address, earnestly deprecated the grangers, as bodies, engaging at all in trade; and recommended that if desirable to do any purchasing, it should be done by co-operative associations entirely separate and distinct from the granges, though formed of the members. Many leading grangers regret that any business features should ever be engrafted on or connected with the new Order, preferring that it should be entirely social and educational, like the other great Orders, Masonry and Odd Fellowship.

Portsmouth Grange is well represented in the State Grange. W. Master C. B. Mason and his wife both being elected members of the executive committee for two years, at the session in Manchester.

—The Santa Barbara Press says: "Less than a year ago, Dr. L. N. Dimmick placed in his grounds a rose plant, the King of Noisettes, Marechal Niel. This has extended over a trellis arching one of his garden walks. Within the last six days, a shoot some three feet in length has grown from the foot of this trellis. On this stalk, surrounded by half a dozen vigorous buds, hangs to-day the champion rose of the world in size and perfection. The Marechal Niel is a cupped variety of rose, having a lemon tint, and with a delicate and delightful perfume. This rose is 16 3-4 inches in circumference; its shorter diameter five inches. The measurement in various directions from tip to tip of petals is over six inches! The depth of the rose is fully three inches. This, we claim, is the largest rose on record. Another marvellous thing we noted before leaving the grounds of Dr. Dimmick,—113 buds on a rose truss of the La Marque variety. A common felt hat covered the space in which we counted the above number of buds."

—The high price of gas in Brooklyn has led a large number of business firms to substitute kerosene. The companies refuse to tell the number of customers they have lost, but the New York World has ascertained by actual count that in 313 stores the meters have been removed and kerosene lamps substituted. Student lamps fed with kerosene are used for reading purposes in preference to the dim gas lights, though the latter are still kept for ordinary purposes of illumination. It is possible that here as in Europe, gas may become unfashionable for use in elegant dwellings.

—Grace Greenwood, writing from Paris, gives the following anecdote: A gentleman calling on a distinguished foreign minister a short time ago, was told that no visitors were received that day. "But, you see," he said to the domestic, "I have a letter d'audience, and I come on a matter of importance." "I am very sorry, monsieur, but it is quite impossible to admit you. His Excellency is burying his mother-in-law today, and when His Excellency buries his mother-in-law he does not like to be disturbed."

—Country bookseller to Fourth street woman—"Yes; but the work is both instructive and humorous." Fourth street woman—"That ain't the point. You see my husband has crippled so many agents, and you're a nice-looking young man, and hate to see you hurt! That's him comin' in the back way!" The young man said there was nothing compulsory about it, and was gone.

—A Detroit boy paid his first visit to one of the union schools as a scholar, and when he went home at night his mother inquired: "Well, Henry, how do you like going to school?" "Bully!" he replied in an excited voice. "I saw four boys licked, one girl got her ear pulled, and a big scholar burned his elbow on the stove! I don't want to miss a day."

—More than a million clay pipes are imported into this country annually, the greater number being the celebrated "T. D." brand; these pipes are made in Glasgow, Scotland, and chiefly by one firm, W. White and Sons, honest old Quakers, a house that has existed for nearly a century and a half.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1875.

News and Notes.

Shortly before six o'clock, Wednesday evening, the 22d, at Boston, the gas in a three-inch pipe exploded, tearing up the pavement under which it was laid for a hundred and fifty feet, near Federal street bridge. Two men named Anderson and Kemp were instantly killed and a dozen others were wounded. As several persons are missing it is thought they were blown overboard. A Mrs. Howard and her son were walking by at the time of the explosion, found the sidewalk moving from under them, and were blown overboard. Parties near by rescued them from drowning. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

G. G. Russell, one of the indicted distillers, has made a full confession and revelation to Secretary Bristow and Solicitor Wilson of the operations and membership of the ring. It is understood that in case he will turn State's evidence and testify to the facts in the Chicago court he will escape punishment by imprisonment for his offences.

There is a sort of a Charlie Ross excitement in Western Massachusetts. Some weeks ago a tramp named John Rierdon enticed away from his home the 13 year old son of F. P. Gowdy, of Scitico, Ct. Rierdon, the "hired man," was discharged for some offence, and retaliated by persuading his employer's young son to run away with him, taking $100, and from that time to the present, despite diligent search, no trace of the boy has been found. Mr. Gowdy has just visited the Amherst authorities, and there are many things that lead him to identify the missing Worthington tramp with Rierdon, in which case there is little hope that the lad is living. He was a delicate child, and the theory is that the man has murdered him for the money taken. The parents have been constantly searching for their child, these many weeks, and Mr. Gowdy was so overcome in telling his story that a friend had to finish the narrative for him.

So far as the newspapers have anything to do about it, it is as good as decided that the New York republicans will send an unpledged delegation to the National convention. The Conkling movement was nipped in the bud.

The inhabitants of Vera Cruz, Mexico, were attacked a few days ago by a cough, which proved to be contagious, and even extended to animals. About the same time thousands of dead fish were thrown on the beach by the waves. The two facts are supposed to have some connection, as both have occurred together on several former occasions. No serious consequences have resulted.

It turns out that at least nine members of the railroad committee are friends of the Tom Scott scheme.

A comparative trial of the relative advantages of dynamite, gun-cotton, and gunpowder was recently made at the railway tunnel works under Clifton Down, in England, with the result of showing that dynamite is much superior to either gun-cotton or gunpowder.

Births in Manchester average one a day.

A Washington correspondent of the New York World, who is undoubtedly familiar with the subject of which he speaks, says that the number of democratic place-hunters hanging about the House of Representatives is estimated at ten thousand.

Not only was New England ignored in the committee chairmanships of the House, but the Pacific States got none, nor the States northwest of Illinois.

All that the New York World can find to say in favor of Sunset Cox, Chairman of the Committee on Banking, is that he "has such a sprightly mind and such long experience in Congress that we believe he can be trusted to learn all he needs to know."

The New York Evening Post, discussing the organization of the House, wants to know who is going to lead the leaders.

The Gem of the Toilet

The world says is SOZODONT. It renders the teeth pearly white, gives to the breath a fragrant odor, extinguishing the ill-humors which usually flow in a bad and neglected set of teeth. SOZODONT is so convenient, and produces a sensation at once so delightful, that it makes it a pleasure to use it.

THE GRANDEST

Book Sale

The World Ever Saw!

$250,000

IN PREMIUMS

TO THE BUYERS.

A MILLION

SPLENDID BOOKS

FOR 21 EACH.

AND

An Elegant Gift With Every Book!

I, A. W. LOVERING, of 402 Washington Street Boston, having been in the Book trade for nearly forty years, during which time I have sold MILLIONS OF BOOKS, thus diffusing knowledge generally, now propose to make the GRANDEST BOOK SALE THE WORLD EVER SAW. I control to-day more than a million Books, which are contained in three stores, occupying six different rooms, 150 feet deep by 30 feet wide, the Books being packed so close that there is only room to walk among them.

These Books are new and fresh, are bound in the most elegant manner, and comprise nearly every popular book published by the most eminent publishers of England and America. Many of these books retail at from $2 to $3 each; but as I bought them by the thousands for cash during the great depression in the book trade, I got them so cheap that I shall sell them for ONE DOLLAR EACH, let the people take their choice, and then give every buyer an ELEGANT PRESENT with every book bought. And in order to make

A Sensation never before heard of in the Book Trade, I shall give a great many persons Ten Times the Value they pay for these Books, and many other persons Twenty Times the value. And during this sale I shall give a which I will pay in GREENBACKS to a Book-buyer. And let it be distinctly understood that I shall conduct this sale in the most honorable manner, showing no partiality to any one, for I am amply able to and shall perform all I advertise.

The Books I shall sell for One Dollar consist, in part, of STANDARD and MISCELLANEOUS WORKS, HISTORIES BIOGRAPHIES and SCIENTIFIC WORKS, POETICAL WORKS, NOVELS, DICTIONARIES, RELIGIOUS WORKS, ILLUSTRATED BOOKS, JUVENILE BOOKS, and all other books of every description, many of which retail at from $2 to $3 each, but everybody may have their choice for One Dollar each, and an Elegant Gift with Every Book.

I have also 10,000 volumes of other very high cost books, probably the finest lot ever seen in America, which I will sell at a great discount from the publishers' price, and give an ELEGANT PRESENT with every book. All the choicest books of the age are to be found on my shelves and counters.

The Grand List of Premiums which I shall give to the buyers of these books are, in quantity and kind, equal to the magnitude of the sale, and comprise CASH and HANDSOME AND USEFUL ARTICLES to the amount of $250,000.

A Statement showing how I can do as I advertise

I own a million books which I propose to sell for a million dollars. Many of these books I bought in such large quantities, under CIRCUMSTANCES OF DEPRESSION, that they cost me less than fifty cents on the dollar. In selling these books I give away in presents $2,4,000. I pay out for advertising and expenses for selling $50,000. This leaves me $700,000, with at least $150,000 profit, and still I can sell the books much lower than they can be bought elsewhere, and give a VALUABLE PRESENT with every book, because I bought the books so cheap.

LIST OF PREMIUMS,

ONE OF WHICH I WILL GIVE WITH EVERY BOOK SOLD:

WHITE ISLAND, Dec. 1.

Thanksgiving Day has been here, and gone. We didn't find out when it was to be until the Saturday before it arrived, which left us but brief time to prepare for it; however, we managed to get up some to thanks-give on, as our bill of fare for the day will show:

Breakfast: -- coffee, gape-and-swaller, dog's-body, burgoo, lobscouse, dandy-funk, long-cake, and Cape Ann turkey a la White Island. [The last named dish is very superior grub, and is prepared as follows: Pulverize your turkey, which must previously have been saturated with chloride of sodium and then dessicated; atomize a quantity of boiled potatoes; chop an onion; mix, and season with pepper; fry and eat.] Dinner: boiled dishes—tea, potatoes, Cape Ann turkey; roasts—potatoes, apples, hardtack, Cape Ann turkey; dessert—swampseed, served with long-tailed-sugar. Supper: didn't have any.

Carl Schurz appears (from the reports in my last-received batch of papers) to be engaged in travelling about delivering a lecture, in which he deplores the increasing corruption and

WICKEDNESS OF THE WORLD

In general and this country in particular. I see the CHRONICLE does not agree with him; and the Boston Traveller maintains that Schurz is one of the sort who worship anything old merely because it is old, and that the world (including the United States) is wiser and purer to-day than ever before. If the Traveller man had happened to remember that the National House of Representatives is now in the hands of the old democratic party, he would doubtless have been more ready to fall in with Mr. Schurz's views as to the sad decline in honesty and morality, in this country at least.

I notice a communication to the CHRONICLE, in which the writer, after referring (not disapprovingly) to your commendation of whatever really deserves praise in the acts of the present city government and its servants, asks when such generous courtesy was ever shown by the Times while the republicans ruled the city. The query is pertinent; for so far as my observation goes that paper never had a good word to say for its political opponents. The republican police (according to that paper) were blackmailers and useless spongers on the municipal treasury, the tax collecter a lazy, incompetent, over-paid loafer, the city messenger a costly and useless non-ornamental ornament, the street commissioner and chief engineer no better than they should be,—in short, the whole thing was ever and eternally extravagant, corrupt and wrong, in general and in particular, and the municipal machine could never be economically and efficiently conducted by pure, honest and non-partisan officials, until the democracy took charge of it. That these persistent and nearly always

UNDESERVED ATTACKS

Were dictated solely by partisanship and not by a desire to benefit the public is proved by the fact that the democratic paper now sees no sin in the city's employment of a democratic messenger; that it does not abuse the democratic chief engineer, though he is no more capable and prompt than the late incumbent of that office; that it finds no fault with and has no "pet names" for the present police force, though it is as numerous, as costly and no more efficient than the late republican one; and that the mill which formerly ground out such inexhaustible quantities of high-toned protests against partisanship, corruption, jobbery, etc., in our municipal affairs, is now happily at rest, though there is as much partisanship, etc., in the municipal government now as under any republican administration. The fact is, the city has nearly always been well governed, under either party; dishonest or incompetent officials have ever been the exception instead of the rule; and the republican administration will compare favorably with the democratic ones, in whatever light they may be honestly examined. There are doubtless republicans who think the CHRONICLE should follow the example so long set by the Times, and ceaselessly find fault with and denounce all the acts and officials of the opposition government, no matter how worthy of commendation they may be; but such persons should remember that a man—and more especially an editor—who bestows undeserved censure upon or withholds deserved praise from his political opponents, may be an excellent partisan but is certainly neither a good citizen nor a just man.

Mrs. Thaxter, in her charming (I cordially abominate that word, but can't rake up a substitute just now) little book, "Among the Isles of Shoals," makes frequent mention of this island, her girlhood's home, which she seems to regard as fondly as the native-born Shoalers do Star and Smutty-nose, (it is asserted that these hardy islanders make no question that the Garden of Eden was located on Star, and that the Shoals will be the final resting place of the spirits of just men made perfect,) while she indulges in a for the memory of the old light-tower,—not the present ugly-looking cylinder, but the one which was razeed when the new one was built. There is a strange fascination about these rugged, barren, desolate-appearing islands, which attaches rough men and refined women to them by bonds stronger and more enduring than those which hold the limpet to the rock—but I'm getting wide off my course, for I started out intending to write of

WRECKS ON WHITE ISLAND.

Mrs. Thaxter mentions several of the great disasters which mark the history of the Shoals, but passes the lesser ones by; and of two of the latter I propose to give the true story, with very possibly some variations and improvements—as follows: Many years ago, before Fresnel lens apparatus was adopted in the American light-house system, light-keepers did not have to keep constant watch by their lamps, visits to the lantern at intervals of four or six hours being all that was needed; so they had plenty of time during the long Winter evenings for poker, dominoes, ghost stories, tales of the ocean, yarns about miraculous catches of fish, and other literary pursuits. One evening the two keepers of White Island light were enjoying a social smoke in the kitchen of the old dwelling, they supposing themselves at the time to be the sole occupants of the island. A fierce southeaster was raging, driving before it a blinding fall of snow; and a heavy sea was tumbling in, sweeping in huge masses over the lower point of the island, and sending dense showers of snowy spray high above its highest bluffs. The seeming impossibility of any man's getting on or off the island would naturally enter one's thoughts at such a time, and one keeper asked the other "What would you think of it to hear somebody knock at the door just now?" "Think! why, that 'twas the devil himself," was the answer. [I have observed that sailors and fishermen, and in general, entertain the greatest respect for Jimmy Squarefoot and his powers; when they wish to express in the most forcible manner their sense of impossibility of accomplishing anything, they say "The devil himself can't do it."] At this instant they were startled by a loud rap, rap, rap at the door, accompanied by a hoarse voice shouting "Hello there—the house!" The keepers looked at each other a moment, and one of them sprang to open the door, exclaiming as he did so, "This weather is too bad to keep even the devil himself out in." As the door was opened the light fell upon a gigantic darkey, many times blacker than the ace of spades, with like the record of the republican party. Whether or not the keepers fancied the gentleman from down below had come in person for them, I cannot say,—should think they would have fancied that, at any rate; but the black man wasn't the individual mentioned, but a genuine flesh-and-blood sailor and a brave one at that, and soon made known how he happened to arrive at such an unwonted time. A large brig, (a Russian, I believe,) laden with hides and tallow, had of rocks on which the keepers' house is located, and was being terribly battered by the sea, within one hundred feet of the house and one hundred and fifty feet of the light-tower. The brig had hit the rocks stem on, while running before the gale, and her crew had not seen the beacon-light until after she struck, when they discovered it nearly over their heads, the faint glimmer from the kitchen window greeting their eyes at nearly the same instant. The negro sailor had gone out on the bow-sprit and let himself down in the darkness by a rope until his feet touched the rock: afterward, with much difficulty and no little danger, crawling on his hands and knees to the house. The keepers took lanterns and went with the negro to the point, and an hour later all the crew (numbering fourteen, I believe,) were safely ashore on the island, where they were forced to remain for some eighteen days,

"TOILERS OF THE SEA"

TEETH AND EYES SHINING

DEVOURING THE KEEPERS' SUBSTANCE

as locusts and wild honey did the land of Egypt in the olden time. The brig and cargo were a total loss, the vessel beating clear of the point soon after the last man of her crew landed, and sinking in deep water. Had she struck fifty feet to the westward or one hundred feet to the eastward of where she did, probably all her crew would have lost their lives. One of the two keepers mentioned still lives, a hearty old gentleman, vigorous in mind and body; and from him I had the main facts in the foregoing account, any embellishments having been generously added by others and by myself. The brig's name I do not remember—don't know as I ever heard it.

Another account of the loss of the brig is that she struck the rocks exactly in front of the old light-house with such force that she shot up the steep incline of fifty feet, went smashing through the base of the tower, (then as now used for an oil-room,) slid down the inshore incline a hundred feet or more, and finally brought up in the gully close to the house with both her masts gone, her crew confused, her binnacle smashed all to pieces and a ten-barrel cask of oil of her flying-jib-boom. This story I do not believe, for the vessel could not have passed through the oil-room without leaving the track of her keel on the brick floor, and there is nothing of the kind there.

The other wreck I shall speak of was that of the Flying Fish, a small fishing schooner carrying but five or six men. This vessel anchored one evening in Star Island roads, but did not stop there. During the night a very heavy easterly gale caused her to drag her anchor, and all the crew save one man got into a dory to take the end of a line ashore to help hold her. The boat's crew managed to pull against the gale, but when all their line was paid out they were still some distance from the shore; so they let go the rope and pulled in to the land, leaving the schooner and her one-man crew to take care of themselves. The man could do nothing—neither get on shore nor stop the schooner's drifting—so he went below and took things easy. After awhile his serenity was disturbed by the vessel bumping violently against a rock, and he ran upon deck to find his craft hard and fast on a lee shore, with her stern all stove in. She had drifted into a narrow and shoal passage between Seavey's Island and a rock to the northward of it, and was jammed fast, on her keel and with her rail level with the rocks of Seavey's Island. Stepping ashore, the man made the best of his way across the island and the half-tide bar which connects it with White Island, entered the storm-house which shelters the door on the seaside of the keepers' dwelling and stopped there, wet and cold, until morning. When the keeper who had the morning watch came down after extinguishing the light, he found the man shivering in the storm-house, and then first learned of the wreck. The fisherman gave as a reason for not entering the house, or at least rousing somebody, that he supposed the keepers were all asleep and he didn't want to disturb any one! The schooner went to pieces where she struck, in time, the keepers helping on the job whenever they got short of firewood.

STANDING UPRIGHT

Reform.

We understand that Mr. Boardman, had he been elected Mayor, would have recommended a reduction of all city salaries, including the Mayor's. It would be a wise and proper move for Mayor Cobb to make. Salaries have been going up since 1861, and they should follow the downward tendency of the prices in every other department of business.—Boston Herald.

This is a very proper suggestion, and might well be adopted in all cities; and Mayor Cobb can afford to make it, as he does not care for re-election. Probably few doubt that Mayor Miller would have been re-elected here, but for his refusal to allow certain city salaries and other expenses to be increased. By the way, what has become of the old-time promises of the democracy to lessen the police and other city expenses? As the old couplet hath it, with a variation:

When the Demos are out,
Great reformers they'd be;
When the Demos are in,
The devil a reform do you see.

JUST SO.

Jottings.

At about quarter past five this morning fire was discovered in the building on Daniel Street occupied by Mrs. J. A. Voudy, Daniel Senter and Albert J. Badger. The fire caught on the back part of the building and ran up to the roof, the department having stubborn work to overcome it. The loss on millinery, etc., must be $3000. The building is badly damaged.

Capt. J. S. Abbott of Dover claims the right to cut and appropriate the ice in the river from the line of the P. & D. Railroad to a point up near and including the premises of Mr. L. B. Legg. Mr. Perkins of this city has been for a few days past upon that territory cutting it. Some hard words have passed and Perkins has been forbidden by Abbott to interfere with this ice. But he has persisted in his work, and on the morning of the 22d a large number of men were engaged in loading ice from that disputed territory upon a train of cars for shipment to Portsmouth. On the arrival of the 10 A. M., train on the Boston & Maine road, the proceedings came to a sudden halt by the appearance of an officer with an injunction from Judge Stanley, which was served upon Mr. Perkins or his agent forbidding them to remove or cut any more ice. Thus the matter stands, and must inevitably remain until the legal points involved can be determined by the proper authority.

It is understood that Hon. Daniel Marcy is to be one of the delegates from this district to the democratic National convention.

Preparations have been made for a grand time at the Policemen's Ball to-night. Visitors from other cities are expected. Harlow's orchestra will furnish the music, and a banquet will be spread at midnight.

The "Two Orphans," dramatized from the story of the same name which we recently published, will be brought out at the Temple this evening by the Union Square Theatre Co.

The usual services at the St. John's church on Christmas day, commencing at 10 1-2 o'clock A. M. Rev. Charles A. Holbrook will officiate.

The Eastern Railroad trains will probably leave Boston at 7:10 A. M., on and after the first Monday in January. That's satisfactory.

Mr. Durgin has been the recipient of a beautiful wax cross, presented by his pupils.

WELLS—TURNER. In this city, Dec. 23, by Rev. W. H. Alden, D. D., Mr. Charles F. Wells and Miss Thirza E. Turner.

A Valuable Medical Treatise.

The edition for 1876 of the sterling Medical Annual, known as Hostetter's Almanac, is now ready, and may be obtained, free of cost, of druggists and general country dealers in all parts of the United States and British America, and indeed in every civilized portion of the Western Hemisphere. It combines, with the practical advice for the preservation and restoration of health, a large amount of interesting and amusing light reading, and the calendar, astronomical calculations, chronological items, &c., are prepared with great care, and will be found entirely accurate. The issue of Hostetter's Almanac for 1876 will probably be the largest edition of a medical work ever published in any country. The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., on receipt of a two cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

In every town and village persons may be found who have been saved from death from consumption by HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. H. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver, and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $50.

Daily Chronicle.

—The lack of accuracy in the very common prescription of a "spoonful" of medicine for a patient received a striking rebuke in Exeter, England, recently. A female infant, nineteen days old, died there under conditions that suggested poison as the cause. There was an inquest, and the cause of death was returned in the coroner's certificate in the following manner: "Congestion of the lungs, accelerated by an overdose of opium, innocently administered by her mother from a modern teaspoon containing two drachms, instead of from a teaspoon of older date, containing one drachm." It is is well known that the teaspoon and tablespoon of the present day are of very indefinite capacity, and may, moreover, be said to average nearly double the size of those in vogue little more than a quarter of a century ago. The spoon, should, therefore, never be used in prescribing doses, unless the physician knows the size of the one that will be used.

—A man whom Dr. Chalmers engaged to manage a disorderly Sunday-school kept his eyes wide open during prayer, and when one boy thrust a pin into another, he marched up the aisle, still praying, and cuffed that boy's ears, and went back again praying all the way. After that he was master of the situation, for the boys thought that a man who could watch and pray like that, could not be put down.

"O wearisome condition of humanity."

How many wretched homes in our land! How many heart-broken invalids! Life with many signifies a mere onerous existence. All are subject to disease, but when health is removed the hope is nearly gone out. Sickness is usually incurred through exposure or carelessness. Especially is this true with those diseases peculiar to woman. Through her own imprudence and folly she is made to drag out a miserable existence, a source of annoyance and anxiety to her friends, and anything but a comfort and pleasure to herself. Exposure to the cold at times when she should be most prudent, and overtaxing her body with laborious employment, are both fruitful causes of many of the maladies from which she suffers. Gradually the bloom leaves her cheeks, her lips grow ashy white, her vivacity departs, she continually experiences a feeling of weariness and general languor, and altogether presents a ghostly appearance. What does she need? Should she take some stimulating drug, which will for a time make her "feel better," or does her entire system demand reparation? She requires something which not only will restore to health the diseased organs, but will tone and invigorate the system. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do this. It imparts strength to the diseased parts, brings back the glow of health, and restores comfort where previously there was only suffering.

Every invalid lady should send for "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," in which over fifty pages are devoted to the consideration of those diseases peculiar to Women. It will be sent, post paid, to any address, for $1.50. Address, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Agents wanted to sell this valuable work.

Notices of the Press.
The Bazar is edited with a combination of tact and talent that we seldom find in any journal; and the journal itself is the organ of the great world of fashion.—Boston Traveller.
The Bazar commends itself to every member of the household—to the child even by droll and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes, to paterfamilias by its tasteful designs for embroidered slippers and luxurious dressing-gowns. But the reading-matter of the Bazar is uniformly of great excellence. The paper has acquired a wide popularity for the fireside enjoyment it affords.—N. Y. Evening Post.
In this way there is nothing like it. Fresh and trustworthy as a fashion guide, and abounding in stories well told, essays, its poetry and squibs, are all invigorating to the mind. —Chicago Evening Journal.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefited by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report as cured. One package of any disease one more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained several cures for them. I proceed one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.
BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir.—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to can say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.
MR. LANE—Dear Sir.—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaint, the causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, and do not have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and I wrote to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they would cure any one of Neuralgia who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir.—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reading, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

The New York Times.
A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.
Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.
ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.

As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful allures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.

As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the conduct of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any "favors" whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in its past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for registering the decrees of politicians. It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing whitespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This is what we believe THE TIMES will try to stand firmly by the Republican Party.

The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of Bourbon Bullidads in the other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers, threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party were trying to foist Lee Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what the Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.

In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.

Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.

The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the highest character and specially suitable. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original articles or stories to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas A. Janvier, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
a no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, greatly stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England
PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

COMMENCED PAPERS—FORTY-SIXTH YEAR.

The Country Gentleman

POSTAGE FREE FOR 1876.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is published WEEKLY on the following terms, when paid strictly in advance: ONE COPY, one year, $2.50; FOUR COPIES, $10, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club; TEN COPIES, $20, and an additional copy for the year free to the sender of the Club.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the Best Farmers of all Parts of the Country, and constantly reflects the practical condition and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized World.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions not to be surpassed, in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate Improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of breeders and purchasers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, as throwing light upon one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor departments of a practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vineyard, and so on, as can be supplied in a column or two for the Housewife and an interesting variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

A FAMILIAR LETTER.

[TO SEVERAL CORRESPONDENTS.]

Yes, write, if you want to, there's nothing like trying;
Who knows what a treasure your cashe may hold?
I'll show you that rhyming's as easy as lying,
If you'll listen to me while the art I unfold.

Here's a book full of words; one can chose as he fancies,
As a painter his tint, as a workman his tool;
Just think! all the poems and plays and romances
Were drawn out of this, like the fish from a pool!

You can wander at will through his syllabled mazes
And take all you want—not a copper they cost;
What is there to hinder your picking out phrases
For an epic as clever as Paradise Lost?

Don't mind if the index of sense is at zero.
Use words that run smoothly, whatever they mean;
Leander and Lillian and Lillibullero
Are much the same thing in the rhyming machine.

There are words so delicious their sweetness will smother
That boarding-school flavor of which we're afraid—
There is "hush" is a good one, and "swirl" is another—
Put both in one stanza, its fortune is made.

With musical murmurs and rhythmical closes
You can cheat us of smiles when you've nothing to tell;
You hand us a nosegay of milliner's roses,
And we cry with delight, "Oh, how sweet they do smell!"

Perhaps you will answer all needful conditions
For winning the laurel to which you aspire
By docking the tail of the two prepositions
I' the style o' the bards you so greatly admire.

As for subjects of verse, they are only too plenty
For ringing the changes on metrical chimes,
A maiden, a moonbeam, a lover of twenty
Have filled that great basket with bushels of rhymes.

Let me show you a picture—'tis far from irrelevant—
By a famous old hand in the arts of design;
'Tis only a photographed sketch of an elephant—
The name of the draughtsman was Rembrandt of Rhine!

How easy! no troublesome colors to lay on,
It can't have fatigued him—no, not in the least—
A dash here and there with a hap-hazard crayon,
And there stands the wrinkled-skinned, baggy-limbed beast.

Just so with your verse—'tis as easy as sketching—
You can reel off a song without knitting your brow,
As lightly as Rembrandt a drawing or etching;
It is nothing at all if you only know how.

Well; imagine you've printed your volume of verses;
Your forehead is wreathed with the garland of fame,
Your poems the eloquent school-boy rehearses,
Her album the school-girl presents for your name;

Each morning the post brings you autograph letters;
You'll answer them promptly—an hour isn't much
For the honor of sharing a page with your betters,
With magistrates, members of Congress, and such.

Of course you're delighted to serve the committees
That come with requests from the country all round,
You would grace the occasion with poems and ditties,
When they've got a new schoolhouse, or poor-house or pound.

With a hymn for the saints and a song for the sinners
You go and are welcome wherever you please;
You're a privileged guest at all manner of dinners,
You've a seat on the platform among the grandees.

At length your mere presence becomes a sensation,
Your cup of enjoyment is filled to its brim
With the pleasure Horatian of digit-monstration,
As the whisper runs round of "That's he!" or "That's him!"

But remember, oh, dealer in phrases sonorous,
So daintily chosen, so tunefully matched,
Though you soar with the wings of the cherubim o'er us,
The cross was human from which you were hatched.

No will of your own with its puny compulsion
Can summon the spirit that quickens the lyre;
It comes, if at all, like the Sibyl's convulsion
And touches the brain with a finger of fire.

So, perhaps, after all, it's as well to be quiet,
If you've nothing you think is worth saying in prose,
As to furnish a meal of their cannibal diet
To the critics, by publishing, as you propose.

But it's all of no use, and I'm sorry I've written—
I shall see your thin volume some day on my shelf;
For the rhyming tarantula surely has bitten,
And music must cure you, so pipe it yourself.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes in the January Atlantic.

"The New Boy."

He made his appearance at one of the Union schools the other morning, and, arriving ahead of time, he prevented any feeling of loneliness from seizing him by licking three boys and riding the gate off its hinges. He went in with the crowd when the bell rang, and, finding no empty seat, he perched himself on the wood-box. When the children repeated the "Lord's Prayer" in concert, the new boy "kept time" with his heel, and when they came to sing he argued that variety was the spice of song, and attempted to sing one of his own—one about a gentleman named Daniel Tucker, who dreamed that he was dead, and so forth. The teacher warned him to keep still, and he replied that he wouldn't come to that school if his musical qualifications were to be overlooked. When school finally opened the teacher secured his name and began asking him questions in order to find out how he should be graded.

"Can you spell?" she asked.

"What kind of spelling?" he cautiously replied.

"Spell 'house' if you please."

"Frame or brick house?" he asked.

"Any kind of a house."

"With a mortgage on it?"

"You may spell 'man' if you will," she said giving him a severe look.

"Man?"

"Yes."

"I don't care much about spelling 'man' this morning, but I will this afternoon. I've spelled it with my eyes shut."

"Do you know your alphabet?" she asked, changing the subject.

"Never had any?" was the prompt reply.

"Do you know anything about reading?"

"I read like lightning!" he answered.

She handed him a reader, and said:

"Let me hear you read."

"Read right out loud?"

"Yes."

"I'm afraid it would disturb the children," he whispered.

"Go on and let me hear you read."

He looked carefully at the page, scowled his brow and read:

"If I was a lame boy and didn't get any nuts in my stocking Christmas, dum my eyes! but I'd make things jump around that house next morning!"

He handed the book back and the teacher asked:

"Richard, how many are three and three?"

"Three and three what?" he inquired.

"Anything."

"It's a good deal according to what it is," he replied as he settled back. "I know that three and three cats don't make a dog!"

"Did you ever study geography, Richard?"

"Yes, ma'm."

"What is geography?"

"It's a book."

"Is this world round or flat?"

"Hills and hollers!" he replied.

"Richard can you write?"

"Write what?"

"Can you write your name?"

"I could, I suppose; but I've got my name without writing."

"Can you write a letter?"

"Who to?"

"To any one."

"Yes, I could, if I had money to pay the postage."

"Well, Richard," she said, in despair, "you'll have to go into the lower room if you want to come to school here."

"I druther stay here."

"But you can't."

"I'll bet you this knife agin ten cents I can."

She took him by the arm to remove him, but he laid his hand on her shoulder and said in a warning voice:

"Don't get me mad now, or I'll let myself loose."

She called the principal down, and as he approached the boy he commanded:

"Boy, what are you doing here?"

"Gitting eddicashun!" replied Richard.

"You go right down stairs now!" continued the principal.

"Well, don't sass me, for I was never here before!" replied Richard, slowly moving his legs as if he meant to go down.

The principal took him by the collar and jerked him around, got kicked on the shin and bitten in the wrist, and finally landed the young student on the walk.

"Now, you go home!" he shouted as he tried to recover his breath.

"Am I educated?" inquired Richard.

"You seem to be."

"Gimme a diplomy, then."

"You clear out or I'll have you arrested."

"Hain't I a scholar in this school no more?"

"No, sir."

"Who owns this school house?" demanded the boy.

"No matter—you clear out."

"Will you come out in the yard here where you can't hang to anything?" asked the boy.

"Begone, I say!"

"Don't draw no darringer on me!" warned the boy as he backed off, "nor don't think you can scare me with any of your bowie-knives!"

The principal walked in and shut the door, and after the new boy had stood there long enough to show that he wasn't afraid, he turned and walked off, growling to himself:

"I'll git the foreman of No. 6 to pound that feller afore he's a week older!"

Daily Chronicle.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1875.

A Distressing Accident.

A remarkable domestic tradgedy has just occurred in Spencerport, N. Y., the details of which are of a most painful description. It appears that Mrs. Prendgast and her two little children were passing by a cistern in the vicinity of their home, when one of the children suddenly disappeared. Mrs. Prendgast called it by name, but receiving no response rushed to the cistern, and by the scant rays of light that entered the cistern at the top saw her child struggling in the water. Without another thought she let herself down into the cistern and seized her child from the water. Clasping the little one in her arms she found that while unconscious it was not past the aid of restoratives if applied at once. Mrs. Prendgast found, however, that she could not get out while encumbered with the child, and she tossed it as gently as possible up through the opening, and it alighted safely on the floor. The poor mother immediately found that she was now no better off than before, for she could not reach the edge of the aperture, which was the only possible support or aid to drawing herself out. She called loudly for aid, and looking up the mother saw her little boy peering down into the cistern. She cried out to him to run to his father's shop and bring him. The little fellow, either frightened at the hollow sound of his mother's voice coming up from the depths of the cistern, or losing his balance, jumped and fell headlong into the water. He disappeared beneath the surface, but soon appeared again, strangling and choking. His mother lifted him out and quickly restored him. She then put him up through the opening and enjoined him to run away at once and tell his father to come home. While he was gone Mrs. Prendgast succeeded in jumping so as to grasp the top of the aperture with her hands. She drew herself up far enough to see her child lying still struggling, on the floor, but all the efforts of the distressed woman to get further were unavailing. It was only by the exercise of some unnatural strength that she maintained her position. The little boy hurried to his father's shop, some distance away, and although he could not make Mr. Prendgast understand what the matter was, the latter knew by the excited manner and dripping clothes of the child that something was wrong, and hastened home. As he entered the door his wife uttered a fearful shriek, and loosening her hold fell back into the cistern. Mr. Prendgast at once lowered himself through the opening, and found in lifting his wife from the water that she was unconscious. Mr. Prendgast succeeded in bringing her back to consciousness and finally she recovered so far as to get out of the cistern with the aid of her husband. She fell to the floor, unconscious, however, exhausted from the effort. Mr. Prendgast at once summoned a physician in hope that his child might yet be restored and to have something done for his wife. The child was past aid, having been dead some time. The wife is now lying in a critical condition, and will doubtless become insane.

News and Notes.

The Boston Journal speaks for Faneuil Hall as the place for holding the republican National convention in '76.

"The Ways and Means committee. Let's see," said an old gentleman, with a very bright sparkle in his eye; "that's a very important one, and the democrats appreciate the fact; but I tell you there is Blaine, Kelly, Garfield and Burchard on the tail of it, and if they don't wag the body of that dog, I'll never bark," and he grinned just as a man always does when he tells a very funny truth.

The bodies of John Kells and George Elwell, who were blown overboard near Federal street bridge, Boston, by the gas explosion, have been recovered.

The Indianapolis Journal is disgusted with the whole lot, saying: "The chairmanships that are not filled by rebels are filled by second-rate men or by nobodies, while the able and experienced republicans bring up the rear. Perhaps, under all the circumstances, Mr. Kerr has done the best he could; but, between his personal ambition and the wretched paucity of materials with which he had to deal, he has made a terrible botch of it for himself and the country, though he has done as good a day's work for the republican party as we could desire."

The Postmaster-General has re-appointed Cols. Bangs and Woodward as superintendents of the railway mail service. Col. Thomas P. Cheney is re-appointed as assistant at Boston.

Hon. George Bancroft told a reporter of the Philadelphia Item, recently, that the coming Centennial Exhibition would in every respect excel any international exhibition ever before given. He thinks it will drive away hard times and encourage immigration to an astonishing extent. Mr. Bancroft thinks the next Presidential campaign will be the most exciting one of our history.

Chicago clamors for the republican National convention like any other infant for the moon. Hush, thou babe, lie still and slumber. The old nurse, Philadelphia, deserves all the conventions. She has seen a centennial, while thou hast scarcely witnessed a tencennial.—New York Graphic.

The Cincinnati Enquirer is very bitter on Mr. Morrison, saying: "A Mr. Morrison, the leader of the democratic party in the House! A brawling empty-headed, unknown village politician of Waterloo, Ill., attempting to direct democratic legislation in the National House of Representatives! There is no man in the east more fully in sympathy with the wishes of the east, upon the currency question than Mr. Morrison."

The house of Mr. Oliver Berry, at Stratham, was discovered to be on fire in the cellar a few days ago. Mrs. Berry and her young daughter extinguished it with buckets of water.

The report of the Light-house Board shows that the Board has made an extensive and careful series of experiments with regard to the merits of the mineral oils of this country for the purpose of light-house illumination, and an elaborate and extensive series of experiments with regard to sounds as applied to signals for warning the mariner of his approach to danger in thick or foggy weather, when all other guides become of little use. Even at this stage of the experiments success has been most gratifying, and by pursuing these inquiries the Board hopes to arrive at results not only valuable to science but of practical importance in enabling it better to contend with one of the worst elements of danger which the mariner has to meet on our extended and dangerous coast. The Board asks for $2.139,600 for the year ending June 30, 1877, as against $1,899,000 appropriated last year for its general support, and $789,926 for constructing new light-houses, light-ships, etc., as against $915,400 appropriated last year.

The Detroit Free Press says: "If you want to murder anybody go to Boston to do it. There will undoubtedly be some one on the jury who will stick to it that your victim fell from Bunker Hill Monument."

The official vote of the election in Oregon last Fall to fill the Congressional vacancy is as follows: Warren (rep.), 8106; Lane (dem.), 9373; Whitney (ind.), 837; Dimick (temp.), 345. This gave Lane the State by 267 plurality.

It is the impression at Washington that the cast of the House committees tends to destroy Tilden's chances for the Presidential nomination and to give the preference to a Western man, probably Hendricks.

The U. S. District Court for New Hampshire has granted an order for the sale of the British schooner White Star, which was libeled for mariners' wages and supplies. also schooner Volant, of Hampton, libeled for mariners' wages, the owners of the latter being in bankruptcy.

—"How sweet, but how bald for one so young?" is what a young lady remarked about an infant.

—Through sleeping cars are now running from Washington to New Orleans without change.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TO-DAY:

Notice—Daniel Senter.
Notice—I. O. O. F.
Lost—Pocket-Book.

Jottings.

Merry Christmas to ye!

It is thought that the Daniel street fire was the result of spontaneous combustion of rags. Mr. A. J. Badger had $1000 insurance on the building and $2000 on his stock of stoves and tin ware. Mrs. Voudy's insurance was $600. Miss Sullivan, dressmaker, estimates her loss at $200. Mr Daniel Senter's loss was covered by insurance.

The subject of Rev. Carlos Martyn's special discourse in the North church, to-morrow P. M., will be "Satan: Is there Such a Being?"

At the Walker school, Mr. C. E. Buzzell is the recipient of a rich silver castor with cut glass bottles, accompanied with a choice vase containing a bouquet of flowers, gifts from the pupils. Miss S. E. Drake received an elegantly bound volume, and a toilet set in applique work. Silver fruit knives were presented to Misses Young and Moore. After the presentation had taken place, the four schools in the building were united and enjoyed a holiday sing for an hour.

The Young People's Union rooms will be open this day and evening.

There will be a praise meeting in the Court street Christian church, Sunday evening, at seven o'clock, led by Dr. E. B. Goodall. All are welcome.

Service at the Bow Mission to-morrow evening at 6 o'clock. Subject, The Birth of Christ. All are invited.

Dr. Osorio informs us that a case of smallpox has been discovered in the schooner Water Lily, lying at Russell's wharf. The name of the party affected is Warren J. Lewis, and he has been taken to the pest house. The vessel has also been fumigated under the supervision of Dr. Osario, and taken down to quarantine; and every means taken to prevent the spread of the disease.

Hon. Frank Jones has had a line of telegraph constructed from his brewery on Albany street to his counting room on Market street. The telegraph is operated by keys, and prints messages sent and received at either end of the line.

Rev. W. H. Cudworth delivers the next lecture in the lyceum course on Tuesday evening, subject: "The Humane Treatment of Animals."

Rev. J. K. Aldrich of Rye gave the third lyceum lecture at the Congregational church, Kittery Point, Thursday evening. The subject, "What to Say and How to Say It." was amusingly and very instructively treated. Mrs. McKenzie of Boston, will follow next Monday evening, reading from several noted authors.

Children's Christmas Service will be held at St. John's (Episcopal) church to-morrow afternoon.

Schooner Flying Cloud, of Boston, has been purchased by Capt. Thomas B. and Thomas White of Newcastle, for the Winter fishing business.

Going to the Skating Rink to-day?

The Court street Christian society will have a Christmas tree at their chapel, this evening.

The subject of the lecture at the Universalist church on Sunday evening will be "Old Probabilities."

In "Ballads for Home," just issued by Lee & Shepard, of Boston, appears the beautiful poem of "Joe" from the pen of Albert Laighton, beautifully illustrated.

The new clothing manufactory in the Came building on High street has commenced operations.

Portsmouth Grange has chosen the following officers for the ensuing year: Master, Frank W. Miller; Overseer, Frank G. Sherburne; Lecturer, Robert H. Pickering; Secretary, Albert A. Fernald; Treasurer, Amos Pearson; Chaplain, Mrs. E. P. Seavey; Steward, Albert M. Pray; Assistant Steward, William P. Israel; Lady Assistant Steward, Mrs. Frank G. Sherburne; Ceres, Mrs. Clarence B. Mason; Pomona, Miss Addie York; Flora, Mrs. William P. Israel; Gatekeeper, David P. Wright.

The post office will be open to-day from 8 A. M., to 12 M., and from 5 to 6 P. M.

The vesper service at the Unitarian church on Sunday evening will be made additionally attractive by the chancel decorations and the oratorio music which is to be given. The sermon will be appropriate to the occasion.

Mr. Daniel Senter has rented a room over the provision store of Lane & Hartshorn on Daniel street, where he will continue the hair-dressing business and hopes to meet his old customers.

The Aldermanic Board broke the deadlock on the school committee, Thursday evening, by choosing Hon. Thomas E. O. Marvin to fill the vacancy in the committee occasioned by the death of the late Marco B. Goodrich. The division in the committee has been caused by a conflict of opinion, half of the number favoring a radical change in the High School committee. The choice of Ex-Mayor Marvin is said to be a victory for the five members of the committee who oppose a change.

There will be special Christmas services at St. Mary's church this morning at 10:30, Father O'Callahan acting as celebrant.

The theatrical company who were to present "The Two Orphans" at the Temple, Friday evening, went to pieces in Manchester under the Sheriff's hammering.

Police Court.

On Friday, Tristram G. Brown and John T. Philbrook, of Seabrook, were brought before Judge Page charged with setting fire to the barn of Geo. A. Philbrook on the 9th and 19th insts. Seventeen witnesses had been summoned and Judge Page decided to continue the hearing in the case of Philbrook. Brown was discharged from custody, the evidence being insufficient to hold him. Philbrook is said to be the probable heir to his father's property, some $50,000 or $60,000, and it would seem should be among the last persons guilty of arson. He will spend Christmas at home on bail ($300) and on Monday will appear again for examination. The following note from Sheriff Rowe explains itself:

Ed. Chron.; I would take it as a favor if you would correct the statement of the Times that Detective Hale of Newburyport arrested John T. Philbrook. Mr. Hale was not in the State at the time the arrest was made, neither has he any authority to make any arrest in this State, he being neither a resident nor an office in this County or State. The warrant was placed in the hands of a competent officer of this county and the arrests were made accordingly. Mr. Hale first learned that the arrest had been made by meeting the officer on the cars with one of the prisoners in his charge.

SAMUEL ROWE.

A Deserving Case.

The fire of Thursday morning on Daniel street is a heavy misfortune to a young and industrious girl who was supporting herself and mother by dress-making, and now finds herself bereft of every thing, her economically furnished room gone, the wages on three weeks' work irrecoverable, her help unpaid, and mid-winter staring her in the face. Are there a hundred ladies or gentlemen who are willing to give one dollar each toward helping this deserving girl go to work again? Though the fire has cost me a dress I will join ninety-nine other ladies in giving my dollar toward setting this deserving girl again at work.

ONE OF THE SISTERHOOD.

P. S. Please leave your contribution at Mr. Preston's store.

Salt Spray Philosophy.

WHITE ISLAND, Dec. 20.

In my last communication I discoursed of shipwrecks, and from shipwrecks to the life-saving service the transition is easy. Looking over a paper some three weeks old, yesterday, I saw an item to the effect that a vessel anchored off a life-saving station on Cape Cod, and flying a signal of distress, was not aided from the station because there were on hand to launch the boat! Isn't there a screw loose somewhere, in the management of the service? Who ever heard of a British life-saving station having anything the matter with its gear or its crew, when a vessel was in distress in its vicinity? No valid reason can be given why the American life-saving service should not be as efficient as the British; but it certainly is not. Our sailors and fishermen are as skillful boatmen, as brave and enduring, and as ready to imperil their lives in the cause of humanity as the British coast-rangers; and the reason for the worthlessness of our service when compared with theirs cannot be that the men on our side are inferior.

Last Winter the crew of an Italian barque lost their lives on Cape Cod, because (as was reported) the powder at the nearest life-saving station had hardly strength enough to roll the line-carrying shot from the muzzle of the gun, let alone throwing it over the wreck. At Rye Beach is a station, which may be well fitted and probably has a first-class crew,—for such a crew is easy to get in this vicinity; but if the boat is located where I have been told it is (for I have never seen it) no crew that ever manned a boat could pull one off that sets in there in such weather as would drive a vessel on shore. The water is shoal for a long distance from the beach at that place, and in heavy weather the seas run so high and break so far out that even if a boat would hold together and could be pulled through to deeper water her crew would by that time be better fitted for manning a set of hospital-beds than a life-boat. I have been told there was no boat at all at the station last Winter, the life-boat not having then been completed; this was a trifling matter, but if they had really wanted a boat I know where they could have gotten one from a light-station, and the light-keeper would have been only too glad to have parted with her, as he was afraid to burn her for fire-wood lest the government should make him pay for her, and didn't dare try to go anywhere in her, his LIFE NOT BEING INSURED.

THROUGH THE SURF

She would have been a safe boat for her crew, at any rate, for she would have gone to the bottom before ever they could have gotten her from the Rye Beach station into water deep enough to drown a man.

You must have had some weather on shore lately. Last night was colder out here than any night of last Winter, the thermometer showing ten degrees below zero at midnight; last Winter the lowest point it reached on this island was four below zero, at which time it was twenty-four below in Portsmouth; and if the difference was shown on Sunday night the bottom of the Portsmouth thermometer must have fallen out. Ten below zero is cold enough to suit us, so we have concluded to have no Christmas Day on White Island this year.

A MIGHTY LIKELY STORY

that which went the rounds some months ago, about the earth's rapid approach to the sun.

Picking up a fragment of newspaper (which from its style and "make-up" I judged to be a piece of the Concord Patriot) to light a fire with this morning, I noticed an item headed "Gen. Babcock and the Whiskey Ring," in which it was stated that "the conviction is spreading rapidly" that Babcock was one of the ring, "it is asserted by well informed persons" that he received a present from one of the ring, and "it is currently reported" that he is to be removed from office. Why this superabundance of democratic "evidence?" Babcock may have been guilty of whiskey frauds, and convicted of and hung for the same before this time, for aught I know, but at the time (Dec. 3 or 4) the item referred to was printed it was merely against an officer of high rank who energetically denied all guilt and demanded a court-martial; yet "the conviction is spreading rapidly," "it is asserted by well informed persons," and "it is currently reported" would be accepted as proofs conclusive of his guilt, by the average democratic reader. Had the newspapers added those other time-honored democratic "proofs" of republican iniquity, "it is well known," "there can be no doubt," "it is acknowledged," "it is believed" and "it is easy to prove," all necessity for trying Babcock would have been done away with, and he might have been hung at once, GUILTY OR NOT.

This style of assault is a favorite—almost universal—one with democratic editors when they attack republicans and the republican party, and has some decided advantages over a more honorable kind of political warfare; it is the easiest thing in the world to do, for no basis of truth is required; it serves its purpose with the people it is intended to influence just as well as well-supported statements of facts would do; and it cannot well be parried, for there is seldom anything to answer in the mere mention that a rumor exists.

Once in a while one of them overdoes the thing, as for instance when a former democratic editor in Portsmouth announced (just before election) as an "unquestioned fact" that "more than one hundred thousand loud-mouthed radical shriekers for freedom" had "become millionaires" in less than six years at the expense of the people, thus making out that the republicans, besides carrying on the government in the most extravagant manner (according to democratic charges) had stolen a sum the interest of which for six months would have more than paid the national debt!

THIS NOBLE DEMOCRATIC EXPOSE of republican wickedness failed of its intended effect, not because it stated what was utterly false or what was extremely improbable, but because it announced the performance of an absolute impossibility, which was easily demonstrable as such.

By the way, how comes on the battle of the financial idols of the democracy? We have been so long accustomed to hear the democrats proclaim themselves the only true and faithful worshipers of the golden calf that the ardent devotion of more than half the party to the rag-baby deity is quite comical. The poor rag baby got an awful banging in November, certainly, but its disciples seem to be as devout as ever (judging from the tone of my last batch of papers) while the calf's followers are more than ever determined to "keep the faith." So it looks as though these will enter the democratic national convention, each determined to rule,—in which case either the rag-baby must repeat a chapter of ancient history by swallowing the golden calf, or the calf must butt the stuffing out of the rag-baby and kick it out of the convention. Either way there'll be warm work probably. PAKEHA.

GIBSON—DELANEY. In this city, Dec. 20th, by Chaplain Thos. A. Gill, U. S. N., Mr. Geo. N. Gibson and Miss Katherine T. E. Delaney of Kittery.

DIED

SHAW. In this city, Dec. 23, of consumption, Mr. Peter Shaw, aged 31 years. He learned the printer's trade at this office and was a faithful workman and cherished friend. After the closing of the rebellion Mr. Shaw went to Alabama, being there associated with Hon. James Shaw, his brother, in the newspaper business, at Selma. He was afterward business manager of the Mobile Watchman, a paper largely owned by freedmen, and remained in charge until ill health warned him to abandon it. He returned to his home in this city a year ago, wasted in body and worn and disheartened in spirit; but under the kind and watchful care he seemed to rally for a time with new hopes of returning health. Death, however, had too strong a hold, and tired nature was compelled to yield the unequal struggle at last.

Mr. Shaw was singularly modest and retiring; and but few compartively knew his real worth. To those in whom he confided he shew a brave and generous heart, and proved himself a man of keen perception and rare intelligence. His was a brief but active life, and while a career of much promise and usefulness is ended, it is a satisfaction to those who knew him best that a calm and unmistakable courage in reference to his future ever possessed him and that in dying he simply

"Folded the drapery of his couch about him
And laid down to pleasant dreams."

LAND. In this city, Dec. 22, Mr. Fitz William Lane, aged 44 years.

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Hicker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. H. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $50.

Daily Chronicle.

—Some gentlemen arrived at Bismarck, the western terminus of the Northern Pacific railroad, lately, wishing to come east. The stage had gone and would not go again for a week. They thought of taking a hand car, but feared the labor of turning it two hundred miles would be a little too much. They finally concluded it must be done, and started for Fargo, where they would come to the regular trains. After being on a few hours and getting pretty tired, an idea suggested itself which proved a blessing during the rest of the journey. One of the party had an "A" test, and with it they made a sail, which relieved them from the hard work of "pumping." Old Boreas proved to have a better supply of wind than they did, and they bowled along at a speed that sometimes made their hair stand on end, making the distance from Bismarck to Fargo in seventeen and a half hours—an average of nearly twelve miles an hour.

—To go into bankruptcy is now quite a common thing, and creditors have a happy faculty of settling, on the principle of "giving the old man a chance." There was a time when to fail in business was considered a very serious affair, a disgrace, in fact; but now-a-days, in view of the disturbed financial condition, the dullness of times, shrinkage prices and bad debts, bankruptcy is regarded as a matter of course and those interested try and make the best of it, call it square, and permit their debtors to resume business. In cases of downright fraud or outside speculation, however, creditors bear down with all the power the law will allow them, and the bankrupt has no show at all—which is all right, viewed from a moral commercial stand-point. After all the weak houses have gone to grass, business will get to hard-pan.

It Pays! It Pays!
WHAT PAYS?
IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, Lawyer, Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.
IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the world exclusively devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.
Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest, and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Original Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in this country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest and best illustrated weekly paper per devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the world.
The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.
Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.
A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.
PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.
Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Inventor. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume of the Laws, Decisions, Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!
☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:
Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have been so weak that I could do but little work. For years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. At this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done more among good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for six packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.
Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.
BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia as bad as that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. I have one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,
Care Watson & Gannett.
Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.
MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up a pin, or rise from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I got the eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in my health and it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.50; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.
Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.
DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.
THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. Pals, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reedsdale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

The New York Times.
A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.
Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.
ESTABLISHED 1851.
In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a leading place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.
As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful features of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms. The paper, moreover, has always resisted the pernicious theories advocated by mischievous journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.
As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is necessary, but party interests must be subservient to those of the country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the only principles by which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not origina ly established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any favors whatever from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk of losing it much needed popularity, and this party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially given, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for receiving the votes of people of the country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of dealing honestly with the national creditor, and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican party.
The Democratic Party now boasts loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, its professions are of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic lawyers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.
In the Presidential campaign, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.
Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from sectional interested aims, political robbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the most care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature of the day, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest writers in the country.
The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character, and in arrangement we have been able to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. Palmer, Charles Nordhoff, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is now discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative; and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the inhospitable climate of New England
PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

THE LIGHT-HOUSE KEEPER.

The clock had just struck three. It was no trifle of bronze or ormolu, neither was it one of those quaint, old sentinels of dark wood and tarnished gilding that you sometimes see on antique stairways, keeping ghostly guard over the tread of generation after generation. It was a trim, compact little clock, hanging where its dial, like an eye, seemed to look through the four deep set windows of the circular stone room, and watch the tides as they swung back and forth murmuring discontentedly around the solid masonry that upheld the light-house. A strange place, a dreary, desolate place it seemed, prison-like in its isolation, and terrific in its frowning strength. Yet even there the grace of woman's presence cast its visible sign and token. Upon the pine table a vase of late autumnal flowers glowed in velvety carmine and gold, and a round hat, decorated with the scarlet wing of a tropical bird, lay beside it.

Lucy Penrith was looking from one of the windows—a slender, pretty girl, with touches of faint crimson on either cheek, and violet gray eyes, where the deep lights seemed to swim. Her black dress was very simple; but there was a flutter of vivid scarlet ribbon at her throat, and a bunch of coral-red berries in her shining brown braids, bearing silent witness to the genuine love of the picturesque that exists in every woman's heart.

"I don't think the sea is very rough, father."

Isaac Penrith deliberately folded the newspaper inside out, and commenced on a new column. He was a hard-featured, rugged old man, with iron-grey hair and a brow where the wrinkles stood out like knotted cord.

Lucy stole across the stone floor and put her dimpled face between the printed page and her father's spectacles.

"Now, father, you will row me across. Oh, father, I never can spend Thanksgiving evening in this dismal place, and I promised them at the farm house!"

"Rash promises are better broken than kept," sententiously answered old Isaac.

"But it was not a rash promise, father. All the young people are to be there, and Philip Martin—"

She stopped abruptly, checked by the dark frown that corrugated her father's brow.

"Philip Martin! I tell you Lucy, I'll hear no more idle nonsense about that boy. It was Philip Martin whose father tried to be keeper of the light-house in my stead—a bad, black-hearted man—and the boy is a branch of the old tree, I'll go bail. And—"

But Lucy was crying, with her head on her father's shoulder. Isaac's heart relented within him.

"I'm a cross old bear, I know," he made haste to utter, "and I ought to be keerful what I say. Don't cry, little one; there. I'll row ye 'cross, if you say so; 'taint near dark yet, and it's rather hard on a young gal like you to live in this stone dungeon year in and year out. I wish I hadn't told Sam he could have the day to himself. But never mind; I'll be back long afore lightin' time."

Lucy brightened up like a rose after a shower.

"Oh, father, I am so glad! I do so want to go!"

She tripped backward and forward, and adjusting the round hat with the scarlet wing, folding the brown shawl, and re-arranging the coral berries in her hair, while old Isaac, with his fur cap on, and his hands in the pocket of his sailor coat, watched her with a proud, amused sense of proprietorship.

"She's more like one o' them foreign birds than she is a human critter," thought the light-house keeper. "I know I'm goin' ag'in all rules and regulations, leavin' the place alone, but 'twont be but a few minutes, and I don't want to disappoint the gal, her heart's so kind o' set on't. I've got to be father and mother both to the child—she is a good gal, and a pretty one, too, if she does happen to be Isaac Penrith's darter."

"I'll carry the flowers over, father," said Lucy, removing them from the vase, and wrapping a bit of paper round the damp stems. "There's not much left in the farm-house garden, and they'll help to make the Thanksgiving table gay. Now, father, I'm ready."

And as Isaac Penrith pulled the shell-like little boat out to sea, with the long, steady, vigorous strokes that betokened his daily habituation to life on the deep, he fell into a musing remembrance of the far-away Thanksgivings of his youth, with their rains of red and golden leaves, and the odor of sweet fern in the pastures, and the old red farm-house among the bleak New England hills. And unconsciously the roar of the green, translucent tides became the wail of winds in an upland forest, and Lucy's blooming face opposite him seemed his mother's smiling out from the mist of years.

Nor was the salt drop on old Isaac's cheek the spray from his steady dripping oars.

Lucy Penrith sprang lightly to her feet as the keel of the boat grated softly on the smooth, shining beach.

"You will walk up to the house with me, father. See how high the sun is!"

Isaac stopped and secured his boat to a huge protecting rock by means of a loop of heavy rope.

"I'll go," he said, briefly, adding within himself, "and if that Phil Martin's there, I'll bring her back with me. I don't like his father."

The old brown house stood a little way back on the beach, with a smooth stretch of silvery sand in front, and a cluster of black-green cedars in the rear, tossing their plumy heads above in the blustering salt-scented gale, and a crowd of merry-makers, young and old, in their Thanksgiving habiliments, were in the porch awaiting the arrival of the new comers.

"Oh, Lucy, we thought you were never coming!" said a bright-eyed little damsel, whose hair was blowing about her face like a mist of rippled gold. "What mad you so late? And Phil Martin—"

Lucy's appealing, frightened glance stopped the half-uttered sentence short; but Isaac Penrith had caught its meaning.

"Lucy," he said, drawing his daughter aside as the whole group hurried merrily into the house once more, where a fire of driftwood blazed redly in the huge, old-fashioned fireplace, and, the "old people," in caps and brass-buttoned suits, were purring around the genial glow; "Lucy, is there anything between you and—and Dorr Martin's son?"

She colored and turned her face away, while the tears sprang to her eyes.

"Tell me," he urged, sternly grasping her arm; "I will have no more half-confidence. Has he asked you to be his wife?"

"Yes, father."

"And you—what answer did you make?"

"Father," simply answered Lucy, with her violet eyes raised to his, "I love him."

"Child," said Isaac Penrith, "conquer this idle folly as best you may. I never will give my daughter to Phil Martin; so you know my will and determination in the matter."

"But, father—"

He turned abruptly away, releasing Lucy to the demands of half a dozen pleading, bird-voiced girls, while he himself briefly declined the kindly offers of hospitality which beset him on every side.

"I must be goin' back, friends," he said. "'Twasn't fairly right for me to come over, but Lucy was set on't, and I mustn't lose no more time. By the looks o' the clouds we'll have a stormy night, and the Lord help them that are out to sea along this cruel shore."

And so he bade the revellers a "Good night," and looked his last at the ruddy glow of the drift-wood fire, and Lucy's sweet face, flushed by its radiance—or something else—as she stood adjusting a late rose in Barbara Cliffe's gold-misted hair.

"I'll walk down to the shore with ye, neighbor Penrith," said old Truman Cliffe, pulling on his dreadnaught coat. "Somehow, I've been a sailor so long I can't bear to keep indoors when the wind is blowin' as it does now."

The late autumnal sunset was fringing the overhanging clouds with sullen fire—such fire as burns itself out in stormy reflections, leaving a track like bloody footsteps across the tides—the winds were moaning sullenly along the barren shore, and the distant thunder of the ground swell sounded like the bass chords of Nature's organ.

"You're right, Isaac," said Truman Cliffe; "it's going to be an awful night. There's mischief in them clouds, and if ever there was murder in the sound of the breakers, it's there to-night. Why, what's the matter?"

Poor Isaac Penrith had uttered a cry that made the old sailor's blood grow chill in his veins.

"That boat! Merciful Father! the boat has gone!"

It was true; the loop had somehow become loosened, and the little bark was rocking somewhere on the waves, beyond sight or sound.

"Truman, I must have your boat, and as quick as possible. The sun is nearly down, but I can reach the light-house yet before lighting time!"

He spoke in a husky voice, while the beating of his heart seemed like the strokes of a muffled drum.

Truman Cliffe turned a white, dismayed face toward his companion.

"Our boat is down to Kilcoran, with Jared and his girls; they won't be back until to-morrow morning!"

There was an instant's silence, and then Isaac spoke, still in the same hoarse, unnatural voice:

"Is there no boat that I could get?"

"There's Hugh Donnelly's down to the Point; but that's two miles off!"

"I'll go for it!"

Truman stopped him, as he was turning blindly toward the shore.

"No, Isaac, you're lame and stiff, and I am a good walker. Keep your strength for the hard rowin' you'll have to do, and I'll be back as quick as mortal man can go and come. Sit down on the rock old friend, and rest—you're trembling like a leaf!"

Isaac Penrith obeyed, mechanically, and dropped his head upon his hands, sitting motionless, while the bloody tracks upon the waves grew purpler and more indistinct, and the far-off thunder of the ground swell seemed to utter menaces in his ear.

Two miles away! and the brief twilight was already setting in! How slowly Truman Cliffe plodded along; and yet those idiots of the shore had always called him a swift walker. He would go himself, and he started up only to sink back again weak and helpless.

"I have no strength left," he thought. "I must wait for that snail to creep along in the sands. They were right; it will be a fearful night at sea! And there is no light-house to warm homeward-bound ships off the reefs!"

As he closed his eyes he could almost see the stately ships drifting upon their death, and going to pieces along the sunken rocks, while their crews were looking out in vain for the red signal star of danger! He could hear the creak and groan of shivering timber—the crash of mast and yard arm the dying shriek of human creatures! He shuddered convulsively.

"And I shall be a murderer! O! God, why did I desert my post?"

And in this moment of agony and repentance, Dorr Martin's mocking face rose up before him, full of evil exultation.

"He always said I could not be trusted, and he was right."

Dorr Martin's triumph was the bitterest drop in the bitter cup that Isaac Penrith drained to the dregs that stormy night!

"The sun has set—the hour of grace has past," he muttered to himself. "I will not live to have widows asking me where are the husbands who perished on those reefs—I will not look little children in the face, and hear them whisper that I murdered their father! I will not see Dorr Martin triumph in my ruin! No; better a quiet grave at the bottom of the sea than a life of remorse and dishonor! My little Lucy had better mourn me dead than live to blush for me! Goodbye, my fair-haired darling! I shall never see your bonny face more!"

How the wind blew his gray, uncovered hair about, as murmuring a faint, half-forgotten prayer, he crept down to the beach, going to seek his death where the cruel, white-fringed waves writhed up and along the shore. An instant he paused to look a last adieu to the world, the sky, the far spreading shore, when all of a sudden a wild, hoarse shriek broke from his parched lips.

For, like a red star, trailing in glory along the tumultuous sea, the light of the lighthouse streamed upon his vision! The danger signal—the steady finger of fire held up to bid a hundred crafts "beware!"—the beacon for which many and many an anxious helmsman was gazing out into the night! He was dreaming, his senses were not benumbed—yet the light was all ablaze in its huge crystal lantern, and he was guiltless of the weight of crime and misery that had so nearly weighed him down!

When Truman Cliffe rowed up to the shore, an hour afterward, he found Isaac Penrith kneeling on the wet sand with his forehead against the chill white rock.

"Well, I say for't!" ejaculated Truman. 'You haint been to the lighthouse and back, 'cause you hain't wings, and none but a bird could ha' done it. Who lighted up?"

"I don't know. Give me the oars, quick, Cliffe."

Truman stared, but made room for the keeper, and gave up the oars. Not a word was exchanged between them as Isaac rowed with giant strokes, and the little boat danced over the troubled billows, swift and light as a floating leaf. Nearer and nearer glowed the gigantic star—closer and closer its glory seemed to shine—until at length Isaac Penrith sprang upon the stone ledge, and rushed, two steps at a time, up the first stairway and into the lantern room.

There, with his feet on the fender, composedly looking over the columns of the newspaper, sat a young man. Penrith entered the room.

"Philip Martin!"

"Mr. Penrith!"

"You—you lighted the signal?"

"I did. I came over to bring Lucy to shore, and I found the light-house empty. Of course I concluded, something was wrong, so I went on duty myself until I should hear from you."

Isaac Penrith wrung the young man's hand.

"Philip—if—if there had been no light on the reefs all this night your father would have been keeper to-morrow, and I should have been a ruined man!"

The deep color rose into Philip Martin's cheek.

"If I had been a villain, Mr. Penrith, I should not be Philip Martin!"

"God bless you, Philip; God bless you!" murmured the old man. "I shall never forget this kindly office you have done me!"

"But Lucy?"

"Lucy is over at Cliffe's. Take the boat, Philip, and go for her! Truman is below. And Philip—"

"Sir?"

"Tell her—well, tell her what you like!"

The old man smiled faintly as he saw the warm flush deepen on Martin's bronzed cheek, and the next moment he was all alone.

Philip knew that the coveted prize was his at last, and the little boat flew back over the waves almost like an enchanted bark.

And throughout the length and breadth of the rejoicing nation that night, there was no Thanksgiving half so fervent as that breathed in the lighthouse when the signal star threw its fiery lines far out to sea, and the fog and mist brooded like a phantom over the face of the great deep.

News and Notes.

The News-Letter wants an Exeter military company formed to attend the Centennial.

The question as to where the next National republican convention shall be held promises to excite considerable discussion. Many of the committee favor Philadelphia, as it would give Western delegates a chance to see the Exposition, and besides, the excitement, bustle and stirring scenes recalled by the time and place would give eclat to the nomination.

At Enfield the temperature on Monday of last week was 30 degrees below zero. On the next day 40 above.

So far as heard from a majority of the members of the National democratic committee are opposed to holding the next democratic National convention east of Cincinnati.

Henry C. Bowen has obtained a verdict of $1000 in his libel suit against the Brooklyn Eagle.

The number of vessels lost from Gloucester, the past year, was sixteen, valued at $88,500, and insured for $81,726, mostly in home offices. The number of men lost was 123.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax has declined to have his name used for the Governorship of Indiana.

Newburyport has never been considered much of a republican place, and the outside world is therefore a little puzzled to know why, at the late municipal election, the city voted so strongly republican, especially as party politics are apt to be discarded in city elections. From what we can gather, there was one issue in the election, not without its effect, but which was kept out of sight as an active element in the canvass; and that was the Catholic question as developed during a recent sharp controversy between the Herald and Visitor on the one hand, and one McNulty, a priest, upon the other. McNulty's course was such that the responsible priest of the parish disavowed all responsibility for what he had written, and the controversy, which was sharp and bitter, drove the Catholic side of the question into a defensive position in such a manner as to place its advocate in a very unenviable position. The citizens, in their discussions on the street, in the workshop, at the grocery, and in other resorts, took sides, and were in considerable degree controlled by a determination to keep out of power that side in the controversy which finds its political resting-place mainly in the democratic party, which, on this occasion, rated at a considerable discount. The election may not result in much in the way of logical consequences, but it may serve to teach the hot-headed young priest that the superior wisdom of his elder is the best policy in the long run.—Salem Gazette.

Lamar figures it out that he will be elected Senator from Mississippi by seven majority.

Political-Personal.

NORTH HAMPTON, Dec. 24.

Ed. Chron.: It has been stated without authority that John W. F. Hobbs, Esq., of this town would not be a candidate for the republican nomination for Railroad Commissioner. At the urgent solicitation of his many friends, Mr. Hobbs has signified his willingness to accept the nomination if tendered him, and as he received more than sixty votes in the last convention (when he deprecated the use of his name), has always been a consistent republican, and as County Commissioner administered the duties of his office without a stain upon his reputation, his friends claim that his nomination would be a popular one. D.

—A few days ago an elegantly dressed lady got into a Madison avenue (New York) car, and although the day was cool, she could not wear her gloves on account of her many diamond rings. A balky horse having twice stopped the car, the lady went to the door, and, looking at the team for a few minutes, said to the driver: "That 'ere off horse ain't used to be drav on that 'ere side." And that was just the trouble in spite of the diamonds.

—One of the wealthiest men of New York began life in buying up old barrels. He's got on stavingly since.

—The manager of what is known as the Cold Air Attrition Flour Mills, at Chicago, forwards a sample of their whole wheat flour, for trial. The wheat which they grind is evidently of the best quality, and their methods certainly are hardly to be surpassed. The flouring of the wheat is done at one operation and in large and powerful currents of cold air, and no bolt is used to separate the outside covering of the berry, in which reside the rich nitrogenous and phosphatic principles. The flour is several shades darker than the popular kind, but this is unavoidable, and of the slightest possible consequence. The bread which our cook has succeeded in producing from it is rich and excellent. It requires a little skill at first to manipulate the flour and adjust the ferment; but when the right process is learned there is no difficulty in securing light, palatable, and nutritious bread. This variety of flour must in time displace the other, and there is no good reason why the white, starchy flour should be used at all in families. However, great reforms do not come about suddenly, and so we must wait for prejudices to give way. The number of families who clearly understand the importance of good, nutritious bread is very large, and increasing every day.—Jour. Chem.

—Sir Walter Scott was a great lover of dogs, and always had many fine ones around him. One day, in conversing with a friend he said: "These dogs," pointing to two fine hounds lying on the hearth, "understand every word I say." The friend expressed his doubts of this statement. Sir Walter, to prove it, took up a book and began to read aloud: "I have two lazy, good for nothing dogs, who lie by the fire and sleep, and let the cattle ruin my garden." Both dogs instantly sprang up, and ran out of the room, and finding no cattle in the garden, returned and lay down by the fire. The baronet again read from the book the same story. Again the dogs ran out and again returned disappointed, and lay down. The third time their master told the story, when instead of going out, the dogs then came up to him, looked in his face, whined and wagged their tails, as much as to say, "You have made game of us twice; you cannot do it a third time."

—All who have seen Senator Logan's photograph will appreciate the story that once in a game of poker Logan held three jacks, jack of hearts, jack of diamonds and jack of clubs. After running the bets up to the limit and calling down the hands, Logan found that his opponent had four tens, when, with true military fertility of resource, Logan furtively took out of his pocket one of his own photographs and played it upon his unsuspecting opponent for the jack of spades, thereby holding four jacks and sweeping the board.

—Sir John Bennett, the Alderman and well-known watchmaker in the city of London, delivered a lecture, during which he made the following happy metaphor: "You can stop a clock at any moment," he said, "but you cannot stop a watch. So it is with the talk of men and of women. Man is a great ugly, coarse machine, but you can silence him. Woman is a beautiful, fragile, jeweled thing—but she will run on till she stops of herself."

—A remarkable instance of calculation was recorded at Aylmer, Canada, last week, where a barber named Johnson, for a bet of fifty cents, ran under the cars of a railway train that was passing at a round speed. He won the wager, though he lost the heel of one boot by a wheel that came unpleasantly close as he emerged. The man who lost the bet said he had expected to win and get a couple of dollars for attending the inquest.

—As a colored resident of Detroit was breasting the storm, with a new umbrella over his head, he was halted by a friend and brother, who asked, "Is dat your umbrella?" "Yes, sah—cost me two dollars," was the prompt reply. "Mr. Savage," said the other, very solemnly, "when a man will buy a two dollar umbrella to keep the wet off'n a fifty-cent suit of close, what's de use to talk about economy?"—Detroit Free Press.

—A show-case containing fancy cards, etc., "specimens of the work done inside," stands in front of a Trenton, N. J., printing house, and a placard is attached to the same, which reads in large letters, "Hands off." A few nights since some witty newsboy gave quite a new import to the card by making it read "Hands off—on a drunk!"

—When Brick Pomeroy failed here his entire assets were comprised in the clothes on his back—socks and dickey, if we remember aright. It was too small a capital to establish a peanut stand here, so he went to Chicago and started a newspaper. —New York Graphic.

—Uncle Levi: "Now, Sammy, tell me, have you read the beautiful story of Joseph?" Sam: "Oh? yes, uncle." Uncle: "Well, then, what wrong did they do when they sold their brother?" Sam: "They sold him too cheap, I think."

—Jones, in a hurry, stumbled off an apothecary's step, and only saved himself from falling into the gutter by clutching at a street-lamp. He said it seemed as if he were always going from piller to post.

—Said a young man to his bachelor uncle: "What advice would you give to a young man who was contemplating matrimony?" "I should advise him to keep on contemplating it."

—There's lots ov men in this world that are like a rooster—take the cockade and spurs off from them and yu couldn't hardly tell them from a hen.

—The only recreation in Florida, nowadays, is to roam about with a palm leaf fan and eating oranges and bananas fresh plucked.

—Cheek wins in this world, especially if it is dimpled and rosy.

E. G. PIERCE, Jr., P. M.

Republican caucus in Ward Six this evening at half-past seven o'clock, at the Common Council room.

The funeral of Mr. F. W. Lane (formerly of the firm of Lane & Hartshorn) was largely attended on Sunday by the Odd Fellows, the deceased having been a member of Osgood Lodge of this city. Mr. Lane was also a member of the Rockingham Mutual Relief Association, from which his family received one thousand and nine dollars.

The brewery of A. Harris & Co. has gone into the hands of a corporation organized under the general law of this State, called the "Portsmouth Brewing Company," with a large capital stock, and it is said that they will at once enlarge the brewery and increase their business.

Quite an excitement is prevailing in York over the temperance question. About one hundred and fifty persons have signed the pledge and more are expected. A Mr. Blanchard from Portland has addressed one meeting, and a Mr. McKelvey, a reformed drunkard, has spoken twice; the last meeting being Thursday evening, at which the permanent organization of a reform club was made, by the choice of the following officers: President, George F. Plaisted; Vice-Presidents, Henry P. Abbott, Charles E. Hutchins, Palmer Perkins; Treasurer, Charles Ramsdell; Secretary, Willis G. Moulton; Chaplain, Elder H. Short.

William F. Fernald, Esq., has contracted to build previous to April 1st, for Messrs. Rider & Cotton, C. Morris Tredick and others, a schooner of about seventy tons, to be employed in the fishing business. Capt. John C. Hontvet is to command her.

The general school committee will meet this evening at half past seven o'clock for the purpose of electing a High School committee. The settlement of this vexed question will probably place the Board in a sufficiently harmonious condition to enable it to dispose of matters that are material to the interests of the schools, and which have hitherto suffered for the lack of unity.

The ball of the police on Friday night in Franklin Hall was very well attended, the large galleries being filled with spectators. The attendance from abroad was not as large as was anticipated, only one of the fraternity being present.

A "band" of one or more persons have made many successful raids on the poultry houses, all over the town of York, recently. Considerable lumber has also been stolen from parties near the village. This is a very proper time of year to repair buildings etc., and of course the lumber is very useful.

Christmas

Was a dull day, following nearly a week of weather that rivalled Florida in balminess. An inch of snow fell in the morning, not enough for sleighing. The Christmas services in family and church were as interesting as ever, but there was more than the usual amount of drunkenness on the streets. Fights were numerous and kept the supernumerary police on the qui vive. Loud-mouthed rowdies filled the air with obscenity and profanity, and insulted ladies with impunity, after dark. As if Portsmouth had not a sufficiently numerous corps of young roughs, the boys on the training ship were let loose, and went about town in boisterous bravado, strengthening their courage by oft-repeated potations and boldly brandishing sheath knives in a threatening manner. Uncle Sam would do well to keep these "young ones" on shipboard, else their swagger and rowdyism may bring them into serious trouble if it be found that the police force is too incompetent to manage them. Every good citizen is directly interested in keeping the city orderly, and the time has not arrived when it must be delivered over to the worst classes.

—The Norristown Herald seasonably says: "Young man, if you should see your girl gazing intently at your feet don't shift them about uneasily, or draw them up und sit upon them, under the impression that she is overwhelmed by their immense size. She is merely taking their measure mentally for a pair of slippers, on the toes of which she intends to work a blue dog with a green tail and scarlet ears."

—All Paris turned out at the funeral of Dejazet, the actress who amused three generations of Frenchmen. The coffin itself was hidden by wreaths of white lilacs, violets and gold. Some of the crowns were those which had been heaped around her on that benefit night when she sat on the stage in the midst of the first actors and actresses of the capital, and sang Beranger's "Lisette" for the last time.

—"How is it," asked Bishop Wiberforce of one of his Roman Catholic servant girls, 'that you can feel so kindly disposed toward me, when you believe that I shall certainly be lost?" "Oh, no!" said she. "But how can I be saved," persisted the Bishop, "when your Church teaches that there is no salvation out of its pale?" "You will be saved through your invincible ignorance," was the reply.

—A Detroiter, who didn't exactly know how to get a letter registered, sent some money away the other day, and he wrote on the envelope: "Registered with a two dollar bill inside." Fearing that this might not be strong enough, one of his friends wrote; "I'll swear that I saw Jim put two dollars in this." The man who fools with that letter will get into trouble.

—As a Tremont Street car was rapidly passing West Street the other afternoon, a fashionably dressed young man stepped out upon the platform with the remark. "Never-ah mind, conductah! Don't stop! I'm an old hand at riding on cahs!" And he gracefully swung his left leg off the step and took a seat on the new curb.—Boston Courier.

—A lady in Connecticut not long since visited a brother who resides in a distant city, taking her little daughter with her. Fatigued with the long ride the child was impatient to retire in the early evening. "You must wait till your uncle prays:" "I didn't know that uncle prayed; I thought he was a democrat."

—"I don't know," said a young lady, meditatively, as she glanced at an elegantly-dressed rival who was sailing out of church Sunday morning with all the airs of an Empress, "I don't know, but it seems to me that every time she gets a new stuffin' for her bustle, she sorter acts as if sorrer couldn't hurt her."

—"As to opening oysters," said Old Hurricane, "why, nothing's easier, if you only know how." "And how's how?" inquired Straight. "Scotch snuff," answered Old Hurricane, very sententiously; "Scotch snuff; bring a little of it ever so near their noses, and they will sneeze their lids off."

—Rev. Mr. Shipman of Norwich says that he was once called to marry a man who was to be united to his fourth wife. As he approached the couple he said, as usual, "Please rise." The man fidgeted about on his chair, and finally remarked, "We've usually sot!"

—A Quakertown man has solved Mrs. Livermore's query: "What shall we do with our daughters?" He has purchased two washing-machines and will take in washing. His wife and seven daughters are to do the work and he will superintend the business.

—"The spectacle of Watterson, Halstead and Bowles in council on the affairs of the nation furnishes one of those too rare occasions when the American eagle feels sufficiently reassured to put its head under its wing and go to sleep.—Brooklyn Argus.

—It took Sir Isaac Newton less than three years to thoroughly digest the principles of gravitation, while an Indiana farmer has spent eleven years trying to find out why a cow never kicks until the pail is two-thirds full.—Detroit Free Press.

—Philip Phillips, familiarly known as the "Singing Pilgrim," after spending nearly a year in Australia, is now in India. He will go to England, where he will spend several months in services of song.

—"Will this pipe smoke free?" asked a gentleman who was purchasing a pipe. "Of course it will, if you can get your tobacco for nothing," was the reply.—Rochester Democrat.

—Over the porch of the Old South Church at Boston is chiselled: "Behold! I have set before you an open door," and under, on the door, is printed in emphatic letters, "Positively no admittance."

—"Have you any nice fresh farmer's eggs?" inquired a precise old lady at a grocery store. "No, ma'am," replied the practical clerk, "but we have some very good hen's eggs." She took three to try.

—"Poor fellow! He had a good deal in him!" was the sorrowing remark of a Mississippi editor over the body of a subscriber, shot in a gin mill. The coroner's inquest subsequently verified the assertion.

—It has been discovered that the same kind of coloring matter which poisons the striped stockings is also used to color bad whiskey. In both cases it goes to the legs and ruins the understanding.

—"Now my little boys and girls," said a teacher, "I want you to be very still—so that you can hear a pin drop." In a moment all was silent, when a little boy cried out, "Let her drop!"

—The most puzzling thing about an editorial shears is the antipathy usually existing between that useful article and the italic found at the bottom of a paragraph.—Danbury News.

—The Pope uses snuff.

☞ The funeral services of the late Mr. Peter Shaw will be held at No. 50 Hanover street this (Monday) afternoon at 2 o'clock.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON,
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Ilsley of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and so id silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

LOCOMOTIVE WORKS.

[St. Nicholas for December.]

It is only about fifty years since the first locomotive puffed along the first railway, dragging the first clumsy passenger-car. During each of those fifty years more than two thousand miles of rail have been laid, and in England and the United States every day of those fifty years has seen the completion of one locomotive and two passenger cars. Immense workshops are kept busy building locomotives and cars. They are generally near the principal depots of the great railway lines, and I know of no more interesting place where one can spend a part of his day than in the depot. Each and every part of the locomotive must be made with the greatest precision and delicacy, and great machines are employed for hammering and cutting and punching and planing the iron into shape. You will find in these railway works, as the English say, or "locomotive works," as they are called in America, immense machines, possessing almost resistless power, yet driving only a little steelpointed instrument like a chisel not bigger than one's little finger. It seems almost a waste of power to use such a giant to drive so light a tool. But this delicate chisel digs its way little by little through the hardest of cold iron or steel, and planes it as smooth as ever the carpenter's plane trims wood, and produces, too, shavings of iron as delicate as those of soft pine. Little shears, hardly bigger than a tailor's, cut through iron as easily as through paper; and delicate steel punches drive their way through iron plates. In most of these works you will see also the Nasmyth steam-hammer, a mighty giant in power, but as docile as a lamb under the touch of a master hand. It is an immense shaft of iron sliding up and down in a great wooden frame, and regulated in its movements so that it can strike a hard or soft, a quick or, slow blow, as the engineer who directs it may wish. A heated shaft of iron a foot thick can be crushed, or a track may be driven, by its blows. About twenty years ago, the Prime Minister of England, Lord John Russell, visiting the railway works at Manchester, was invited to eat a boiled egg for luncheon. Before giving him the egg, the master of the works put it in the small wineglass and placed both under the great steam-hammer. The engineer set the giant at work; down rushed the shaft with the rapidity of a lightning flash and struck the egg, but so perfectly was the hammer regulated that the blow merely chipped the shell, crushing neither glass nor egg.

—A correspondent describes the terrible fate of Jackson Frailey, a veteran old Pennsylvania hunter who started out from Marysville with two comrades on a hunting expedition. The Welch Mountain in the vicinity is heavily timbered and surrounded by great swamps and ravines, in which bears, catamounts and other wild animals are plenty. The hunters did not return nor was anything heard of them the next night, and their friends determined to despatch searchers to find them. On the third morning twenty stalwart woodsmen started to search for the missing men. At about ten o'clock the body of Frailey was found nearly covered up in a snow drift near the foot of the mountain. His clothing was torn off from his throat to his knees, and his face, neck, breast and abdomen were terribly lacerated, seemingly by the claws or teeth of a wild animal. Nothing further was found until the party reached Tamarack swamp. While going about the swamp one of the men found Frailey's rifle standing against a tree. Both barrels were empty. A short distance to the right, in a hollow, was the body of an enormous catamount. It was covered with wounds, one being made by a rifle ball, and the rest plainly by a knife. The snow having been scraped away about the tree against which the rifle stood, the hunter's knife, a long clasp knife with a buckhorn handle, and pieces of his clothing were found. It was evident that there had been a fearful struggle, for the ground was covered with blood for several feet around, and the underbrush was bloody and broken. The search was resumed, and the other two missing hunters were at last discovered alive and well, though they knew nothing of the fate of Frailey until now, he having separated from them on the first day out. Frailey was known throughout Pennsylvania as the Nimrod of the State. He has followed hunting and trapping for thirty years, and had killed over 2000 deer, 243 bears, 25 catamounts, three panthers and unnumbered wolves and foxes.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!
The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For years my cloves years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I first benefited by the first dose and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed you will find pay for the two packages.
SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE.—Dear Sir.—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would be without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up anything off the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I have still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reading, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

☞ DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are [sold by the Agent of the American Medicine Co. A package will be forwarded upon receipt of fifty cents. by THOMAS W. LANE, agent, Manchester, N. H.

For the convenience of the citizens of Portsmouth and vicinity an agency for the sale of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS has been established at the N. E. P. Union Store, Market Street.

AGENT.

It Pays! It Pays!
WHAT PAYS?
IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.
IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.
Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Receipts, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repository of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.
THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the Foremost Exponent of Industrial Inventions for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Science, Mechanics, Manufactures, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.
The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.
Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People in all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting-house; in every Reading Room, College, and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.
A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Single numbers of any Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.
PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.
Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of new inventions and sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice.
Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents, with Hints and Suggestions, Examples of the Latest Cases, Census of the U. S., and 145 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.
Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch Office, Corner F & 7th Streets, Washington, D. C.

The New York Times.
A Political, Literary and General Newspaper.
Devoted to Reform in Municipal, State, and General Government.
ESTABLISHED 1851.

In 1876, THE NEW YORK TIMES will complete the twenty-fifth year of its existence. Throughout a quarter of a century it will have remained true to the objects and aims for which it was founded. It has held from the first a favorite place in the household; it has endeavored to stand on all occasions by the side of truth and justice; and it has advocated political principles only when they were certain to promote the honor and welfare of the country.
As a Family Paper, THE TIMES has always borne a very high reputation throughout the United States. It is free from all objectionable advertisements and reports, and under no circumstances whatever are "personal" announcements, or questionable notices, allowed to appear in its columns. The disgraceful lures of quacks and medical pretenders, which pollute so many newspapers of the day, are not admitted into the columns of THE TIMES on any terms.
The paper, moreover, has always resisted the communistic theories advocated by misbelievers in journals, and has opposed those attacks on the Family as the basis of Society which are so frequently made, and which have led to so much misery and crime.
As a Political Journal, THE TIMES will be devoted as in the past, to a discriminating support of the Republican Party, while it reserved the right of expressing independent opinions upon the measures or policy of any Administration, or upon the course of any leaders. Its attitude is that of independence within the Republican Party, for in that way can the interests of the people be most efficiently served. Party government is essential to a constitutional country, and when journals profess to have "no party" it is because they have no principles. THE TIMES is faithful to the convictions and aims upon which the Republican Party was based, but it is not the mouthpiece of a clique. It was not originally established as an "organ," nor has it ever asked for or received any favors from the party with which it has been identified. It has supported the Republican party in the past, often at its own risk and loss, and always because it believed that party to be founded on sound and patriotic principles. But its support has been freely and impartially rendered, and it will never consent to serve as a mere instrument for securing the decrees of politicians.
It will adhere closely to these principles in the important Presidential canvass which will shortly engage the attention of the people of the whole country. Great issues are at stake, and it will need all the force of the press to sustain the right side. The Democratic Party is substantially for inflation, which is avowedly the first step toward repudiation. The Republican Party is in favor of a return to specie payments, by safe and judicious methods, and of keeping faith with the national creditor; and thus of preventing widespread ruin and irreparable national dishonor. This issue alone would lead THE TIMES to stand firmly by the Republican Party.
The Democratic Party now rings loudly of its "Reforming" spirit, but with Tammany Hall in New York, and a party of inflation and repudiation in other States, the professions of little value. THE TIMES cannot place faith in them, for it saw too closely and too clearly what Democratic reform meant when it was attacking Democratic robbers, when Judges were issuing orders of arrest against its managers and threatening its property, and when Samuel J. Tilden and his party did their best to aid the Judges and cripple THE TIMES. That is what Democratic reform meant down to the close of 1871; that is what it means to-day.
In the Presidential canvass, THE TIMES will strive to get the best candidates nominated, and afterward to render them a hearty support. It will take no part in personal intrigues, but will ever be ready to defend leaders and candidates who are true and faithful representatives of the people.
Its Editorial Columns will be conducted in a spirit of fairness and impartiality, free alike from self-interested aims, political jobbery, or undue favoritism. It will represent the great body of the people, rather than any clique. On all subjects it will maintain an attitude of perfect independence. Its Correspondence will be full and timely, and directed with special reference to the publication of the truth on all subject. Its Reports will be prepared with the utmost care. The Critical Department will be in thoroughly capable hands, and will present a full review of the literature, the fine arts, the music, and the drama of the day. The scientific and educational reports and articles are specially prepared by some of the ablest men in the country.
The Sunday edition of THE TIMES includes, in addition to all the news, selected and original literary matter of the most varied and agreeable character. Special arrangements have been made to impart new attractions to this feature of the paper. Among the contributors of original stories or articles to this paper are Bret Harte, J. W. DeForest, Thomas Hardy, Dutton Cook, William Black, and negotiations are being carried out with many other distinguished authors.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN possesses an unequaled Corps of Correspondents, regular and occasional, among the best Farmers of All Parts of the Country, and constantly chronicles the progress and progress of the husbandry of every section of the United States and civilized world.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN gives in its Horticultural Department a continuous variety of information and suggestions, equal or superior in the aggregate to what is obtained in the monthly numbers of most magazines devoted to Horticulture.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN has probably done as much as all other Journals combined, to introduce and disseminate improved Stock of every kind through the country; and commands to a greater degree than any contemporary, the confidence and support of Breeders and Importers.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN contains unusually full and trustworthy Market Reports, and devotes a special attention to them and to the Prospects of the Crops, in throwing light on one of the most important of all questions—When to Buy and When to Sell.
THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN embraces numerous minor Departments of practical character, such as the Dairy, the Poultry-Yard, the Apiary, the Vine yard, and so on, and weekly presents a column or two for the Housewife and Family, containing variety of Fireside Reading. It contains a well-edited Review of Current Events, and its advertising pages furnish a directory of all the principal agricultural and horticultural establishments of the country.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.
CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England
PULMOCINE CORDIAL
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.
For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

TAFFY WHITE'S CHRISTMAS.

BY CHARLES E. HURD.

It was the 24th of December. A sharp, stinging sort of a day, that made the boys on their way to school pull their caps down tighter over their ears, and stick their woollen mitted hands deeper into their pockets. The icicles which hung from the eaves were brittle with the cold. The snow looked whiter, and the ice in the meadow blue and smoother. There was not a breath of air stirring. The smoke rose straight up from the chimneys, and the half-dozen withered leaves that still clung to the scraggy limbs of the maples in Deacon Washburn's door-yard hung as still as if they were only parts of a painted picture and had never moved at all.

On the front steps of the Washburn mansion stood a sturdy little fellow of four years vigorously kicking the lower panels of the door, and endeavoring by shouts to attract the attention of the inmates. He was well protected from the cold; his warm fur cap and heavy woolen comforter showing hardly more than the tip of his little nose, which the sharp air had painted a bright pink color.

"Emme come in! 'Emme come in!" he shouted, emphatically, as he ceased kicking for a moment, to rattle the door knob. The door suddenly opened.

"Now, Taffy White, go right away from the front door this minute. Your feet are all over snow, and I ain't going to have you stamping through the front entry all day. There's enough to do in the kitchen without keeping a girl to run 'round after you with a broom. If you want to come in, go 'round the other way."

"But I want to come in this door, Gran'ma Was'burn. I got some business."

"Your business ain't very driving, I guess. Why don't you go and stay with Silas, in the back kitchen? It's nice and warm there, and may be he'll tell you a story."

"I don't want any story. I want to come in the front door, and I want my papa's letter."

"Bless the boy," said Mrs. Washburn, impatiently, "he will have his own way, and there can't any of us help it. Come in, then, and don't keep me standing in the door with my bare arms, all day."

Taffy's point was gained, and he marched behind his grandmother into the kitchen, conscious of having achieved a signal victory.

Such a delicious whiff of mince meat and spices, and plum cake, and hot pies and doughnuts as saluted his nostrils as he entered the room! There was flour over everything; raisin stems and apple parings were scattered about; and paper bags, with mysterious contents, fresh from the grocery, filled the side table. Piles of plates stood in the chairs, and the great brick oven sent forth its hot breath every time it was opened for the inspection of its contents.

"There," said Mrs. Washburn, wiping the flour from her fingers on her apron and taking down a letter from behind the clock.

"There's your letter. And now what are you going to do with it?"

"Keep it," replied Taffy.

"But you can't read it. I should think you'd want to keep it nice, to show papa when he comes."

"I want you to read it to me, then."

"I've read it to you, over and over, and so has everybody else in the house. I can't spare the time. Go and get Silas to read it."

"I wan't you to read it," and Taffy's chin quivered and his voice grew louder.

"Don't cry. Mercy on us, child, don't you see how busy everybody is? Your papa'll be here to-morrow, perhaps; and that'll be ever so much better than your letter."

But Taffy insisted.

"Well, then, do read it to him, Jane. It's the quickest way to get rid of him. We shan't have any peace till you do."

So Jane stopped chopping mince-meat for a moment, leaning on her knife while she read the letter aloud:

My dear little boy—I shall leave California by the first of December, and hope to be with you Christmas. I send this inside Grandma Washburn's letter, so it will go safe. I hope to find Taffy a good boy. You must come with grandpa to meet me at the station Christmas Eve. With ever so many kisses, PAPA.

Taffy listened as intently as if he had never heard a word of it before, and as soon as it was through demanded a second reading of it.

Jane was obstinate.

"Well, read on the outside, then. You didn't read that."

"Taffy White, Esq. That's all. Now, don't plague me any longer. Run out, like a good boy."

But Taffy knew his power too well to be got rid of so easily, and it required the combined bribe of two Baldwin apples, a stem of raisins, a doughnut and two figs to get him into the back kitchen where Silas was boiling potatoes for the pigs. Here, for ten minutes he watched the kettle and questioned Silas, and then, getting restless, insisted upon being let out into the door-yard again.

"Now, don't ye go to fussin' with the ax," said Silas, as he lifted him down the slippery step. "I knowed a little boy once 'bout as big as you be't cut all his toes on one foot clarn off, jest playing with his father's ax."

The ax had been Taffy's objective point; but this bloody precedent, manufactured out of whole cloth upon the instant by the ingenious Silas, rather staggered him, and he turned his attention in another direction.

"I shall skate some on my little sled, then," he said, in a disappointed tone.

"Well, skate away," returned Silas, "only don't get under the horses' feet in the road. Why don't ye go up back of the house an' slide down hill? I would, if I was you. The wind cuts awfully down in the road, and ye'll freeze to death in ten minutes."

This advice, which was given with chattering teeth, was lost on Taffy, who dragged his sled into and along the road, while Silas retired to his warm quarters in the back kitchen. Hardly had the door closed upon him, when, with a prodigious jingling of bells, a big double sleigh dashed along the road, past the house, toward the village, scarcely a mile away. Had Taffy been a size smaller, or had the driver not been looking directly at him, he might not have been seen, and the horses might have gone over him before he had known they were there. As it was, the team was pulled up just in time.

"Hallo, Taffy!" shouted one of the party. "Aren't you getting lost? Jump in and have a ride. We're coming right back."

Taffy was only too willing.

"Let me tie your sled on behind," said the driver, one of the neighbor's boys and a great friend of Taffy's. "We're just going to the store, after some cooking things, and the folks won't know you're gone till you get back."

So the sleigh skimmed along the ground after the horses, till the village store was reached and the boys got out.

"You'd better stay in the sleigh, Taffy," said one of the boys, the largest. "We shan't be more than ten minutes, for the women folks are in an awful hurry for their stuff."

Five minutes passed. It seemed a long time to Taffy. He tried to crack the whip; but it was too long and heavy, and every attempt was a melancholy failure. He stood up on the seat. Then he formed the idea of climbing upon the horses' back. Whether he would have successfully accomplished this feat will never be known, for at that instant the shrill sound of the approaching train struck his ears.

"It's the cars," said Taffy to himself. "Nobody ever lets me see the cars much as I want to; and Gran'pa Was'bun always pulls my hand so when they go by."

In an instant he was out of the sleigh, and going as fast as his little legs would carry him to the station, which was hard by. When the train rolled up to the platform, Taffy was there awaiting it; and hardly had it stopped before he was on the steps of the rear car.

"I'll jest peek in," he thought. "Gran'pa Was'bun won't let me see anything, ever."

The brakeman opened the door for him and closed it behind him, and the next instant the train was off again.

Taffy wasn't frightened. Far from it. He clambered into a seat by the side of a fat woman, and looked around him very composedly.

And now, while he is sitting there, trundling away from home at the rate of twenty miles an hour, we will seize the opportunity to tell the reader who Taffy was. In the first place, his name wasn't Taffy at all; only plain Johnny. A fancied likeness to the picture in "Mother Goose" of the legendary Welshman gave him the name while he was yet in arms and it stuck to him. Taffy's mother died before he was two years old, and he was left in the care of his grandmother, who spoiled him, pretty much as all grandmothers spoil their children's children, when the opportunity is given them. His father, unsettled by his loss, went to Australia, and afterward to California; and now, after two years' absence, was on his way back again. He was, according to his letter, to reach home on Christmas Eve, and here was Christmas Eve coming on as fast as the hands of the clock could scramble round the dial-plate.

By and by the conductor came along. "Where are you going my little man?"

"California."

"California?"

"Yes. Goin' to find my papa."

"When do you expect to get there? Are you alone? Where did you get on the train?"

To all these questions Taffy only looked straight at the conductor, and nodded his head.

"You're a runaway. I'm afraid. Where's your ticket? How are you going to pay for your ride?"

Very deliberately and slowly Taffy put his hand in his pocket and took out the remaining Baldwin apple, which he laid in the hand of the conductor.

"You'll do," said that official, laughing, "I'll look out for you when we get to Springfield."

And he passed on.

It was four o'clock when Taffy commenced his journey, and it was half-past six when the rain rolled into Springfield station. Something unusual had happened, as was evident from the excitement among the throng of people upon the platform.

"What's the matter?" asked one of the passengers, as he stepped from the car.

"The Eastern express has run into a freight train, a mile out, and the track will be blocked till after midnight."

Taffy heard the question and reply, but understood neither. He had a vague idea that he was in California, and, undismayed, set out in search of his father. It was bitter cold; but he pulled on his mittens and walked into the street. The shouts of the hack-drivers and the glare of the lights confused him somewhat; but he kept on, looking into all the stores and shops where the lights were the brightest.

"I guess my papa would be where 'twas awful warm to-night," said he to himself. "I just wis' he would come out!"

Just in front of one of the largest and most brilliantly lighted stores on the street, his foot slipped and he fell. One of his mittens came off and his cap rolled into the street. Somebody stooped to pick him up, and said, "Poor little fellow!" and his heart gave way all at once. He was carried, loud in lamentation, into the store, and set in the warmest place, in the midst of a sympathetic din that confused him still more. The most ingenious questioning and cross-questioning failed to extract any further information than that his name was Taffy, that he lived with Gran'pa Was'bun, and that he had come to California on the cars to find his papa.

By and by he was left to himself, after having been furnished with a superfluity of buns and candy, and his tears were soon dried in contemplation of the ever-varying crowd of visitors which thronged the various departments of the establishment. After a while he got to wondering at the big piles of blankets which towered high above his head on the counters, and what they did with them, and where all the beds were they belonged to; and at the long shelves of clothes and calicoes and little square boxes; and at the rows of ribbons and big and little stockings, and many queer things he had never seen before, which hung above the counters. Then he began to feel very comfortable, and all the things and the clerks and the people he had been watching gradually seemed to mingle and melt together. His eyelids dropped slowly and Taffy was asleep.

How long he slept he could not have told; but he was awakened by voices talking, it seemed to him, in his ear. He lazily opened his eyes, and saw close by the pile of blankets, against which his back was leaning, a tall, pleasant-looking man, with big whiskers.

"You may put in two pairs of the nicest ones," he was saying. "With the dress patterns and the roll of cotton cloth, they'll make something of a load. The accident on the railroad has delayed my journey home for a few hours; and, as I have the chance, I may as well take something with me to make my welcome warmer. Christmas, too, you know."

"Where will you have them sent, sir?" asked the clerk.

"There," said the tall gentleman, handing him a hotel card. "Send them in any time before ten o'clock. I shall remain until the first morning train, I presume, though I would give a hundred dollars if I could get to my journey's end to-night. I have planned getting home Christmas Eve for six months past, and it's hard to be disappointed."

"Yes, sir; must be, sir," said the busy clerk. "Here, Tom!"

Tom came.

"Get down that long basket and put in those packages on the counter and two pairs of those best Middlesex blankets."

Taffy's eyes closed again, but opened when Tom reappeared with a huge basket, something like a cradle in shape, into which the goods were carefully deposited, the blankets on the top, and over all a white cotton covering, to keep them from being soiled.

"How much it looks like a bed," thought Taffy.

It did look inviting, truly. And it would be so much warmer and nicer than sitting on a hard box with cap and boots on. The basket was near him—so near he could put his hand on it. The clerks were all busy and none of the crowd ever came to that corner of the store, which was quite in the shade. The longer Taffy looked the more irresistible was the temptation, until at last he pulled off his boots and put them deep down in the basket; then his cap and comforter; and finally, after making sure that no one was looking, got in himself, burying himself out of sight between the two great blankets. In another minute he was as sound asleep as he ever was in his own little crib at home.

Half an hour afterward the basket was seized by a strong clerk, tossed into the express sleigh, with a score of other baskets and bundles, and a few minutes later was tossed out again upon the hotel piazza, whence it was taken up by the porter to the room of the tall gentleman, who was impatiently awaiting it. Two or three huge trunks were in the room, one of them open, apparently ready to receive the newly-made purchases.

"Boy'll call for the basket in half an hour," said the porter and went out.

As soon as the door closed the tall gentleman moved the basket to the side of the open trunk. Then he took off the cotton covering and threw it on a chair. Then he lifted the top blanket; but no sooner had he done so than he let it fall again—not back into the basket, but upon the floor—and stood staring with all his might at what it had covered. There lay Taffy, his arm under his head, his brown curls knotted and tangled, his eyes shut, sleeping away as peacefully as if he had been in a real bed and under the direct eye of his grandmother.

The longer the tall gentleman gazed the more he wondered.

"How on earth," he thought to himself, "did this little chap get mixed up with my purchases? He couldn't have been packed in by mistake, and I certainly don't remember of buying a boy. He may be able to tell me something about it himself. Here, Tommy, Jacky, Billy, or what's-your-name, wake up!"

Taffy opened his eyes—not very wide at first; but in a minute or two, becoming conscious that he was no longer in the store, but in a strange room, he grew wide awake, and sat up in the basket. Then he felt for his boots, and very deliberately drew them on, keeping his eyes all the while fixed on the tall gentleman, who, in return, watched him with a sort of amused astonishment. Then he put on his cap and wound his comforter twice round his neck.

"Well," said the tall gentleman, in a very pleasant sort of voice, "and what are you going to do now?"

"Find my papa," said Taffy, stoutly.

"Your papa? What's his name?"

"Papa. 'At's all his name."

"But where is he?"

"California."

"You've got some way to go, my dear little fellow, before you find him, then. Where did you come from?"

"Gran'pa Was'bun's."

"What?" said the tall gentleman, quickly. "Say that again. What's your name?"

"Taffy White."

The tall gentleman caught him up under the arms and held him under the gaslight.

"Are you sure you're Taffy White?" he asked, earnestly—so earnestly that Taffy thought he was scolding and began to cry. "Where were you going? How came you here? What were you doing in that basket?"

"I guess I ran away. I just peeked in the cars, and then they kept going till I got to California. 'Em me get down! Papa! I want my papa!"

He pulled his little handkerchief from his pocket, as he found his feet again, and with it came his treasured letter. The tall gentleman caught sight of it, glanced at the inside, and then snatched up Taffy for the second time; not, however, to examine him by the gaslight, but to hug and kiss him over and over again.

"Don't you know me, my dear, darling, precious little boy?" he said at last. "Don't you remember papa? Of course you don't but I am your papa, for all that. How did you get here in that basket? I can't understand it."

Taffy was too much bewildered at first to make any explanation, and it took some minutes to make him duly appreciate the fact that he found his papa; or, rather, that his papa had found him. Then when he had little by little related the main facts of his journey and his subsequent adventures, there was more kissing and hugging, and a little crying; but it wasn't for sorrow.

"We'll send Grandpa Washburn a dispatch right off, Taffy, boy," said his father; "for I've no doubt they've offered a reward for you already. Then we'll have supper, for you must be as empty as a tin can by this time. And after supper, if you're not too sleepy, we'll take a run round among the toy stores. They won't shut up till late and it's only nine o'clock now."

It wasn't too late, and they did take a tour among the toy shops, Taffy coming home so loaded down with brown-pape, parcels and packages that he looked like a miniature St. Nicholas; but not more so than the lad who toiled on behind, covered from view, all but his legs, with a choice selection of rocking-horses, go-carts, hand sleds, and other miscellaneous articles, enough to set him up in a very respectable business.

That night the little hotel bedroom was a chamber of peace; and when the church bells rang in the blessed Christmas, no heart within their sound felt the benign influences of the time more deeply, or swelled with a purer gratitude toward Him whose birth it commemorated, than that which beat against the tired little head of the wandering Taffy.—Independent.

Daily Chronicle.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1875.

News and Notes.

This is the soothing and inoffensive way that a Western newspaper describes the hanging of a noted felon: "W. B. Thompson died according to appointment at Lewisburg, Ark., last week. He smoked a cigar on the scaffold, and 'kissed his hand to the ladies present.'"

Shortly after seven o'clock Friday evening, John Naury, aged 31 years, beat his wife Alice about the face with a poker in a most shocking manner, inflicting injuries which will undoubtedly prove fatal, at their residence, in New York. At ten o'clock the fiend renewed his atrocious treatment, and saturated the unfortunate woman's clothes with kerosene and set fire to them, burning them from her and burning her about the shoulders and body in a most sickening manner. While the poor woman's clothing was in flames, and she writhing with agony, the fiend dragged her about the groom by the hair, beating her with a broom handle. The woman's cries attracted the attention of a neighbor, who notified the police, and the husband was arrested.

The "retired list" of the navy is likely to receive a deserved overhauling at the hands of Congress. In this list are forty Rear-Admirals, thirty-five Commodores, thirty Captains and Commanders, and officers innumerable of lower grades—the sum total of their annual pay amounting to nearly $1,000,000, for which they render no equivalent. A few have been disabled and are worthy pensioners, but many have been placed on the "retired list" without any show of justice to the Government.

Joe Jefferson claims to play Rip Van Winkle under spiritual influence.

Colonel Tom Scott has pleased the people of Philadelphia mightily by replacing the Market Street bridge, which was lately burned, with a handsome structure, in less than twenty-one days after the authorization for the work was obtained.

The delegates from the territories have united in drawing up a bill which, if enacted, will make all of the territorial officers now appointed by the President elective by the people of the respective territories.

The European War Cloud.

The correspondent of the New York World resident in London writes:

If it were not for the fact that what every one expects to happen often does not occur, while the unexpected does come to pass, it would be safe to wager that Europe will find itself plunged into a general war within the next few weeks. In banking and commercial circles in the city the belief that a war is near at hand is almost universal. At the Horse Guards, at the Admiralty, and at the Foreign Office the same impression prevails. I do not speak of what is in the minds of the chiefs, but the subordinates are generally well aware of what is going on. On the Continent, I am told, the signal for the outbreak of hostilities is looked for from day to day. No one appears to know who is to give the signal, or what the pretext for it may be, but Europe is like a magazine filled with open barrels of gunpowder, and with men walking through it smoking pipes and lighting matches. A spark may fall at any moment, and then the explosion will occur. One of the most striking features of the present situation is the general belief that when the war breaks out England will play a part in it. Under the Gladstonian government, it used to be said, you could not kick England into a fight; but now we have men in power who would rather fight than not. The Duke of Cambridge, the other night, at a dinner given in the Fishmongers' Hall in his honor, made a speech, which, under the existing circumstances, is very noteworthy. After dwelling at some length upon the great and important changes that had been made in the army, His Royal Highness went on to say that not only was it a mistake to suppose that the danger of a war with China was over; not only were England's relations with Burmah still critical; not only was England now involved in a difficulty in the Malay settlement, but the condition of affairs on the Continent made it probable that a general war would break out. "It may be before we are many weeks older." The state of affairs, he added, "is really so serious that it is impossible for a man in my position to dwell too strongly upon it." The naval and military forces of the country should be put into the best possible shape at once. The military authorities had done all they could—but this was not much, and practically "there is nothing to be done without very liberal means being placed at our disposal." "More men" are what is wanted. "We want men, and we must get them, and if we are to get them we must pay for them." Men will not come unless they are better paid. As for conscription, the Duke was of the opinion "that it is absurd to imagine that conscription can ever be made to go down in this country." But the army must be immediately and largely increased by some means, so that England might not find herself completely unprepared for taking part in the dreadful conflict which is so close at hand. I think you will agree with me that this is a notable speech, and when it is taken in connection with what is heard every day from the Continent, we may be sure that troublous times are in store for us.

The Gem of the Toilet

The world says is SOZODONT. It renders the teeth pearly white, gives to the breath a fragrant odor, extinguishing the ill-humors which usually flow from a bad and neglected set of teeth. SOZODONT is so convenient, and produces a sensation at once so delightful, that it makes it a pleasure to use it.

Jottings.

The republican Senatorial convention for this district will meet at Exeter Town Hall, Thursday, Jan. 13, at 12 M.

We hear the names of two Portsmouth citizens mentioned for Railroad Commissioner, Messrs. John Sise and William A. Peirce. It is said that Rockingham county has never furnished a successful candidate for the office. If so, a favorable opportunity to do it is now presented.

Assistant Paymaster J. Porter Loomis is ordered to the Vandalia.

The semi-annual dividend on shares in the Concord and Portsmouth Railroad held in Portsmouth and vicinity will be paid at Col. William H. Hackett's office on Thursday of this week.

The U. S. S. steamer Marion will go into commission about the 10th of January.

Several little girls and boys wandered into the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon, and one or more of them thought the bell-rope a very good plaything. Soon the bell began to ring, and then the children started out-of-doors on the run, followed by the sexton and several astonished members of the congregation. The little ones were too fleet-footed for their pursuers and soon vanished down Washington street. The firemen quickly responded to the note of alarm and threw open the engine house doors in readiness for a start.

The Eldredge Brewing Company have put in six hundred tons of ice for the coming season.

A new and large barn at Elliot, belonging to Eben Cook, was struck by lightning Sunday night, and burned, with contents, a yoke of oxen, four cows, twelve sheep, a horse, carriages, harnesses, hay, grain, farming implements, etc. Loss $16,000; insured for $600.

Superintendent Mills of the city far asks to have his salary raised!

Mr. Benning Morrill, of Elliot, the well known butcher, was found lying insensible on the track at the Market street bridge on Friday evening, just as a train was about to pass over. His horse had become frightened, and Mr. M. had been thrown from the team.

Assistant Paymaster Z. T. Brown, U. S. N., is detached from the Catskill and placed on waiting orders.

By the death of a prominent citizen of Wells, Me., Mr. J. M. Eaton, the agent of the Equitable Life Insurance Co. in this city, A. F. Craig, Esq., is called on for $5000.

James Armstrong fell down stairs on Friday, striking on the back of his neck and paralyzing his body below the shoulders.

At Portsmouth Grangers' Hall to-morrow evening, Mr. Charles J. Brown of Rye will read an essay on "The Encouragement of Agriculture." The public are invited. Mr. Sanborn of Gilmanton will appear on some future occasion.

Rev. Mr. Cudworth lectures in the Lyceum course at the Temple this evening Tickets twenty-five cents.

The general school committee on Monday evening elected as High School committee Messrs. James P. Bartlett, Albert R. Hatch and James R. May.

William M. Tweed, Jr., rose in his might and marched boldly out of church when his minister said last Sunday that a man who shared in plundering a city should be dealt with as a felon. Mr. Tweed never heard such sentiments expressed in the pulpit before, and he never wants to hear the like again.

A move is to be made when Congress meets again, to investigate the causes of the recent activity at the navy yards, it being intimated that the actual outlay has been very light, and has been done with the purpose of procuring large appropriations to cover previous and irregular expenditures.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean publishes an article calculated to connect Secretary Bristow with the whiskey ring frauds. The Secretary denies any complicity with the ring and invites investigation. The whole thing looks like a base attempt to break him down and so cripple the prosecution of members of the ring as to allow their escape from the toils of the law.

The Dover Reform Club had a Christmas supper, Saturday evening, provided by the citizens. Over 400 participated. At the meeting in the City Hall, Sunday, over 1300 were present and great enthusiasm was exhibited.

Charles Knowles, aged nine years, was found dead in the window of a school house on Liberty Hill in Gilford, Friday evening. It is supposed he tried to enter by the window, when it fell upon his neck and suffo-

My Favorite Flute For Sale!

THIS Flute was made in Paris, to the order of a great Flutist, at the cost of $100. The great player subsequently met with pecuniary embarrassment and sold it as a sacrifice to Capt. Moses Ricker of the ship Colorado, then at Havre. I bought it of Capt. R. for $60. The Flute has eight pure and solid silver keys, and one more, on a lower extra joint. It is lined and bound with genuine silver; and is of very sweet tone. Circumstances in a pecuniary view induce me to offer it for sale at only $30.

Daily Chronicle.

—Gail Hamilton, writing in the Christian Union on a "November Day in New England," says: "The worst of it is that fire makes no impression on the temperature. The voracious wind sucks all the heat out of the furnace-breath. The patient monster gives you one warm whiff and then six cold ones. Nothing is to be relied on but an open fire place and a blazing wood fire. We need not boast over our forefathers, for we have invented nothing better than this institution of theirs. A furnace in the cellar has no moral force. A coal stove in the room is a beastly contrivance. Even a coal-grate takes a considerable slice of eternity in getting itself warmed up—but with the dear old fire-place it is only a bit of paper, a match, and three pine splinters, or, quicker still, a poke in the ashes—and behold the sweet, friendly flames are dancing out a warm good morning to you, and within a semi-circle of three feet life is tolerable, even on a November day in New England."

—The Chicago Times says since that Boston gaspipe accident there is shown a disposition on the part of the patrons of sour mash to avoid lamp-posts and trust to telegraph poles.

—There's lots ov men in this world that are like a rooster—take the cockade and spurs off from them and you couldn't hardly tell them from a hen.

"O wearisome condition of humanity."

How many wretched homes in our land! How many heart-broken invalids! Life with many signifies a mere onerous existence. All are subject to disease, but when health is removed the hope is nearly gone out. Sickness is usually incurred through exposure or carelessness. Especially is this true with those diseases peculiar to woman. Through her own imprudence and folly she is made to drag out a miserable existence, a source of annoyance and anxiety to her friends, and anything but a comfort and pleasure to herself. Exposure to the cold at times when she should be most prudent, and overtaxing her body with laborious employment, are both fruitful causes of many of the maladies from which she suffers. Gradually the bloom leaves her cheeks, her lips grow ashy white, her vivacity departs, she continually experiences a feeling of weariness and general languor, and altogether presents a ghostly appearance. What does she need? Should she take some stimulating drug, which will for a time make her "feel better," or does her entire system demand reparation? She requires something which not only will restore to health the diseased organs, but will tone and invigorate the system. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do this. It imparts strength to the diseased parts, brings back the glow of health, and restores comfort where previously there was only suffering.

Every invalid lady should send for "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," in which over fifty pages are devoted to the consideration of those diseases peculiar to Women. It will be sent, post paid, to any address, for $1.50. Address, R. V. Pierce, M. D., World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. Agents wanted to sell this valuable work.

It Pays! It Pays!
WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Receipts, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Patents granted, and Inventions for every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price, to any Mechanic and Inventor and would save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Inventors, Lovers, Inventors, Farmer, or Professional man, to Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars sent free. Specimens sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. The Bazar is edited with a combination of tact and talent that we seldom find in any journal; and the journal itself is Mecca of the great world of fashion.—Boston Traveller.

The Bazar commends itself to every member of the household—to the children by bright and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes, to paterfamilias by its useful advice, to the enfeebled slippers and many ingenious dressing-gowns. But the reading-matter of the Bazar is uniformly of great excellence. The paper has acquired a wide popularity for the fireside enjoyment it affords.—N. Y. Evening Post.

MAGIC
CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained new orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

Bath, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at that, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LIBBAUGH,
Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, Constipation, and often to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.
Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Rosedale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Hundreds of others have sent in unsolicited testimonials of the efficacy of these Pills. Among them are:

N. Y. TRIBUNE.
"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces, or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting a claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will in 1876, as in the years of the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and condemn for the ongoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to obtain honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and such legislation as will lower taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward the best men, and to adopt some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within the last few years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and it may be hoped that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost independence with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

PULMOCINE.
BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients every Yankee Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,
USE
Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

BOB'S BABY.

A boy sat on a trunk near the baggage room of Wakesha station, waiting for the train to come in. Not that he was expecting to go anywhere—he only wished he could—but he liked the bustle and excitement of the scene, and, what was more to the purpose, he sometimes picked up a stray penny by giving the porters a lift, or standing guard over some gentleman's travelling bag, or carrying some lady's supernumerary parcels.

On this particular occasion there was an unusual bustle, for it was Christmas morning, and the depot was thronged with those awaiting the arrival of friends, or who were themselves bound on a holiday excursion.

Presently the engine with its long train of cars came snorting and thundering up the track, and the crowd surged forward to the front of the platform. Bob, for that was the boy's name, was about to do the same, when he was stopped by a showily-dressed woman with child a in her arms.

'Please take my baby for a moment,' said she. 'I've forgotten something.'

'Yes, ma'am,' said Bob, receiving the child and seating himself on the trunk again, while the woman, dropping her travelling-bag at his feet, hurried away and was lost in the crowd.

Bob waited patiently, not doubting that she would immediately return to claim her little charge; but the minutes went by, the whistle sounded, the bell rang, and the train began to move slowly out of the depot, and still she did not appear. Then Bob started up in alarm, and ran toward the departing train, and, as he did so, he distinctly saw the woman's face at a window.

'The lady—she's left her baby—take it, somebody!' he cried, and held it out to two or three gentlemen who were rushing into the cars at the last moment—as gentlemen will.

But neither of them seemed inclined to avail themselves of the offer. The train moved faster and faster, and finally whisked out of sight, while Bob stood still gazing in the direction in which it had vanished, an image of surprise and dismay.

'Gingo!' exclaimed he then, turning his eyes from the line of blue smoke which still floated above the tree tops, to the face of the child in his arms; and in that single word he expressed volumes.

'Well, what's the meaning of this?' asked the depot master, his attention now for the first time attracted to the scene.

'Why, you see, the lady asked me to hold her baby while she went to get somethin', and she was carried off without it.'

'The lady? What lady?'

'Don't know. Never seen her before.'

'Where did she come from?'

'Don't know. The fust I see, she was standing right in front of me.'

'Where was she going?'

'Don't know. Don't know nothing about her, only she asked me to hold the baby, 'cause she'd forgot somethin'. She left her bag, too; there 'tis'—pointing with his foot because his hands were otherwise engaged; 'and I know she went off in the cars, 'cause I see her looking out the winder.'

There was a straightforwardness about Bob's story which carried conviction with it, and none of the little circle, of which Bob was now in the centre, thought of doubting its truth.

While the depot master was deliberating what to say next, a rough looking boy about Bob's age, who had left off shouting 'Wakesha Chronicle,' to hear what was going on, cried out:

'Oh, ain't you green! She didn't mean to come back.'

'That's so, I guess,' said the depot master.

'Bobby, my boy, you're so d, and have got a baby on your hands,' said another.

In short, it was apparent that the young newsboy had expressed the sentiments of all the men present.

The next question was, how Bob should dispose of this very odd and unexpected Christmas present.

'You had better go to the town authorities and let them take the child,' said the depot master.

'Yes.'

'Certainly,' chimed in the bystanders, and so the matter would have been settled, but the baby, who had been looking wonderingly from one to another, now nestled closely to Bob's shoulder, and began to wail piteously. It was only a natural result of finding herself left so long alone among strangers, but to tender-hearted Bob it seemed a direct appeal to his sympathy and protection.

'I should like to keep her. I should like to take her home,' said he.

'Good for you!' said a man who had not yet spoken—only a poor coal harvester, begrimed and smutched from top to toe. 'Good for you! You see, gentlemen, 'taint noways certain 't the woman won't come back next train, so what's the hurry about sending the baby to the poorhouse—for that's what 'twould come to. If the woman don't come, and we don't hear nothing after we've advertised, 'pears to me it'll be time enough to talk about the poorhouse then.'

No one offered any objection to this view of the case, and the coal heaver added:

'It'll cost something to advertise, though; donno's that ought to come on to Bob.'

'Certainly not,' said the depot master, taking out his pocketbook, an example which was immediately followed by others, so that an amount was collected quite sufficient to defray all contingent expenses, and handed over to Bob. Then he walked out of the depot with the baby and carpet-bag, followed by his friend, the coal heaver.

'Have a ride on my kart?' asked the latter.

'Don't care if I do, if it's in your way,' said Bob.

'I'll make it in my way,' said the good-natured man. So Bob clambered in, the horse started off at a slow trot, and the little cart jolted merrily away over the cobble-stones, with its novel freight.

It was not till Bob came in sight of the little one-story house which he called home that he began to ask himself whether he had not acted hastily in undertaking such a charge without consulting Mother Darby, as he called the woman with whom he lived.

For Bob was an orphan—nay, more, he had neither kith nor kin that he knew of in the wide world. Ever since he could remember, he had been passed from one to another who had been willing to harbor him a little while, either for charity or the work he could do. For two or three months his home had been with Mother Darby, receiving his board and scanty clothing in consideration of his tending the cow, bringing in wood and running of errands.

'So, what will Mother Darby say?' was the question he asked himself as the cart stopped at the gate, and, bidding the kind coal heaver good bye, he entered the house with his burden.

What she did say was:

'What under the sun have you got there?'

'She's so pretty—and the woman left her, and they talked of sending her to the poor-house. I couldn't help it,' answered Bob rather incoherently.

'Mercy on us! What are you talking about? I can't make head nor tail out of it! But give me the baby, do. She's most frozen, poor thing.'

And as the woman, whose heart was much softer than her speech, sat down by the fire and began to take off the child's hood and cloak, Bob's courage revived, and he told the story from beginning to end, as we know it already.

'A pretty job you've undertaken!' said Mrs. Darby, then. 'The woman never'll come back; that you may depend. She wasn' its mother no more'n I am.'

'I thought you'd let it stay till something could be done,' said Bob, dejectedly.

'Of course I will. I ain't a wild Injun, to turn such a baby as this adrift by itself,' said Mother Darby.

She then warmed some milk and fed the little one, and in a few minutes it was sleeping quietly on Mother Darby's old calico lounge, unconscious alike of past or future perils.

'Her folks is well off, whoever they be,' said Mother Darby, examining the little blue silk hood, trimmed with swan's down, and the embroidered cloak.

'The woman that gave her to me was a stunner,' said Bob, by which phrase he no doubt intended to express his appreciation of her fine clothes.

Bob lost no time in advertising the child; but days went on, and no answer appeared, nor did the woman return to claim her charge. The traveling-bag contained nothing that would afford the slightest clue to the child's identity except the single name 'Elsie' on some of the clothing.

'Well, I'm sorry, but there's nothing for it but to send it to the poor-house,' said Mother Darby.

'That'll never do,' said Bob.

'Heyday! I reckon there's somebody to be consulted besides you. 'Tain't likely I shall undertake to raise her at my time of life, and nothing but my two hands to depend upon neither.'

'But couldn't you let her stay here if I'd pay her board?" pleaded Bob.

'You?' said Mother Darby, laughing derisively. 'Much as ever you can earn the salt you eat.'

'Well, if you won't keep her, I s'pose I must find a place for her somewhere else, for she shall never go to the poorhouse while I can work for her.'

'Mercy sakes! If you are so set about it, do let her stay and try it,' said Mother Darby, whose heart secretly yearned over the child more than she cared to acknowledge. And so it was settled, though the good widow could not believe the arrangement would be more than temporary.

'I dare say as soon as we begin to get fond of the child, we shall have to send her off,' said she.

But in this she was mistaken. It was true that hitherto Bob had not been overfond of work, and had given her some ground for the taunt that he hardly earned the salt he ate. But now a great change came over him. He felt that he had an object in life; was ready to undertake any honest job, to work early and late, so that he might keep Elsie with him.

And when the story got abroad, and it was seen how thoroughly in earnest he was, much sympathy was manifested for Bob and 'Bob's baby,' as the child came to be called, and many kind-hearted people were ready to aid him in his endeavors. So Bob succeeded, as he deserved to do, and nothing more was ever said about sending Elsie to the poorhouse.

She, meanwhile, continued to grow and thrive. In fact, she quite outgrew her original wardrobe, which was carefully folded away in Mrs. Darby's best drawer, and new and coarser clothing provided for her use.

Nearly a year had passed away, and people were ceasing to speculate upon the mysterious advent of Bob's baby, when the affair was revived again by the appearance of an advertisement in a New York paper, headed:

'Child lost.' Then followed a description of the child, of its clothing, with a statement of dates and circumstances which seemed to identify Elsie as the lost one beyond a doubt.

The address given was Amos Markham, Box 1229, New York city.

Poor Bob! This was a terrible blow to him; but he felt that he ought to do all that he could to restore Elsie to her parents; so he immediately wrote a letter in answer to the advertisement, and having dropped it in the office, returned home with a heavy heart.

'Mebbe she don't belong to them, after all,' said Bob to himself, 'and they've got to prove it before they take her away."

This was the one hope to which he clung, but it speedily vanished, for only three days later a lady and gentleman stopped at Mother Darby's door. Bob hastened to open it, and a single glance at the lady's face told him that she was Elsie's mother.

'Is this the place'—began the gentleman, 'but, with a faint shriek, the lady darted through the open door and caught little Elsie in her arms.

'O my darling, my darling!' sobbed she; for neither time, nor change, nor absence could deceive the mother's heart.

If further proof was needed it was found on Elsie's clothing, which, as we have already said, Mother Darby had carefully preserved, and in the complete harmony of the evidence on both sides.

The story Mr. Markham told was this: His wife being an invalid, he had, by order of the physician, taken her to Italy to pass the winter, leaving Elsie in charge of a nurse in whom they had confidence. They kept up a constant communication with the woman until their return, when, to their dismay, they found both nurse and child were missing from the house in which she had lived when they had left the country. They could obtain no trace of her, and only recently they had received a message from the woman, through a third person, that she had left the child at some station on the line of the New York Central Railroad, but the name of the place she had forgotten or failed to notice. Her object in this transaction was, of course, to appropriate the money, with which she had been liberally supplied, and rid herself of the burden of caring for the child.

To Mother Darby, Mr. Markham paid for her care of Elsie twice as much as it was worth, which she received with a grateful courtesy, but to Bob he said:

'I don't know how I can pay you.'

'I don't want no pay. I did it because I loved her,' answered Bob, with a quivering lip.

'I shall remember you, though,' said he, and led his wife to the back which awaited them outside the gate, but when he would have lifted Elsie in, she clung to Bob, crying:

'Bobbie go, too! Bobbie go, too!"

"And why shouldn't he go too? It is cruel to separate them,' said Mrs. Markham.

Then they talked a few minutes in a low voice, and turning to Bob, Mr. Markham said: 'How would you like to go to New York with us?'

"To New York, and be with Elsie!' cried Bob, his brain hardly able to take in two ideas of such magnitude at once.

'Yes, to be with Elsie always. Do you think you could be happy with us?'

'Happy? Oh!' was all Bob could answer.

Another Christmas morning dawned, and again Bob rode from the station with Elsie in his arms; not, however, in the poor coal heaver's cart, but in Mr. Markham's comfortable carriage.

Presently the carriage stopped, not at Mother Darby's little one-story house in the outskirts of Wakesha, but at a pleasant, commodious dwelling in New York city. Mr. and Mrs. Markham alighted, and went up the granite steps, followed by Bob, leading Elsie by the hand.

The door opened, and warmth, and light, and beauty greeted them which ever way they turned. Such was Bob's entrance into his new home. Can we do better than take our leave of him there by wishing him a merry Christmas?

News and Notes.

Frank Moulton on Monday instituted through Roger A. Pryor a civil suit in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn for $50,000 damages against Henry Ward Beecher. The complaint sets forth the cause of the action as malicious prosecution of Moulton by Beecher, the specification being that on October 3, 1874, he procured Moulton's indictment on the charge of a criminal libel, and pressed the suit so far as to have him arrested and held to bail. Mr. Winslow, the District Attorney, was succeeded by Mr. Britton, who on October 22, 1875, entered a nolle prosequi, against the express wish of Moulton. Only a single question will be at issue in the coming suit. This will be the truth or falsity of Moulton's allegations that Beecher had committed adultery with Mrs. Tilton. For the determination of this question Mrs. Tilton will be a vital witness, and will certainly be called, as well as a number of others whose testimony was excluded on Beecher's trial. The trial will be a short one. The papers were served on Mr. Beecher just before going to his church meeting.

A Boston jury has convicted Abraham Jackson of embezzlement.

Intelligence from the Philippine Islands gives details of a dreadful hurricane there the 30th, of last month. The storm was particularly severe in the provinces of Albay and Camarines, which form the southeastern part of the Island of Luzon. Two hundred and fifty lives were lost and 3800 dwellings destroyed. Many cattle perished, and the crops in all directions were ruined.

Dr. T. E. Hatch has been appointed Acting Postmaster of Keene, during the pendency of the appointment of a successor to Mrs. Henderson, deceased.

On New Year's Day the war-ship Trenton will be launched from her ways in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. On the 28th day of October, 1873, her keel was laid, but active work was begun on her early last July, since which time a large force of men have been kept constantly engaged on her. She is built of the finest live-oak timber, and will not be iron-clad with the exception of her ram. This consists of fifteen feet of projecting solid oak covered by a mass of steel, two feet and a half thick, and weighing about fifteen tons. She is 2300 tons burden and measures 253 feet in length by 48 feet in breadth of beam, and 28 feet in depth of hold. She will have three decks, and carry twenty-six guns in all. They will be twenty-four 11-inch pivot guns for the under decks, and two 200-pound rifled cannon for the upper or spar deck. Her engines and machinery will be supplied by John Roach. She will be able to steam about thirteen knots, and will also carry a great spread of canvas, being full ship-rigged, with three masts. She has been built under the supervision of Mr. Samuel H. Pook, naval constructor, and will be put into commission as soon as possible after being launched, and will probably be stationed with the Atlantic squadron. Admiral Rowan will preside at the launch.

There is a close and animated contest in the Wyoming legislature over a bill repealing the act established woman suffrage in that Territory.

The editor of the Prohibition Herald has an opportunity given him for the exercise of a trait of character with which he has never, to our knowledge, been credited—that of manliness. A few weeks since his paper contained an article filled with virulent abuse of Governor Cheney, slurring his temperance record, and accusing him of endorsing the views of Rev. Mr. Powers, of this city, in the use of stimulants. The writer of the article, if personally acquainted with Gov. Cheney, wilfully falsified the facts in the case. If he wrote ignorantly, he is guilty of maligning the character of a man, without endeavoring to ascertain whether his statements were true or false. To our certain knowledge, Gov. Cheney has condemned, in no measured terms, the sentiments expressed by his pastor, and though a "warm friend and admirer of Mr. Powers," has censured his course publicly and privately in conversation.—Manchester Dispatch.

A fire broke out in the Nashua Post Office building, on Main street, about ten o'clock Sunday evening, in C. A. Lovejoy's photograph rooms, in the upper story, destroying the roof of the building. Loss on building $3000, by tenants about $3000. The building was insured for $5500 in different companies, and was owned by H. M. Knowles, of Lowell. The mails were saved without material damage. Lovejoy's loss is $1800, insured for $1200; Denehan & Truell, $1500, insured; C. H. Campbell, slight; A. F. Bill, barber, slight. At one time the flames threatened the buildings of the Nashua Card and Glazed Paper Company, but by the efforts of the firemen the flames were confined to the building in which the fire originated.

Mrs. Glover, wife of a brick-mason in Suncook, died on Friday night from the effects of poison which she drank a week previous, with the intent to commit suicide. She was buried Sunday. It is said that she had trouble with her husband.

The Supreme Court of Maine was recently called upon to decide a question similar to the one which our court dodged last year, and the judges of the Pine Tree State, being men of courage and some knowledge of law, did what was asked of them, and gave a decision which settled the matter. It appeared from the returns that several of the Senators who claimed to be elected were voted for by the initials of their Christian names, and their opponents claimed that such votes were void,—just as did the Senate-stealers in this State last year. The court held that, though such votes might be void, the Governor and Council were obliged to issue certificates of election to the men who were elected by such votes, "because the Senate and House are the only judges of who are entitled to seats in their respective branches." This is the Natt Head case exactly, and the finding of the court is exactly the position taken by the New Hampshire republicans.

Hon. W. A. Richardson, Stephen A. Douglass' successor in the United States Senate, died in Quincy, Ill., Monday, at the age of sixty-four.

One of the saddest and most appalling accidents which ever occurred in that section of the country is reported from Heliken in the canton of Aargan, Switzerland. Christmas day, while a festival in honor of the occasion was being held in the school-house, the flooring gave way, and before a fourth part of the large audience could escape it fell through. Eighty dead bodies have been taken from the ruins, while the number wounded is over fifty.

It is reported that the recent article in the Cincinnati Gazette stating that President Grant would in no event consent to be a candidate for re-election, was penned by Mr. Smith, the editor, after a full and free talk with the President.

Jacob Standermann, who murdered a young German girl and after trial and conviction was sentenced to be hanged, but was saved from that fate by Gov. Tilden, who commuted his sentence to imprisonment for life upon the report of Dr. Ordronaux and Dr. James R. Wood, pronouncing him to be insane and irresponsible, has declared that he feigned insanity in order to deceive the commissioners.

The Chicago Tribune, remarking the general call that Mr. Whittier be selected to serve as the Centennial poet, now that Mr. Longfellow has declined, gracefully says that Mr. Whittier is known to be perhaps the most popular of all American poets, present or past, in the sense that he is the most cherished and read by the fireside of the people.

A Double Tragedy.

The injuries inflicted on Mrs. Martini Ritte by her husband at Kingston, N. Y., on Friday last, have proved fatal, and that tragedy becomes a double one, Ritte having cut his throat immediately after he had killed, as he supposed, his wife. The circumstances of this shocking affair are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Ritte were a middle-aged couple, and roomed in a house where there were several other occupants. Mrs. Ritte was a strict member of the Methodist Church, and a prominent worker in the Flatbush congregation. Mr. Ritte was not a member of any church, but was a regular attendant upon the services of the Reformed Church of the place, and a warm defender of the tenets of that denomination.

Mrs. Ritte "had a tongue in her head," and the difference in the religious belief of her and her husband was a source of frequent and bitter controversy between them. For some time past the Methodist have been holding a series of prayer-meetings in the houses of different members, and upon them Mrs. Ritte was a regular attendant. On the night before the affair one of these meetings was to be held at the house of a neighbor, and Mrs. Ritte was very anxious for her husband to attend the services with her. This he refused to do, and she went alone, highly displeased with him. He went to the house of a neighbor, a member of the Reformed Church, and spent the evening there. His wife returned home before he did, and, going to bed, locked the door of their appartments, and when he applied for admittance she refused to let him in. He was compelled to go into the garret and pass a very uncomfortable night. When the two met in the room in the morning his wife began to upbraid him for his carelessness in regard to religion and other subjects, and a very hot discussion between them was overheard by the inmates of adjoining apartments. Suddenly, screams were heard in Ritte's room, and a man named Ephgrave rushed in to see Mrs. Ritte on floor, her head and face covered with blood; and over her stood her husband, with a hammer in his hand, raised to strike her, having already struck her with it several times. Ephgrave threw Ritte one side, and asked him what he meant. He said, "It was better that we should die than live this way any longer." Ephgrave took Mrs. Ritte into his apartments, leaving Ritte in the room alone. He returned in a very short time, but during the interval Ritte had cut his throat from ear to ear with a razor, and had fallen partially on the bed, over which the blood was streaming from the wound in his throat. Ephgrave lifted the man upon the bed, but he died before a physician arrived. Mrs. Ritte's wounds were found to be very serious. Her head was smashed in several places by the blows of the hammer, and she was cut about the face. She was conscious but a short time. The parties to this tragedy were sadly ill-mated.

—A Danbury man, wishing to engage several bushels of potatoes from a party in the suburbs, asked a neighbor what sort of a man he was: "Well," said the conscientious neighbor, "I don't know very much about him, but I should think he would make a tip-top stranger."

Origin of the Washingtonian Reform.

As it appears to be the aim of the friends of temperance to make the Washingtonian Society of this city once more a practical, living, active body, I present to the present generation a sketch of the origin of the Washington Total Abstinence Society movement.

On the second day of April, 1840, six men sat drinking in a tavern on Liberty street, Baltimore. Notices had been published in the papers of that city that a distinguished clergyman [Matthew Hale Smith,] would lecture on temperance that evening, in one of the churches. This subject was mentioned by one of the six, and after some talk it was agreed that two of their number should attend the meeting and report. This was done, and after the report had been listened to and the subject discussed, one of them exclaimed, "let us form a Temperance Society and make Bill Mitchell president." With this understanding, and after taking another drink, they separated.

On the next evening they met at the same place,—the matter was again talked over, and they resolved to form and did form a society, naming it after the father of our country, as it was quite common at that time to name most organizations after Washington. The names of these six individuals were William Mitchell, David Hoss, Charles Anderson, George Steer, Bill McCurdy and Tom Campbell. They then voted to meet the next night in a carpenter shop, and each agreed to bring a new member. These meetings were held almost nightly, and for remarks, each related his own experience at the Court of Death. As might be expected, these meetings soon began to attract public attention. John Hawkins early became a member, but was not one of the original six. These reformed men were soon invited to visit other cities and towns, and who of our older citizens has not listened to the thrilling and simple experience of John Hawkins, as he portrayed the misery of the drunkard and told the touching story of his little daughter Hannah persuading him to quit the drunkard's drink.

This new movement took the form of an epidemic, and spread from city to city, and from town to town, until there was scarcely a place in the United States that did not have its Washingtonian Total Abstinence Society. Men who had been drunkards for years burst the bands that had so long bound them, and became temperance reformers.

The name being quite long, it soon became shortened by daily use, and these organizations became known throughout the country as "Washingtonians."

The Temperance Reform Clubs of the present day are no new conception. They are the same in origin, character and purpose as the Washingtonians. It is simply history repeating itself. Both societies originated with intemperate men, and the weapons of warfare are the same—persuasive appeals to the inebriate.

The Washingtonian society was originated in this city in 1841, and has been instrumental in reclaiming more than three hundred intemperate men, many of whom kept the pledge till their dying day, and went home to heaven rejoicing. Others still live a blessing to their families, and an honor to society. They demonstrated the great fact that the drunkard could be saved.

While nearly all the societies of this class in the country have ceased to exist, the Portsmouth Washingtonians have always maintained their organization, and held their annual meeting, if no other. When days were dark and friends were few, "Uncle Toby" and Mr. Frederick Rogers, and perhaps, occasionally, one or two others, would gather at the annual meeting, elect officers and renew their vows. For the past three years new life has been infused into the society, and many who were supposed to be on the retired list have taken their places in the ranks, as was witnessed at the recent meetings. May others be present at the meeting next Thursday evening, filled with zeal and determination to re-enact the glorious old times of the palmy days of Washingtonianism in this city.

KNARF.

General School Committee.

A meeting of this Board was held on Monday evening, and the subject of electing a new High School committee was taken up; and upon motion a ballot resulted in the choice of Messrs. Albert R. Hatch, James R. May and James P. Bartlett for High School committee.

On motion of Mr. Pender, Mr. Marvin, the newly elected member from Ward Six, was assigned to the positions on the several committees made vacant by the death of Mr. M. B. Goodrich.

A resolution concerning the duties of the text-book committee was introduced and passed.

The several committees to whom were referred at the last meeting the subjects of text-books, sewing, district lines, written examinations and music were granted further time in which to make their several reports.

The following resolution was introduced by Dr. May and passed:

Resolved, that corporeal punishment shall not be inflicted in any school save by the direction and in the presence of the Principal.

The following resolutions were severally referred to the committee on salaries:

Resolved, that the salaries of the masters of the Grammar schools be fixed at $1000 after Jan. 1, 1876.

Resolved, that the salary of the writing master be reduced to $700.

A resolution recommending that the High School committee reduce the salary of the Principal of the High School to $1200, was promptly tabled.

Adjourned to Jan. 8.

Presentations.

The Methodist Sunday School held its Christmas festival in the church Friday evening, and a lively affair it was. Santa Claus put in an appearance, and in spite of the hard times was very generous with his gifts. Many children went away happier for the pleasant evening they had enjoyed and the presents they had received. Early in the evening Santa called the pastor, Rev. N. M. Bailey, to the front. He was addressed briefly by S. W. Clarke, Esq., who told him that, notwithstanding his faithful labors and consistent life, a large number of his parishioners had come to the conclusion that he would "bear watching." He then presented him, in their behalf, with an elegant gold watch and chain. The recipient responded happily, and at sundry times during the evening made timely allusions to his watch, which did much to enliven the occasion.

Mr. William C. Newton was presented with a beautiful piece of bronze statuary, "John Milton,"—the pastor making the presentation speech. This beautiful reminder of the old Puritan poet could not go to a more worthy man, as all who know Mr. Newton testify.

Mr. Clarke, the superintendent, was presented with an elegant silver ice pitcher, intended for himself and wife. Mr. Daniel McIntire, assistant superintendent, received a gold pen and holder. Dr. John S. Perry, secretary and treasurer, was the recipient of two pieces of bronze, a card receiver and vase. E. H. Leslie, librarian, received a bronze card receiver and other appropriate gifts. The assistant librarians, Messrs. A. M. Lang and Frank Marden, were presented with beautiful pictures.

During the evening Mr. Lewis B. Marden, foreman in the Times office, received a beautiful ice pitcher attached to a stand and accompanied by a pair of elegant goblets. It was a superb affair and attracted much attention. After a very pleasant evening everybody went home well pleased.

Bouncing an Artist.

A resident silhouette artist who ran out of material, recently learned that a cargo of gypsum would arrive at this port before many days, and made several trips to the wharves in expectation of seeing the vessel. At last he grew discouraged and requested the consignee to send him a postal card when the vessel should arrive,—and has slept contentedly since making the contract. On Tuesday, his box was crammed with postals, and when emptied was repeatedly refilled with notifications of the arrival of the vessel and its cargo of plaster. Sallying forth with his arms full, he was hailed from all directions by earnest friends, who vociferated: "That plaster has come." He was called into groceries and drug stores, harness shops and confectionery stores, hotel offices and establishments crammed with holiday toys, and informed that gypsum was plenty. Arriving home, he found seventeen boys endeavoring to pull the bell-knob out of its socket, and each was laden with an official document implying that silhouette material had arrived in the lower harbor. He retired early with fancied profiles thronging his brain, but could not woo the gentle goddess, slumber, to his fond embrace ere a band of music brought him to his feet. A procession filled the space between Pleasant and Washington streets (in State,) headed by the consignee of the cargo, and all shouted as the artist appeared in sight: "Joseph, those gypsum have come!" The secret of their obliging kindness was that every one of them wanted their "pictur' took."

Ward Six Caucus.

The republicans of the sixth Ward, at their caucus, Monday evening, chose a Ward committee for the ensuing year and the following delegates to the various conventions:

Ward Committee; John Knowlton, Chairman; Plumer D. Norton, Secretary; Edward J. Moulton, Adolph Nelson, Joseph W. Neal, Chas. N. Osgood, Daniel L. Randall, Samuel H. Kingsbury, C. Morris Tredick, Chas. W. Kimball, Josiah T. Brown, Augustus K. Brown, Joseph H. Gardiner.

To State Convention; J. Horace Kent, Thomas E. Call, Joseph Cheever, Plumer D. Norton.

County; Daniel L. Randall, C. Morris Tredick, Alfred J. Hill, George H. Andrews.

Councillor; Joseph W. Neal, Alfred Hanscom, Chas. F. Vaughan, Samuel S. Green.

Senatorial; Charles N. Osgood, Joseph H. Gardiner, Adolph Nelson, Samuel H. Kingsbury.

Jottings.

There is one style of shipping that the centennial committee should send a sample of to Philadelphia next year, and that is the "gundalow" with the lateen sail, which seems to be a curiosity to visitors who first see the Piscataqua.

A family of singing mice give regular concerts in the CHRONICLE composing rooms every night, commencing promptly at nine o'clock.

Mr. Charles J. Brown, of Rye, a practical farmer and logical writer, will by invitation, read an essay on "The Encouragement of Agriculture," at Grange and Mercantile Hall, this (Wednesday) evening, at seven o'clock. The public are invited. The first lecture of this series of discussions, by James O. Adams, Esq., of Manchester, was a very interesting review of farming in New Hampshire for the last century; and Mr. Brown will doubtless, also present much valuable thought.

"Whoa! Robin, you'll go by before you get there," was what the lady said to the horse last evening.

The ship Yosemite, Mack, from Manila for Boston (before reported), has been docked, stripped, caulked and recoppered, and is about to reload her cargo. About 1200 bags of sugar have already been sold by order of the surveyors as damaged and unfit for reshipment, and it expected that more will be rejected still.

We have received Jules Verne's famous book "Around the World in Eighty Days!" describing the strange adventures that befell Phileas Fogg, who undertook to travel entirely around the world in eighty days, on a wager of $100,000! Leaving London on the week the Bank of England is robbed of $250,000, he is suspected to be the thief, and followed like a shadow by a detective, who throws every obstacle in the way of his supposed flight. It is unnecessary to say that such a plot, in the hands of a master like Jules Verne, becomes intensely interesting, as the host of readers who have read his "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Seas" can readily believe. Although this book is sold in ordinary cloth binding, without illustrations, for $1.25, yet the edition on our table, with eight characteristic engravings is furnished for only ten cents. (By mail twelve cents.) For sale by all Newsdealers, or sent, post-paid, by Donelly, Lloyd & Co., publishers of The Lakeside Library, Chicago, Ill.

Daily Chronicle.

—The Chinawoman who was found sick and crippled in a cabin near Riverside on Wednesday and conveyed to the station-house, was recently taken to the county hospital. A Chinaman who was speaking of the case said she was brought here from San Francisco about two years ago for vile purposes. She refused to do as bid, however, and her owner a short time since punished her. "He no likee kill her, you sabe, so he fix her so she can't run away, can't do much work; he chop off toes, hey, and then she have go off somewhere; plaps she die—sabe? Boss he no want her no more, any Chinaman take her he want to, but he don't pletty much want to."—Sacramento Union.

—A Virginia (Nev.) husband went to the depot to receive his wife, whom he had not seen for two years. When the train came in he sprang forward to assist her from the car, and had managed to say: "My dear, I ——," when she "put in" to the following effect: "How is Mrs. Smith? Have you seen Tom? What a dreadful journey I've had. Why don't you take your pants out of your boots? You must positively have that hair of yours cut right away. You're smoking again, I see. Have you got nice rooms? I hope you haven't been drinking, dearest. Oh, dear me, how muddy it is!"

—A young clergyman, whose reputation for veracity was none of the best, ventured to differ with an old doctor of divinity as to the propriety of whipping children. "Why," said he, "the only time my father whipped me was for telling the truth." "Well," retorted the doctor, "it cured you of it, didn't it?"

—There had been a light fall of snow, and as she pressed her nose against the window-pane and watched him shying round the coal-hole covers, she knew that some time in the dim past that man's confidence had been shaken.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. ADDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 26 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case, which unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

JOHN TAGGART."

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, clears this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the finest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Householders in the Shop, Factory, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in this country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and best illustrated weekly paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical results are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Mechanics, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family Library, Reading Room, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Liberal Club rates. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of new inventions and sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

Notices of the Press.

The Bazar is edited with a combination of tact and talent that we seldom find in any journal; and the journal itself is the organ of the great world of fashion.—Boston Traveller.

The Bazar commends itself to every member of the household—to the children by droll and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes, to paterfamilias by its tasteful designs for dressing-gowns, slippers and luxurious dressing-gowns. But the reading-matter of the Bazar is uniformly of great excellence. The paper has acquired a wide popularity for the fireside enjoyment it affords.—N. Y. Evening Post.

In its way there is nothing like it. Fresh and trustworthy as a fashion guide, its stories and essays, its poetry and sparkle, are all invigorating to the mind. —Chicago Evening Journal.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorica Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the fury trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have been unable to work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $2.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have sold more than a dozen. The good results are dazing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. Send this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months at a time to go about my small acres from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and sent for a box of your Magic Package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two more. Yours respectfully, MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reading, who are using it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our material industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke many discussion, and enter largely in to politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of former party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to tell always the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, when the country knows and can trust them, to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, and, as a consequence, lower taxes. Thus it found itself last fall rallying the friends of the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command a greater support.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much troubled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system to put forward their best men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success provokes from envious rivals, and as heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past, and to those who are about subscribing for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke many discussion, and enter largely in to politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

ROBIN'S RETURN.

BY JOHN JAMES LONSDALE.

It was Yule, and the snow kept falling
In silent shadowy flight,
Through the dull gray haze of the daylight
Far into the starless night;
And father sat close at the fireside,
With the children round his knee,
And every bonny brown face was there
But the one that was at sea.

Never a letter and ne'er a word,
And my eyes with tears were dim,
As I wreathed the holly upon the wall.
And harked to the children's hymn;
And father said, as their carol ceased,
With a smile nigh like a tear,
Christmas will scarce be Christmas, wife,
If our boy should not be here.

The wheel in the nook stood all untumed,
And I saw not granny's face;
But the tears dropped under the wrinkled hands,
Held toward the Yule log blaze;
Poor Bessie she turned to the doorway,
With face both pale and sad,
So I kissed her cheek ere we parted
For love of my sailor lad.

As I looked down the drift-dimmed pathway
I said there's one we know,
Would have given a good deal, darling,
To have seen you through the snow;
Then we drew near the hearth together,
And lis'ened side by side,
In the first blithe peal of the merry bells
Which welcome Christmas tide.

Never a sound but the crackling log,
And the wind amid the thatch,
Till the clock was near the stroke of twelve,
When a finger raised the latch;
A merry brown face stood at the door,
The face I lov'd the best,
And the snow in the curls of Robin
Lay melting on my breast!

Dear granny, she rose from her corner
And clapped her hands in glee,
And she said, "O, roving Robin,
You must keep a kiss for me!
And there's some one else will want one, too,
Who left us long ago"
"Ah! she got it," quoth Robin, laughing,
"When we met among the snow."

—The Troy Whig says: "A day or two since, one of our townsmen was engaged in painting the tin roof of his dwelling house. A fifteen-foot ladder stood up against the house, the top of which projected about a foot and a half above the eaves. While busily engaged at work, he was startled by hearing a childish voice say, 'Papa, me up high.' Looking up, to his horror and astonishment he saw his little two-year-old boy standing on the eaves of the house with one hand on a round of the ladder. For a moment he hesitated as to what he should do, but finally he spoke quietly to the boy, telling him to stay there and papa would come and get him. The boy obeyed and the anxious father reached him and taking him in his arms descended the ladder. He did not paint any more that morning. How the child managed to climb the ladder to the roof and then step off on the eaves, and turn round and take hold of the ladder, all without falling, is a mystery."

HOW KITTY GOT LOST.

BY EDWARD EGGLESTON.

It doesn't do men good to live apart from women and children. I never knew a boy's school in which there was not a tendency to rowdyism; and lumbermen, sailors, fishermen and other men that live alone with men, are proverbially a half bear sort of people. Frontiersmen soften down when women and children come—but I forgot myself, it is my story you want.

Burton and Jones lived in a shanty by themselves. Jones was a married man, and finding it hard to support his wife in a "down east" village, had emigrated to northern Minnesota, leaving his wife under her father's roof, until he should be able to "make a start." He and Burton had "preempted" a town site of three hundred and twenty acres.

There were perhaps twenty families scattered sparsely over this town site at the time my story begins and ends, for it ends in the same week in which it begins.

The parties had disagreed, quarreled, and divided their interest. The land was also shared between them, except one valuable forty acre piece. Each of them claimed that piece of land, and the quarrel had grown so high between them that the neighbors expected them to "shoot at sight." In fact it was understood that Burton, who was on the forty acre place, determined to shoot Jones if he came, and Jones had sworn to go out there and shoot Burton, when the fight was postponed by the unexpected arrival of Jones' wife and child.

Jones' shanty was not finished, and he was forced to forego the luxury of fighting his old partner, in his exertions to make wife and babe comfortable for the night, for the winter sun was surrounded by "sun bugs." Instead of one sun there were four, an occurrence not unfrequent in that latitude, but one which always bodes a terrible storm.

In his endeavor to care for his wife and child, Jones was mollified a little, and half regretted that he had been so violent about the piece of land. But he was determined not to be backed down, and would certainly have to shoot Barton, or be shot himself.

When he thought of the chance of being killed by his old partner, the prospect was not pleasant. He looked wistfully at Kitty, his two-year old child, and dreaded that she would be left fatherless. Nevertheless, he wouldn't be backed down. He would shoot or be shot.

While the father was busy cutting wood, and the mother was busy otherwise, little Kitty managed to get the shanty door open. There was no latch as yet, and her prying little fingers easily swung it back. A gust of wind almost took her breath away, but she caught sight of the grass without, and the new world seemed so big that the little feet were fain to try and explore it.

She pushed out through the door, caught her breath again, and started away down the path bordered by sere grass and the dead stalks of the wild flowers.

How often she had longed to escape from restraint, and paddle out into the world alone. So out into the world she went, rejoicing in her liberty, in the blue sky above, and the rusty prairie beneath. She would find out where the path went and what was the end of the world. What did she care if her nose was blue with cold, and her chubby hands red as beets! Now and then she paused to turn her head away from a rude blast, a forerunner of the storm, but having gasped a moment, she quickly renewed her brave march in search of the great unknown.

The mother missed her, but supposed that Jones, who could not get enough of the child's society, had taken the little pet out with him. Jones, poor fellow, thinking that the darling was safe within, chopped away till the awful storm broke upon him, and at last drove him, half smothered by snow, and half frozen with cold, into the house. When there was nothing left but retreat he seized an armful of wood and carried it into the house with him, to make sure of having enough to keep Kitty and his wife from freezing in the coming awfulness of the night, which now settled down upon the storm beaten and snow blinding world. It was the beginning of that horrible storm in which so many people were frozen to death, and Jones fled not too soon.

When once the wood was stacked by the stove, Jones looked for Kitty. He had no more than inquired for her when her father and mother read in each other's faces the fact that she was lost in the wild, dashing storm of snow.

So fast did the snow fall, and so hard was the night, that Jones could not see three feet ahead of him. He endeavored to follow the path which he thought Kitty might have taken, but it was buried in snow drifts, and he soon lost himself. He stumbled through the drifts, calling out to Kitty in his distress, not knowing whither he went. After an hour of despairing, wandering and shouting, he came upon a house, and having rapped upon the door he found himself face to face with his wife. He had returned to his own house in his bewilderment.

When we remember that Jones had not slept for two nights preceding this one, on account of his quarrel with Burton, and had now been beating against the Arctic hurricane, and tramping through the treacherous billows of snow for an hour, we cannot wonder that he fell over his own threshold in a state of extreme exhaustion.

As it was, his wife must needs give up neighborhood of the shanty. She had a sick husband, with frozen hands and feet and face, to care for. Every minute the thermometer fell lower and lower, and all the heat the little cook stove in Jones' shanty could give would hardly keep them from freezing.

Burton had stayed upon the forty-acre lot all day, waiting for a chance to shoot his old partner, Jones. He had not heard of the arrival of Jones' wife, add he concluded his enemy was a coward, and had left him in possession or else meant to play some treacherous trick on his way home. So Burton resolved to keep a sharp look-out, but he soon found that impossible, for the storm was upon him in its blinding fury. He tried to follow the path, but he could not find it.

Had he been less a frontiersman he must have perished there, within a furlong of his own hut. But endeavoring to keep the direction of the path he heard a smothered cry, and then something rose up covered with snow, and fell down again. He raised his gun to shoot it, when the creature uttered another wailing cry, so human, that he put down his gun and went cautiously forward. It was a child!

He did not remember that there was such a child among all the settlers at Newton. But he did not stop to ask questions. He must without delay get himself and the child, too, to a place of safety, or both would be frozen. So he took the little thing in his arms and started through the drifts. And the child put its fingers on Burton's rough cheek, muttering "papa!" And Burton held her closely and fought the snow more courageously than ever.

He found the shanty at last, and rolled the child in a buffalo robe while he made a fire. Then when he got the room a little warm, he took the little thing upon his knees, dipping her aching fingers in cold water, and asked what her name was.

"Kitty," said she.

"Kitty," said he, "what else?"

"Kitty," she answered, nor could he find out any more.

"Whose Kitty are you?"

"Your Kitty," she said. For she had known her father but that one day, and now she believed that Burton was her father. Burton sat up all night and stuffed wood into his impotent little stove to keep the baby from freezing to death. Never having anything to do with children, he firmly believed that Kitty, sleeping snugly under blankets and buffalo robes, would freeze if he should let the fire subside in the least.

As the storm prevailed with unabated fury the next day, and as he dared neither to take Kitty out nor leave her alone, he stayed by her all day and stuffed the stove, and laughed at her droll baby-talk, and fed her on biscuit, fried bacon and coffee.

On the morning of the second day the storm subsided. It was cold, but knowing somebody must be mourning Kitty for dead, he wrapped her in skins, and with much difficulty reached the nearest neighbor's house, suffering only from a frost-bitten nose by the way.

"That child," said the woman to whose house he had gone, "is Jones'; I seed 'em take her outen the wagon day before yesterday."

Burton looked a moment at Kitty in perplexity. Then he rolled her up again and started out, "travelling like mad," the woman said, as she watched him.

When he had reached Jones', he found Jones and his wife sitting in utter wretchedness by the fire. They were both sick from grief, and unable to move out of the house. Kitty they had given up for buried under some snow-mound. They would find her when Spring should come and melt the snow-cover off.

When the exhausted Burton came in with his buffalo skins, they looked at him in amazement. But he opened it and let out little Kitty and said:

"Here, Jones, is this your pet kitten?"

And Jones got up and took his old partner's hand and said: "Burton, old fellow!" and then choked up and sat down and cried helplessly.

And Burton said: "Jones, old fellow, you may have that forty-acre patch. It came mighty near makin' me the murderer of that little Kitty's father."

"No! you shall take it yourself," cried Jones, "if I have to go to law to make you." And Jones actually deeded the forty acres to Burton. But Burton transferred it all to Kitty.

This is why this part of Newton is called "Kitty's Forty."

News and Notes.

The Boston Globe has an account of the finding of a boy in the night express over the Northern Railroad at Boscawen on Tuesday. He is six or seven years old, bears a strong resemblance to Charlie Ross, says his name is Donegan, that he was stolen from Philadelphia, that his name is Charlie Ross, that his mother's name is Annie, that he has been in California, England, and India, was familiar with Douglas, Mosher and Westervelt, and remembers incidents of his home life. Charlie Ross' father has been sent for.

It is the intention to send out from Washington during the Presidential campaign a larger supply of republican documents than has ever before been sent from there.

George Scott Jeffrey, a telegraph operator at Waynesburg, Green County, and Miss Lydia Cutler a telegraph operator at Brownsville, Penn., were recently united in marriage by telegraph. The officiating clergyman at Waynesburg read the ceremony to the groom, who telegraphed the same to the bride, who responded by wire. All other business was suspended in the offices during the ceremony.

The trial of Joseph LaPage for the murder of Josie Langmaid will commence next Tuesday. The two ladies who have received letters threatening violence in case they testify against the prisoner, are not at all frightened, and will appear and give their testimony. Officers of the law are on the track of the writers of the letters.

The Way to Do It.

Mart. Haynes, of the Lake Village Times, stands on the following platform:

We shall aim to make a good paper, and shall be our own judge as to the proper road to this result.

If anybody wants the Times enough to pay a dollar and a half for fifty-two numbers, we shall be glad to attend to his case.

If he thinks the paper not worth that money we advise him to keep his currency and let us alone.

We are not at all desirous of carrying "deadheads" on our list, and advise all such to patronize some other establishment.

The man who takes the paper just to "help it along," but is never able to pay for it, finds no favor here.

We want no business connection with those who "do not have the money" from one year's end to another. Those fellows are too big liars or too infernally poor to suit our purposes.

In short, we want money, and patronage without money we consider worse than no patronage at all.

If anybody wants the paper, who "has not got the money now but will send it in a week or two," we advise him to wait "a week or two," before sending in his order.

The class of subscribers who bring in or send in their subscriptions as promptly as the new year comes around, are men after our own heart and we hope to continue our relations with them.

We are happy to say that we have a "cleaner" list than most newspapers, and shall at a near day and after a suitable notice purge it of the few non-paying names which have been imposed up on us.

These are our articles of faith, and we are ready to dismiss those who will not subscribe to them.

Meanwhile we bid all a Happy New Year!

Love's Young Dream.

They got aboard the train, says the New Orleans Times, a little between Canton and New Orleans, and took a seat in the front end of the car. He was a young man with an independent "big enough to take care of myself" sort of an air, and she was a young woman apparently big enough to help him do it. He seemed entirely to overlook the fact that there were any passengers on the train, and especially that several distinguished St. Louis and Chicago drummers were aboard. He was full to bursting with something to say, and the movements of a race horse are tame in comparison with the way he proceeded to say it.

During the first half hour, with head and arms extended until they nearly touched the person of the fair damsel at his side, and utterly unconscious that a dozen pairs of eyes were watching him, he poured forth such a flood of words as must certainly have overwhelmed any one unable to swim in the liquid language of love. Once during the half hour she seemed to rebuke him for some startling expression, and he fell back discomfited to his own end of the seat. It was only for a moment. Long enough, however, for some rash individual to offer to bet that the maid would win, which was at once accepted by all parties within hearing.

At the end of the first half hour she exhibited strong symptoms of wilting, and Chicago bet ten to one on the young man, which was taken by St. Louis. Things were now becoming intensely interesting to all parties, and when at length the young man ventured to pass his arm around the maid, with no sign of disapproval from her, significant glances passed among the crowd, and 100 to 1 was offered with no takers, and all further betting was cut off by the maid passing her arm around the young man and dropping her head on his bosom. They had gone far enough. The climax was reached, the goal gained, the dear object won, and they got off at the next station. They passed out quietly and lovingly, not knowing that the blessings of an entire car-load of passengers followed them. Amid the general enthusiasm which followed their exit, St. Louis, with a long-kind." And Chicago did not forget himself as he replied: "Pshaw! We have them every day with us."

A Century of Invention.

Undoubtedly the great Machinery Hall will be the crowning point of American triumph in the coming Centennial. While the latter half of the century which our Union has been in existence proved vastly more productive of valuable inventions than the fifty years previous, America can point with pride to the large number of remarkable labor-saving machines with which her inventors have blessed the world. The telegraph, the rotary printing press, the sewing machine, and other leading articles of universal use, have been widely landed; but there are innumerable articles, the result of American ingenuity, each of which is worthy a descriptive article of greater length than newspaper limits usually allow.

To protect the teeming brain that evolves with patient thought and thorough test the perfected idea of some new or improved method in machinery, manufacture, etc., and to secure, if possible, a suitable pecuniary return to such inventor, the patent laws have been established and maintained; but the inventor has to exercise discrimination in the selection of a solicitor, or he may suffer pecuniary loss in seeking letters patent for an unpatentable article, or fail to obtain a patent to which he is justly entitled on account of faulty specifications.

If a long experience and immense business with every department of the Patent Office, a thorough conversance with foreign as well as American patent laws and rules, and a success in procuring all desired papers for his clientage that is unequalled, be the best recommendations for a patent solicitor, then Mr. R. H. Eddy, of 76 State Street, Boston, so widely known as one of the most successful men in that line, is commended as strongly by his works to all seeking patents, renewals, extensions, trade marks, etc., as he has been cordially indorsed for many years past by his patrons and the press of New England.

Opening Address.

[By Pooty Itsey Tiny.]

I am here. And if this is what they call the world, I don't think much of it. It's a very flannelly world, and smells of paregoric awfully. It's a dreadful light world, too, and makes me blink, I tell you. And I don't know what to do with my hands; I think I'll dig my fists in my eyes. No, I won't, I'll scrabble at the corner of my blanket and chew it up, and then I'll holler; whatever happens I'll holler. And the more paregoric they give me the louder I'll yell. That old nurse puts the spoon in the corner of my mouth in a very uneasy way, and keeps tasting my milk herself all the while. She spilt snuff in it last night, and when I hollered, trotted me. That came of being a two days' old baby. There's a pin sticking in me now, and if I say a word about it I'll be trotted or fed; and I would rather have catnip tea. I'll tell you who I am. I found out to-day. I heard folks say, "Hush, don't wake up Emeline's baby;" and I suppose that pretty white-faced woman on the pillow is Emeline. No, I was mistaken; for a chap was in here just now, and wanted to see Bob's baby; and looked at me and said, "I was a funny little toad, and looked just like Bob." He smelt of cigars. I wonder who else I belong to. Yes, there's another—that's "Gamma." It was "Gamma's baby, so it was." I declare I do not know who I belong to; but I'll holler, and maybe I'll find out. There comes Snuffy with catnip tea. I'm going to sleep. I wonder why my hands won't go where I want them to.

Why He Wanted the Tiger.

[Danbury News.]

Those who attended the sale of animals from Barnum's Hippodrome in Bridgeport, the other day, report the following occurrence. A tiger was being offered. The bid run up to $4,500. This was made by a man who was a stranger, and to him it was knocked down. Barnum, who had been eyeing the stranger uneasily during the bidding, now went up to him and said:

"Pardon me for asking the question, but will you tell me where you are from?"

"Down South a bit," responded the man

"Are you connected with any show?"

"No."

"And you are buying this animal for your self?"

"Yes."

Barnum shifted about uneasily for a moment, looked alternately at the man and the tiger, and evidently trying his best to reconcile the two together.

"Now, young man," he finally said, "you need not take this animal unless you want to for there are those here who will take it off your hands.

"I don't want to sell," was the quiet reply.

"What on earth are you going to do with such an ugly beast if you have no show of your own and are not buying for some one who is a showman?"

"Well, I'll tell you," said the purchaser. "My wife died about three weeks ago. We had lived together for ten years, and—and I miss her." He paused to wipe his eyes and steady his voice, and then added—"So I've bought this tiger."

"I understand you," said the great showman in a husky voice.

—Must it be ever thus, that a man can't come back from a journey and find his wife married again without being called an Enoch Arden? There's that Kansas City fellow, now, whom the papers called by that poetic name; and what do you suppose were the facts? As he entered the cabin he found the old woman and her new husband engaged in the double-working, back-acting, reciprocative performance of pulling each other's hair. They reversed engines for a moment as he entered. "Stranger," said he "I've hearn tell as you've married her. I shall never introod on yer domestic bliss again: but I warns you right here, being a in, that this is a game whar you don't stand no show. Stranger, she can draw to a bobtail and make a full hand ary time." Then he bowed, lifting his hat from a bald head, and withdrew, while the twain resumed their sport. Enoch Arden indeed!—Cin. Times.

—He caught a chair after a short race and sat down. "Where have you been?" that's the first question before they say they are going home to their father, but he had an answer that would have stunned any woman living.

"B'n Presbyterian supper."

"W-h-a-t? Who did you go with?"

"Wizze boys."

"Boys! what boys?

"Alle boys, Preshbytery Morrerrators 'n all."

Here Mrs. W—— bowed the frill of her night cap and wept, and he explained between convulsive jerks at his boot.

"Sno use crying. Good company. Bat Morrerrator 'e sculdn' say Ten Commandments. Losh my money. Took 'nother drink. Whent my head! Six-a-dog. Ladies all helmahead."

"Oh, Charles! Another woman held your head!" Sobs.

"Now, Maria, don't be a fool. Who said buzzer ooman helmahead?"

"Why you said so yourself." More sobs.

"Never. I'm a furrel liar. Tell you truth this time. S'elmpe Bob," and doubtless he would if he hadn't gone dead to sleep while he was talking.

—On Saturday last the hands on Mr. J. Jones' plantation, between Winnsboro and Chester, were engaged in packing cottou, when they were called off to drive cows from an adjoining field. They were absent some fifteen or twenty minutes. On their return to the press they called for one of their comrades who had been assisting them in packing, but could not find him. As he had been drinking, the supposition was that he had gone off somewhere to sleep, and the packing continued without him. After a bale had been pressed and turned out, one of the hands caught hold of a coat tail protruding from the bale and inquired whose coat it was, when it was identified as the garment of the missing man. On investigation, the body of the man was discovered in the bale of cotton, crushed to a jelly. The belief is that he got into the box when the other hands went after the cows and went to sleep, and that subsequently cotton was thrown in the box and packed with the result reported.—Columbia (S. C.) Register.

—When two colored citizens met on the walk near the City Hall, one of them angrily exclaimed:

"Messer Jones, if you doan pay dem $7 de law will put to you powerful hard."

"Now, doan be onreasonin," replied Jones in a cajoling voice.

"But you's got money in de bank!" shouted the first.

"Yes, I know I cud gib a check on de bank; but I's got to get a blank check, borrow pen'n ink, put on my specs, write all ober de check, go down dar to 'dentify you, figger upside loss ob interes', and probable while I was in de bank some one 'ud be looking for me on de street to hire me at $4 a day. Dese am de chief reasons why I doan want to pay de money fur de next two weeks."—Detroit Free Press.

—Philip McCupp and Philip McCan are the two great wits and punsters of the Courier-Journal. Few of its readers realize that these two names are a play on the chorus of the old Scottish border song, of which the chorus is,

"Then fill up my cup and fill up my can,
Go saddle my horses and call up my men,
Undo the west port and let us gae free,
For 'tis up with the bonnets of Bonnie Dundee.'

—"Mr. Busbee says you needn't send the paper to him any more," said a little urchin who stuck his head into the sanctum. "All right." "An' he said to tell you he wouldn't a-stopped it only you didn't say nothin' about the big hog he killed last week," continued the youth; and then he slid down the banisters into the street.—Fulton Times.

—He sat in a railway car. His head was thickly covered with a mass of red hair. Behind him in a seat sat a man with hardly any hair on his head. He said to him, "I guess you wasn't around when they dealt out hair." "Oh, yes, I was," replied bald head, "but they offered me a lot of red hair, and I told them to throw it into the ash-bin."

An article that is at once a teeth preserver and breath purifier and yet so pleasant and convenient to use, its exceeding popularity does not surprise any one. Time has fully established the fact that the SOZODONT possesses these excellent qualities in an eminent degree. It has legitimately acquired the right to a position upon every toilet table.

To My Patients and the Public!

I propose to leave Portsmouth about February 1st, for an absence of several months. Will those contemplating or needing my services please give me an early call? Previous to my departure for Europe in 1874, so many of my patients neglected to call until the very last that I was compelled to seek the assistance of a stranger to help me out with my forced engagements. I cannot do so this year. The responsibility rests with my patients after this call.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TO-DAY.

N. H. Register, etc.—Joseph H. Foster.
Ward Three Caucus—This Evening.
Notice—Dr. Stevens.

"Boiling Down" a Judge.

An old gentleman named Obrey, whose duty it is to disperse the army of small boys who gather at the Sowersby Bakery on Water street, got after one chap on Tuesday, and while shaking him was interfered with by a man named Welsh. A complaint against Welsh was made for assault, and Justice Bufford held a special seance to accommodate the prisoner, who was fined one dollar and costs—in all, $9.04. Welsh murmured at the grand total and talked of an appeal, but being informed by his counsel that delay would add two dollars' more cost for a mittimus, and an appeal would raise the amount to $25, began an attempt to cheapen the administration of justice, which utterly failed. "I'll give you five dollars, Judge, and call it square," was his offer, and the complacent justice assured him that one hundred cents' fine was the youngest amount he could name, and that the costs must be paid. "Well, then," quoth the dissatisfied defendant: "I'll make it six dollars." But the law was obdurate and he could not even get the four cents taken off the sum total by his process of "beating down," and went away convinced that he who buys law pays dearly.

Jottings.

Ward caucuses for the choice of committees to serve for the ensuing year, and for the election of delegates to the State, County, Councillor and Senatorial conventions will be held by the republicans of Wards Two, Three, Four and Five this evening—Ward Two at the Elm street Ward room at half-past seven o'clock; Ward Three at the Water street Ward room at the same time; Ward Four at Oxford & Johnston's store at eight o'clock; and Ward Five at the Court House at half-past seven o'clock.

Hon. Frank Jones pays taxes on $371,600 worth of property in Boston. He'll be running for Governor of Massachusetts, next thing.

Representative Whitthorne, chairman of the House committee on naval affairs, is known to be in favor of strengthening the navy by all proper means. His idea is to sell off all the old and worthless war vessels, including iron-clads that are in a state of chronic repair, and build a new class of iron-clads for defence. He also favors the abolition of several navy yards, and the total abolition of the marine corps.

We learn that E. P. Sherburne, Esq., of the Haven School, has received a lucrative offer from Quincy Mass., to take charge of a grammar school in that town. We hope he will not accept.

The difficulties of the Eastern Railroad appear to increase rather than decrease. There is a report on State street of an alleged discovery of bonds to the amount of $250,000 which are said to be in excess of the amount recorded on the books of the company. This story has been current, but we question its correctness, as the reputed name of the holder of these bonds is that of a gentleman who is above suspicion of duplicity, and is too shrewd to hold bonds of which there is any question.—Boston Journal.

A young lady of this city who was to have been married at New Year's, and whose lover came here from a distance for Christmas,—was taken sick on the morning of that day, and lived but a day or two. The wedding was changed to a funeral, and the bride robed as the bride of death, wearing a white veil, and with the most abundant and exquisite floral adornments. Among the emblems were a floral sickle laid upon the casket, a broken ring or circle, a monument or tower, and others.

All who are, who have been, or who desire to be, members of the P. W. G. A. Society, the Women's Temperance League, or other temperance organizations, are invited to meet at Sons of Temperance Hall, corner of Market and Ladd streets, this (Thursday) evening.

A contract has been signed by the Presidents of the Boston and Maine, the Fitchburg, the Eastern, and the Boston and Lowell Railroad Companies, that hereafter no passes shall be issued to proprietors or landlords of hotels, hack and stage drivers, policemen, members of the press, postmasters and post office officials, custom house officials, or members of city governments, and that no passes shall be issued to influence business over the lines of the parties to the contract.

Steam Tug Tiger, Capt. Willard, from Portland for Cape Ann, put into this port on Wednesday on account of threatening weather.

The Claremont Manufacturing Co. have issued the New Hampshire Register and Business Directory for 1876, containing the complete list of post offices in the State, a new map of both Vermont and New Hampshire, a complete list of granges, a very elaborate lists of stations, on all the railroads, a complete alphabetical list of newspapers, banks and insurance companies, etc., and election statistics. J. H. Foster has it for sale.

The Eliot Academy was burned to the ground on Tuesday night, causing an alarm of fire here. The loss is $3000; insured for $1000 in the Hartford Insurance Company, of Hartford. The fire was an incendiary one, as there has been no fire in the building since the 17th. It had been thoroughly repaired within sixteen months, and was owned by a stock company.

Michael R. Perkins, inspector of petroleum, complained of a well-known firm, on Wednesday, for neglect to have inspected a barrel of illuminating oil, the product of petroleum, whereby Michael's exchequer had failed to be replenished by a fee amounting to five dimes. The defendants were held in their own recognizance in the sum of $100 each. The fine for a violation of the city ordinance requiring inspection of petroleum is $100.

Elements of Bone, Brain and Muscle.

The food contains the elements of bone, brain and muscle, and in a healthy system, properly nourished, the manufacture of these bodily constituents is uninterrupted, night or day. On the other hand, when digestion or assimilation are imperfect, the manufacture is hindered, and the destructive not being counteracted by the reparative processes of Nature, the system is threatened with early decay. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are peculiarly fitted to overcome the causes which lead to an untimely decadence of the vital energies, removing as they do all obstacles to complete digestion and assimilation of the food, and restraining an undue waste of physical substance. For the loss of strength consequent upon depleting diseases, they are the best possible remedy, and their bracing upon the system enable it to withstand hurtful atmospheric influences inductive of malaria.

"A Slight Cold," Coughs.—Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough or "slight cold" which would yield to a mild remedy; if neglected, often attacks the lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" give sure and almost immediate relief.

The Atlantic Cable is a world-wide blessing, and so is Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. A cure for 25 cents.

The Spring Crop of Coughs and Colds is heavy, and will ripen into a terrible harvest of disease and death, unless rooted out with the Standard Antidote, HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Pyle's Dietetic Saleratus.—Universally acknowledged the best in use. Each pound bears the name of JAMES PYLE. None genuine without. tjs76

—We have occasionally in town an old fellow who don't hurry much, and takes all things moderately. "Are you going to the Centennial?" asked a friend. American Genius.--Moody & Sankey.

The great revivalists, Messrs. Moody and Sankey, who electrified staid old England with their eloquence and enthusiasm, are fair samples of American genius. Springing from among the common people, their sympathies are alive to the wants of the whole people, and herein lies the secret of their great success. Those who seek to be popular must study and be familiar with the wants of the masses, and prove loyal thereto. To this fact we may trace the grand success in business, as well as in religious undertakings, which many Americans have achieved. Strikingly illustrative of these suggestions is that great establishment, located at Buffalo, N. Y., and known as the "World's Dispensary,"—a most appropriate name, indeed, for that vast institution, within whose walls are manufactured remedies which are in demand in every quarter of the globe, and at which a corps of distinguished physicians and surgeons, under the personal direction of Dr. Pierce, are constantly administering to the needs of thousands of sufferers everywhere, and whose success in the treatment of all forms of chronic ailments has become so well known that there is scarcely a hamlet in the land, in which his name is not familiar. Its proprietor, says the Herald and Torchlight, of Detroit, "is a man of the people, writes for them, and to them tenders his eminent professional services." His advertisements are earnest exhortations. Like the great revivalists, his enthusiasm is multiplied by the unparallelled success of his enterprise, as well as by the efficacy of his remedies in curing disease. The people believe in him and his remedies, because, as the New York Tribune says, "he sympathizes with them in all their afflictions, efforts, and attainments." Hence, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is to-day more largely employed as a blood and liver medicine, and also as a cough remedy, than any other remedial agent in the world. His Favorite Prescription he does not recommend as a cureall, as is so often done by compounders of worthless, humbug nostrums, but for all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women it has proved itself so much of a specific that it now enjoys great popularity and universal confidence. Dr Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, scarcely larger than mustard seed, have proved so agreeable and reliable as a cathartic that they are rapidly taking the place of the large, nauseous pills heretofore so much in use; while his Compound Extract of Smart-Weed is a favorite remedy for Colic, Cramps, Summer-complaint, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera and Cholera Morbus, and also as a liniment. Of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, little need be said, as they are known everywhere as the greatest specifics for Catarrh and Cold-in-the Head ever given to the public. And besides this large measure of success, Dr. Pierce seems likely to achieve as great renown as an author as he has as a physician. His COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of about 900 pages, which he sells at the unparalleled low price of $1.50, has already been sold to the extent of exhausting two editions amounting to forty thousand copies. The secret of Dr. Pierce's success, as well as that of the great revivalists, and scores of other Americans, who by their genius have advanced step by step from obscurity to affluence and distinction, consists in treating the people with consideration, sympathy, candor and honesty No man, who hopes to attain either wealth or distinction, can afford to deal unfairly with the world or be indifferent to the wants and best interests of humanity.

MARRIAGE GUIDE An Illustrated Work 270 pages, a private companion for married and marriageable people, containing the most important information in the married relation, young and middle aged should read and preserve it; it contains information, advice and knowledge worth ten times its cost; on how to preserve the health, and complexion, and prevent and check the approach of premature old age, and is by far the best Marriage Guide in the world. Price 50 cents by Mail. The author may be consulted personally or by mail on any of the diseases described in his book, Address Dr. A. G. OLIN, 25 Washington st., Chicago, Ill.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, is admitted to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in fact it is the only weekly paper published in the United States, which is devoted to Science, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World; Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Workingmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record of the Progress of the Industrial Arts as they advance in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past Thirty Years, and has attained a circulation far greater, and is now the largest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. And for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Mechanics, Farmers, Manufacturers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding every year. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Special circulars giving Club rates sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms. Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Patents obtained through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U.S., and Engrav. Patent mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

☞ These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1874, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 5, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE.—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last Fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefitted by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I procured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, Jr.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, ME., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the Dyspepsia so bad that I could not stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one week of the five timonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD, Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any small article from the poor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisement in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a new person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from Inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them. I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00; please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane---Health much Better at 64 than 44---Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reslendale, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.50 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's terms is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are great abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the National finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely into politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of either party, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust; to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private individuals, and a reduction, however slow, of taxes. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans in Ohio and Pennsylvania in that crisis, and as earnestly striving to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without being too much controlled by mere names, has been that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system and to nominate better men, and to practice some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within a few years been able greatly to purify both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost candor with judicial fairness; will keep its columns free from personal wrangling; will waste no time in replying to the incessant attacks its success arouses from envious rivals, and so heretofore will reserve all its space for its readers' interests.

From those who believe such a journal a desirable visitor in their families, THE TRIBUNE solicits a continuance of the favor it has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the profession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, greatly stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Peterson's Magazine

POSTAGE PREPAID ON ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS.

☞ Every subscriber for 1876 will be presented with a superb, large sized steel engraving of Trumbull's celebrated picture of "The Signing of the Declaration of Independence." This will be "Peterson's" Centennial Gift. ☜

"PETERSON'S MAGAZINE" contains, every year, 1000 pages, 14 steel plates, 12 colored Berlin patterns, 12 mammoth colored fashion plates, 24 pages of music, and 900 wood cuts.

Great improvements will be made in 1876. Among them will be a series of illustrated articles on the Great Exhibition at Philadelphia, which will alone be worth the subscription price. They will be appropriately called

THE CENTENNIAL IN PEN AND PENCIL!

The immense circulation of "Peterson" enables its proprietor to spend more money on embellishments stories, &c., &c., than any other. It gives more for the money than any in the world. Its

THRILLING TALES AND NOVELETTES

are the best published anywhere. All the most popular writers are employed to write originally for "Peterson." In 1876, in addition to the usual quantity of short stories, FIVE ORIGINAL COPYRIGHT NOVELETTES will be given, by Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, Frank Lee Benedict, Mr

Republican State Convention.

A Republican State Convention for the nomination of candidates for Governor and Railroad Commissioner, will be held at White's Opera House, in Concord, on WEDNESDAY, January 5, 1876, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

All the voters of New Hampshire who cherish the principles and achievements of the Republican party; who desire an honest, efficient and economical administration of the National and State governments; who insist upon an early return to a currency based on specie, and a strict fulfillment of every obligation of the government; who approve the course of the National Administration looking to the reform of abuses and the punishment of wrong-doers; who favor such a national policy as shall permanently secure the rights of the freedmen and protect them against fraud, intimidation and violence, to the end that the sentiment of nationality and perfect equality may be made predominant in the reconstructed States, and our whole country placed on the high road to general education, free suffrage, enduring peace and a solid prosperity; and, especially, all who condemn the late Executive usurpation in New Hampshire which disfranchised thousands of voters in contemptuous violation of law and precedent, and fraudulently deprived the Republican party of the legislative power which they had fairly won at the polls,—are cordially invited to participate in the primary meetings for the choice of delegates.

A meeting of the State Central Committee will be held at the Eagle Hotel, in Concord, Tuesday evening, January 4th, at 8 o'clock, to which all delegates to the Convention are invited. DANIEL HALL, Chairman Republican State Committee.

WAKING UP THE WRONG MAN.

[Territorial Enterprise.]

An evening or two since some of the employes of the Ophir Company found an intoxicated man sleeping off his over allowance of "tarantula juice" among the shavings in one of the temporary shops near the works. They had some trouble in getting the fellow aroused, and more in trying to make him comprehend where he was, or rather that he was not in a place where he legitimately belonged.

It was determined by the men who found the boozy party that they would give him such a fright that he would never again venture within a mile of the works. Therefore they told their man that they had positive orders to kill any person found about the works after dark. They said it was a thing they did not like to do, but the works had lately been destroyed by fire and the company were not in a humor to take any more chances—their orders were imperative.

The man tried to beg off, saying that he did not know how he came into the shed, and swearing by all that was good and bad he meant no harm, but all would not do.

He was seized and dragged some distance up the hill toward the Masonic Cemetery, to a place in the open country, where five or six rifled cannon, belonging to the Nevada Artillery, have been standing since the day of the fire. Two stout men then seized the trembling "snoozer," and placing his head in front of the muzzle of one of the guns, told him he had but three minutes to live, as they were about to blow his head off.

Again the man begged for mercy, saying that he had only taken a drop too much and got into the shed he knew not how, but certainly without any evil intentions.

Said a man who had taken his place at the breech of the gun, and was taking some matches from his vest pocket: "If you have any word to leave for a wife, an old father or mother, or any friend or relative, you will do well to make known your wishes."

"I reckon I hain't got airy wife, or old father or mother, or anybody else as cares a chaw of tobacker about me."

"Well, but have you no dying wish, no dying request?"

"Wall, now you talk. Mout I make a request?"

"You may, and be quick about it, (lighting a match,) as when I apply this match to the touch-hole of this gun, off goes your head. You have a request to make?"

"Stranger, I hev."

"Out with it, then. We can't fool with you all night when there may be other fire-bugs prowling about the works."

"I kin hev my last request, then?"

"You can."

"You won't go back on me?"

"No."

"Whatever I ax you'll grant!"

"Don't I say so? Let's hear your dying request, or dab goes a match into this powder, and off goes your head!"

"Well, then, as I have your word as a gentleman, my last and only desire is that you'll put me at the other end of the gun before yer stick that match inter its touch-hole."

"Too thin!" cried all hands. "Good, but too thin! You don't get off that way!"

"Oh, ho!" said the snoozer, "you go back on yer word, do yer? Yer don't know who I am, I reckon. You don't know you've picked up Bill Slicer from the Muddy Fork of the Mohican!" And suddenly shaking himself free of the hold of the men who held his arms, he reached down into the top of his right boot and brought out his revolver, nearly as large as a Gatling gun.

"Oh, ho!" cocking the formidable shooting iron, "go back on your word? Go back on my dying request? Now I know the kind of men I've got to deal with—infernal liars and murderers!"

Half this speech had not been concluded—indeed, the pistol had hardly clicked—before there was a wild scattering of the little party of practical jokers.

They ran behind the group of cannon, bounded over the cemetery fence toward the shelter of the tombstones, and in short rolled and tumbled in all directions.

"Oh, ho!" cried Old Bill, "why don't yer stand by yer gun? Come out of yer holes! You've got a bigger gun nor I have, but I've got the most shots, and I'll give yer a fair fight and die game! Wall, here's some for you at random!" and Old Bill let off a couple of shots among the cannon and tombstones.

The jokers were mighty glad when their old snoozer ceased to rage about the spot and took his way, mutteringly, toward the distant lights of the town.

He Was The Man.

[Detroit Free Press.]

One evening last week, when the winter blasts moaned sad around the street corners, and the captains of the ferry-boats were anxious looks, seven or eight vessel owners and "laid up" lake captains sat around a cheerful base burner in a saloon near the river. After the usual amount of growling about the weather, one of them told a story. Then a second man told a story to beat it, then a third man beat the second. When the fourth man started out he said:

"Gentlemen, I have also seen tough times. When I was sailing the schooner Fortune, forty years ago, two of us were swept overboard in a storm on Lake Erie, one black night. A hatch cover went with us, and it so happened that we both clutched it. It was not large enough to support two. I was captain, he a sailor. I had a family, he had none. I shouted to him to quit his hold, and when he would not, I reached over, clutched his throat, and held on till his fingers loosened and he went to the bottom of the lake! It was twenty miles off Point Betsey, and, with a shrill, wild shriek, which yet lingers in my ears, the poor wretch went to his death! May the Lord forgive me!"

With his chair tilted against the wall, a lanky, sunflowerish chap had been nodding his head right and left, as if sleeping. As the captain's narrative was concluded, the stranger rose up and solemnly said:

"I am that man!"

The crowd looked at him in astonishment, and he continued:

"I landed on Point Betsey next morning in time for breakfast, and I swore a solemn oath that I'd lick you for choking me if I had to live a hundred years to do it."

"You can't be the man," replied the captain, looking suspiciously at the fellow's big fists; "it was forty years ago."

"I know it was, and for forty years I've been aching to lick you out of your boots."

The captain had lied, but he didn't want to own it, and he said:

"That sailor's name was Dick Rice."

"Kerect!" bowed the stranger; "that's my name!"

"But he was taller than you."

"Being in the water so long that night shrunk just a foot!" was the cool rejoinder.

"Well, I know you can't be the man," said the captain.

"I am that man, and now I'm going to maul you! No man can choke me and then brag about it!"

He sailed in and upset the captain, but was then set upon by the whole crowd. He got into the eye of the wind and hung there for a time, but presently he paid off a little, got the wind on his quarter, and went at it to lick ten times his weight in old liars. He was a very ambitious man, and those who could get out doors got out, and those who couldn't offered him a gallon of whisky to come to anchor. He furled his sails on this understanding, and as he set his glass down for the third drink he wiped his bleeding ear and remarked:

"When a man tries to sacrifice me in order to save himself he don't know who he's fooling with!"

He was the biggest liar of them all, but he made the most out of it.

A Reduction of the Estimates Proposed.

[Boston Journal's Wash. Cor.]

Hon. Samuel J. Randall has gone to Philadelphia, after having had personal interviews with the heads of Departments and several of the chiefs of bureaus, in which he has urged a reduction of their estimates for the next fiscal year. He says that the democrats will not be willing to restore the duties on tea and coffee or to otherwise increase taxation, and that the expenditures must be cut down. But he wishes this to be done in such a manner as not to cripple the government or to interfere with its operations.

—A baby came to a family in Maine last week, and a bright five-year-old brother, patting it playfully under the chin, inquired: "Say, how was God when you left?"

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1875.

News and Notes.

The last Charlie Ross turns out to be another fraud. The little rogue who tried to palm himself off as the lost boy is James Blanchard, of Milford, and the dispatches say he is a consummate liar.

District Attorney Britton, of Brooklyn, is in trouble, being charged by twelve members of the late grand jury with corruption and blackmail.

Sloop-of-war Delaware was sold at auction at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, for $20,000. She was launched in 1866, but never made any extended sea cruise. She is 2400 tons.

In commemoration of the Centennial anniversary of American Independence, a reunion of Knights Templar of the United States will take place in Philadelphia on the 30th and 31st of May.

Fears are entertained in Washington that congress will repeal the resumption act.

The naval staff officers are not satisfied with the rank given them by congress a few years ago, and are organizing to obtain from the present congress the positive rank they demand.

A destructive tornado passed twelve miles east of Hickman, Ky., Sunday evening. Many houses were blown down and several persons killed.

Franklin, N. H., had a $12,000 fire, Wednesday night.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson, who is now in London, is said by Colonel Forney to have determined to write and publish a letter on the Emma Mine scandal, in which he will state that "after carefully reading all the documents, he regards General Schenck as having done no act unworthy of a gentleman."

General Sherman's creed is not long but it is good. In reply to an interviewer who attempted to draw him out on the school question the other day, he pithily and shrewdly said: "I believe in the constitution of the United States and the ten commandments. That's enough for me."

The Providence Journal is of opinion that the latest accounts make it perfectly clear that the authority of the United States in the matter of the collection of the internal revenue in Mississippi can only be maintained by the exercise of the federal forces.

The New York market is greatly overstocked with oranges, and the choicest fruit is going a-begging. An old dealer says he never knew oranges to be so plenty and so cheap before. One man states that he has already 8000 barrels lying about in cellars waiting a chance to go on the market, but steamers arrive in such rapid succession that the glut has no relief. Choice fruit, therefore, must go for what it will fetch. Havana oranges sell for $8 per barrel, while Florida as readily bring $12.

In the Mexican state of Sonora, the government authorities have been having a fight with a body of revolutionists and rather got the worst of it. The rebels are "marching on" Hermasilo.

Hon. Lewis W. Clark, Attorney-General, county solicitor W. W. Flanders and Hon. Charles P. Sanborn will conduct the prosecution for the State in the La Page murder case, which will be tried at Concord, beginning Tuesday, January 4. La Page will be defended by Hon. Samuel B. Page and Hon. William T. Norris, of Concord. It is reported that La Page attempted to escape from jail, but was discovered in time to frustrate his plans.

Paul Morphy, the famous chess-player, thinks it strange the papers will persist in locating him in a lunatic asylum when he can be seen daily walking the streets of New Orleans in good health, and in such independent circumstances that, as he says, he "has enough to live on without playing chess or practicing law."

And now it is stated that the reported warlike movements of the Sioux Indians in the neighborhood of the upper Missouri military posts were merely a change of location, made while favored by unusually fine weather.

Joshua M. Sears is the wealthiest young man in Boston. On Christmas he became of age, and received a part of $1,500,000 his father, Joshua Sears, left him in 1857. The estate now amounts to over $8,000,000. By the terms of the will the son was to receive $30,000 when he was 21, $4000 annually from that age to 25, $6000 annually from 25 to 30, and $10,000 per year subsequently. Who shall inherit the estate in the event of his death, will be a matter for the courts. Young Sears has been educated under the guardianship of Alpheus Hardy, and is now a student of Yale College.

American Labor.

A careful comparison of the labor quality of our countrymen shows that it is many per cent. superior to that of European nations. Our consuls abroad have supplied the data, from their own observation, for a statement that has recently been made up in one of the bureaus of our government. It appears, in England for instance, that a rise in wages does not mean a rise in the value of work, but the contrary. The greater efficiency of American labor is credited to its greater "adaptability." This is directly due to the superior education and intelligence of the factory worker in this country. The social habits of the American, too, are better than those of British workers, who do not average over three and a half days work in the week, owing to the large consumption of beer and more fiery drinks. We do not, it seems, begin to realize the difference in this respect in our favor. Wages are alarmingly drunk up in England, and this fact also accounts for the lower moral and intellectual grade of the laborer.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 130

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

But six towns in what was then the Province of New Hampshire were incorporated before the year 1700. The last of these was Kingston in 1694. Soon, as was usual in early times, attention was given to procuring a minister. In June, 1700, at a town meeting, "Voted to hire one if one could be obtained." The Indians were troublesome and at different times, several of the early inhabitants were killed. At one time Mr. J. Coleman and son were killed near the pond, just west of the Plains, while gathering corn stalks. A garrison was built on the Plains for safety in time of danger. In 1707 a meeting house was built. Probably it was small, and was used but about twenty-five years. Just before the erection of this house a committee had been chosen to procure a minister, and it was voted that they pay him not over £40 and as much under as they could. £40 was equal to about $200.

The first minister obtained was Benjamin Choate of Ipswich, Mass. It was in 1707, and it was voted to give him £50 per year. This was made more afterward with a grant of land. One year forty cords of wood were voted him. It appears that he preached a portion of the time in the garrison, probably because the meeting house was not finished. He continued to preach until 1716 or longer, and after ceasing to preach, lived in town.

In 1732 voted to build a new meeting house and that the tower be one hundred feet high. This house was large and stood on the west side of the Plains, some fifty rods south of the present house of worship. This house was occupied by the church 93 years, and stood some time longer. It became a venerable building. In it able ministers preached, one of whom was Rev. Elihu Thayer, D. D., a native of Braintree, Mass., whose ministry was 36 years, ending with his death in 1812. The house, having been built by the town, was the town's property and became after 1818 the object of great contention, as other denominations wished to occupy it. For a time the contention was sharp and the struggle fierce. Sometimes two ministers and two choirs of singers struggled for the occupancy, and those that got in first had the time until there was a vacant moment, when the others would set in.

But we will return to earlier operations. After Mr. Choate, Rev. Ward Clark was settled in the ministry. A church was organized the same year, 1725, and so is 150 years old. Mr. Clark continued twelve years and died in 1737, aged 34. His sickness and death were in Exeter, and he was buried there. Large numbers united with the church in Kingston during his short ministry, and many of the large elms now standing about there were planted, some of them by him.

The next minister was Rev. Joseph Secombe. He was ordained Nov. 23, 1737. He preached the sermon on the occasion himself, as was sometimes the case then. The text was, "And they were beyond measure astonished, saying, He maketh both the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak." His ministry was 22 years. He died Sept. 15, 1760.

Mr. Secombe was a learned man, had a good library. One sermon preached by him was printed in a small volume, the subject of which we cannot give.

In 1750, Dr. Josiah Bartlett came from Amesbury, Mass., and settled in Kingston as a physician. He boarded for a time in Mr. Secombe's family, enjoyed the benefit of his library, was a member of the Continental Congress, as such was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and was for some years Governor of the State under the Constitution.

Republican State Convention.

[Nashua Telegraph.]

It falls to the lot of the republicans of this State to open the political campaign of the Centennial year. It is a circumstance of some significance and moment, and were other reasons wanting it would be sufficient in itself to demand of the republicans of this State an earnest of what their work and the result will be. We expect the convention to be a full one and made up of active and earnest men of the party from all parts of the State. The selection of a candidate for governor, fortunately for all concerned, will make no contest. Did not usage render the renomination of Governor Cheney a foregone conclusion, his merits and popularity certainly would. No other name is mentioned. No other person is thought of. By his urbanity, modesty, liberality and sound judgment Governor Cheney has won a high place in the respect of the people of the State irrespective of party, and but for the trammels of party he would receive hundreds of democratic votes. As it is he is likely to get the solid support of the independent voters of the State. He will be renominated by the heartiest acclamation, and we cannot doubt that he will be triumphantly re-elected.

By the character of their resolutions last year the republicans of this State put themselves upon an advanced and solid platform. They led the way in laying the third-term bugbear, and by their ringing demand for the reform of all abuses in administration and legislation they completely took the wind out of the sails of their opponents. In a democratic caucus in this State the republican platform was complimented by an old-line but sensible democrat as going further and stronger for reform than the democratic platform went. When their work can extort such a compliment from their opponents the republicans will not be likely to take any backward step in their platform. On all the live issues of the day—including the third-term issue, however dead that may appear to be—we expect the voice of the convention will be decisive, inspiring and judicious. Of course the Senatorial iniquity will be characterized as it deserves.

The work of the convention being relieved in advance of any entanglement that might detract from its harmony or usefulness, the main point in conclusion will be to secure an efficient organization for the conduct of the campaign. There should be but one rule to guide the convention here, and that is to select the right man for the right place in every instance. All other considerations should be made subsidiary to this. The coming campaign is to be no holiday affair. Earnest and unremitting work from the opening to the close of the campaign will alone insure a republican victory. Every republican should be a minute man throughout the campaign. Thus the ranks of the workers may be kept full and effective. Thus a republican Centennial victory will be assured on the 14th of March.

The Prevention of Crime.

[Providence Journal.]

The President of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has addressed an open letter to the Boston papers urging the formation of an association for the purpose of investigating the causes of crime, and of ascertaining and putting in operation the most judicious measures for the prevention thereof. He presents some figures which, taken to be accurate, are worthy of attention. In 1865 there were confined in Massachusetts about 1900 criminals; now, nearly 5000. The rate of crime is about thirty-three per cent. higher than in Ireland. It is none too soon to inquire into the causes of this extraordinary increase in crime. They will be found to be many, and it will be much easier to satisfy one's-self as to the reasons of than the remedy for this state of things. The formation of a society for the purpose aforesaid, would not fail to be useful in any event; and if it should be composed of men and women who would look for all the causes and boldly proclaim them, the limit of its usefulness could hardly be measured. Of course the habitual and undue use of intoxicating liquors would be found to be a principal cause. Going further, the inquiry would properly embrace the school, the reading, the home-life, the amusements, the popular teaching as to the value of riches, the example of the immense majority in their contrasted intercourse with and talk about the wealthy and the poor, the effect upon the nervous system of our general business and social life. The work is not to be accomplished in a day. Nor will it do to forget that evils which spring from such various sources and have been so gradually accumulating, even if we are sure we have found their source, are not to be cured by a new statute or by a rhetorical disputation on the Boston rostrum, whosesoever it may be. Taken hold of in earnest, carried out in investigation carefully, the facts ascertained published frankly and fully, the proposed society would accomplish a great good. But to effect any positive advantage, it must make broad as well as deep work, and possess the moral courage to call a spade a spade.

Old Slam Bang.

We called him Slam Bang for short, and Old because he was old in iniquity. His right name was Kimmonds.

He was a sober, innocent-looking thing, about twelve hands high, with a black head and brindle body. His tail was cut off short, which gave it the appearance of a brush-broom on a stick. His mane was cut short, and stood in a row of bristles along his neck. His ears were nearly a foot long, and were full of black, curly hair. He would always hold one ear forward while eating at his hitching-post, which hitching-post was his residence while at home. He had a habit of sleeping while standing up, but always with one eye open. The hair on his body was long and stuck straight out. He could play 'possum on sleep, and wake up the quickest, and kick a man higher than any other mule in the army.

He was a beautiful animal to ride in a saddle. When mounted he would lie down and travel on his side. If he wouldn't do that he would buck, and if he couldn't get you off by bucking, he would bolt; and if that failed he would rear up and fall over backward on you, and afterward kick and bite you if you chanced to be a little slow in making yourself scarce. He could squeal the loudest and bite the biggest piece out of a board of any mule alive.

His principal amusement was to play sleep until some dog came close to his heels, and then the way the dog's hair would fly was a caution. I have known him to kick a dog fifty rods at one clip.

If you would go before him and just point your finger at him, he would back both ears, part his lips enough to show his teeth, and with a desperate lunge and squeal he would chase you up a tree or into some other place of safety.

His appetite was peculiar; sometimes he required a change of food in the way of a soldier's overcoat or a piece of tent. To this kind of food he always helped himself, and he preferred an overcoat taken fresh off a man's back in a rainy day to any other way it might be served. Nor would he ever eat a hole in a tent unless the weather chanced to be rainy. No halter, strap or rope would hold him; he would bite a rope in two the first bite.

He was of a solitary disposition. I never knew him to take a shine to but one mule, and that one had to either toe the mark or fight when Slam was around. He seemed to like horses on one account—they were a good mark to kick at.

The only thing you could easily approach him with was an apple. One day a darkey gave him an apple with red pepper inside of it. For the next half hour there was fun in that camp. Old Klim coughed, sneezed and brayed. He was Slamencholy for about a month, at the end of which time he kicked a darky (about the size of the one who gave him the apple) into the middle of an adjoining lot. After that Klim enjoyed better health.

One day a shell from the enemy whizzed over his head, making a terrible screech. Slam lowered his ears flat on his neck, opened his mouth and made a grab for it, but it wasn't there. The next one burst and wounded him in the shoulder. The wound was severe, and our mule groaned like a man, and made a great fuss over it. He recovered, was given to the cook of the officers' mess, and afterward was a faithful and obedient animal.

Washington Society.

Although the Congressmen have departed, society in Washington is as lively as ever. The Army and Navy Club gave their first German last week, and there was a crush of gallantry and loveliness on hand. Naval officers are so accustomed to decorating on board ship that they are adepts in the art of festooning and draping flags artistically. The ceiling and walls were brilliant with gay colors. Arms were stacked in the corners of the hall, and at the upper end of the room there was a fine brass cannon, with a martial background. The gentlemen never wear their uniforms at these entertainments, but appear in full evening dress. The ladies who dance take a greater interest in their toilettes for those Germans than for any other entertainments. Mme. Borges wore white satin, the tablier of which was garlanded with wreaths of flowers, the back was trimmed with black Brussels lace flounces and flowers, the corsage was decolette, with very short sleeves; were trimmed with lace and flowers. Around her throat she wore a band of black velvet studded with diamonds; falling beneath the band was a necklace of strands of pearls, festooned with rosettes of diamonds. Her hair was dressed high and surmounted by a large spray of diamonds; bracelets and ear-rings of large diamonds completed her toilette, which was very becoming to her brunette complexion and sparkling dark eyes. The wife of the Spanish Minister wore white satin, with white point lace tablier, and court train of crimson velvet, upon which was laid a deep flounce of lace. Her ornaments of diamonds equaled those of Madame Borges. Madame Mariscal, the wife of the Mexican Minister, wore pink silk, with plisses of white illusion, headed by scalloped bands of the silk, richly embroidered in needle-work. Her ornaments were diamonds. The wife of the Minister from Venezuela wore pearl-colored silk, point lace and diamonds. Madame Hegermann, nee Moulton, was there, and, as usual, looked very handsome. She was dressed entirely in black velvet and lace, with diamonds. Mrs. Dahlgren's daughter, Madame Von Oberbeck, wore a costume of royal blue velvet.

In a Lion's Den.

[From the Meridian, Miss., Mercury.]

Poor old Lee Belk, who lost his life here on Saturday, at the hands of Bason brothers, had been in numerous tight places during his eventful and checkered life. The younger Robinson, who was managing the show, related the particulars of a frightful scrape old Lee got into once during the term of several years he traveled with his father's show. It was in Texas. Lee had got into trouble with a body of Texas ruffians, who had come to the show at Austin. Furious with anger and whiskey, they set upon him with revolver and bowie-knife. The case was hopeless but in flight and successfully eluding pursuit. Luckily he escaped the first onset, and threw them off the track for a moment. He could hear their howls and vengeful threats. Time was precious, and a desperate deed for safety had to be done quickly. He approached the keeper of the lion's cage, and, upon peril of his life, bade him deliver him instantly the key. Belk unlocked the door, and entered, seeking the safety inside the lion's den he well knew was not outside. The ruse successfully threw them off the scent. He rode in the lion's cage seventeen miles, and the noble brute—nobler than the human brutes who pursued—treated him with kind indifference. It is doubtless the only instance on record wherein mortal sought, and obtained, safety from his infuriate fellows by taking refuge in a lion's den.

—Mr. P. T. Barnum told the following in his lecture in Chicago: "In his museum a gentleman and daughter stood gazing at the Siamese Twins. The showman said they were the most remarkable phenomenon in the known world, were born in Siam, etc. 'Brothers, I suppose?' remarked the gentleman, interrogatively, still looking with wonder at the tied-ups. 'Yes, sir, brothers; natural brothers, too,' said the showman. 'My dear,' said the visitor, religiously, turning to his daughter, 'think of the goodness of Providence in linking two natural brothers together instead of two strangers."

—The Baltimore Bulletin says that when Von Bulow went to his first rehearsal in Baltimore he found a sign-board hanging on the piano with the maker's name blazoned on it. "I am not," he exclaimed, "a travelling advertisement," and snatching away the sign he laid it face downward on the floor.

—"Thirteen million milch cows in this country assist to color the water for which the average American citizen pays six to ten cents a quart," is the latest and neatest way of putting it.

—Neuralgia is the name of a girl in Florida. Her mother found it on a medicine bottle and was captivated with its sweetness. Some young man is certainly doomed to suffer neuralgia of the heart.

Sozodont.

An article that is at once a teeth preserver and breath purifier and yet so pleasant and convenient to use, its exceeding popularity does not surprise any one. Time has fully established the fact that the SOZODONT possesses these excellent qualities in an eminent degree. It has legitimately acquired the right to a position upon every toilet table.

To My Patients and the Public!

I propose to leave Portsmouth about February 1st, for an absence of several months. Will those contemplating or needing my services please give me an early call? Previous to my departure for Europe in 1874, so many of my patients neglected to call until the very last that I was compelled to seek the assistance of a stranger to help me out with my forced engagements. I cannot do so this year. The responsibility rests with my patients after this call.

The following are the republican delegates from ward two: State—Elbridge G. Pierce, Jr., John Pender; County—Henry L. Garrett, Thomas Entwistle; Senatorial—James A. Waterhouse, William H. Lovell; Councillor—George E. Hanson. John A. Durgin.

Parties in this city are making arrangements to have built at Essex, Mass., two vessels of about seventy-five tons each, to be employed in the fishing business, and to be commanded by Thomas and Edward Jameson. The former is at present master of the schooner Velocipede belonging to V. Doane, Jr., and he is considered one of the best skippers sailing out of this port.

The following are the republican delegates from ward three: State—Samuel Adams, William H. Rollins, John E. Colcord, Charles W. Gardner; Councillor—Michael J. Vaughan, William Gray, John Nutter, Joshua Stackpole; Senatorial—Oliver H. Locke, John A. Payne, William Y. Evans, Thornton Betton; County—William B. Randall, Joseph R. Curtis, Walter S. Gray, Thornton Betton.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Trade, Wednesday evening, arrangements were initiated to take proper notice of the advent of the centennial year. A committee of arrangements consisiting of Messrs. Marvin, Sise and Morse, was appointed with full powers. It was voted to ask the Mayor to have the bells rung and flags displayed, and also to invite the Collector of the port to display the national flag on the custom-house. The programme of exercises has not been fully decided upon, but will probably include a meeting at the Temple, at which speeches will be made in response to appropriate sentiments, with music by the Naval Band, etc.

On Wednesday evening, at Portsmouth Grange Hall, Mr. Charles J. Brown of Rye read a very interesting and valuable paper on "The Encouragement of Agriculculture," which was a presentation of the solid inducements of and attractions to a farmer's life, rather than any plea for outside aid or encouragement to husbandry. The lecture was ably written and well delivered and listened to with close attention by the audience; and is worthy of repetition before any farmers' club or other assemblage. Discussion ensued between several gentlemen present, on fruit culture and other branches of farming; remarks being made by Mr. Stephen P. Holt of Epping, and A. W. Haven, E. M. Brown, J. P. Morse, L. G. Davis, C. B. Mason, F. W. Miller and others, of this city. The next farmers' discussion will be held at the Grange Hall on Wednesday evening, January 19th.

—The New York Mail wickedly says: "Ask a man clad in an Ulster to come home and dine with you informally, and he invariably declines. Why? Because the Ulster covereth a multitude of sins, and, additionally, old clothes."

—A young lady asks: "Is it proper for a young gentleman to put his arm around a young lady's waist when taking her out for a ride, they not being engaged?" No, he should hold on to the reins with both hands.

—"Bub, did you ever stop to think", said a Michigan Avenue grocer, recently, as he measured out half a peck of potatoes, "that these potatoes contain sugar, water and starch?" "No, I didn't," replied the boy; "but I heard mother say that you put peas and beans in your coffee, and about a pint of water in about every quart of milk you sold." The subject of natural philosophy was dropped right there.

—That was rather a touching allusion to a deceased spouse, made recently by a farmer, who came to the village store to purchase things. "Can't I show you anything else to-day?" politely asked the clerk. "No, I reckon not," replied the sad looking customer; "I lost two horses and my wife last fall, and I feel putty poor; good span of horses, too."

DIED

HOLMES. In Greenland, Dec. 30, of membranous croup, Frank Clyde Holmes, aged 8 weeks and 3 days, only child of Frank M. and Emma R. Holmes.

Elements of Bone, Brain and Muscle.

The food contains the elements of bone, brain and muscle, and in a healthy system, properly nourished, the manufacture of these bodily constituents is uninterrupted, night or day. On the other hand, when digestion or assimilation are imperfect, the manufacture is hindered, and the destructive not being counteracted by the reparative processes of Nature, the system is threatened with early decay. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are peculiarly fitted to overcome the causes which lead to an untimely decadence of the vital energies, removing as they do all obstacles to complete digestion and assimilation of the food, and restraining an undue waste of physical substance. For the loss of strength consequent upon depleting diseases, they are the best possible remedy, and their bracing upon the system enable it to withstand hurtful atmospheric influences inductive of malaria.

"A Slight Cold," Coughs.—Few are aware of the importance of checking a cough or "slight cold" which would yield to a mild remedy; if neglected, often attacks the lungs. "Brown's Bronchial Troches" give sure and almost immediate relief.

The Atlantic Cable is a world-wide blessing, and so is Adamson's Botanic Cough Balsam. A cure for 25 cents.

The Spring Crop of Coughs and Colds is heavy, and will ripen into a terrible harvest of disease and death, unless rooted out with the Standard Antidote, HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Pyle's Dietetic Saleratus.—Universally acknowledged the best in use. Each pound bears the name of JAMES PYLE. None genuine without. dje76

American Genius.—Moody & Sankey.

The great revivalists, Messrs. Moody and Sankey, who electrified staid old England with their eloquence and enthusiasm, are fair samples of American genius. Springing from among the common people, their sympathies are alive to the wants of the whole people, and herein lies the secret of their great success. Those who seek to be popular must study and be familiar with the wants of the masses, and prove loyal thereto. To this fact we may trace the grand success in business, as well as in religious undertakings, which many Americans have achieved. Strikingly illustrative of these suggestions is that great establishment, located at Buffalo, N. Y., and known as the "World's Dispensary,"—a most appropriate name, indeed, for that vast institution, within whose walls are manufactured remedies which are in demand in every quarter of the globe, and at which a corps of distinguished physicians and surgeons, under the personal direction of Dr. Pierce, are constantly administering to the needs of thousands of sufferers everywhere, and whose success in the treatment of all forms of chronic ailments has become so well known that there is scarcely a hamlet in the land, in which his name is not familiar. Its proprietor, says the Herald and Torchlight, of Detroit, "is a man of the people, writes for them, and to them tenders his eminent professional services." His advertisements are earnest exhortations. Like the great revivalists, his enthusiasm is multiplied by the unparalleled success of his enterprise, as well as by the efficacy of his remedies in curing disease. The people believe in him and his remedies, because, as the New York Tribune says, "he sympathizes with them in all their afflictions, efforts, and attainments." Hence, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is to-day more largely employed as a blood and liver medicine, and also as a cough remedy, than any other remedial agent in the world. His Favorite Prescription he does not recommend as a cureall, as is so often done by compounders of worthless, humbug nostrums, but for all diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women it has proved itself so much of a specific that it now enjoys great popularity and universal confidence. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, scarcely larger than mustard seed, have proved so agreeable and reliable as a cathartic that they are rapidly taking the place of the large, nauseous pills heretofore so much in use; while his Compound Extract of Smart-Weed is a favorite remedy for Colic, Cramps, Summer-complaint, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cholera and Cholera Morbus, and also as a liniment. Of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and Dr. Pierce's Nasal Douche, little need be said, as they are known everywhere as the greatest specifics for Catarrh and Cold-in-the Head ever given to the public. And besides this large measure of success, Dr. Pierce seems likely to achieve as great renown as an author as he has as a physician. His COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, a book of about 900 pages, which he sells at the unparalleled low price of $1.50, has already been sold to the extent of exhausting two editions amounting to forty thousand copies. The secret of Dr. Pierce's success, as well as that of the great revivalists, and scores of other Americans, who by their genius have advanced step by step from obscurity to affluence and distinction, consists in treating the people with consideration, sympathy, candor and honesty No man, who hopes to attain either wealth or distinction, can afford to deal unfairly with the world or be indifferent to the wants and best interests of humanity.

It Pays! It Pays!

WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

IT PAYS the head of every family to introduce into the household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the young folks.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

which has been published weekly for the last thirty years, does this to an extent beyond that of any other publication, in part for the reason that it is the paper published in the United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and new discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific Progress of the World. Descriptions, with Beautiful Engravings, of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Recipes, Receipts, Suggestions and Advice, by Practical Writers, for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of information for all classes; etc., containing a weekly record not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN has been the foremost of all Industrial publications for the past Thirty Years. It is the oldest, largest, cheapest, and the best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the World.

The practical receipts are well worth ten times the subscription price. A single hint by shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, Lovers of Science, and People of all Professions, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting House; in every Reading Room, College and School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1876.

A year's numbers contain 832 pages and several hundred engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms, $3.20 a year by mail, including postage. Discount to Clubs. Specimen copies sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, Messrs. Munn & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and sketches examined and advice free. A special notice is made in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN of all Inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. Send for Pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents. A bound volume containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

The Bazar is edited with a combination of tact and talent that we seldom find in any journal; and the journal itself is the organ of the great world of fashion.—Boston Traveller.

The Bazar commends itself to every member of the household—to the children by droll and pretty pictures, to the young ladies by its fashion plates in endless variety, to the provident matron by its patterns for the children's clothes, to paterfamilias by its tasteful designs for embroidered slippers and luxurious dressing-gowns. But the reading-matter of the Bazar is uniformly of a superior character. The paper has acquired a wide popularity for the fireside enjoyment it affords.—N. Y. Evening Post.

In its way there is nothing like it. Fresh and trustworthy as a fashion guide, its stories and essays, its poetry and squibs, are all invigorating to the mind. —Chicago Evening Journal.

MAGIC

CONDITION PILLS!

The Wonderful Remedy for Liver Complaint, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Headache, Kidney Complaint, Nervousness, Scrofula, Piles, and all diseases arising from a bad state of the Blood!

These Pills were first sold in America in the Spring of 1876, but from the sale of the first package their success was assured, for almost every person who purchased one package soon ordered more for himself or friends, and in a short time testimonials came pouring in from those who had been benefitted by them. Some of the cures were astonishing. Following are a few of the testimonials:

Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia for Twenty-Five Years, so Bad that Life was almost a Burden Cured by One Package of Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

ASHLAND, N. H., Oct. 3, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE—For over twenty-five years I have been afflicted with Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia. I have suffered much, and for a large part of the time have done no work. For two or three years past have been growing worse, and last fall I was so bad that life became almost a burden. I was much discouraged, and finally took my bed, where I lay several weeks. About this time I saw your Pills advertised in the Manchester Mirror, and resolved to try them, but with little hopes of receiving any permanent benefit. I felt benefited by the first dose, and after taking one package I felt like a new man, and now I can report myself cured. One package has done me more good than all the medicine I ever took. I have recommended them to several others, and have obtained two orders for them. I have secured one package of you for a friend, and he reports himself cured. Enclosed please find $1.00 for two packages. SAMUEL PLAISTED, JR.

Worth Ten Dollars a Pill.

BATH, Me., Oct. 4, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I received your package of Pills, and can truly say they have done wonders for me. I have given away a few and those I gave to say, "Send for a package for me." I have told many what good they have done and are doing. I had the dyspepsia so bad that I thought I couldn't stand it much longer. Have tried most everything, but nothing did good. I have taken only three pills and can eat anything. In one of the testimonials one said they were worth their weight in gold; they are worth, at least, ten dollars a pill, and I would give it before I would do without them. In this please find $1.50 for three more packages for my friends. H. D. LEONARD,

Care Watson & Gannett.

Neuralgia and Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney Complaint for Twenty-Five Years Cured by Dr. Quain's Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., July 19, 1875.

MR. LANE—Dear Sir—For the last twenty-five years I have suffered terribly with Neuralgia and Rheumatism, also Liver and Kidney Complaints, causing severe pain in the back and hips, often unable for months to stoop to pick up any article from the floor. I have had several doctors, spent a great deal for medicine, which did no good, and finally concluded I must suffer the rest of my life. I happened one day to see your advertisements in the Congregationalist. I thought the medicine was just what I needed, and I sent to you last April for a package of Pills. Before I had taken eight I felt like a well person. Can sleep well nights, eat well, and have no Neuralgia pain; can stoop as well as ever. My friends are astonished at the change in me, and think it will not last. My sister has suffered from inflammation of the Bowels, and Constipation, and wishes to try your medicine. I intend still to take them, and would not be without them if money would buy them; I think they must prove a blessing to thousands who will be induced to try them. Enclosed you will find $1.00: please send two packages.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. B. T. LANE.

Another Letter from Mrs. B. T. Lane—Health much Better at 64 than 44—Neuralgia and Kidney Troubles Completely Cured by Dr. Quain's Magic Condition Pills.

DANVERS, MASS., Oct. 10, 1875.

THOMAS W. LANE—Dear Sir—I write again for more of your invaluable Pills. I have no Neuralgia, or Kidney Trouble, still I wish to take them until my blood is thoroughly cleansed. My health is much better at 64 than it was at 44. This, with the blessing of God, I attribute wholly to your medicine. I have two friends in Haverhill, one in Andover, and a lady in Reedsville, who are taking it, and are already much benefited. I send $1.00 for two packages.

MRS. B. T. LANE.

N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"THE LEADING AMERICAN NEWSPAPER."

The year 1876 promises to be crowded with more important and interesting occurrences than any since the close of the war. We shall celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of our national birth with the most remarkable display of our arts and industries, and the greatest concourse of visitors ever seen on the continent. We shall elect a new President under circumstances which threaten to make the political campaign peculiarly exciting. The House of Representatives for the first time since the close of Mr. Buchanan's term is under the control of the Democratic party, and it proposes to lay bare the secrets of the Administration now drawing to a close. Its course during the next six months will define the policy by which the Democratic party hopes to rule the country; while the action of the Republicans is likely to determine whether the organization which saved the Union and freed the slave is to fall to pieces or enter upon a new career of usefulness. In the practical work of government there are grave abuses to be swept away, and many promises to be put to the test. In the settlement of the national finances the year may mark the crisis of our affairs. In religion it promises to mark a great revival, and there are many signs that the relations of the Church to the State, and particularly to the State schools, will provoke sharp discussion, and enter largely in to politics. In trade, commerce and productive industry there are hopes that it will witness the long deferred revival.

In such a stirring and crowded period, THE TRIBUNE confidently appeals to its past record and its present performance, as constituting its claim for the continued regard of all old readers, and the accession of many new ones. No intelligent citizen can afford during such a year as 1876 to dispense with an independent newspaper, upon which he can rely for an impartial record of events, undistorted by partisan necessities or personal hates or ambitions.

THE TRIBUNE will maintain with the old fervor the old Republican principles of which it was the champion all through the American conflict, and it will rejoice whenever those principles are victorious under the old banners. But it can never be the servant of caucuses or conventions; it must approve what it finds good in the acts and professions of political parties, and apologize for the wrongdoing of neither. In giving the news it endeavors to set forth the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth; in politics its great object is to elect honest men, whom the country knows and can trust, to secure hard money, Administrative reform, such economy in public affairs as the hard times compel from private citizens, honesty and competence, Home Rule. Thus it found itself last Fall, rallying the forces for the splendid hard-money triumphs won by the Republicans and their allies in Ohio and Pennsylvania, and a casualty strikes to hold up the hands of an Administration in New York, which was busy fighting the Canal Ring, stopping leaks in the treasury, and lowering taxes. In each case it found the people sustaining its positions, and it hopes to be so clearly right in its political course through all the storms of 1876 as to win equal success, and command yet greater approval.

One result of this policy of struggling for the triumph of honest men and sound principles, without fear of being overwhelmed by mere name and party, is that both parties find themselves forced to abandon some of the worst practices of the old caucus system and lowering standard of public men, and to promote some of the reforms they preach. It may fairly be claimed that conscientious and independent voters have thus within two or three years gradually forced both parties up to a somewhat higher plane, and we may hope that the Centennial year will witness still greater improvement.

THE TRIBUNE will continue to labor for this end with the methods which have already commended it to popular favor. It will endeavor to combine the utmost freshness in the publication of the news with a condensation of the form which has so conspicuously enjoyed in the past. During the years 1874 and 1875 the position assigned it long ago by foreign critics, as "the leading American newspaper" has come to be generally recognized, and its circulation has been greater than at any previous period in its history. It has won this position by the closest watchfulness and the most lavish expenditure to procure the freshest intelligence, the most complete reports, the most interesting letters and essays, and the ablest work in every department. Its staff includes the most accomplished men in the procession, and among its outside contributors it numbers many of the most eminent men in the country.

PULMOCINE.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.
